Lifeguards are now on the job

Lifeguards have been assigned to Charlevoix's beaches and swimming instructors for the program sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department. The waterfront program got underway last week.

For the first time in recent years an all-Charlevoix staff has been assembled according to Dwight Boss, recreation director. Carolyn Loper will be the lifeguard at Depot Beach on Lake Charlevoix; Joe Left at the Lake Michigan Beach and Gerard Doan and Sally Westenbroek at the busiest of the beaches, Ferry Ave., where three guards are on duty weekends. Jim Boss, the fifth lifeguard, will work the swing shift, filling in at all beaches on the regulars' days off.

Chris Davenport and Bob Warner have returned as swimming instructors. They will teach swimming at the Ferry Ave. beach Monday through Thursday with Friday as a make-up day for lessons rained out. They will then each work one day on the weekend to allow three guards on the Ferry Ave. beach.

All lifeguards started at the beaches a week ago Saturday and will be at the beaches from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily until Labor Day.

Friendship quilt will make nice prize

by FRAN MARTIN

Friendship is the pattern chosen for the handmade quilt made by the Welcome Wagon Club.

"Friendships have resulted from the hours we, as newcomers to Charlevoix, spent together while planning, piecing and quilting this beautiful creation," a spokesman for the club said in announcing its completion and a chance for someone in the community to claim it.

"We felt we wanted to do something for our new community so we decided to support something everyone would enjoy. That is why we have elected to support the proposed completion of the band shell in East Park," the spokesman said.

The quilt, 110 by 110 inches in size, will be displayed in various places in the community until it is given away at a concert by the Charlevoix City Band on Aug. 12.

The sponsoring organization, the Welcome Wagon Club, is composd of newcomers to the community, now 20 in number, who devoted their efforts during the past ten months in making the quilt as a fund raising project. The quilt has nine blocks, some with as many as 100 pieces. All have been hand sewn and hand quilted by the young members, most of whom have never quilted before. They were assisted by Mrs. James McGarry and Mrs. John R. Dixon.

Mrs. Craig Wilson is president of the club; Mrs. John Urben, vice-president; Mrs. William Jackson, treasurer; Mrs. Rodney Sadler, community manager and Mrs. Tim Davidson, project manager.

The project of the club is supporting the Park Stage project. The project was organized in 1958 and presently has $3,050 in its coffers. The goal of the committee, headed by C.A. Odmark, is to enlarge and complete the band shell.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets on this Friendship pattern quilt, made by the Welcome Wagon Club, will be presented to the East Park Band Stage project to help underwrite the proposed band shell. Jean Davidson, left, and Sharon Jackson display the quilt made by 20 members of the Welcome Wagon Club as a service project.

Names In The News

Two Charlevoix area students were among those listed on the second semester dean's list at Bob Jones University in Greenville, South Carolina. They are RICHARD W. FRISKE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Friske of Rt. 1, Charlevoix and WENDY LOU KOWALK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Kowalk, Rt. 1, Charlevoix.

Receiving degrees from Western Michigan University at commencement exercises held recently in Kalamazoo were GERRIE LYNN ESCH of Box 32, St. James who obtained a Bachelor of Science degree; KYLE RENEE DITLOW, Rt. 1, Charlevoix, who obtained a Bachelor of Science degree, and MARGARET J. WATSON, 624 Main St., East Jordan, who received a Master of Librarianship degree.

BRIAN L. GOSS of Charlevoix has completed his program at West Shore Community College in Scottville, Michigan. Goss was in the Diesel Heavy Equipment Program at the college and graduated Sunday, May 24. He was also accorded high honors on the WSCC Dean's List for the spring term.

Carl M. Gunn, who recently finished a nine months' interim pastorate with the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix, is now engaged in an entirely different endeavor.

Gunn is working for a consortium of Michigan camps, furnishing technical advice on alternative energy. Last winter, he completed four courses in Energy Science at Jordan College's Energy Institute, and while studying there, he designed a thermo-siphoning solar hot water heater. He also made a solar concentrating collector using scraps of Fresnel lenses, which is being installed at the Jordan College campus in Cedar Springs under a grant from the United States Department of Energy.

The small (36 inches long) concentrator achieved 312 degrees Fahrenheit temperature during recent tests at Spring Hill Camps near Reed City, where the first session for staff and campers have been carried out.

Gunn is also teaching about energy to camp staff and campers in five consortium locations this summer. He has been invited to lecture on alternate energy and energy education during three seminars at the Christian Camping International Convention at Glorieta, New Mexico, next October.

Offerings are diverse for this year's summer reading

Put dowo that self improvement book. Forget the history of World War II for now. Aristotle and Plato can rest while the temperature surges toward the 90s.

"Summer reading should help people escape from the daily routine," says Mary Shapiro, a book buyer for a 700-store bookstore chain.

Current summer reading fare, says Shapiro, includes mysteries, thrillers, adventures in exotic locales, voyeuristic glimpses into the boardrooms of large corporations and tales of elegant sexual escapades, extravagant wealth and unscrupulous power.

What would summer be without a new Travis McGee novel? John D. MacDonald's 19th is "Free Fall in Crimson." Still grieving for Gretel, who he lost in "The Green Ripper" (Winner of the 1979 American Book Award for Best Mystery), McGee falls in love again as he investigates the death of plastics tycoon Ellis Esterland.

Exotic settings used

Admirers of Nicholas Freeling's Inspector Van Der Valk series will have triple help whiling away their poolside hours. They can join the unflappable, debonair Dutch police inspector in solving three new baffling cases in "Criminal Conversation", "Double Barrel" and "The Lovely Ladies."

Margaret Truman has followed up "Murder in the Whitehouse" with another in the same genre and locale. This time she locuses on the legislative branch in "Murder on Capitol Hill". The gripping plot follows attorney Lydia James' investigation of the murder of the Senate majority leader.

The latest novels from two well known authors are set in exotic locales. Malaya's tightly restricted, racially segregated society provides the background lor "Tanamera" by Noel Barber, the love story of John Dexter, heir to a British financial empire and beautiful Julie Soong, daughter of Singapore's most powerful Chinese family.

Author of "The Far Pavilions", M.M. Kaye, spins yet another spendid tale of love and adventure on the Isle of Cloves, Zanzibar, just before the Americao Civil War. Passionate Athena Hollis' struggle to abolish slavery conflicts with her tumultuous love-hate relationship with an Irish slave ship captain in this sure-to-be best seller.

Glamor of the jet set

For those who like their heroines accomplished in the bedroom as well as the boardroom, three new novels depict life in the fast lane.

"Goodbye, Janette" by Harold Robbins provides an intimate view of two extraordinary women in the world of haute couture.

Tanya Pojarska, a World War II survivor of occupied France who now controls a vast international high fashion business, and her eldest daughter Janette live shockingly elegant, daringly erotic lives.

In "Sirens", Eric Van Lustbader weaves an account of a bold and beautiful young actress who portrays a terrorized political hostage in a movie and finds the horror of the film reflected in her own life.

Richard Neely's "An Accidental Woman" is the compelling story of how shy, sweet Sara Vardon maneuvers her way to the top of New York's advertising world. The glamorous settings shift from New York to major European capitols, California beaches and Caribbean resorts.

More of the macabre

Religion and supernatural evil figure in two new novels which seem headed for the top of the lists.

Father Andrew Greeley has written what could be the season's most controversial novel. "The Cardinal Sins" is a character study of two Irish boys from Chicago's west side who enter the priesthood. One surrenders his ideals, rising to the center of power in the church hierarchy, the other maintains his principles, which are his strength and his downfall.

Supernatural horror story devotees can feed their macabre appetites on the latest work of Jay Anson, author of "The Amityville Horror." This year's demonic chiller-thriller, "666", is a further exploration of the evil that lurks unsuspected behind the door.

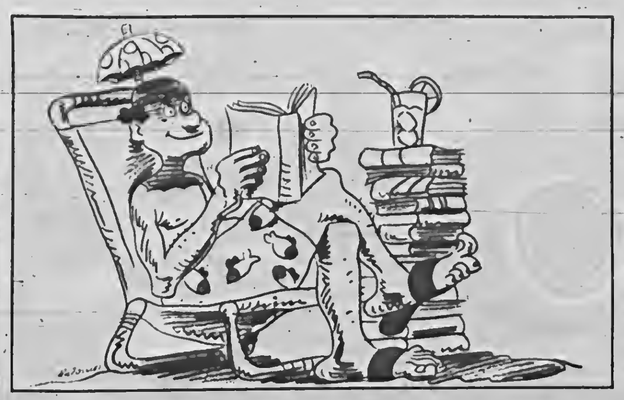
Truman family letters

Those who enjoy reading about the lives of the famous will find two particularly good offerings.

Margaret Truman's "Letters from Father", an edited and annotated compilation of the Truman family's personal correspondence, is a revealing record of the triumphs, conciliations, day-to-day exchanges, in and out of the White House, illustrated with 30 family photos.

"Shout! The Beatles in Their Georatioo" by Phillip Norman is the result of extensive research. Norman became interested in the Beatles while reporting on their financial empire for the London Sunday Times in 1968. The book recreates the excitement generated by the foursome from Liverpool who virtually shaped the youth culture of the 1960s and 1970s, affecting dress, musical tastes and social and political attitudes of the day.

"Tuck a book in your bag whether you're off to the beach, the pool or the park," said Shapiro, "Winter will be with us soon enough. Now is the time to savor the pleasures of summer reading.



More families are sold on traveling by RV

Survey after survey has shown that Americans are becoming increasingly energy-conscious. The Recreation Vehicle Industry Association (RVIA) thinks that's a good thing.

Good, that is, as long as we remember that time away from home, work and the tensions of everyday life are important, too. Good, as long as we understand that our occasional escapes require the use of energy.

Millions of Americans have found that family camping vehicles are the practical and economical answer to their vacation needs. In fact, 24 million of us now depend on them for our recreation.

In these times of occasionally unsure gas supplies; however, RVIA suggests careful trip planning and thorough preparation before setting off on an RV camping trip. The simple axiom the association is pushing hard is: "The fun is in the camping, not driving." In other words, RVIA urges RVers to spend their vacation time at campsites and not on the road to campsites.

Many RVers have joined this conservation effort by investigating their local campground acenea. If they're only going away for a few days, they find it makes good sense to choose a destination within a few hours from their homes. Many vacationers are amazed to find out that there are a tremendous number of

Historic Beaver Island

Marine Museum is important part of Beaver Island heritage

One of the first questions a visitor to Beaver Island asks is "What is there to do?"

Of special interest to any visitor is the Marine Museum. Started five years ago as a Bicentennial project, the museum houses exhibits of marine lore from the island's past. It opened last summer under the guidance of Phil Gregg.

The museum comes under the auspices of the Beaver Island Historical Society. The society is urging islanders who have to things to offer which have a connection to the harbor area to consider donating to the museum so the treasures can be viewed and appreciated and, best of all, stay in the harbor area where they were used.

The museum is located on the harbor in an old, renaovated net shed.

The society also operates a museum at the Print Shop. Society members had a scare two winters ago when a fire raced thr ough a residence across the street from the museum.

According to the society's newsletter, "local volunteers manned the fire equipment most valiantly and a watch was set on our historic building. Nevertheless, strong winds from the harbor whipped the burning debris across the street and some of this snuck under the porch and started a fire near the old log walls. Flames were licking through the floor boards and the Print Shop was within minutes of bursting into uncontrolable flames itself. It is hard to imagine how the volunteers managed to quell the fire, but they did."

RV traveling requires some planning

great camping areas within a day's drive from their garages.

And when they go off on their longer trips, RVIA advises, the smart thing to do is spend all of the trip at one destination campground, rather than hopping from site to site everyday.

"By spending a greater percentage of their total vacation camping and less of it on the road, not only will RV owners save energy and money, but we think they'll enjoy themselves more," said RVIA President and General Counsel David Humphreys.

Humphreys suggests that long distance vacationers find campsites located centrally between various attractions they want to see so that side excursions are shorter, or plan to visit one place that takes several days to thoroughly enjoy.

Traveling in an RV is far more pleasant than being crowded into a small car, Humphreys said, but really the most fun is in being outside enjoying the open space you've travelled to see.

A little advance planning, before setting off on an RV trip, can also save you time on the road and added miles. This, in turn, leaves more time for vacationing and more gas in the tank. A few pointers to keep trip mileage down suggested by RVIA:

Know in advance where you are going and how you are going to get there. Take a map with the course charted out. Time and gas can be wasted, tempers can become short, when no one knows where you are going. "Besides," said Humphreys, "trip planning is part of the fun of a vacation. Make it a family affair."

Try to do driving either early in the day or in the evening whenever you'll be around big cities. There's less traffic on the road and less fuel has to be spent powering the vehicle's air conditioner. Rush hours are no fun and waste lots of gas.

Avoid making a large number of stops or detours for supplies. If possible, pick up things like food and drinks, water and fuel and check your tires or refill your LP-gas tanks all in the same stop. Cruising from place to place to accomplish these less exciting tasks is wasteful.

And for those times when no matter how well you plan you still forget a necessity, consider taking along a bicycle for the short trips from your campsite to the market in town.

RVers, like all good Americans, have an obligation to cut their energy use during these uncertain times. But, as RVIA President Humphreys points out, that doesn't mean America's 24 million RV enthusiasts need to reduce the amount of time they spend with their vehicles, but simply the amount of time they spend on the road with them.

As they say at RVIA, the fun is in the camping.

Van CLiburn benefit concert will feature 28 year old piano virtuoso

The Interlochen Van Cliburn Benefit Concert, featuring the 1981 Gold Medal Winner of the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, Andre-Michel Schub, has been rescheduled for 8 p.m. Sunday, August 2, in Kresge Auditorium. The change of performance date from the previously announced July 25 was necessitated by a conflict in Schub's performance schedule.

Reserved seat tickets for the Benefit performance are priced at $6.50, $8.00, and $9.50. For more information call 276-9221, ext. 264.

Interlochen regrets any inconvenience that this may cause its audiences, but, if all the reviews are correct, Schub's August 2 performance at Interlochen should be well worth the wait.

In Los Angeles' Ambassador Auditorium at his first recital since winning the sixth Van Cliburn International Piano Competition on May 31, 1981, extra seats had to be squeezed into the orchestra pit to accommodate all who wanted to hear Schub play. Naturally, many in the audience were curious.

Twenty-eight-year-old Andre-Michel Schub had triumphed over 39 carefully selected pianists from 17 countries and won $12,000, a recording contract, and a guarantee of two years of important solo and orchestral appearances in the United States, Europe, and the Far East.

The audience soon had its hopes of a virtuoso performance confirmed, according to Albert Goldberg of the Los Angeles Times. "It did not take long to convince any possible skeptics Thursday night that the Cliburn jury had done its weeding well," said Goldberg. "Schub is more than just another promising talent; he is here and now a major pianist who can hold his own in the international piano race without asking any quarter. He is all a major pianist must be: a virtuoso, a musician, a versatile stylist, a poet, a charmer, an audience pleaser and conqueror."

And, Goldberg added, "He is also, rather importantly, a modest young man who goes about his job with no airs and no affectations."

Born in France, Schub has lived in New York City since childhood. A pianist since the age of four, he received professional training at Princeton University and at the Curtis Institute of Music.

In 1974 Schub made his formal debut at Alice Tully Hall in New York City and in the same year won first prize in the Naumburg International Piano Competition. In 1977 he was awarded the Avery Fisher Prize.

He has appeared with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Seiji Ozawa in Symphony Hall, Boston and Kennedy Center, Washington, D.C., with the New York Philharmonic under James Levine, the Indianapolis Symphony under John Nelson, the Chicago Symphony at Ravinia under James Levine, the Cleveland Orchestra and the Cincinnati Symphony.

For his concert at Interlochen, Schub will perform Rachmaninoff's "Concerto No. 2 in C Minor, Op. 18."

Following the Interloche concert, Schub will travel to the White House for a performance on August 5.

"It is universally conceded on all sides," said Harold Schonberg in The New York Times," that Mr. Schub is a formidable pianist with a fierce integrity who will represent the traditions of the Cliburn Competition at its best."

For those members of the Interlochen audience that may not be able to attend the August 2 performance due to the change in date, the Interlochen Arts Festival has scheduled a 1981 Silver Medal Winner of the Cliburn International Piano Competition, Panayis Lyras, for a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 25, the originally scheduled date of the Benefit Concert. Regular admission prices--Adults $2.75, groups of six or more adults $2.50 per person, senior citizens $2.50, children under 12 years of age $1.75, children under five free--will be in effect for this performance.

Rear Admiral Henry Bell is piped aboard the Mesquite.

CG District Commander comes to Charlevoix

Rear Admiral Henry H. Bell, newly installed Commander of the Ninth Coast Guard District (Great Lakes), paid a visit to Charlevoix last week.

Rear Admiral Bell flew into the Charlevoix Municipal Airport by Coast Guard helicopter Thursday morning from Traverse City. He first paid an inspection visit to the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station and later inspected and had lunch on the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite.

A veteran of 34 years in the Coast Guard, Rear Admiral Bell relieved Rear Admiral Edwin H. Daniels on June 1 in Cleveland as Commander of the Ninth District, one of the Coast Guard's largest districts covering virtually all of the Great Lakes region.

He graduated in 1951 from the Coast Guard Academy with a Bachelor of Science degree in Marine Engineering. Bell took postgraduate courses in naval architecture and marine engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and later received Master of Science and Engineering degrees. He was promoted to the rank of Rear Admiral in July 1978 and assigned as Chief, Office of Merchant Marine Safety at Coast Guard headquarters.

Rear Admiral Daniels has been promoted to the post of Chief Counsel at Coast Guard Headquarters.

The visit of Rear Admiral Bell was the first visit of a District Commander to Charlevoix since April, 1979.

Board hears annual report from Health Dept.

BY PEG OHLE

"District Health Department No. 3" may sound like a staid bunch of bureaucrats, but in reality, it is composed of hardworking specialists whose services affect every person in the District one way or another.

Made up of the counties of Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet, and Otsego, the Department has its administrative offices in Charlevoix. Last week, four of its top personnel appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to report in depth on 1980 activities.

Dr. Brian L. Youngs, the regional medical director, and Gerald R. Chase, the public health administrator, talked generally about the work and problems of the Department. They were followed by Frances Hooper, the personal health services coordinator, and F. Dean Mikulski, the director of environmental health, who gave facts and figures covering their work.

Mrs. Hooper told the group that during 1980 her staff made 4,205 visits to private homes, rendered office services to 706 persons, conducted 1,177 nurse clinic sessions, gave direct service to 1,155 persons over the telephone, gave talks and or conducted 65 classes, and had 994 conferences and meetings with the public or other agency personnel.

To indicate that these services were for everyone, Mrs. Hooper reported that 1,437 individuals had their blood pressure checked at 60 clinic sessions held by nurses, geriatric health counseling and referral clinic services were given to 300 older individuals, 591 medicaid eligible children were screened and 268 were referred for appropriate medical and dental services, 7,173 immunizations were administered at seven clinic sites, 640 individuals received service at 74 family planning clinics, 6,029 children were screened for hearing and 9,442 were screened for vision, and public health nurses made 426 calls to public and private schools, consulting with teachers and evaluating the health needs of students.

All of the above work was done with a staff of 15 full-time employees and 15 part-time contractual employees, two fewer than the previous year.

Mikulski reported that despite the slowdown in building, 1,138 sewage permits were processed in 1980, and 340 vacant land evaluations were completd. A summary of all environmental services rendered reads as follows:

Well permits: 590 total, 171 in Charlevoix County.

Downtown Charlevoix was packed again this past weekend as the annual Hobbycraft Fair drew hundreds of townspeople and visitors to East Park under sunny skies and warm temperatures. Many artists and craftsmen reported brisk sales at the fair which was held this year for the 13th time.

Motorists on Division Ave. near the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course may have wondered lately if Charlevoix has begun its own space program. What looks like an Atlas booster taking shape is actually the city's new water tower being erected. Sections of the tower are being welded together on the ground and hoisted into place by crane. Completion is expected later this year.

Community forum set on hospice concept

"Coping with Cancer?", an educating and support group for people with cancer and their caregivers, along with the Diocese of Gaylord, Office of Aging are sponsoring a community information forum on hospice Wednesday, July 22 at the Boyne City Auditorium, 319 N. Lake St. at 7:30 p.m.

A hospice is a centrally administered program of palliative and supportive services which provides physical, psychological, social and spiritual care for dying persons and their families. There are many different types of hospices. As a concept, the hospice seeks to provide compassionate, comprehensive multidisciplinary care.

Michigan Hospice Association Director Marion Luxon will speak on the history of the hospice movement, available funding and the process of community-based development. With her will be Agnes Collerosi, Home care Coordinator for Hospice of Southeast Michigan in Detroit. Ms. Collerosi will address the issue of volunteer home-care programs. Together they will field questions from the audience.

The film "Hospice" will also be shown.

This event is free to the public. Those with questions can call Rev. Kathleen Smith, 582-2576; Nancy Bottomley, 533-6591 or Kathryn Boss, 547-6739.

Women's Club to meet

The Charlevoix Women's Club will meet at Friendship Hall in Norwood (the former Norwood School) for a potluck luncheon and meeting at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, July 21, Mrs. Robert Murray, club president, has announced.

Mrs. William Parsons, a lifelong resident of Norwood who has compiled a book on the history of the area, will be the guest speaker at the meeting that will follow the luncheon. She will relate the highlights of the history and display rare pictures of the area.

An invitation has been issued to members of the Norwood Women's Association, the Charlevoix Area Garden Club and interested persons to attend the luncheon.

Those attending are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service. Ice tea and lemonade will be furnished.

Following the meeting, those attending are invited to tour the area, visit its old church or utilize its beachfront park.

June sees dramatic increase in building activity in Charlevoix County

Building activity in Charlevoix County went into high gear in June, according to figures provided by the Department of Building Inspection.

During the month, 72 permits were issued, compared with 48 in May and 39 in April. Estimated construction costs covered by the 72 permits amount to $1,021,235.

Twenty-four permits were issued for building additions to and remodeling homes; 16 permits were issued for new homes; 11 permits were issued for residential garages; three permits were issued for decks and porches; and three permits were issued for outbuildings.

In the commercial category, five permits were issued for additions and remodeling; two permits were issued for new buildings; and one permit was issued for an outbuilding.

Two demolitions and five mobile homes accounted for the other permits.

Eveline Township continues to lead rural areas in building activity. Ten permits, two of them for new homes, were issued to Eveline Township residents. South Arm Township residents received seven permits.

Among cities, Boyne City showed the most building activity with eight permits, followed by East Jordan, seven, and Charlevoix, five.

Seek lost English pounds

If your child comes home with a fistful of "funny looking money", don't toss it aside as play money.

Last week, a Charlevoix resident, recently returned from a visit to England, lost British pound currency notes valued at $100 in U.S. funds, in Charlevoix.

The money was lost on Monday, July 6, when the loser was making the rounds of Charlevoix – to Dr. Freidinger's office, the Grey Gableds, and several other places.

Anyone finding the currency and turning it into the Charlevoix County State Bank will be rewarded by the loser.

Country Fair planned

The annual Country Fair, one of the highlights of the summer sponsored by the Women's Fellowship of the First Congregational Church, will be held at the church Wednesday, July 22.

The fair will feature a bazaar of handcrafted articles, the results of weekly workshops held throughout the year, a salad luncheon at noon and a bake sale.

The handcrafted articles to be offered for sale at the bazaar include quilts, afghans, pillows, tote bags, aprons and a variety of Christmas decorations. Again this year there will also be many international SERRV gift items for sale. Mrs. Robert Lieberman is general chairman of the bazaar which will be held on the lawn of the church at State St. and Park Ave. beginning at 10 am.

All the good cooks of the church will be providing tasty home-baked goods for the sale in charge of the Margaret Parker Circle. This event will be held in Fellowship Hall.

This will also be the site of the salad luncheon beginning at 11 am. This will feature a wide variety of salads prepared by the members. Mrs. Harold Dutcher is chairman and Mrs. James Block co-chairman in charge of table decorations which will be sold following the luncheon.

The First Congregational Church is located at Park Ave. and State St. where the latter begins one block west of Bridge St.

The Country Fair will feature a wide assortment of home-made items.

Board honors Stockwell

When Undersheriff Byron Stockwell retires to Arizona within the next few months, he will take with him a plaque and scroll recently presented to him by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The plaque is complete with the Undersheriff's badge, which Stockwell has been wearing on his uniform.

The contents of the scroll, incorporated in a resolution, cite Stockewell's "professionalism in the operation of the Sheriff's Department and his unprecedented loyalty as a deputy and as undersheriff".

The plaque and scroll were presented to Stockwell last week by Clyde Cunningham, chairman of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, and Commissioner Larry Matthew, chairman of the Sheriff's committee, and the contents of the scroll were entered into the Board's minutes.

Knight on the Town
Royal treatment from the Queen

by Dave Knight

For those Charlevoixians who have not yet tried it, a cruise on the Bay Queen is a treat that should not be postponed much longer.

Little has been spared to make this new local attraction an enjoyable experience in every respect. From the decor to the food to the excellent service, it is truly first class all the way.

Local residents can be excused for not herding down to the Bay Queen dock en masse when it started operating last month. So many stunningly beautiful vessels are constantly coming in and out of the harbor that the townspeople are pretty hard to impress.

Besides the jutting prow and extra wide beam, there was little in the way of outward appearance to draw much local attention to the Bay Queen at first. Despite its claims of elegance, the boat looked like a ferry to the people who associated with the Beaver Island Boat Company. After all, the only other vessels in the B.I.B.C. fleet are ferries.

It's a good bet that more people came downtown to take a close look at the square rigger Welcome when she was being fitted than walked over to the Bay Queen.

But one must never judge a book by its cover nor a dinner boat by its hull.

This reporter got a first hand look at the Bay Queen operation during the Retail Merchants benefit cruise last week and came away duly impressed. Whatever elegance the boat lacks from the outside is more than made up for the minute one steps aboard.

Courtesy abounds among smartly uniformed crew members as they cheerfully welcome passengers aboard. The service never quits either as the cruise goes on.

The Bay Queen's salad bar may well be one of the best in the area; it starts with fresh, crispy leaves of spinach and lettuce, offers plenty of other garden fresh ingredients and ends with a bathtub-sized bed of shrimp on ice.

Only the aromas drifting from the main buffet table keeps one from hanging around the salad bar the rest of the evening.

For dinner, there are plenty of vegetables such as French cut green beans, baby carrots in butter sauce and seasoned mashed potatoes; hot dinner rolls; and entrees of stuffed fish, chicken and a huge roast beef sliced to individual taste by the chef.

And all this while traversing the serene waters of Lake Charlevoix as a disappearing sun paints a beautiful glow on the horizon.

When darkness falls and the dinner plates are removed, the band comes alive on the back deck. No smoky, sweaty dance floor, this. The cool evening breeze wafts freely as the stars wink above.

It is a perfect cap to a delightful evening.

Clockwise
Something in the air

by Bob Clock

IF YOU KNOW how to do the rain dance, I suggest you get busy. Charlevoix's last measurable rain was two weeks ago Sunday, and the old town is beginning to look like the Sahara Desert. Brown spots are appearing on lawns and gardens are thirsting for a good soaking.

There is also more dust in the air this summer than ever before — which is unusual in a community once noted for its clean air. Windows washed in the spring used to sparkle all summer, but not this year. The dust starts collecting on panes before the step ladder is put away.

Car windows are particularly vulnerable. You have to wash them almost every day, or you can't see where you're going.

"I forget what color my car is supposed to be," a neighbor complained Sunday. "It's always gray."

I don't know if the pall of dust can be blamed on the unusually dry weather — or if there's another cause. But the air quality hereabouts is certainly not what it used to be.

Let's hope a good, hard rain scours the atmosphere. If the dust persists, the Health Department will have to start snooping. It certainly is unhealthful to have so much particulate in the air we breathe.

Is it possible we are just now getting the fallout from the eruption of Mount St. Helens more than a year ago?

THE FINANCIAL community is abuzz with ramifications of the "all-savers" certificates which Congress is expected to approve for sale by banks and savings and loan associations for one year, starting Oct. 1.

Different versions of the "all-savers" legislation have been approved by House and Senate committees, but there are certain basic similarities. Interest on the certificates will be tax free, up to $2,000, and will amount to 70 percent of the interest paid on bigger government bills, which translates to about 9.5 percent (plus or minus, depending on the going rate next fall.)

The certificates will be sold for as little as $500 — giving little savers a chance to benefit from currently high interest rates.

But the critics are howling.

Municipal associations fear that the certificates will dry up money now available (tax free) in the bond market and that governmental units will be forced to pay dearly for money borrowed to finance public improvements.

They're probably right. Only the village idiot or a philanthropic do-gooder would buy municipal bonds when he could realize a higher tax-free rate elsewhere.

Credit Unions fear the new certificates will siphon off their funds, because the interest rate promises to be higher than many of them can afford, not to mention the tax advantages, which they cannot offer.

Be prepared for a pitched battle in the financial world before the proposed "all-savers" certificates become law.

For my money, I'd rather have the federal government adopt an 8 percent interest ceiling for all lending institutions and let the chips fall where they may.

IF IT'S ANY consolation, the Canadian economy is even crazier than ours. When we visited Canada two weeks ago, the discount on Yankee dollars hovered around 20 percent. And the interest rate on passbook savings accounts — which apparently isn't governed by law — was advertised as high as 16.5 percent.

Letters: Co-op election, thank CHIP supporters

Top O' Michigan depends on members

To the Editor:

Fifty years ago, very few people in Northern Michigan had electricity. The prices quoted by private utilities to run their lines along country roads were far more than most farmers could afford. Women had to use washboards and heat their flat irons on wood stoves. Men had to carry kerosene lanterns to the barn to do the evening chores. They had to pump water and turn cream separators by hand.

Then came REA and what a blessing it was when country folks could enjoy the convenience which their city cousins took for granted. In this area it was Top of Michigan and as a cooperative, it belonged to the ratepayer members who could determine policies through the directors they elected.

But, as the years went by and memories of the hardships grew dim, the early interest and enthusiasm waned. Now, although as shareholders the members are entitled to vote, most of them fail to do so, looking upon the Co-op as just another utility over which they have no control. As one ratepayer said recently, "Why bother to vote? It won't mean anything anyway."

It does no good merely to complain about increased rates, Co-op policy, etc. The remedy is to elect independent-minded directors who will be accessible and responsible to the membership, who will speak out on the issues, who are knowledgeable about the efficient use of energy and who want to keep the energy producing jobs and money in Northern Michigan.

Read the candidates qualifications in Cousotry Lines, watch for your registration card which will come in the mail about July 15 and if you will not be able to attend the annual meeting on August 15, vote by mail for the candidate of your choice.

Sale was a big success

Dear Friends of Chip Counseling Center,

We would like to express our appreciation to the people of the community for their support of the second annual Chip Counseling Center benefit sale.

We appreciate the cooperation of the Beechwood residents in helping us with donations, equipment and parking places.

A big thank-you to everyone who helped make this sale a success.

In addition to Mikulski, there are six registered sanitarians and one environmentalist in Health Department No. 3.

The health education division of the Health Department worked with local schools and various community groups to stimulate action on specific health problems, according to Bert Notestine, health educator.

The main area of emphasis for health education paralleled the leading causes of death, including cardiovascular problems, cancer, and accidents. To spotlight the latter, a health educator organized meetings of employees to discuss and demonstrate cardiovascular resuscitation and first aid techniques.

All of the above action describes "District Health Department No. 3", and there is even more action that doesn't fall into regular categories. There is no way anyone can fail to be affected by some part of this action.

Mountain Rags has mountains of hand-made items

by FRAN MARTIN

"Mountain Rags, a one-of-a-kind custom-made shop, has been opened at 101 Park Ave. by Judy Licht from Farmington via Colorado.

It was the mountains of Colorado that gives the shop its name "Mountain" Rags she explains.

The hand-made items featured in the shop, however, do not qualify as "rags" for they are cleverly designed items, many of them utilizing materials that can be re-cycled such as old lace, old-fashioned handkerchiefs seldom seen which are used to trim garments, rare tatting, crocheted doilies and other items seldom seen outside grandmother's trunk. "I find it a challenge to design a garment around a piece of re-cyclable material" Miss Licht said. The items she offers for sale in her unique shop proves her point.

The expression "items too numerous to mention" might well describe Mountain Rags which offers sun dresses, cotton jackets and blouses, quilts, comforters, purses, visor hats, adorable clothes for toddlers and older children, rag dolls and other hand-made articles.

Most of the items presently being offered for sale are made by Miss Licht. However, she is hoping to make Mountain Rags an outlet for items sold on consignment by local craft persons, she said. "During the winter months I would like to add hand knit or crocheted mittens, scarves and caps as well as other seasonal items. Again, these items will be sold on consignmeot for others if they care to contact me" she added.

"I started sewing when I was 10 years old. Later I sewed for my friends and that's how I ended up with my shop," she explained. She will also accept special orders for garments.

Miss Licht has a major in Home Economics and Business Administration and utilizes her knowledge from both courses of study in the operation of her "Mountain Rags".

District Health Department is always looking for community volunteers

For more than ten years, Pauline Young has helped greet participants in the immunization clinics held in Charlevoix. Pauline originally started as a volunteer for the District Health Department on the recommendation of her mother-in-law. According to Pauline, "This is one volunteer job that I really enjoy doing. I like working with kids. It has become a family tradition."

Pauline Young, a volunteer receptionist for Immunization Clinics held by the District Health Department No. 3 talks about procedures with health Department Coordinator of Special Programs Linda Yarosh.

At the present time, volunteers are being sought by the District Health Department to help with reception duties for immunization and some special clinics. Volunteer nurses are also being sought to help with the blood pressure screening clinics. Anyone with an interest in helping people as a volunteer for the Health Department is encouraged to call any department office.

In Charlevoix, the address is 203 Antrim St. and the phone number is 547-6523.

Linda Yaroch, coordinator of special programs for the District Health Department, said, "I appreciate all the excellent volunteer help that our department has had in the past. Without this volunteer help we would be hard pressed to deliver the same standard of service."

Rev. Vavrinek to be guest speaker

The Reverend Donald Vavrinek will be the guest speaker at the Northern Lake Michigan Spiritualist Camp for the week of July 19.

On Sunday, services will begin at 10:30 a.m., to be followed with a pot luck lunch at noon; on Wednesday, there will be a service at 7:30 p.m.; and on Thursday, there will be a billet reading at 7:30 p.m.

GEMWISE
JEWELRY FASHIONS, FACTS, FICTION

APPRAISALS FOR PROTECTION

If you own jewelry worth more than $500 or in some cases $1000, your insurance company will not cover it on your normal homeowners' policy. They will require that you take out a floater for an additional premium. The first step in taking out this floater is to have your jewelry accurately appraised, so it can be properly repaired or replaced if damaged, stolen or lost.

A complete appraisal includes a thorough description of the jewelry articles, preferably accompanied by photographs. Diamonds of significant size should have their internal and external characteristics plotted on a diagram to aid in recovery if lost or to help explain the stone's clarity.

Once the jewelry has been thoroughly analyzed, a replacement value can be estimated. This changes with time, so an update every two or three years is advised to provide adequate protection.

When you're shopping for an insurance company to cover your jewelry, find out under what circumstances the jewelry is covered, and make sure you're happy with the terms.

When you're shopping for a jeweler to appraise your jewelry, look for a member of the American Gem Society. We're highly skilled in the use of gemological testing equipment, which is necessary to accurately identify your gemstones and metals and establish their quality.

Not all jewelers do appraisals, but we offer this service to our customers because we recognize its importance. At Reusch Jewelers customer service is one of our primary concerns. Appraisal work done on Thursday in Petoskey and Charlevoix stores.

District tourney will be first held here

Charlevoix will host its first Little League tournament here beginning Wednesday, July 15, since the community has sponsored a Little League program Dr. Donald Trimper, Little League president, has announced.

Twelve teams from across the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula and the eastern section of the Upper Peninsula will be converging on Charlevoix, site of the Senior League District tourney.

Games will be played at the Little League field of Carpenter Ave. west of US 31 South.

He explained that three pre-district games will be played prior to Wednesday to determine representatives from their respective areas. The winners will be entered into the regular tournament bracket.

Pre-tournament games found Rogers City and Cheboygan meeting at 4 p.m. Monday and Tri-Rivers and North Emmet at 6:30 p.m. Monday. The winners of these two games move into the tournament bracket and will meet each other at 3 p.m. on Saturday, July 18, at Charlevoix. The third pre-district game will pair Soo Area against Onaway at 5 p.m. Tuesday. The winner of this game will move into the bracket against Taquammeoon Falls at 12:30p.m. Saturday, July 18.

Action here will start at 4 p.m. Wednesday when Gaylord and Grayling clash in the tournament opener. A second game at 6:30 p.m. will pit Boyne City against Johannesburg.

At 4 p.m. Thursday East Jordan will meet Harbor Springs and at 6 p.m. Charlevoix will enter the tournament against Petoskey.

Action will be suspended Friday before opening again at 10 a.m. Saturday when the winners of the Boyne City-Petoskey game meet the winner of the Boyne City-Johannesburg game at 10 a.m. in the lower bracket. In the upper bracket the winner of the Soo-Area-Onaway game will take on Tahquammenon Falls at 12:30 p.m. followed by games between the winners of the Rogers City-Cheboygan game and the Tri-Rivers-North Emmet game at 3 p.m. and the winners of the Jordan-Harbor-Charlevoix-Petoskey game at 5:15p.m.

The semi-finals will be played at 12 noon and 2:15 p.m. Sunday with the championship game scheduled for 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

Teams in the upper bracket are Soo Area, Onaway, Tahquamenon Falls, East Jordan, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, and Petoskey.

Assigned to the lower bracket are Rogers City, Cheboygan, Tri-Rivers, North Emmet, Grayling, Gaylord, Boyne City and Johannesburg.

The Charlevoix champion will advance to regional play.

In preparation for the tournament, volunteers have been working at the field to keep it in shape for the tournament Dr. Trimper said. A scorer's booth which will also be used for broadcasting the game has been built.

For visitors to the community, there will be a concessions booth at the park and directions to local restaurants.

Good looking, super efficient thermal shades are on all four sides.

Stop the Great Heat Escape!
Window Quilt™ insulated shades cut window heat loss up to 79%

If you're serious about home heating efficiency, you already know that far more heat escapes through windows than walls, roof or doors. You can pack your walls with thick insulation, install tight fitting storms or double glazing. Even so, you'll most likely lose more than half your precious winter heat through your windows.

What's the answer?

Window Quilt™. This multi layered thermal shade can eliminate up to 79% of winter heat loss through single glazed windows, as much as 50% through double paned glass in your house. Window Quilts probably will pay for themselves well within 5 years.

Window Quilts fit tightly on all four sides, sealing warm air in and cold air out. They're easy to install and operate easy to live with, far more efficient than ordinary shades or insulated drapes.

- Fit almost any size window, even 8' wide sliders
- More than twice as effective as storms, better than 4 glass mgs (R value 4.25)
- In snow country, with double glazing one sq. ft. saves 1 gal. oil per year. Payback is 2-5 years
- Helps keep summer heat out — saves on air conditioning
- Attractive quilted design and neutral bone-white color enhance any decor

The secret of Window Quilt's amazing efficiency. A thin ice layer is surrounded by layers of insulating material with polyester covers, all quilted by ultra sonic sewing.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

July 6, 1981
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Supernaw presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Absent: None

The Minutes of the June 15, 1981 regular meeting and the June 22, 1981 special meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the vacating of an alleyway between two lots owned by Jeannetta Novotny of 302 Nettleton. No opposition to Mrs. Novotny's request was voiced by the General Public present.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to approve the request submitted by Jeannetta Novotny of 302 Nettleton St. to vacate the West and, of an alley running between Burma and Nettleton Sts. for a distance of 70' between Mrs. Novotny's two lots facing Nettleton.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Nays: Councilman Porter. Absent: None

Council adjourned to the Board of Appeals.

Following the Board of Appeals meeting, roll call of the Council was again taken with all members being present.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated June 22, 1981.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Wood that the City donate a sum of $200.00 to the Charlevoix Little League to aid that organization in hosting the district championship games in the City.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Wood to deny a request submitted by the Michigan Municipal League to donate a sum of $46.18 to aid that organization in hosting the 57th National League of Cities Congress in Detroit.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Nays: Councilman Porter. Absent: None.

Appointment of a delegate to the 83rd Annual Michigan Municipal League Convention was tabled until the August 3, 1981 regular meeting.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Block to allow the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce to use East Park on the following dates this year:

July 11, 13th Annual Lakeside Hobbycraft Show; July 23-27, 51st Annual Venetian Festival; August 8, 22nd Annual Waterfront Art Fair; August 13-15, Sidewalk Sale Days; October 9-10, Apple Festival.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Mayor Supernaw proclaimed July 10, 1981 as Tag Day in the City for the Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary.

Linda Mason, a member of the General Public present, asked Council if a schedule could be set up for periodic washing of the sidewalks and Bridge St. in the Central Business District. Council generally agreed that washing the street and sidewalks on a regular basis would be too expensive, but did agree to hose them down after the Venetian Festival.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter.

Resolution 81-7 1

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix, Michigan, (hereon called the "Borrower" and/or the "Governing Body") acting by and through the Charlevoix Housing Commission, (hereon called the "Local Authority"), proposes (1) to enter into an amendment to the existing Annual Contributions Contract (hereon called the "Amendment") with the United States of America (hereon called the "Government"); and (2) to authorize the issuance of its notes as evidence of advances to be made to the Local Authority pursuant to the Contract, as amended, all with respect to any "Project" as defined in the Contract, as amended, and which at any time now or hereafter is incorporated under the terms of such Contract, as amended

BE IT RESOLVED AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. The Amendment to the Annual Contributions Contract is hereby approved and accepted and the President or Vice President is hereby authorized and directed to execute three counterparts of the Amendment on behalf of the Local Authority, and the Clerk of the Local Governing Body is hereby authorized to impress and attest the official seal of the Local Governing Body of each such counterpart and to forward such executed counterparts, or any of them, to the Government together with such other documents evidencing the approval and authorizing the execution thereof as may be required by the Government.

Section 2. The President or Vice-President or Director of the Housing Commission is hereby authorized to file with the Government from time to time, as moneys are required, requisitions together with the necessary supporting documents requesting advances to be made on account of the loan provided in the Contract, as amended, and the proper officers of the Borrower shall prepare, execute and deliver to the Government Notes hereinafter authorized and shall accept payment therefor from the Government in cash and/or exchanges for other Notes of the Borrower, and such persons are authorized to do and perform all other things and acts required to be done or performed in order to obtain such advances. Cash proceeds from the sale of all Notes shall be deposited and disbursed only in accordance with the provisions of the Contract, as amended.

Section 3. (A) In order to provide monies to finance the Development Cost of each Project and to refund, renew, extend or substitute for any Project Loan Notes (in the Contract called "Advance Notes" or "Permanent Notes") by the Resolution authorized to be issued for any such Notes by any other resolution authorized to be issued and which are outstanding, or on deposit for delivery pending payment therefor, as of the date this Resolution becomes effective), or for any Project Notes (in the Contract called "Temporary Notes") issued by the Borrower in anticipation of the delivery of Project Loan or Permanent Notes, there are hereby authorized to be issued, from time to time, Project Loan and Permanent Notes of the Borrower in an aggregate principal amount outstanding at any one time (whether authorized by this Resolution or any other resolution authorizing the issuance of Project Loan or Permanent Notes) equal to the Maximum Development Cost

(B) Each such Note shall bear interest and be payable on the terms and manner prescribed by the Contract and the Resolution, shall be signed in the name of the Borrower by the authorized official of the Local Governing Body, shall have the official seal of the Borrower impressed thereon and attested by the Clerk of the Local Governing Body. Each Project Loan Note shall be in substantially the form of Form No. HUD-5204-MICH and each Permanent Note shall be in substantially the form of Form No. HUD-52260, each of which form is incorporated herein by reference and made a part hereof. Project Loan Notes and Permanent Notes shall be issued to finance the Development Cost of Non-Permanently Financed Projects and Permanently Financed Projects respectively.

(C) Each Note issued with respect to any Project shall be secured by (1) a first pledge of the annual contributions payable to the Local Authority and authorized to be pledged to such payment pursuant to the Contract and (2) by a pledge of and lien on the Rental Receipts of such Project after providing for the payment of Bonds issued in respect to such Project.

(D) As additional security for the equal and ratable payment of the principal of and interest on each Note issued with respect to any Project, together with each other Note issued with respect to such Project, the Borrower, to the fullest extent permitted by the Laws of the State, h

Keep kids away from strange dogs

A warning to keep children, especially toddlers, away from strange dogs during the hot weather has been issued by Dennis Andrick, Charlevoix County Animal Control Officer.

Andrick said he has received a rash of calls regarding dogs biting small children. The incidents have, for the most part, occurred in areas such as the beaches where strange dogs were wandering and, when approached by a child, bit the youngster on the face or upper arms.

"Dogs are cantankerous in hot weather so we are asking parents and baby-sitters to keep the children they are watching away from these dogs" Andrick said in issuing the warning.

Award-winning film, violin recital planned

East meets West on Monday, July 20 in Petoskey's Virginia McCune Community Arts Center at 8 p.m. with a special showing of the Academy Award winning documentary, "From Mao to Mozart."

This film tells of famed violinist Issac Stern's visit to China following the Cultural Revolution.

Introducing the film will be Don Jaeger, conductor of the Northwood Symphonette, who recently returned from a three-week residency at the Peking Conservatory. Following the film, Zhu Pei, a Chinese concert violinist who spent seven years working in the rice fields during the Cultural Revolution, will present a 20-minute recital of Eastern and Western works for violin. He will be accompanied by Marilyn Abbott of Midland.

This special evening benefitting the Art Center is co-sponsored by the Northwood Institute and Crooked Tree Arts Council. Tickets are $3.50 and may be purchased at the door.

Interstate system is 25 years old this summer

No bands will play and no crowds will gather to celebrate, but this summer marks the 25th anniversary of what often is called the biggest public works program in history.

It's the national system of Interstate and Defense Highways, a network of superhighways that links every city of more than 50,000 in Michigan, and 90 percent of them in the rest of the country.

President Dwight Eisenhower signed the bill funding the interstate system on June 29, 1956, an occasion that launched the greatest construction effort the world has ever seen.

Work was paid for through a newly established highway trust fund supported mainly by a three-cent-a-gallon (now four cents) federal tax on gasoline. Federal aid paid 90 percent of the cost, up from the usual 50-50 split between the states and the federal government.

Michigan's first freeway built under the Interstate program was a four-mile stretch of what was known as the Brighton-Farmington Expressway – old US-16 – extending east from US-23. It was opened August 1, 1957, and later became part of I-96 when the interatate numbering system was adopted in 1959.

Michigan led the way

Michigan forged ahead to the lead nationally in the 1960's in building its share of the 41,000 mile nationwide system. John C. Mackie, then the state highway commissioner, speeded up the effort by persuading the legislature to authorize sale of hundreds of millions of dollars in revenue bonds for highway construction.

By the end of 1963, the state had opened nearly 500 miles of interstates, almost half of its 1,080-mile network (increased to 1,181 miles in 1968 when Congress expanded the national system to 42,500 miles).

Michigan's network has grown steadily, but slowly, in recent years and now totals 1,124 miles. Ninety-five percent of it is open to traffic. Nationally, the totals are 40,061 miles and 94.3 percent.

Today, it is possible for a motorist to drive coast to coast or border to border without encountering a traffic light and with no need to stop except to refuel.

Driving is easier

The Interstates have had a profound effect on the nation and its transportation system, and on the lives of its people. They have altered the landscape and influenced industrial and urban planning and living patterns, and commercial development as well.

They have made driving faster, easier, and considerably safer than on the older highways they replaced. Because they constitute only about one percent of the nation's highways, roads, and streets, but carry about 20 percent of the traffic, they and other freeways have enabled the country to absorb the huge increses in vehicles and travel of the last 25 years.

The interstate system has cost more than $78 billion to build so far and billions more will be required to complete it. The cost in Michigan through 1980 was $2,783 billion. That does not include the Mackinac and International bridges, which were built with separate funding and later taken into the interstate system, and the Perry-to-Flint portion of I-69, formerly M-78.

The uncompleted 57 miles in Michigan includes the final 6.2 miles of I-475 through Flint, scheduled for opening late this summer. Others are the final 7.9 miles of I-696 through Oakland County, yet to be started and estimated to cost around $300 million, and the 43-mile midsection of I-69 to run from Charlotte northeast to Lansing and east to a connection with the existing freeway near Perry. It will cost more than $200 million and only a small section north of Lansing is under construction.

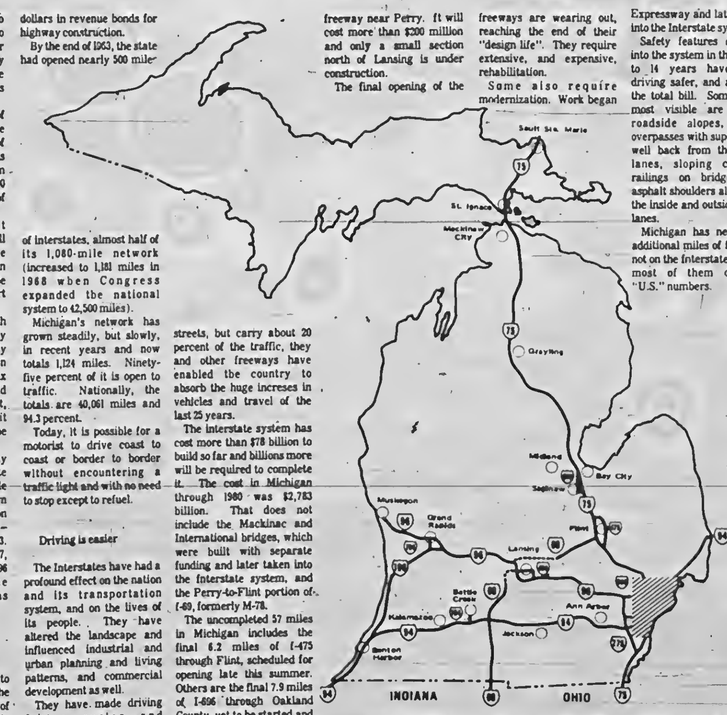
The final opening of the final section of Michigan's interstate system is expected near the end of the 1980's.

Meanwhile, the roadways on many of the older freeways are wearing out, reaching the end of their "design life". They require extensive, and expensive, rehabilitation.

Some also require modernization. Work began in June on a $41 million reconstruction of the I-94 and M-39 (Southfield) freeway interchange west of Detroit, built in World War II as part of the Willow Run Expressway and later taken into the Interstate system.

Safety features designed into the system in the past 12 to 14 years have made driving safer, and added to the total bill. Some of the most visible are gentler roadside slopes, longer overpasses with supports set well back from the travel lanes, sloping concrete railings on bridges, and asphalt shoulders along both the inside and outside travel lanes.

Michigan has nearly 600 additional miles of freeways not on the interstate system, most of them carrying "U.S." numbers.



Its 1,722 miles of freeways compare with a 132-mile network when the first Interstate-funded freeway was opened near Brighton in 1957.

Best way to deal with poison ivy is to get rid of it

If you're sensitive to poison ivy, the best way to avoid a lot of misery is to steer clear of this pesky plant.

That tends to be more difficult than it sounds, however. Michael Barrett, Estension weed control specialist at Michigan State University, points out that poison ivy can grow as a climbing, woody vine attached to trees, fences or other objects; an erect shrub a few inches high; or a creeping vine without support.

The leaves, borne in groups of three, are reddish and drooping in the spring. As they expand, they turn glossy or dull green and may be hairy. the shapes of the individual leaves can vary greatly. All of this variation can make identifying – and avoiding – poison ivy very difficult.

Inconspicuous clusters of small greenish flowers appear after the leaves. The berrylike, waxy fruits form in the summer. They tend to be gray to white, with lengthwise lines that give them the appearance of a peeled orange. After the leaves turn red and drop in the fall, the presence of the berries makes identification fairly easy.

The berries are also to blames for the spread of poison ivy into backyard and bome landscapes. Birds using the fruits as an emergency food source in the winter scatter the seeds. The result may be a poison ivy vine snaking through a shrub, up a tree, along a wall or through a lawn.

To be effective, any control effort has to kill or completely remove the root system, Barrett says.

Digging the roots when the soil is wet can eradicate the plant if it's well done. Roots that are broken off in the ground can resprout.

Frequent mowing of the leaves – the plant's food factories – can eventually

Historic Beaver Island

The King Strang reigns as island's oldest hotel

For the Beaver Island visitor lookng for comfortable lodging flavored with a touch of history, the King Strang Hotel is the place.

Located in the heart of St. James about one block from the ferry docks, the King Strang holds forth in a peaceful setting of stately shade trees and neatly manicured grounds. It is definitely a hotel in the old tradition with a long, open front porch from which guests can look out over Paradise Bay.

The King Strang was built in 1901 by Captain Manus Bonner, a Great Lakes sailing captain. It was originally known as the Beaver Hotel and catered primarily to travelers en route between Chicago and Detroit. Capt. Bonner built the hotel for his retirement years using lumber entirely logged from Hogg Island and floated over in huge rafts. Construction took two years.

In 1921, the hotel was bought by a Mr. Cole who named it after Beaver Island's most famous settler, James Jesse Strang, self-proclaimed king of the island from 1847 to 1856. In all, the hotel had five owners. it is presently owned by George and Florine Bennett who have been in charge the past six years.

George is a former veterinarian who retired from his practice in 1968 to lecture periodically at the University of Michigan on physiology and cruise during the summers with his wife on their 35-foot boat. in the off-season, the Bennetts make their home in Northville, Michigan near Ann Arbor.

in an effort to preserve the rich heritage of Beaver Island's oldest hotel, the Bennetts have been careful to retain the King Strang's authentic decor and appearance as they refurbish a few rooms each year. Although the hotel originally furnished dining for its guests, the owners have now found it more practical to furnish a continental breakfast and transportation to other island eateries for the midday and evening meals.

Eighteen rooms are available to island guests, most of whom stay two or three nights with some staying the summer. The hotel's season normally lasts from about May 15 to Labor Day.

starve the roots. You must mow often, Barrett says, so new leaf growth has no chance to fortify the root system.

Chemical control with the herbicides 2,4-D or Amitrol also requires several treatments. And there's always the possibility that you will kill or damage other plants in the landscape.

The best time to treat poison ivy with herbicides is in June or July when plants are growing vigorously. Apply the chemical on a dunny, windless and warm day when no rain is expected within six to ten hours. A breeze increases the chance of damage to other plants by drifting spray. Warm, sunny weather maximizes the movement of the chemical from the foliage to the roots. Wet the foliage thoroughly but avoid excessive runoff.

Poison ivy twined through a shrub or wrapped around a tree presents special problems. It's very difficult to apply a chemical to such a vine without harming the support plant. Barrett suggests physically removing the vine and painting the stump with 2,4-D. Any regrowth can be mowed or treated with chemicals.

Even the dead vines contain the oil responsible for the reaction in sensitive individuals, Barrett warns. This oil can be carried in the smoke from burning poison ivy or in the soot and ashes from such a fire, so he advises bagging vines for the trash or burying them.

"All poison ivy control measures involve a high risk of exposure to the poisonous oil," he points out. "This oil is present in all parts of the plant at all times of the year. Extremely sensitive people should probably not attempt poison ivy control."

Even people who have shown resistance to poison ivy poisoning shouldn't push their luck, he suggests. It's a very good idea to wear protective clothing that can be disposed of or thoroughly washed in an alkaline detergent after being in contact with poison ivy.

If you think you've been exposed to poison ivy, washing several times with lokewarm water and a strong alkaline laundry soap should remove at least some of the poisonous oil, Barrett says. It's difficult to remove all the oil by washing, but it should help prevent spreading the oil to other parts of the body.

Addition to Maritime Academy to be dedicated at Traverse City

Traverse City - A dedication ceremony on Monday, July 20, at Northwestern Michigan College's Great Lakes Maritime Academy (GLMA) will mark the completion of a major expansion of Academy facilities.

The 17,500 square foot addition to the existing Maritime Building on the College's Technical Center Campus has been constructed and equipped at a total cost of $1.2 million. Funds for the expansion came from a variety of sources including the Economic Development Administration; State of Michigan; Health, Education and Welfare Vocational Education Department; Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, Lake Carrier's Association; GLMA budget; and a loan from NMC.

The facility was expanded to make room for additional maritime students admitted to the academy. The GLMA is in the process of tripling its enrollment from 120 to 350 to meet the industry's demand for Great Lakes ship officers. Two-hundred and nineteen cadets and currently enrolled.

The GLMA offers a three-year program which includes maritime, math, physical science, humanities and social science courses. As required by the Maritime Administration and the U.S. Coast Guard, each cadet also obtains 270 sailing days as a cadet observer aboard Great Lakes ships.

The GLMA is the only maritime academy that operates as part of a community college and offers the Associate of Applied Science degree.

Among the officials to participate in Monday's dedication ceremonies will be U.S. Rep. Donald Albosta, Adm. Paul Trimble of the Lake Carriers Association, NMC Board of Trustees Chairman James Beckett, NMC's new President Dr. George Miller, and Maritime Academy Director Adm. George Rector.

The public is invited to attend the dedication ceremony which will be held outdoors near the east entrance to the GLMA. Guided tours of the new facility will follow the dedication.

Michigan wineries are excellent places to visit

Looking for, something different to do on a lazy summer day? Visit Michigan's wine country, where good things are growing in some terrific scenery. Autumn is the harvest season, but last year's crop has been processed and is awaiting you in distinctive bottles and varying flavors.

Vineyards marching across the rolling hillsides of southwestern Michigan tell you this is wine country, and the foliage is thick and verdant green.

According to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, our state has about 15,000 acres of commercial vineyards, with acreage increasing each year. In 1980, those vineyards produced almost 100 million pounds of grapes, worth about $12.5 million. Most of the crop goes into jams, jellies, and juice. But about six percent is processed by Michigan's wineries.

Our state ranks fifth in wine production in the nation, and our wineries earned nearly 150 state and national awards in the last three years for the quality of their products.

Tours, offered by all the wineries, are immensely popular with visitors. During the summer months, you'll see hosloads of tourists every day. Michigan vintners are proud of their art, and delight in explaining this ancient craft to their guests. Visiting the wineries, you'll learn how grapes are pressed, how fermentation is controlled, what determines the dryness of a wine, and other interesting information.

At winery tours, visitors can learn the whole process of making wine

At some of the wineries, you can purchase snacks or luncheon, and at each you're welcomed warmly. Some also offer recipes for cooking with wine, and in each case you'll have an opportunity to taste some of the different varieties. There are eight wineries in southwestern Michigan, others in the northwestern Traverse City region.

St. Julian's, Warner's, Frontenanc, and Vendramino are located at Paw Paw; Bronte's at Keeler; Tabor Hill at Buchanan; Lakeside at Harbert; and Fenn Valley at Fennville.

In the Traverse region are Boskydel on the Leelanau peninsula; Chateau Grand Travers on Old Mission peninsula; and Leelanau, south of Traverse City.

One note which indicates how Michigan's wine country is spreading: St. Julian has just opened a new winery in Frankenmuth, heretofore considered navy bean and sugar territory.

In wine country, you'll see manicored orchards alternating with vineyards, and those orchardes portend the late summer harvest of peaches, pears, apples, and other fruits in season.

Wines and froits are natural partners, and here's a simple do-ahead recipe combining Michigan wine and pears.

Peel six fresh Michigan pears, leaving stems intact. Combine one cup sugar, two cups Michigan port or sherry wine in saucepan large encough to accomodate the pears. Bring to boil, simmer a few minutes, then add pears and three slices of lemon. Reduce heat and poach gently until the fruit is just tender, about one hour. Cool in sauce. Serve well chilled, with each pear placed on top of a crispy macaroon and garnished with cream which has been whipped to the consistency of a soft custard.

Bug off!

Play was momentarily halted in the finals of the Michigan Amateur Golf Championship held recently at the Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix when a stubborn insect lit on the ball of Bill McDonald as it rested on the fifth fairway. Jim Gittelman, left, who faced McDonald in the final round of match play for the championship, helped McDonald try to get the bug off without touching the ball. McDonald was eventually successful in getting the bug off and went on to win the tournament.

Complaints mount as dryness worsens cement dust problem

by DAVE KNIGHT

According to a common colloqualism, it's when the dust settles that everything is peaceful. For many Charlevoix residents in recent weeks, however, the dust has settled but things are far from peaceful.

The dust is cement dust from the operations at the Medusa Cement Company plant south of town and many local residents are complaining that it has been coating cars, windows and even interior areas heavier lately than ever before.

"We took our car to a local service station with a car wash and they couldn't even get the cement dust off," said Mrs. Eleanor Korn who lives in Boulder Park during the summer.

Her husband, Monte, is almost at the point of taking legal action against the cement plant. "It's going to happen," he said last week, "If things don't improve soon we are going to court to seek an injunction against their (Medusa's) disregard for our rights as property owners."

While Boulder Park may suffer from being the closest residential area to the plant, the dust problem appears to be much more pervasive in the community.

Members of the LaCroft condominium association expressed almost unanimous concern at a recent meeting over the amount of dust coating cars and windows at that north side complex.

LaCroft owners Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Loeb spend the summer months in a sixth floor unit there. When they arrived in Charlevoix earlier this year, said Mrs. Loeb, not only were their windows coated but the dust had found its way into the apartment and covered furniture as well.

"It's bad; it's really bad," said Mrs. Loeb, "It even bothers our eyes and my husband is coughing. There's a big difference this year; it's never been this bad before."

Another property owner on Lake Charlevoix with a solar paneled home claims the dust has retarded the panels usefulness.

Medusa plant manager Elbert Kaiser points to the prolonged dry spell in the area as the reason for the worsening dust problem.

"The same lack of rain that everyone else is complaing about is what is giving us a problem," said Kaiser last week, "We just put three truckloads of calcium chloride solution on our open yard areas and even that did not settle things down for long."

Despite claims by some local people that dust filtration systems are not all in order at Medusa, Kaiser said that the systems are all working properly and are doing as efficient a job as possible.

Electrostatic collectors are installed on the two main stacks at the plant. These devices collect particulate matter by electrically charging and attracting the dust particles. In several other areas in the plant are cloth collectors that are basically huge vacuums equipped with fabric filters that must be regularly serviced.

"No dust collecting system is 100 percent effective," said Kaiser, "It is impossible to completely prevent dust from escaping a cement making operation like this. But our equipment is as efficient as we can make it."

Though several complaints have prompted the regional Department of Natural Resources air quality office to look into the matter and actually meet with plant officials earlier this spring, there has been no documentation of air quality standards being violated and no DNR action taken against Medusa.

As of July 10 of this year, 25 valid air samples had been taken at a monitoring station located at the Charlevoix school bus garage on the south side of town and 22 samples from a station at the Charlevoix County Building downtown. The highest reading of particulate matter this year was 138 micrograms per cubic meter of air recorded at the County Building in mid-May.

Federal air quality standards require a reading no higher than 150 micrograms per cubic meter. According to environmental engineer Gunther Schmidt of the DNR's air quality division in Lansing, the agency takes a total of about 60 samplings a year - one every six days - from the two sites and monitors the data closely for readings over the federal standard.

There have rarely been readings over the 150 microgram per cubic meter level taken at the Charlevoix monitoring sites. The last time was in 1979. If and when two concurrent readings above standard are taken, said Schmidt, the DNR takes action automatically to investigate the source.

Two such readings have never occurred at the local monitoring stations.

Schmidt said that the dust characteristic to cement manufacturing posed more of a nuisance than a health hazard.

"The particles that comprise cement dust are generally large enough to be exhaled by the body," said Schmidt. "Only very tiny particulate matter tends to remain in the lungs and cement dust particles are larger than that. I suspect that the cement dust is probably getting cars and homes dirty but I don't think it will be a problem to anyone's health."

As of Monday, the Charlevoix area had gone over a month without any substantial rainfall. Forecasts for the coming week held no immediate hope for relief.

Signs look good for two UDAG grants

by DAVE KNIGHT

By requesting formal applications from the city, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has indicated tacit approval of substantial grants for two major development projects in Charlevoix, reported City Manager James Brinker to the City Council Monday night.

Urban Development Action Grants (UDAG) were sought to help finance an expansion project at the Weathervane Terrace motel and a marina development on the site of the former Foster Boat Company by Northwest Marine & Brokerage, Inc.

Brinker told the council that by requesting formal applications, HUD has basically indicated its approval of the project grants and that they have an excellent chance of coming through.

No dollar figures from the UDAG grants have been available from HUD as yet. Brinker said that information will be forthcoming in the formal application process.

In other action, the council agreed to sell a two-acre parcel of land at the corner of Taylor Road and Mercer Blvd. to Site Planning Design of Charlevoix for $10,000. The firm is owned by John Campbell who also owns Site Planning Development but said Site Planning Design is a comletely seperate entity.

Campbell told the council the land will be put to commercial and "primiarily inside" use only. He declined to specify his plans any further. Mayor Sam Supernaw supported the sale pointing out that the city could use the addition to the tax roles plus the additonal jobs a new business would provide.

The only opposition came from council member Shirley Roloff who said that the city would be "foolish" to sell the land for the $10,000 price. A motion by council member Robert Timms to approve the sale contingent on council approval of a site plan subsequently passed by a 5-1 vote.

The council also:

Followed a recommendation by City Manager Brinker to retain Blue Cross-Blue Shield health insurance coverage for city employees who objected to a proposed change in agencies.

Set a public hearing date of August 17 for a proposed amendment to the city's off-street parking ordinance that would require all downtown businesses to provide adequate parking or pay $2,000 per space into a parking fund.

Townhouse project proposed for East Dixon

Indications were, early this week, that a threatened nationwide postal strike will probably not affect local mail service. Charlevoix Postmaster Joe Schwartzfisher said Tuesday morning that he did not foresee any problem with continuing the local flow of mail even if a nationwide strike does occur. Schwartzfisher also said that he sees the possibility of a nationwide strike a slim. If one does occur, however, he said alternate plans have been worked out in advance to keep the flow of mail from large distribution centers normal and that Charlevoix area residents should continue to receive their mail on schedule.

Postal strike would pose little threat here

Plans were announced at a City Planning Commission meeting last week for a proposed townhouse-condominium project on the vacant lot adjoining the Lodge Motel on E. Dixon St.

Jack Uhrick, representing the corporate ownership of the project, appeared before the Planning Commission to seek the rezoning of the property from R-1, single family, residential, to R-4, multiple family dwelling.

Uhrick explained the project as entailing four to six townhouses but did not have a completed site plan available at the time. The commission tabled the request until more information on the project can be assembled and will probably take it up at its next meeting this Monday at 5:30 p.m. at City hall.

Varnum named to District judgeship

by PEG OHLE

Five and a half years ago, Harvey Varnum resigned as Charlevoix County Prosecutor and moved from his offices in the southwest corner of the County Building.

Next week, Varnum will return to these same corner offices, this time in the position of 90th District Judge. The 90th District is made up of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Harvey Varnum

Varnum's appointment to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of David W. Fershee was announced last week by Governor William G. Milliken.

He was one of six candidates for the position interviewed in Lansing recently by the State Bar Judical Qualifications Committee.

Varnum brings to the bench 32 years of civil practice in addition to his 18 years as County Prosecutor. In order to carry out his new duties, Varnum will relinquish his partnership in the Boyne City law firm of Conkle, Varnum & McTaggart. He will also resign as City Attorney for Boyne City, a position he has held for over 25 years.

Varnum first came to Boyne City in 1949, left for a few years, then returned in 1955 and served as Prosecutor from January, 1967 through December, 1975.

Born in Iowa, Varnum grew up in Highland Park and attended the University of Michigan, where he received bachlor of arts and law degrees.

The new judge is a past president of the Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association and is a member of the Michigan State Bar, the Prosecuting Attorneys Association, and the Judicature Society. He is also a Rotarian and a Mason.

Varnum's major hobby is restoring vintage automobiles and he is the proud owner of a 1929 Model A Ford, a 1923 Gray, and a 1927 Stutz Four-Door.

A resident of Boyne City, Varnum and his wife, Genevieve, have four grown children and four grandchildren. One son, Paul, is at home this summer.

Hospital Guild to set meetings

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital will make a decision regarding future meetings when it meets at the hospital classroom at 8 p.m. Monday, Aug. 10.

At that time, the membership will decide if the group will return to a meeting every month rather than every other month as in the past year.

Tentative plans have also been made for the annual membership tea to be held at the hospital conference room on Sept. 15 and the annual meeting of the guild at the same site on Sept. 21.

At the recent meeting of the guild, it was announced that the Guild had met its pledge obligation of $15,000 toward the expansion and renovation project nearing completion.

Scholarships were also presented by Mrs. Joyce Boydston of the scholarship committee to this year's recipients, Teresa Noirot, Brenda Buchanan and Sherri Wynsma and to Joy Pettis who received a check for her second year. The Guild offers scholarships of $300 to qualified applicants who are entering the field of professional nursing at the rate of $100 per year.

New high school Spanish teacher named by Board

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday, voted to offer a contract to a Spanish teacher, set a price on the Building Trades House, accepted resignations and heard reports.

President Max Novak also made his committee appointments for the 1981-82 school year.

The board accepted the recommendation that Ted L. Miller be offered a one-year contract to teach Spanish. Miller comes to the Charlevoix school system from Jackson where he taught Spanish and English at the Lumen Christi High School in 1978-80 and was supplementary teacher of English at Jackson Community College in 1980-81. A native of Jackson and a graduate of Jackson Parkside High School, he is a 1976 graduate of Albion College with a B.A. degree with a major in English and minors in Spanish and political science. He is presently completing his M.A. degree in English. He also taught English and Spanish at Jonesville for one year following graduation.

Miller coached JV wrestling for one year and varsity wrestling for four years and was faculty adviser to the school newspaper. He plans to move to Charlevoix shortly with his wife, Mary Lou.

A minimum sale price on the Building Trades House located in Charlevoix Township was set at $59,500. A three-year land contract at 11 percent will be acceptable if the buyer requests.

In other action, the board accepted with regret the resignation of Barry Anderson as golf coach; he has served in the capacity for the past seven years. The resignation of Douglas Kuebler from the custodial staff was accepted with regret; he had been on the staff for 6½ years. The resignation of Dr. Arthur Riley from the library advisory, board was also accepted with regret.

David J. Smith, Marie Osterberg and Toni Felter presented a detailed report on the proposed Human Growth and Development curriculum they have been working on.

Supt. Gordon VanWieren reported on progress being made at the Beaver Island lighthouse which is owned by the school district. The foghorn building is being converted into a classroom and a log cabin is under construction to provide housing for the staff.

Mrs. Doris Pearl of the library committee reported that the ramp at the library that meets barrier-free specifications has been completed.

Dave Smith, who is basketball coach, reported on the summer basketball program stating that 14 members of the team had participated in four tournaments and presently have an 8-6 win-loss record. He said the cooperation of parents and employers has made it possible for members to participate.

The second board meeting in August was set back to Aug. 24 by action of the board which met for 25 minutes in executive session to discuss a contract problem.

The following committee assignments were made by Novak:

Negotiations: Novak, Elaine Martin, Ardith Wieland; Finance: Novak, Kenneth Boss, Steven G. Smith; Public Library: Novak, Pearl, Robert Drenth; Transportation: Boss, Smith, Novak; Curriculum and Goals: Drenth, Wieland, Pearl; Recreation and extra-curricular: Boss, Smith, Novak; Professional Studies: Pearl, Martin, Novak; Board Policy: Wieland, Smith, Drenth; Building and Site: Smith, Martin, Pearl; Legislation: Martin, Boss, Wieland; Administrative Liaison: Drenth, Wieland, Novak.

Hagen-Zaharias Golf Tourney for cancer shaping up

Activity and interest is picking up concerning the Walter Hagen-Babe Zaharias golf tournament August 2 at Antrim Dells Golf and Tennis Club.

Tournament Chairman Phil Loomis said, "A number of people have indicated they will be playing the tournament" which is being conducted by the Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society and hosted by the Antrim Dells.

Loomis pointed out all proceeds go to service, education and research--all aimed at helping defeat cancer.

The August 2 tournament is the first Hagen-Zaharias tournament in the area. Last year, there were 48 local tournaments in Michigan held in 32 counties. More than $244,000 was raised.

Winners from each Hagen-Zaharias tournament will be eligible to play September 11-12 in the state finals at Boyne Highlands. Winners there go on to play at Disney World December 11-12.

Last November, the eighth annual Walter Hagen finals at Disney World drew 95 teams from 36 divisions and raised $2,224,202. Michigan teams placed as follows: Women's Handicap- first; Women's Scratch- fifth; Men's Handicap-ninth; and Men's Scratch, fourteenth.

Loomis says tournament rules at the Dells will be the same as those adhered to at the state and national finals, particularly concerning handicaps. Persons must have a certified U.S. Golf Association handicap or play in the scratch division. Each scratch division can include one golf professional, according to Loomis.

Entry fee is $35 a person in the four-person, best-ball tournament. Tee off times begin at 10 a.m. and will be assigned through 2 p.m.

"We want to run a top notch tournament," Loomis said. "One that will be respected by all area golfers and one they, at the same time, can have fun playing in."

Entry forms can be obtained at most area golf clubs or by contacting Loomis at 547-4331 (daytime) or 347-0114 (night time).

Bergmann Center sale planned

Bergmann Center, a sheltered workshop for the mentally handicapped, is planning a garage sale August 6 and 7 at Bergmann Center on Martin Rd. a short distance off US 31 North.

Donations of articles for the sale are needed. Anyone having any salable items (with the exception of clothing) may donate them to this worthy project.

New commander at C.G. Station

The Charlevoix Coast Guard Station has a new commanding officer. He is John G. Foster, BMC, who assumed his new command July 13 from Randall B. Langston, BMC.

At the same time, Chief Langston was transferred to St. Ignace as commanding officer.

Chief Foster came to the station from the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite where he has been assigned for the past four years.

A native of Cleveland where he enlisted in 1964 Chief Foster was assigned to Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y., Tawas, Sturgeon Bay, Wis., U.S.C.G. Training Center at Alameda, Calif., and the U.S.C.G.C. Plaintree before coming to Charlevoix in 1977.

His wife, Helen, and their two children reside here.

Chief Langston, who has assumed command at the Coast Guard Station at St. Ignace, is a native of Detroit. He enlisted in the U.S. Coast Guard at Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1964, after spending the summer there with his grandparents. After completing boot training at Alameda, he served aboard the U.S.C.G.C. Ivy at Astoria, Ore., and at shore stations at Seattle, Neah Bay, Callam Bay and West Port, Wash., before going to the Coast Guard Port Safety Station at Ogdensburg, N.Y. Later he was assigned to the Belle Isle and Detroit River stations, the Reserve Training Center at Yorktown, Va., and aboard the U.S.C.G.C. Morganthau at Governor's Island before being assigned to the Charlevoix Station in 1977.

His wife, Julie, and their children, Angie and George, have accompanied him to St. Ignace.

Both command stations with compliments of approximately 20 men.

Chief John G. Foster (right) assumed command of the Charlevoix Coast Guard station recently from Chief Randall B. Langston in a formal ceremony held at the station here.

Rehearsals set for band members

Members of the Charlevoix High School Marching Band are asked to attend rehearsals for the Venetian Street Parade at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. Band director Terry Isenbarger has asked that all members of the band attend rehearsals in preparation for the 10 a.m. street parade on Saturday.

Ask donations for book sale

Are the shelves and bookcases in your home or summer cottage full of books you have read and enjoyed but will never read again? If so pass them along for others to enjoy.

The Charlevoix Women's Club is now collecting used books and records for its annual used book sale. The books may be taken to the Charlevoix Public Library and Margaret Duerr, 547-2603, may be called to arrange for them to be picked up. Your donation of used books will benefit Charlevoix area service programs such as Charlevoix Indian Children's Opportunities; Chip Counseling Center, Womens Resource Center and similar organizations.

The annual book sale is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, August 7 and 8, at the Charlevoix Public Library. The sale is open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Open house for Eleanor Ratigan

An open house honoring the memory of the late Eleanor Ratigan, former assistant librarian who died July 15 at Dunedin, Fla., will be held at the Charlevoix Public Library at 11 a.m. Saturday. The family has extended an invitation to friends to meet with them at the library beginning at that hour.

Bikes revisited

by Dave Knight

It was one year and a couple hundred close calls ago that we wrote about the Bikes of Bridge Street - those two-wheeled terrorists who strike fear into the hearts of any pedestrian not wearing hockey pads when they step out from a store onto a downtown sidewalk.

Seems that painting "No Bicycles Allowed on Sidewalks" on the pavement at every corner served only to keep a city employee busy for a day with a stencil and spray can. It certainly did little to divert the bike traffic from the crowded Bridge St. sidewalks.

Already this summer, this reporter has witnessed at least three near misses. One may have been more painful for the biker than the shopper judging by the size of the Doberman escorting said pedestrian.

But we cannot all have big dogs to run interference for us downtown and therefore need some other means of protection from careless two-wheelers.

Our city council has grappled with the problem many a Monday night. On the books for several months now has been an ordinance enabling police officers to ticket anyone apprehended riding a bicycle on a downtown sidewalk.

At this week's meeting, an emergency declaration was unanimously approved that will authorize police to impound for a day the bicycle of any offender right at the scene. If the owner-operator happens to be a juvenile, he or she must bring a parent or guardian to recover the bike the next day.

Sounds good - that's what other nearby cities with the same problem have done -- but there's only one problem with the new policy.

Who's going to enforce it?

Meter attendants have been doing a good job chasing bikers off the sidewalks. But that, it appears from a legal standpoint, is all they can do. Under the current set up, only a police officer can impound a bicycle and all the regular officers are occupied during the daylight hours patrolling in squad cars which is where they probably should be.

A new problem has also arisen from downtown bicyling. Many cyclists are chaining their bikes to the recently planted trees along Bridge St. The species of tree that was chosen for the planting project is known for its adaptability to many of the rigors of city life such as car exhaust fumes and root system confinement.

But even the hardiest young tree will suffer from the continued wrapping of chains around it. Kind of like a gradual chain saw action.

The council recognized this also and has therefore made it unlawful to chain bikes to any city property other than bicycle racks.

Bicycle racks? For those who have not noticed, there are three of them downtown just off the three major intersections. They haven't been used much yet; maybe people think they're a new kind of snow fence or something.

It's too bad to have to come down on bicyclists. This is a means of transportation we should encourage in light of all the advantages it has over motoring. It's just that bikes and pedestrians don't mix.

Besides, Charlevoix Township now boasts one of the best BMX tracks in the state. Why waste your time dodging tourists when there's a bigger challenge at Shanahan Field?

Those who want to cruise the downtown sidewalks on their bikes from now on better be ready for a few things.

If you happen to get seen by a policeman, say goodbye to the bike for a while.

If you chain up to a tree, be prepared to deal with one mad store owner who just paid $200 to plant the thing.

And if you hit someone, get a real good lawyer; and a doctor if whomever you hit happens to be walking a Doberman. They're bred to not like anyone who knocks down their master, you know.

Clockwise

Failure of the system

by Bob Clock

AT LAST COUNT, 113 bodies had been recovered from the Hyatt-Regency Hotel lobby in Kansas City and officials fear the number of fatalities will rise as some of the more seriously injured succumb to their wounds.

As you know, two massive catwalks spanning the lobby collapsed Friday evening at the beginning of a jitterbug contest. The victims either were spectators on the catwalks or dancers on the floor below.

How could such a calamity ever have happened? And governed by construction codes and populated by building inspectors?

Five committees already have been organized to look into the accident and determine its cause. You can be assured speculation will mix with fact for weeks until a final determination is made.

It is incredible that such an accident could have happened in the waning days of the 20th Century in a nation that leads the world in construction techniques and materials.

All weekend the ironical lyrics of one of the hit songs from the musicale "Oklahoma" have been coursing through my brain. "Everything's up to date in Kansas City; they've gone about as far as they can go... They went and built a skyscraper seven stories high, about as high as a building ought to go."

Perhaps the lesson of the lyrics is that there should be a limit to extravagant design -- in architecture as well as other disciplines...

CHARLEVOIX is moving into its fourth week without enough rain to fill a teacup.

Oddly enough, Charlevoix appears to be a parched oasis in a sea of mud.

We hear stories of an hour-long downpour in St. Ignace Friday; a cloudburst over Gaylord Sunday afternoon; and a rip-roaring storm in Norwood.

Yet in Charlevoix, gardens and lawns beg in vain for something more than a heavy morning mist.

Such spotty weather only underscores the vagaries of lakeside living. In winter, the ground is often bare in Charlevoix, while Petoskeyites shovel out from under several inches of snow.

Commuters between Charlevoix and Petoskey will attest to the fact that there is often a sharp change in the weather at Bay Shore; if it is wet on one side of the county line, it will be dry on the other. And vice versa.

None-the-less, it's Charlevoix's turn for a cloudburst. Let's hope it happens soon.

CONGRATULATIONS to Boyne City attorney Harvey Varnum on his appointment by Gov. William Milliken as judge of the 90th District.

At 59, Varnum has a long legal career under his belt, including many years as Charlevoix County prosecutor.

He brings to the bench a wealth of experience in legal matters which should stand him -- and the people of Charlevoix County -- in good stead.

The fact that so many top-notch attorneys had expressed an interest in the opening left by the resignation of Judge David Fershee didn't make the governor's job any easier. But we are convinced he made the right choice...

Letters: Soc. Sec., a good bill

One or the other

To the Editor:

The Carter administration determined that the social security system was insolvent as it was, and after thorough study, social security taxes were substantially increased. Social security participants were then assured that the system would be financially sound for the next fifty years.

When liberals charged, during the election campaign, that a Reagan administration would threaten the social security system, he supported a safety net for the poor. He also reminds the public of the modest financial circumstances of his youth. He does not remind people that he was as ardent a liberal when he was poor as he is a vocal conservative now that he has money.

Just a few months into the Reagan administration and we are informed that the social security system is on the verge of bankruptcy.

Either the Carter administration was completely incompetent or lying, or the Reagan administration is.

President Reagan promises that his economic policies will reduce unemployment and provide meaningful employment in the private sector yet the latest social security study assumed that unemployment would rise from 7.5 percent in 1981 to 9.7 percent in 1983.

We are told that social security was not intended to provide middle class incomes to retired people. In most cases they are poverty level incomes. We are told that social security pensions at sixty-two years of age is too young but a federal military pension before forty years of age is alright. Pensions in the executive and legislative branches of the federal government are luxurious compared to social security pensions, and they receive them if they need them or not, or if they deserve them or not.

I suggest that either all federal government pensions be abolished and everybody receive social security benefits or the social security pension be abolished and everybody receive federal pensions. Recipients should receive at least one sixth the pension the president receives or one third of the pension that the average legislator receives.

To the Editor:

A step that I think was in the right direction in protecting and creating jobs by relieving an unfair tax burden from business was taken when a bill that could save Michigan businesses $2 million or more a year won unanimous approval in the Michigan House of Representatives on the last day before the summer adjournment.

The measure would amend the general sales act by allowing retailers to claim a credit for sales tax paid on accounts written off as bad debts.

Businesses collect sales tax for the State on each item they sell and send it to the Treasury Department each month. Often it takes at least 30 days for a check to clear or a purchase on a credit card to go through. If the check is bad, or the credit is unworthy and the retailer has to write off the account as a bad debt he has no way of getting back the sales tax he has already sent to the state. The retailer has to swallow the cost, and depending on the purchase, it can present a real hardship.

Under this bill, the retailer could deduct the amount of sales tax paid on a bad debt from subsequent tax payments.

Safeguards were written into the measure allowing the Department of the Treasury to require proof of the bad debt before permitting the deduction and requiring the department to review the claims for accuracy.

If in the future the debt is ever made good, the retailer would of course have to remit the sales tax.

The measure was actively supported by our Representatives, Steve Andrews, Ralph Ostling and Charlie Varnum from this area.

It is a small step but significant in that it's a recognition of the unfairness of many of the anti-business laws passed in the past by an anti-business House of Representatives. Let's hope they continue this trend.

From basketball to the pulpit

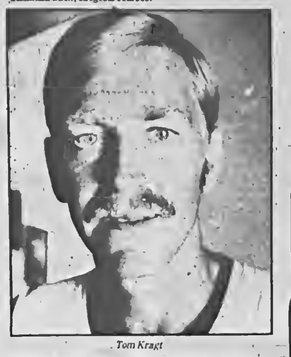
Seminary student Tom Kragt is assisting the minister of the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix this summer, and working with the church's "Super Summer Wednesday" program. This week the Courier talks with him about his past, present, and future.

COURIER: Where do you go to school?

KRAGT: I just finished my first year at Western Theological Seminary in Holland. It's run by the Reformed Church. The program is a three year program for a Master of Divinity degree.

COURIER: What kinds of subject matter do you study?

KRAGT: Hebrew, Greek, theology, counseling, church administration, exegesis courses.



Tom Kragt

COURIER: Where did you do your undergraduate work?

KRAGT: At Glen Arbor College.

COURIER: And you were an athlete there, weren't you?

KRAGT: Yes, I was an All-American basketball player. I averaged 28 points a game my senior year.

COURIER: What did you get for being an All-American?

KRAGT: A plaque and a handshake. It'll be nice to have.

COURIER: Did you ever consider playing professional basketball?

KRAGT: Well, I once talked to Will Robinson, head scout for the Pistons, but he told me not to worry about it. I guess I could have pursued European basketball, but I wanted to get on with my career.

COURIER: You probably played basketball in high school, too.

KRAGT: Yes, I played at Zeeland High School.

When did you decide that you wanted to enter the ministry?

KRAGT: I kind of always had being a minister in the back of my mind -- I thought about it more seriously toward the end of my college career. I also thought of coaching. If the situation is right, I might still coach in a sabbatical year or something.

COURIER: What kind of ministerial work do you want to perform?

KRAGT: I like pastoral ministry. I enjoy working with people and sharing their lives. Before entering the seminary, I was assistant pastor at the Free Methodist Church in Hillsdale.

COURIER: Do you think being an athlete helps you in your work with kids?

KRAGT: Yes, especially those leaning toward sports. Pastors are not always the most athletically inclined, so those kids aren't always reached by the church.

COURIER: Athletics and church work seem to have been well combined in your life.

KRAGT: Yes. Even in high school I was active in the church youth group.

COURIER: Are you able to participate much in sports now?

KRAGT: I play tennis and jog. I used to play golf -- had a four or five handicap -- but I gave that up. During the school year, I also officiate at basketball games.

COURIER: Do you have any special word for young athletes?

KRAGT: Just to give it your best shot because you only do it once.

COURIER: Are you married?

KRAGT: Yes, my wife, Carolyn, teaches fifth grade in the Christian school in Grand Haven.

COURIER: How long will you be in Charlevoix&

KRAGT: Until September first. Between now and then I'll be doing quite a bit of preaching because the pastor is going on vacation.

COURIER: And you like Charlevoix?

KRAGT: Oh, yes, this was the assignment I really wanted this summer. I had vacationed here before -- I was a fudgie.

Engagements

Long-Busick

Patricia M. Long of Lake Terrace Mobile Court in Charlevoix has announced the engagement of her daughter Linda Sue Long to Randall A. Busick of Utica, Michigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Busick of Eagle Grove, Iowa. An August 22, 1981 wedding is planned at the Norwood Methodist Church. HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS'S CHOICE
His Royal Highness Prince Charles of England made two interesting choices this year. First of all, he asked Lady Diana Spencer to be his bride. Then he selected a tradition-breaking engagement ring for her -- a large oval sapphire surrounded by 14 diamonds.
By selecting a colored gemstone for his lady fair, Prince Charles emphasized a trend that has been on the rise over the past few years. Many couples are now opting for a large colored stone as the focal point of their engagement ring. Some couples take this route because they want a large, fine stone and don't want to sacrifice quality. More flash for their cash, so to speak. In Prince Charles' case, though, money was obviously no object, since Lady Diana's ring is guessed to be worth about $63,000.
Another very appropriate choice for Lady Diana's engagement ring would have been a ruby. First of all, Lady Di was born in July, and ruby is the birthstone for that month. It is also known that Lady Diana is partial to the color red.
Many people find a colored gemstone with accent diamonds an exciting combination; others prefer the purity of diamonds alone. At least now people are feeling free to suit their own tastes rather than strictly following tradition.
If you're in the market for an engagement ring and would like to see all the different diamond and colored stone possibilities available, feel free to pay me a visit. I think you'll be pleased with the variety you have to choose from.

Senior LL team bows in tourney

Charlevoix's appearance in the Senior League Division of the Little League tournament held here Thursday was short lived as the team was blanked by Petoskey 6-0.

Petoskey went on to win the tournament and advance to regional play at Petoskey.

The Charlevoix team played an outstanding defensive game fro three and a half innings, holding the visitors scoreless until the bottom half of the fourth inning when Petoskey broke the game wide open, scoring one run in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Chris Putman, who allowed five hits end had six strikeouts, got the team's first hit in the fourth. Jeff Novotny had a single in the sixth.

East Jordan and Harbor Springs met in the second game Thursday with East Jordan taking the win 6-5.

In the finals on Sunday Petoskey edged North Emmet 3-1.

Scores for the other games in the tournament follow: Rogers City over Cheboygan 18-6 in Game 1; North Emmet over Tri-Rivers 5-4; Soo Area over Onaway 6-2; Gaylord over Grayling 6-3; Johannesburg over Boyne City 5-3; East Jordan over Harbor 6-5; Petoskey over Charlevoix 6-0; Johannesburg over Gaylord 5-4; Soo over Tabquamanon Feils 2-0; North Emmet over Rogers City 6-2; Petoskey over East Jordan 23-2; Petoskey over Soo 9-5; North Emmet over Johannesburg 3-2.

This marked the first time Charlevoix has hosted a Little League tournament. Dr. Don Trimper, Little League president, said the tournament went well and was well attended. He added that the success was due to the efforts of many who cooperated throughout the week.

Little League President Dr. Don Trimper presented Mrs. Joan Carlson of the Little League Auxiliary with a special token of appreciation last week for service to the league. Other Auxiliary members on hand included, from left, Marcia Trimper, Dr. Trimper, Mrs. Carlson, Marilyn Wilmot and Elaine Drury. The Auxiliary presently has 36 members and supports the Little League program by running concession stands at the games, holding luncheons and having a booth at the Venetian Festival.

Eastern Star to have Venetian booth

Plans to participate in the Venetian Festival by having a bolding and lemonade booth at the Mason St. entrance of the Masonic Temple on Saturday were made at a regular meeting of the Charlevoix Lodge No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star.

During the meeting attended by 34 members and three guests, Janada Rehkopf, Grand Committee member of Faith Committee, Grand Chapter O.E.S. of Michigan, Past Grand Officers Alice Bellinger, Mildred Hiller and Dorothea Kelley of Bay City and Ann Hufford, second vice president of the Meguzee Association were introduced.

A silent auction and social hour followed with Mrs. Vernon Bryant and Mrs. Ervin Racignol serving refreshments.

Mrs. Rabach retires after 36 years with Bell

by FRAN MARTIN

C. Marie Rabach will retire from the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., on August 13 after 36½ years of service.

A retirement dinner at the V.F.W. post home attended by Michigan Bell representatives, fellow workers, union officials, members of her family and other friends marked the milestone.

Mrs. Rabach, the former C. Marie Ikens, joined the company as a telephone operator on March 3, 1945, when the local office was located on the second floor of the former M.A. Levinson store at 215 Bridge St. Three years later she transferred to the business office on State St. a year after the building was constructed. When the business office was closed here, she transferred to the Petoskey business office and, in 1962, to the Bell Independent Department. Another lateral move within the company in 1968 took her to the Plant Engineering Department where she completed her years until retirement.

Mrs. Rabach has been active in the Telephone Pioneers, a social-service group whose membership is composed of employees with 18 years or more service with the company. In 1966 she was named president of the Petoskey Club and held an office continually from then until 1980. In 1981 she has served as president of Great Lakes Chapter No. 50 of which the Petoskey Club is a member.

For her work with the handicapped, she was presented with the 1979 Volunteer of the Year Award from the Michigan Special Olympics and received the 1979-80 Outstanding Community Service Award.

David Easlick, president of Michigan Bell, made the latter presentation in behalf of the company.

Jack Trarop of Walloon Lake was master of ceremonies at the program which followed the dinner. Jake Fisher of Cadillac presented the company gift; Carl Hitsman of Petoskey, the Union gift; Leeann Graham of Petoskey, the employees gift and Delores Pease of Charlevoix the memory book.

"An Ode to Clara Marie" was presented by her nephew, Norman Empey of Charlevoix as part of the program. Others who participated were Harry Mitchell and Fred Fettis.

Clement Olach of Charlevoix gave the invocation.

Members of her family who attended were her husband, Clarence F. Rabach; her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley (Madelyn) Harwood and their son and daughter, Stan II, and Carolyn of Indianapolis, Ind., her 96 year old mother, Mrs. Floyd Ikens; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McRae; her brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ikens of Vanderbilt and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Ikens and five nieces and nephews and their respective spouses.

Other guests attended from Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie, Holland, Royal Oak, Rochester, Grand Rapids, Port Huron, Higgins Lake, Traverse City, Vanderbilt and other cities in the immediate area.

The evening concluded with dancing to the music of the Four-Fiftb band of Charlevoix.

Three local musicians to perform unique pieces in concert

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

Premier performances for northern Michigan of two composers' works will be given by three Charlevoix professional musicians, Fran Tollas, Krista Knight and William Klimas.

The rarely performed Symphonic Choral for Organ, Violin and Soprano by German Composer Sigfrid Karg-Elert, will be the featured work, along with a first performance in the north, of two pieces by contemporary composer Flor Peeters.

The first concert will be Tuesday July 28 at 8:00 p.m., at the St. Francis Church in Petoskey. The second will be August 4 at 8:00 p.m. at Charlevoix's First Congregational Church.

Karg-Elert's Symphonic Choral is described as "romantic" by soprano Fran Tollas, although Karg-Elert who died in 1933 is also described as "inspired by Baroque music with impressionistic overtones."

"I think I hear a lot of Wagner in it," Mrs. Tollas said speaking of the work, which the trio has been rehearsing since the end of June.

Tollas and Klimas, organist, both heard the work performed in Ann Arbor several years ago and both then determined to someday perform it.

"The theme is built on a well-known choral tune," Tollas explained, which appears again and again, in the organ, the voice and violin, each using the idea in a variety of ways.

"Each instrument states the tune and the others play against it," she said.

"We wanted to perform this piece because we thought it was something others would performance from Grand Valley State College. She has lived in Charlevoix for twenty years and teaches voice in Charlevoix and Petoskey.

A student of Harold Haugh at the University of Michigan, Leslie Eitzen at Grand Valley and currently Kelly Haie at Bay View, Tollas has given recitals around northern Michigan and in Grand Rapids. She is the former choir director at Charlevoix's First Congregational Church and has performed in several oratorios locally including "The Seven Last Words," "The Messiah," and "Ahmal and the Night Visitors."

Violinist Krista Knight holds a Bachelors in Music Education from Lawrence Conservatory of Music in Appleton, Wisconsin. She has been Director of Strings and Orchestra for the Abington Public School District, Abington, Pennsylvania, Director of String and Orchestra for the Reedsburg, Wisconsin, School District, and is currently teaching Suzuki violin and fiddle in Charlevoix and Petoskey.

Organist Bill Klimas has just completed his Masters in Music from the Westminster Choir College in Princeton, New Jersey, with the assistance of a Harold E. Kohn Scholarship awarded by Charlevoix's First Congregational Church.

A native of Grand Rapids, Klimas spends his summers in Charlevoix. This fall he will take a position as Music Director at the First Unitarian Church of Philadelphia and with the Petty-Madden Organ Co. outside Philadelphia.

Klimas has given recitals throughout Michigan as well as New York. Twice he has been a finalist in the American Guild of Organists Regional Competition.

Klimas will open the concert with selections from works by Saint-Saens and Witiock. Then he will perform two Night Songs for Organ by Flor Peeters, another first for northern Michigan.

Tollas said the St. Francis Church was chosen for the first concert because "they have a fantastic organ and acoustics as well as being a very beautiful church."

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF SALE

$1,450,000.00
Charlevoix Public Schools
Counties of Charlevoix & Antrim
State of Michigan
Tax Anticipation Notes
(General Obligation Limited Tax)

SEALED BIDS for the purchase of tax anticipation notes of Charlevoix Public Schools, Counties of Charlevoix and Antrim, Michigan, of the par value of $1,450,000.00 will be received by the undersigned at the High School, Garfield Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, until 7:30 o'clock, P.M., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, on the 3rd day of August, 1981, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

NOTE DETAILS; INTEREST RATE; PAYING AGENT; AND DENOMINATIONS: The notes will be dated August 3, 1981, will mature March 31, 1982 and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 12% per annum. Both principal and interest will be payable at a bank or trust company located in the State of Michigan to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government, subject to the approval of the School District. Denominations and form of notes to be at the option of the purchaser. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such notes must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

PRIOR REDEMPTION: The notes shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity.

AWARD OF NOTES: For the purpose of awarding the notes the interest cost of each bid will be computed on a 360 day year basis by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from August 3, 1981 to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest dollar interest cost to the municipality. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

SECURITY: The loan is in anticipation of the operating portion of the School Tax for the fiscal year July 1, 1981 to June 30, 1982, which tax is due and payable December 1, 1981. The School District is required to establish a special fund to be used solely to pay the principal and interest on the notes when due, and to set aside in said fund an amount sufficient to repay the principal and interest on the notes when due. A portion of each dollar of taxes remaining to be collected for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1981 shall be set aside in an amount not less than 125% of the percentage that the principal amount of the notes bears to the amount of the taxes to be levied and to be collected for operating expenses, anticipated delinquency in collections being taken into account, until the amount so set aside is sufficient for the payment of the notes.

In addition, the notes will be a General Obligation of the School District and if tax collections are insufficient to pay the notes when due, the School District has pledged to use any and all other resources available for payment of said notes. The School District does not have the power to levy taxes for the payment of the notes in excess of its constitutional and statutory tax rate limit.

ADDITIONAL BORROWING: The School District reserves the right to issue additional notes of equal standing with the notes of this issue to meet current operating and payroll expenses.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned.

LEGAL OPINION; DELIVERY OF NOTES: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified approval of the purchaser's attorney approving the legality of the notes, to be secured at the purchaser's expense. The purchaser shall furnish notes ready for execution at his expense. Notes will be delivered at a place to be agreed upon with the purchaser.

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

ENVELOPES containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Notes"

Glider rides offered

The Northwest Soaring Club, headquartered in Frankfort, will be giving glider rides this Saturday and Sunday at the Charlevoix Airport.

The rides cost $22 per person to cover fuel and expenses and will take one passenger at a time up as far as 2,000 feet over Charlevoix for a bird's eye view of the Venetian Festival.

Those wishing further information can contact local club member Skip Heimbecker at 547-6972.

Official Notice

Hayes Township Board
July 6, 1981

Regular meeting called to order at 5:05 P.M.

All the Board Members were present for the meeting.

Clerk's report of the June, 1981 Regular Meeting was approved as read.

A Motion was approved by roll call vote of the Board to purchase a Paymaster Check Protector.

The Board discussed where brining was required on Twp. roads.

The Board discussed the public beach at the end of Eastern Ave. and commends the Pine Pi Association for the work they have done there to improve the beach.

A Motion was approved by roll call vote of the Board to pay the bills, total amount of $4,271.31

James Baker attended the meeting to protest the number of complaints against him requiring the investigation of the Hayes Township Zoning Administrator. He feels that he is being singled out unfairly. The Twp. Supervisor reported that the Zoning Administrator will report on this situation at the next Planning Commission Meeting and then to the Twp. Board at the next Regular Meeting in August

A Motion to adjourn the meeting was approved

Sandra Somerville
Hayes Twp. Clerk

Book tells of Hemingway's world

BY PEG OHLE

When an adult reads and thoroughly enjoys a book written for "young adults", it has to be a pretty good book – right?

We had this experience.

"It's a book about Ernest Hemingway and what he did one summer while he was vacationing on Walloon Lake", the book store clerk said.

As one who has been inundated with Hemingway lore since moving to Horton Bay, we had to buy the book. It was not a mistake.

"The Pathless Woods" is a fictional story, with a well-researched historical background, of Ernest Hemingway's vacation in northern Michigan in 1915, the sumimer he was 16 years old.

It is a typical story of a boy growing up – "noticing" a girl for the first time, balancing the thrill of shooting a wild animal with the reality of death, confronting the law, becoming his sister's protector. But it is a story gently told by one who not only understands him, but who obviously likes him.

Author Gloria Whelan knows author Ernest Hemingway well. She has read and studied most of his works as well as most of the many "about Hemingway" books. She lists several of both in her bibliography, such well-known volumes as Carlos Baker's "Ernest Hemingway: A Life Story", Ernest Hemingway's "The Nick Adams Stories", and Madelaine Hemingway Miller's "Ernie". The Charlevoix Courier is also part of the bibliography.

In a recent interview, Mrs. Whelan told us that she spent many hours in the basement of the Charlevoix library going through issues of the Charlevoix Courier for June through September, 1915 to get the feeling of Charlevoix County at that time.

The Courier was running a serial that summer about a wealthy orphan girl and all the ramifications of her complicated life. In "The Pathless Woods", both Ernest and his sister, Star, find the serial fascinating. Ernest also read in the Courier about a pair of Siamese twins who were being separated at Rochester, Minnesota, about a ring of deer poachers who were making a lot of money selling venison to restaurants in Detroit, and about the new German submarines that were playing such as important part in the war in Europe.

When the Courier ran a half-page ad for the operas "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Anthony and Cleopatra", which were to be performed in Charlevoix, Mrs. Hemingway decided to take her whole family. Star read aloud about "Costumes of Egypt", "Downfall of the Roman Empire", "Death of Cleopatra", and "Quaint Sicialian Village".

Many of the sites of Ernest Hemingway's experiences in "The Pathless Woods" can still be seen: "Windemere", the Hemingway family home at the end of Resort Pike Road on Walloon Lake; the fields and waters across the lake at the end of Sumner Road, once the family farm, where he camped and fished and hunted; Horton Creek, a favorite fishing stream; the general store at Horton Bay; the Dilworth Cottage at Horton Bay where he often visited; and the barn on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road (now the home of the Lake Charlevoix Antique Shop), where he took his 11-year-old sister, Star, to her first dance.

Any resident or visitor to the area who reads "The Pathless Woods" will find pleasure in seeking out the places mentioned in it.

Mrs. Whelan is no stranger to northern Michigan. She spent many summers on the Au Sable River and now lives in the woods on a lake east of Mancelona a mile and a half from her nearest neighbor. She is a frequent visitor to the Charlevoix and Petoskey areas. Her husband, Dr. Joseph L. Whelan, is a neurologist with offices in Petoskey who endures the 100-mile daily round trip to share the home in the woods with her. Since he is a native of the woods of northern Minnesota, it is apparently more than a fair trade for him.

"The Pathless Woods" is Mrs. Whelan's third book. Her novel, "A Clearing in the Forest", about oil drilling in the area near her home, brought her a Friends of American Writers award. Another novel, "A Time to Keep Silent", tells about a young girl who stops talking after having to leave her friends in the city and moving to the woods of northern Michigan.

The author grew up in the Detroit area and graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor's degree in English and philosophy and a master's degree in social work. She says her employment with the Child Guidance Clinic of the Detroit Department of Public Welfare provided background experience for "A Time to Keep Silent".

Mrs. Whelan keeps a regular schedule of work when she is writing. She writes from 8 a.m. to 12 noon, and for a couple of more hours later in the afternoon when time and need prescribe it. However, writing is not her whole life. She teaches a course in "The Wilderness Experience in American Literature" at the Au Sable Trails Environmental College near her home, bringing to life the works of such outdoor writers as Willa Cather, Henry David Thoreau, James Fenimore Cooper, and Annie Dillard.

It is not surprising, therefore, that she should become interested in Ernest Hemingway, for whom the outdoors was a home and a haven during his entire lifetime.

Most copies of "The Pathless Woods" will probably find their way to schools and libraries (two copies have been ordered for the Charlevoix Public Library), but many are available at local book stores. Parents who buy the book for their children will get a reading bonus for themselves.

Obituaries

ROSS A. McGEE

Funeral services for Sergeant Ross A. McGee, 22, U.S. Air Force, who died July 12 at his home here, were held Wednesday at St. Mary's Church. The U.S. Air Force Chaplain of Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda, officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Death was self-inflicted.

Born in Dayton, Ohio, April 1, 1959, Ross Alan McGee was graduated from Tecumseh (Ohio) High School in 1977 and joined the U.S. Air Force the same year. He had been stationed at Bay Shore with Detachment 61st C.E.G. for the past three years. On July 28, 1979, he was married to the former Karen M. Jackson.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Miles Clinton and Denver Alan, at home; his mother, Mrs. Bud (Melanie) Weinland of Hawkinsville, Ga.; a sister, Mrs. Micel (Sue) Sewell of Hawkinsville and two brothers, Bruce of Enon, Ohio, and Lance, also of Hawkinsville.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

ELEANOR RATIGAN

Mrs. William O. (Eleanor) Ratigan, 65, widely known author and writer, died July 15 at her winter home at Dunedin, Fla., after a lengthy illness. Cremation followed.

A memorial service will be held here at a later date.

Born in Denver, Colo., May 23, 1916, the former Eleanor Eldridge attended the University of Chattanooga (Tenn.) where she met Dr. Ratigan whom she married in Denver Sept. 12, 1935. They made their home in Denver where she conducted a classical music program over a local radio station. During World War II they lived on the West Coast where Dr. Ratigan was assigned by the news team of the National Broadcasting Company. It was here that she wrote "Deep Water", "Flame" and "Son of Flame" as well as numerous articles and stories for such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's and Vogue and for other publications. Mrs. Ratigan was listed in Who's Who Among American Authors. She was assistant librarian at the Charlevoix Public Library for 10 years prior to her retirement because of ill health. In recent years she had spent the winter months in the South.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Arthur A. (Patricia) Ranger of Charlevoix and Mrs. Anne Pelton of Delray, Fla., and nine grandchildred.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Public Library.

The family address in the south is 2186 Edythe Drive, Dunedin, Fla..

Births

A daughter, Ashley Allyn, was born to Mr and Mrs Delbert R. Terrill, II, of Vienna, Virginia, on July 10. Grandparents are Mrs. Julia Fiscina of Cornell, N. Y. and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Terrill, Sr. of Charlevoix.

There is a young setter named Lee
Who buys all his hats in Paree;
His poodle friends clamor
To copy his glamor,
Cause he's a trend-setter, you see!

"Ole Red" I said,
"Your finely bred.
What is that thing atop your head?"
He blinked his eye
With a quick reply,
"Sombero boy,
What smart dogs wear in Charlevoix."

I'm known as..."Cook Hand Canine" and that's something to bark about!
Signed, Pardner Bow Wow.

Aw Com'on, Play It again Sam

Houston, here I come!

Pardner Bow Wow says, "He who loves western dogs can't be all bad."

I ride the open range every day, but come to the Shorelines to rest & play.

Give me land, lots of land - in the north country.

And the winner is:

There once was a pooch in a hat,
Who knew where the action was at.
He said "Life is a dream,
Over field and stream,
But the most fun in life is a cat."

Thelma McGee

For winning first place in the contest, Mrs. McGee wins ten $10 gift certificates from participating Charlevoix area merchants. For a list of those merchants, check pages 6 and 7 of this week's Shorelines. Also, check the new photo to be named; you have less than three weeks to enter the second of three contests to be held this summer.

"Honey, dinner better be ready," said the man to his wife,
As he came in from tending the herd, which he had done most his life.
She leaned on a chair, and got herself well braced,
Then said to her husband,
"There's no need to get dog faced!"

I'm just in town for a mighty short stay.

I see you've been sorta lookin' my way.

You're a cute canine lassie.

Maybe even sorta classy.
Could we share a doggie dinner? Whatd'ya say?

Oh Where, Oh Where has my little dog gone
On this hot and humid day
With his hat on his head and his tongue hanging low
He's the coolest cat I know!

Cool little doggie in his floppy little hat
Wasn't that a party!

A dog in a hat and laughing, at that!

Aw shucks, Miss Kitty, I wouldn't say that

This here's just an ordinary hat.

But, if you think it attracts the girls.
I'll keep it atop my canine curls.

I am a dog from the west,
I do all thing with "canine finesse"
I am loyal and smart -
A dog that's all heart -
And my barking is rated the best!

Howdy folks,
My name is Pardner Bow Wow, and my expertise is barking and howling. You darn tootin' better believe that I fetch the newspaper to read those "lost dog columns". You see, I have empathy for those "poor pooches", for once I was a lost dog too. I'm proud to say, that some northwestern Michigan cowpoke read about me and then helped me "find myself". P.S. Arf Arf...Long live Newsprint!

There once was an Irish Setter
Who thought he should book better
So he donned a straw hat and thereby sat
That's why I'm writing this letter.

"Beautiful hair happens" with "The Added Touch"
They did mine, does the hat do much?
I wonder if Ben Franklin's has a or two.
Won't I look jaunty, how about you?

I once had a dog named Spot
Who knew how to keep cool when hot
Out with his tongoe - On with his hat
Did you ever see a dog smarter than that?

I'as jist sittin' here admirin' them new trees, officer.

Ya'll come back, you he're.

Seaway Chorale and Orchestra is looking for music written by state residents

You may not have composed "Girl of My Dreams" or "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi", hut two residents of Michigan did.

If you are a Michiganian and have written music adaptable for performance hy chorus and orchestra, whether pop tuoea or extended works, Seaway Chorale and Orchestra, Inc., of Trenton, Michigan, would like to hear from you.

"A Showcase of Michigan Music", to be performed in the spring of 1982, will consist of music composed aod-or arranged hy residents or former residents of Michigan. An applicatioo for partial funding of this project has been filed with Michigan Council for the Arts, which haa fuoded previoos concerts hy the group.

Programming of the material for this concert will take place in September of 1981. Therefore, it is important that response from composers be received immediately.

The Seaway Chorale and Orchestra was founded in 1975. its membership iociudes one-hoodred aeasoned singers and instrumentalists, many of whom are professiooal performers and mosic teachers. An outreach program of the organization is a chorus of thirty children called the Voices of the Young. Seaway has gained a wide following due to its versatile performance of popular through serious (oratorio) music.

The organization's main purpose is to stimulate and promote interest in music through the presentation of live concerts. Seaway's music has been heard hy maoy audiences in and around the Metropolitan Detroit Area, including the Repuhlican National Convention in 1980.

If you wish your music, published or unpublished, to be included for consideration with compositions being gathered as representative of Michigan music, please write or call Seaway Chorale and Orchestra, Inc., David M. Ward, Conductor, at 2450 Middlefield, Trenton, MI., 48183. Phone, (313) 676-2400.

Historic Beaver Island

Mail carriers were hardy bunch

At one time, during the winter months when Northern Lake Michigan waters turned to ice, two men would travel by horse and sleigh between Beaver island and Cross Village to deliver and pick up mail.

The adventurous undertakings of the mail carriers earned them a special place in the hearts of the Islanders.

According to Phil Gregg, who authored "Beaver Tales: The Mail Contracts" in the Journal of Beaver Island History, the average trip to Cross Village took the better part of a day - which included a stop at Hog Island to rest and feed the horses.

"Many trips were uneventful and pleasant, with many a good time in Cross Village before returning the next day," Gregg wrote. "There were occasions when the trip was left entirely up to the horse since the carrier had met so many friends the night before they merely covered themselves up in the sleigh and went to sleep, oftentimes not waking until the horse stopped at the post office in St. James."

One carrier, Dan Cornstalk, disregarded the horse and sleigh. On several occasions, Gregg said, he picked up the mail on Beaver Island and headed out on foot to Mackinaw City - returning the same day.

His endurance is still considered "unbelievable" by many of the history buffs on the Island.

Entries now being accepted for State Fair Grand Opening Parade

Entries are now being accepted for the Michigan State Fair's Grand Opening Parade in downtown Detroit on Thursday, August 27. The Fair Parade heralds the opening of Michigan's 133rd State Fair on August 28.

The nation's oldest state fair runs for 11 daya through Labor Day, September 7.

Entry categories iociude parade haods, floats, eqoestrian units, mobile units, marching units and baton corps. Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded to the best entries in each class.

"We expect the 1981 Grand Opening Parade to exceed last year's record turnout of more than 135 entries," said Harold Arnoldi, the Fair's supervisor of entertainment and specisi events. "Our goal is to make the 1981 parade the moat entertaining and the most diverse in the State Fair's history," he sdded.

In conjunction with the Fair's unveiling of "Agriculture's Amazing Acre" – a one-acre exhibit highlighting Michigan's agricultural products, more than 20 agriculture-oriented mobile display units will be added to this year's parade.

Entry forma and information are available hy writing Haroid Arnoldi, Michigan State Fair, Detroit 48203. The deadlioe for parade entries is Thursday, August 20.

Admission to the 1981 Michigan State Fair is $4, with children 11 and under admitted free when accompanied hy an adult. The State Fairgrounds is located on 8 Mile Road and Woodward in Detroit.

The State Fair is administered hy the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Michigan motorists continue to conserve; used less gas again last year

Michigan motorists are using less gasoline for the third straight year and consumption in the state is now at its lowest point since 1970, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Through April, state drivers used approximately 1.26 billion gallons of gasoline, or 9 percent below the same period in 1980," stated Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

This February was the first month since February 1970 that motorists used less than 300 million gallons of fuel, Auto Club pointed out.

"The drop in consumption is especially noteworthy since it is estimated that tourism in Michigan is up about 6 percent over last year," said Ratke, who added that Michigan tourism activity may eclipse record 1978 totals.

Last year, Michigan motorists cut gas consumption 10.7 percent from 1979. The reduction was the second highest in the nation. The District of Columbia posted a 15.7 percent drop in gasoline usage.

Gas prices nearly 10 percent higher than last year, more fuel-efficient cars on the road and the state's economic problems were cited by Auto Club as major reasons for the decline.

"Michigan motorists also should be lauded for their efforts to conserve gasoline," Ratke said. "Indications are that while vacation travel in the state is up, driving near home, where most mileage is accummulated, is down."

Through April, motorists in Michigan have driven 1.4 percent fewer miles than in the first four months of 1980.

Lake level down from last year but up from last month

According to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Detroit District, the elevation for Lakes Michigan-Huron at the end of June was about 4 inches (10 cm.) below what it was one year ago and about 3 inches (8 cm.) above one month ago. The end of June level of the two lakes was at 579.42 feet (176.61 meters) above the mean water level at Father Point, Quebec.

The June monthly mean level was about 9 inches (23 cm.) above the long-term average and about 19 inches (48 cm.) below the all-time monthly mean high for June, which was set in 1973, and about 41 inches (104 cm.) above the all-time low June monthly mean set in 1964.

For mariners, the end of June level was 31 inches (79 cm.) above chart datum.

The six-month forecast of levels for Lakes Michigan-Huron, as contained in the Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels (a free, on request, graphical presentation of lake levels past, present, and future), shows that the lakes are expected to be above the long-term average level during the next six months.

The forecast shows that at the end of July, Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about 1 inch (3 cm.) above what they were at the end of June. The lakes are expected to complete their seasonal rise in July. At the end of December 1981, the lakes are expected to be 1 inch (3 cm.) below what they were at the same time in 1980. The December mean would be above the long-term average for that month but 15 inches (38 cm.) below the all-time high mean for December, which was set in 1973.

Bits and Pieces

Beach and bathing suit weather has finally arrived. Ninety degrees plus has hit Northern Michigan with unusual July force and humidity.

While we year 'round residents suffer through the unusual heat, vacationers and resorters from southern climates have laughed at our low tolerance, but have suffered along with us.

Because of the unusually hot weather many shops have been deluged with requests for bathing suits and summer apparel long past the normal selling season. Lee Keller at Daisy L Fashions said just the other day, "Next year I'm ordering more swimsuits."

Summer Sales

Sales are beginning to pop up all over Charlevoix and Petoskey. Captains Kids in Charlevoix has started their summer apparel sale for children and Burnsides of Charlevoix starts this week. Country Casuals of Petoskey has also started their July Summer Sale.

Why do I mention these sales? Because now is a great time to purchase (at bargain prices) the few remaining pieces you need to fill in your summer wardrobe, or to start collecting blouses, skirts, shorts and pants for next summer or for your trip south later this year. Remember, however, if you are buying for next summer, don't buy fads or poorly made garments. Neither one will last the winter.

Underneath it All

One of the least discussed rites of passage is the purchase of underwear. Underwear is no longer an adequate description for the pretty frilly feminine garments, nor is it now the best description for "men's stuff". Lingerie seems to be a better term. Besides the prices, the real shocker is how much sexy stuff there is. According to one local retailer, there is actually a resurgence of "very feminine women who want their men to be attracted to them, and vice-versa." Thus, the garter belt, lacy camisoles and teddies, strapless lacy corsets are said to be a fantasy look. (You supply the fantasy).

Although the demand for structured bras (particularly underwires) may have slowed in these liberated times, the 80's will not see the end of foundation garments.

As for the men.. utilitarian is still the word for most retail sales but many of the younger men have decided that the bikini look is nice as well as comfortable and that white is no longer the only word in colors. Cherry red, emerald green, sea blue, lemon yellow and black are just a few of the variety of colors to choose from. "Nuff" said.

Royal Treatment from The Queen

by Dave Knight

For those Charlevoixians who have not yet tried it, a cruise on the Bay Queen is a treat that should not be postponed much longer.

Little has been spared to make this new local attraction an enjoyable experience in every respect. From the decor to the food to the excellent service, it is truly first class all the way.

Local residents can be excused for not herding down to the Bay Queen dock en masse when it started operating last month. So many stunningly beautiful vessels are constantly coming in and out of the harbor that the townspeople are pretty hard to impress.

Besides the tufting prow and extra wide beam, there was little in the way of outward appearance to draw much local attention to the Bay Queen at first. Despite its claims of elegance, the boat looked like a ferry to the people who associated with the Beaver Island Boat Company. After all, the only other vessels in the B.I.B.C. fleet are ferries.

It's a good bet that more people came downtown to take a close look at the square rigger. Welcome when she was being fitted than walked over to the Bay Queen.

But one must never judge a book by its cover nor a dinner boat by its hull.

This reporter got a first hand look at the Bay Queen operation during the Retail Merchants benefit cruise last week and came away duly impressed. Whatever elegance the boat lacks from the outside is more than made up for the minute one steps aboard.

Courtesy abounds among smartly uniformed crew members as they cheerfully welcome passengers aboard. The service never quits either as the cruise goes on.

The Bay Queen's salad bar may well be one of the best in the area, it starts with fresh, crispy leaves of spinach and lettuce, offers plenty of other garden fresh ingredients and ends with a bathtub-sized bed of shrimp on ice.

Only the aromas drifting from the main buffet table keeps one from hanging around the salad bar the rest of the evening.

For dinner, there are plenty of vegetables such as French cut green beans, baby carrots in butter sauce and seasoned mashed potatoes; hot dinner rolls; and entrees of stuffed fish, chicken and a huge roast beef sliced to individual taste by the chef.

And all this while traversing the serene waters of Lake Charlevoix as a disappearing sun paints a beautiful glow on the horizon.

When darkness falls and the dinner plates are removed, the band comes alive on the back deck. No smoky, sweaty dance floor, this. The cool evening breeze wafts freely as the stars wink above.

It is a perfect cap to a delightful evening.

Friends and neighbors boarded The Bay Queen last Friday for the Charlevoix retail merchants benefit cruise.

Summer flower gardens grace Charlevoix County homes

By Geri Santek

Although the brief summer in northern Michigan is subject to the whims of our notoriously fickle weather, area gardeners still manage to enjoy their favorite pastime, be it a humble patch or a landscaped showplace.

Naomi Morrison, a Chicago resident who has summered at Walloon Lake for the past 28 years maintains a three-tiered terraced garden that can easily be seen from the reaches of Walloon's West arm. Her garden is alive with the bright colors of delphinium, violets, poppies, shasta daisies, and dahlia's.

The secret of her success comes from careful planning and the help of her long-time friend and "gardening consultant", Ruth Schwartzfisher. Mrs. Schwartzfisher, owner of a nearby dairy farm, starts on the garden in early spring while Naomi is still in Chicago. The flower beds, hall annual and hall perrenials, are planted so that they bloom from early spring through late summer. Lilac's, iris and peonies arrive first followed by day lilies, salvia's, and nicotianas. Chrysanthemums bloom in late summer.

The terraces actually came about because the Morrison's yard was too steep to mow Mr. Schwartzfisher and the late Mr. Morrison brought stones from neighboring fields and built up the walls of the tiers. But this lovely garden is only to look at. Mrs. Morrison has a cutting garden which her husband planted for her because he didn't want her filling vases with his pride and joy. "He got very upset if I took his flowers" she says. The resulting cutting garden has snap dragons, daisies, yellow yarrow, zinnias, gladioli, and baby's breath; enough flowers to last Ruth and Naomi all summer long.

Some of their garden habits border on the whimsical. Every nook and cranny has a tiny flower garden, under a hidden window, in a concealed el, behind some shrubs. "You can look out almost any window and see flowers" explains Mrs Schwartzfisher.

Besides the tender loving care the women lavish on their gardens, they take an organic approach to bug control by planting herbs, Nasturium and Marigolds, all plants that bugs abhor. Their motto was given them by a writer friend, a piece of 15th century wisdom on pest control "If it moves slowly enough, step on it, if it doesn't, leave it-it'll probably kill something else."

Hank Felix of Charlevoix gives new meaning to the term "green thumb". His Lake Michigan home is full of roses inside and out. "I started growing roses because my wife loved them and I continued because I love beauty." Beautiful is an understatement with Mr. Felix' one hundred rose bushes in full bloom with over 25 different types of roses, from the pale lavender Blue Girl to the delicate white John F. Kennedy and all the hues in between.

"There are hundreds of different kinds of roses," he says, "and you can't keep up with them because new ones come out every year."

Twelve years ago Hank added a greenhouse for orchids and year-around gardening. "I wanted flowers in the winter too so I got the greenhouse," he adds. Begonia's, orchids, violets, and roses grow continuously under the controlled temperature of the greenhouse.

Delinitely a labor of love.

Hank Felix carefully watches over his plants, pruning old ones or replacing them, and watching out for bugs. "You have to be religious about spraying every 5-7 days and after every rain because aphids, mealy bugs, and red spiders can destroy a plant before you know it."

Hank shared some of his secrets for keeping cut flowers fresh longer. He suggests not cutting your flowers too early in the season so they will bloom fuller, and to cut your flowers at early morning or late afternoon when the sugar content is at its peak. Judging from the bouquets that fill his house, Felix is a gardener who knows his business. "It's a hobby I really enjoy."

BAYSIDE TRAVEL

It has sun and sand, perfect climate and unparalleled beaches--yet there is a lushness of foliage where wild orchards abound. The people are warm and friendly (English is their native language), and the U.S. dollar is the currency. This paradise is Hawaii.

It is a truly magnificent spot which we travel agents recommend without hesitation to those who are desiring the ultimate in a vacation destination.

During the past year, the only drawback concerning Hawaiian travel has been the rapidly rising cost of the air fare. Now the major airlines have announced a drastic reduction in Hawaiian fares. A round-trip, mid-week base fare from Chicago to Honolulu is now $520.00, and from Detroit to Honolulu, the round-trip, mid-week base fare is $599.00.

More good news concerning cost is that many of the Hawaiian land tour companies are offering reductions on land accommodations. Trade Winds, Inc., one of the largest tour companies in Hawaii, is offering a "Two for the Price of One" package.

If two people book on the same land package and lodge together in a double room, lodging and land package for one of the persons is absolutely free. This can provide a savings of up to $239.00 for a week's stay in paradise.

Once you have had the blessing of a visit to Hawaii, you will know that anytime is a wonderful time to visit this "heaven on earth."

But now, with the reduced air fares and the budget priced land packages available, it is the best time to make a dream come true. Now is the best time to travel to Hawaii.

Who will be Miss Charlevoix?

Competing for the title of Miss Charlevoix-Venetian Queen are, seated left to right, Janice Egler, Tami Noirot and Kim Jones; in back are Lori Niswander and Margaret "Jean" Hunebauch. These girls will participate Thursday evening at the high school gym in the annual pageant for which the theme this year is "Frontier Days" after Disneyworld's Frontierland. Judges for the pageant, which will include talent, bathing suit and gown competition, are Michael Harrington and Paul Keiswetter of Petoskey and Cindy Place of Boyne City. Jim Scollin, program director of WJML, will be Master of Ceremonies. Others involved include Marina LaBlance, musical introduction, Steve Stargardt, sound equipment and Georgia LaBlance, pageant chairman. On the Queen's committee are Tori Fisher, Linda Yaroch, Steve Hufford, Lois Hodgson, Pat Carland and Jacquie Merta. Also during the pageant will be plenty of entertainment and a farewell speech by Tami Helms, Miss Charlevoix 1980.

Six drum and bugle corps will compete Friday night

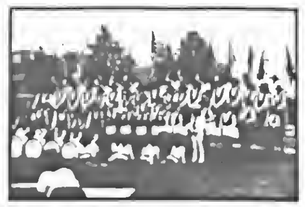
Drum and bugle corps competition highlights the action on Friday evening. Six corps will be participating in the competition at the Charlevoix High School football field.

This competition is sanctioned so the corps will be at their best to earn points toward a seasonal championship.

Starting time is 7:30 p.m. with admission costs at $2 for adults, $1 for children and $5 for a family. The show will go on, rain or shine. All six corps in the competition will stay over night in Charlevoix and march Saturday morning in the Grand Venetian Street Parade.

After the parade here, they will all pack up and head for Sault Ste. Marie for a parade later that day. Included in the groups appearing in Charlevoix are:

THE ROYALAIRES from Flint, Michigan has been organized as a competing corps since only this past January. The drum major, Paul Nelson, is the only member to have ever competed in a drum corps contest. The general manager is Russ Jones who is in his 34th year of corps work. He has a staff of 12 members which includes six high school band directors, most of whom have had drum corps experience. Two have marched with national champions Phantom Regiment and Madison Scouts.



The Northern Lights

The Royalaires' 1981 repertoire includes "Russian Easter Overture", "The Chase" drum solo, "Brass Raota for Concert", "Bird Land" and "Love the World Away".

THE BANDETTES is an all-girl drum and bugle corps from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario that was organized in 1963 by its present director Mary Wilson. They travel over 10,000 miles each year competing in parades and contests.

Drum majors are Jane Casola and Marion Mitchell. Colour Guard Captain is Sandra Freytag assisted by Margaret Casola. The corps has a total of 95 marching members between the ages of 12 and 21.

THE NORTHERN LIGHTS were organized in January, 1980 in Cleveland, Ohio and are now entering their second season of competition. They are sponsored by American Legion Post No. 469, F.F.W. Post No. 496, Lordburger Restaurants and the Venetian Boat Parade is most unique, colorful part of the festival

Venetian Weekend would be just another summer festival were it not for the boat parade that lights up Round Lake on Saturday night.

From rafts to Chris Crafts, this year's Venetian Boat Parade promises to be as gaudy and diverse as any in Charlevoix's history. It begins at 8:30 p.m. and can be viewed from almost anywhere along the Round Lake shoreline.

A new route and a new category have been incorporated into this year's parade by Chairman Dennis Heck. Boats participating this year will all proceed in the same direction counterclockwise around the lake, starboard to shore. All categories except the new children's one will assemble at assigned locations in Lake Charlevoix and be lead into Round Lake at the appropriate time by the Coast Guard patrol boat.

A new category opens the parade to youngsters this year. A "Junior Dinghy" class has been established for crafts under 12 feet long and participants under 14 years of age.

Boat parade organizers have requested that parents accompany any small children or children inexperienced in handling their boat. Entries in the Junior Dinghy class should gather in Round Lake just before the parade starting time near the Chamber of Commerce.

Next to line will be the "Classic Boats" category. Their mahogany decks and brass fittings polished to a shine, these designs of yesteryear are always a popular part of the parade. Entries for the Classic Boats category are to meet off Depot Beach in Lake Charlevoix closest to the railroad bridge.

They will be followed by the "Sailboats" division who are to meet just up Depot Beach from the Class Boats.

South of the railroad bridge, the next three classes will meet in their parade order. The first, "Small Boats", will assemble closest to the bridge with "Cruisers" and "Boats with Generators" behind them in respective order.

Judging will be done from the deck of the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite.

Any boaters wishing more information or application forms can contact Dennis Heck at Northwest Marine Charlevoix.

Fastpitch tourney to be held

The sixth annual Venetian Fastpitch Tournament will be sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department as part of the annual Venetian Festival Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has announced.

Two new teams will be appearing in the tournament for the first time, Coral Gables of East Lansing and Sara Bucher Realty of Eaton Rapids. Other teams returning to participate will be the 1980 champions, the Eagles of Petoskey, Travelers of Pontiac, Reef Petroleum and Sports World of Traverse City, RE-MAX, also of Petoskey, and Ferguson Surveying of Charlevoix.

The 10-team double elimination tourney will open at 6 p.m. Friday with the finals scheduled for 4 p.m. on Sunday. First and second place team trophies will be awarded with individual trophies going to the players on the championship team. Trophies will also be awarded to the Most Valuable Player, Outstanding Pitcher and Batter in the tournament Boss said.

Ferguson Surveyors and K.C's of Cheboygan will meet in the opening game at 6 p.m. Friday followed by Reef Patroleum and RE-MAX at 7:30 p.m.; Sports World and Spare Time Lanes at 9 p.m. and Eagles and Sara Bucher Realty in the nightcap at 10:30 p.m.

Action on Saturday will begin at 8:30 a.m. when Coral Gables of East Lansing takes on the winner of the Ferguson-K.C. game. At 10 a.m., the winner of the Eagles-Bucher game will meet the Travelers.

Games in the loser's bracket will be played at 11:30 a.m., 1:00, 2:30 and 4:00 p.m. before action returns to the winner's bracket with semi-finals scheduled for 5:30 and 7:00 p.m.

On Sunday games are scheduled for 8:30 and 10 a.m. in the loser's bracket; the finals in the winner's bracket at 11:30 a.m.; at 1:00 and 2:30 p.m. in the loser's bracket with the title being decided in a game set for 4:00 p.m. If Game 19 is necessary, it will be played at 5:30 p.m.

All games will be played at the city's softball park on Carpenter Ave. three blocks west of US 31 South.

NORTHWEST Marine inc. & BROKERAGE 547-4088

Problem: Trying to locate a boat slip year after year?

Solution: Northwest Marine Yacht Basin Condominiums ...

...an idea that has come of age. This unique concept revolutionizes boat docking and storage by guaranteeing boaters the security of a permanent waterfront boat space for a minimal monthly payment. This equity-building, real estate investment is a viable, economical alternative to paying rent year after year and owning nothing.

Northwest Marine Yacht Basin Condominiums are nestled in the natural splendor of Lake Charlevoix and have a natural access to Lake Michigan. This boating paradise provides an escape from the everyday bustle and crowds and yet it is conveniently located in Charlevoix. It will include a building complex with a three story atrium, offering diners at the third floor restaurant a magnificent view of the harbor and Lake Charlevoix. First floor businesses will include such shops as a delicatessen; bakery, party store and a boating supply store. An adjacent bath house facility will provide the clean, comfortable conveniences of home.

This spectacular development consists of two construction phases. The first phase includes sixty-six slips. Thirty-six slips will accommodate up to a 34 foot boat and thirty slips for boats 44 foot in length. The 34 foot slip is affordably priced at $16,500 and the 44 foot boat slip at $18,500. Special provisions for accommodating vessels larger than 44 foot may also be made in the second phase. Each slip is individually metered for both water and electricity to ensure the independence of each owner.

For your introduction to boating independence contact: Northwest Marine Inc. & Brockerage, 104 Michigan Ave., Charlevoix, (616) 547-4088 or Thomas Real Estate, 100 Pine River Lane, Charlevoix (616) 547-4494.

Mayoral primary race pits incumbent Supernaw against challengers Staley and Muma

Incumbent Mayor Sam Supernaw will face two opponents in the August 4 primary: Kenneth A. Staley and F. Earl Muma. The two candidates receiving the most votes will then appear on the November 3 general election ballot. Following are brief profiles of the three mayoral candidates.

SAMUEL C. SUPERNAW, 38, will be running for his fourth term as mayor. He is a native of Charlevoix and is presently occupied as a Certified Public Accountant.

Supernaw looks back at his tenure as mayor as a time of rapid growth in Charlevoix and he maintains that "controlled" growth is still important to the city's future.

"It's going to happen," he said, "Charlevoix is going to keep growing. It is our job to guide that growth the best way we can. It is important that we understand and preserve the uniqueness of Charlevoix in the process."

Severe economic pressures from local unemployment and a generally poor economy statewide have made municipal budgeting a difficult task over the past four years. Supernaw said that Charlevoix's current budgetary situation is just about as lean as possible.

"If we cut the budget any further, we will have to start cutting services and I don't think the people want that," he said.

The city's police department has been a recent topic of debate with some saying the Sheriff's Department could provide adequate protection for the city thus making a local department unneccessary. Supernaw disagrees.

"I think the people of Charlevoix definitely want their own police department," he said, "For a city this size, it is really neccessary."

Samuel C. Supernaw

On the job he has done so far, Supernaw said, "Charlevoix has progressed in an orderly and good fashion over the past four years. I'd like to continue that progress."

KENNETH A. STALEY, 58, is making his first run for the office of mayor after being involved for four years on the City Council, seven years on the Planning Commission and eight years on the County Board. He is a native of Charlevoix and runs Staley's Grocery Store.

Staley points to his extensive experience in local government as adequate qualifications for mayor. And after being on so many other boards and commissions, he thinks he knows how the mayor and council can better work together.

Kenneth A. Staley

"City Hall has not provided the council with enough information," he said. "People are not doing their homework and end up wasting too much time at the council meetings. It should be the mayor's job to run the meetings better by seeing that the council knows more about what is on the agenda each week."

Part of that job should also belong to the city manager, says Staley, thus making the upcoming choice of a new city manager very important. "The city manager and the mayor should work very closely. Picking someone with the right skills for the job will be crucial to Charlevoix."

Staley would like to see a balanced approach to improving the local economy. Light industry would be ideal, he said, for providing more jobs without harming the attraction of Charlevoix for tourists. "We should be careful not to put all our eggs in one basket," he said, stressing the importance of balance.

F. Earl Muma

F. EARL MUMA, 48, has been on the City Council for four years and in that time, he says, he has learned a lot about how to communicate with his constituency and act accordingly when important decisions are to be made. Muma is a native of East Jordan and moved to Charlevoix in 1932. He owns

Timms to face Whitley, Mason in Second Ward

In the Second Ward council race, Robert N. Timms is the incumbent. He faces former council member Ivan Whitley and political newcomer Hugh E. Mason on the Primary ballot Tuesday. Two of the three will survive to run in the November election.

ROBERT N. TIMMS, 47, carries seven years of experience on the City Council. He moved to the area from Detroit in 1946 and is presently occupied as a television and appliance repairman.

Timms is seeking re-election to continue some projects with which he has been closely involved while on the council. One area he is particularly concerned about is the street paving program.

"We have got to stay on top of the streets," he said, "Generally we have good streets compared to other cities our size but we can still do better. There are some on the southwest side of town, for example, that need work badly."

On the job the council has been doing over the past few years, Timms looks favorably. "I think the council has taken care of things pretty well. I have been proud of the job we have done. One thing that we might look into, however, is a long range plan for, maybe, five years down the road. Other cities do this and it makes their growth more orderly."

On the budget, Timms says it is very hard to resist spending when the numbers get so high they are meaningless. "We just have to continue to be prudent in all our spending, though," he said, "And try to keep a little tighter rein on things."

F. IVAN WHITLEY, 45, spent five years on the City Council from 1975 to 1980. Born and raised in Charlevoix, he operates a floor covering firm on W. Lincoln.

Whitley only left his Second Ward seat last December but enough has happened since to get him motivated to be on the council again. "The downtown tree project was one thing that got me really stirred up," he said referring to the recent planting of over 40 trees along the downtown sidewalks by the merchants' asacociation. "Every council up to now had turned it down."

What perturbs Whitley more than anything are the ability of special interest groups to persuade the council. "When these groups like the merchants press for their certain projects, it's just mob rule," he says.

As a self-proclaimed spokesman for "the little man", Whitley says he has developed a keen ear for the concerns of his constituency. "People still called me about everything, even after I left the council," he said, "I enjoy listening to them, though, and plan to keep doing it."

Whitley had a reputation while on the council of keeping a close eye on the budget and he plans to do just that if elected again. "We are spending too much," he says, "It is just that simple."

HUGH E. MASON, 35, sees it as every citizen's duty to get involved with local government at some time. That is one of the main reasons he entered the race for the Second Ward seat on the council; it is his first try for public office.

"A couple of years ago, Primary Election time came and nobody was on the ballot," said Mason, "I think that is

Third Ward draws four candidates

The most crowded race in Tuesday's Primary Election is in the Third Ward where four candidates are vying for the City Council seat being vacated by F. Earl Muma who is running for mayor. Among the four are former council member Joseph G. Morris, Planning Commission chairman David J. Strawbridge, and Theodore S. Felter and Barbara Ann Kane who are making their first attempts for city offices.

JOSEPH G. MORRIS, 59, is seeking to return to the City Council after an abscence of three years. Morris has kept in touch with local government in that time, however, through his involvement with the Planning Commission upon which he currently serves. A seasonal visitor to Charlevoix for over 50 years, Morris has now lived here year-round for ten years and is presently a realtor associate with Charlevoix Properties.

In comparing the city's situation when he last served on the council and that of today, Morris pointed to the charter form of government as having the most noticeable effect on how the council operates. "As the city and the council have become more accustomed to working with a city manager," he said, "the city has been run much better. Accounting, for instance, is much more sophisticated now but much more efficient."

A long and diverse background in both large and small business, says Morris, has given him invaluable expertise in such areas as cost and personnel management. And these, he points out, are two areas in which the city can improve.

A major concern of Morris' is the future of Charlevoix's tax base. "The amount of area in the city not currently on the tax rolls is hideous," he says citing the extensive parkland, airport, schools, churches and governmental facilities as examples. "I don't think people realize what it costs to provide beaches for people mostly from out of the city to enjoy and for the airport which really benefits only the handful of people who use it."

To ease the problem, Morris favors an aggressive effort to develop unused areas with businesses and light industries. "We should even go as far as providing prospective industries with the lot, the sewers and the utilities," says Morris.

DAVID J. STRAWBRIDGE, 36, thinks the time has come for Charlevoix to take drastic action to relieve its unemployment problem. As chairman of the Planning Commission for the past four years, Strawbridge has been closely involved with efforts to improve the local economy and was most recently a strong backer of a comprehensive plan, now being developed, to help create more jobs in the city.

A Sturgis native, Strawbridge opened a dental practice in Charlevoix eight years ago. The current campaign marks his first attempt at elective office.

"There is absolutely no excuse for unemployment over 15 percent in Charlevoix," says Strawbridge, "And there are things that we can do about it. People who want to live here should be able to find jobs." One of the first steps, he suggests, is to mount a more

It's Waterfront Art Fair time again as artists from around the nation converge on Charlevoix

Fine artists from around the United States will gather in Charlevoix August 8 to exhibit and sell their works, during the one-day Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair.

Now in its 22nd year, the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, one of the oldest such fairs in the country, has gained a national reputation for excellence, attracting collectors and gallery owners from around the country who come early on fair day to select among the water colors, oils, ceramics, weavings, photographs, sculptures, fine blown glass and jewelry.

The artists' works are laid out across the stepped terraces of the town's grassy waterfront park, which slopes down to its famous natural harbor and yacht basin in Round Lake.

Every year, close to 1,000 artists seek admission to the fair which is purposely limited to about 150 exhibitors in order to maintain its traditional high quality.

Some 40 to 50 artists are selected for invitations to exhibit each year, "because of the high quality of their work," explains art fair committee member Sally McNamara. These artists are chosen from among the previous year's exhibitors by committee members who critique each fair.

"They are chosen for the consistent quality of their work." These are people we know work very hard to upgrade their work, experiment with new colors, different approaches. These are the innovative artists whose work enhances the fair," McNamara said.

All other exhibitors are screened through an intensive jurying process covering several months in early spring.

Although there are no quotas designating the numbers of painters, jewelers, or weavers, McNamara observed that the jurying generally results in a balance.

"This year, people should be aware that we have an unusual number of fine jewelers," committee member Susy Reis commented during an interview.

Among the jewelers is Roland Brown from Sterling, Michigan, who has exhibited at the Charlevoix Art Fair for 21 consecutive years. A goldsmith, Brown brings with him a wide variety of semi-precious stones, for which he takes orders for individually designed settings to be created after the fair.

The variety of the art, the range of technique, and the array of colors across the park, makes the Charlevoix fair a spectacular visual experience.

The "primitive" water colors of Versa Cole, spread across the side of one of the park's small hills contrast with the vibrant dream-like collographs of Charlevoix artist Sue Bolt.

The realistic wildlife watercolors by Dietmar Krumey include commissions by Ducks Unlimited, while the work of wstercolorist Dee Knot, of Flushing, Michigan, a member of the American Watercolor Society, are more in the tradition of the Wyeth School.

Abstracts to landscapes, fine art photography to intricate woven wall hangings, the scope of the fair is broad.

A sampling of other exhibitors includes free form blown glass by Karnig Darbanian, bronze sculpture by Scott Nelles, elegant porcelain by Rex Fogt, "scherenschnitte" – scissor cut art – by Chuck O'Neal, creative jewelry by Linda Beers Aydlott.

Exhibitor Sally Evans' portraits have been commissioned by Ann Margret and Lola Falana. John Nartker's paintings and prints are in Vice President George Bush's collection, Steve French's watercolors are in such permanent collections as the Bacardi Collection, the Eastern Air Lines Collection, and the American Society of Fine Art Collection.

Attracting artists with national reputations, the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair also draws artists to the area as permanent residents, many of whom have opened studios locally. Almost all welcome visitors.

Judith and Norman Brumm, long time exhibitors at the fair, have studios just south of Charlevoix from which they sell their porcelain wildlife pieces nationwide. Russell Bolt's watercolors are in collections from California to Vermont, Norway to Israel. And Bonnie and Bill Staffel, who came to the Charlevoix Art Fair in 1960 with their fine porcelain and pottery, now operate a studio south of Charlevoix.

"This year's Waterfront Art Fair looks better than ever," says Susy Reis. "We are concentrating on building an intensely high quality show with an eye to 1983 when we will celebrate our 25th anniversary with a truly spectacular collection of fine contemporary art."

Applications for elderly housing now taken

Applications are now being accepted at the Charlevoix Housing Commission office in the Charlevoix City Hall for housing at the new Senior Citizens complex located on West Garfield Ave., Edwin Gregory, executive director, has announced.

Sixty-one units will be available as early as mid-September, Gregory said. Local residents who are interested in applying for an apartment are urged to submit their request at the earliest possible date.

Anyone with questions regarding the apartments are asked to call the Charlevoix Housing Commission office at 547-5451.

A new sign, unveiled recently, directs visitors to the community's popular Mt. McSauba Recreation Park located north of the city in Charlevoix Township. Mayor Sam Superstaw (third from left) and members of the city council were present for the unveiling of the sign designed and built under the direction of Mrs. Dale Boss (third from right). Pictured with the attractive sign marking the site of the park are (l to r) Robert Timms, James Brinker, City Manager, Mayor Superstaw, Mrs. Boss, Mrs. Shirley Roloff and Ray Wood, council persons.

New sign graces Mt. McSauba

by FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix's Mt. McSauba Recreation Park is now identified by a new sign calling attention to the park located on more than 50 acres of land bordered by Lake Michigan on the west.

The sign, designed and built under the direction of Mrs. Dale Boss, was unveiled recently for the Charlevoix City Council under whose direction the facility is operated. The sign is located off Mercer Blvd. and Pleasant Ave. and the new Mt. McSauba Road that was opened recently.

The park is the site of two major recreation feciities, the Mt. McSauba Ski resort and cross country skiing park, and the Mt. McSauba Day Camp which utilizes the property during the summer months.

The Day Camp, which is operated for seven weeks during July and August, is enjoying its most successful season with an average of 38 campers per day during each five-day session.

Operated under the supervision of Jack Gebott who is running the camp for its sixth season, the camp offers a full program of outdoor sports and a variety of learning experiences including one-overnight camp-out per week. The lodge on the property utilized as a ski lodge during the winter, is headquarters for the day camp. The large expanse of property lends itself to many sports including swimming, canoeing, riflry, archery and nature study. A variety of other studies such as drama, story telling and music are also included in the program.

The camp caters to children five through 12 years.

Counselors are John Grooters, Jan Bolser, Teresa Noiret and Tami Noiret.

The camp is operated under the Charlevoix Recreation Department headed by Dwight Boss as director.

Rifiry and archery are two of the most popular of sports at the Mt. McSauba Day Camp operated at the park. Here youngsters try their hand at target practice....with bow and arrow and with BB guns...under the guidance of camp counselors.

Knight on the Town

Now's the time

by Dave Knight

For all purposes, the 51st Venetian Weekend now behind us was a great one. Having only one previous experience to compare with, I'll rely on the old-timers' remarks that there were as many or more people in town for the festivities as in any years past.

Having obtained some insight on how one of these animals is put together by working with the organizing committee, I now have much greater respect for festival committees everywhere.

From figuring how six busloads of drummers and buglers can take showers all at once to getting a bunch of partying boaters in the right order for a parade, the logistics of mounting something like Venetian Festival are, in a word, staggering.

One order of business to take care of right away is evaluation; certainly you Venetian veterans have some comments or suggestions on how the festival was run this year. Please do not let them sit with the coffee klatsch or over the backyard fence. For the sake of future Venetian organizers, let the Chamber of Commerce know about your ideas while they are fresh in your mind.

This is the time to talk about improvements or changes; not next June or July.

For instance, how about stucturing the queen pageant so that individual businesses sponsor candidates? This is done quite successfully in palces like Gaylord and Alanson where they never have trouble getting candidates. The encouragement provided by the employers seems to be much more effective than asking the girls to step forward on their own.

It takes a heap of fortitude to enter a beauty pageant and a little moral support would sure make a difference. And wouldn't most merchants appreciate the publicity?

Let us or the Chamber of Commerce know about your suggestions for the 1982 Venetian Festival. Better yet, volunteer to help organize it.

a disgrace to the people of Charlevoix and I wanted to make sure it didn't happen again."

Mason, originally from Gaylord, has lived in Charlevoix for ten years and is a Certified Public Accountant. It is his background in accounting that Mason believes gives him some valuable expertise to bring to the council.

"I have done quite a bit of auditing for municipal clients so I think I can help the council out very much in this area," he said.

Though he has no specific projects in mind if he gets elected, Mason said that some of the things the council should be focusing on in the upcoming year include developing a good relationship with a new city manager and working to prevent further problems with the police department as arose earlier this year.

"Although I am not really a downtown merchant," added Mason, "I also think the council can do more to help the merchants out somewhat."

Clockwise

Closet carny

by Bob Clock

"I know what I want to do when I retire," I told Judy Saturday afternoon as we strolled through the carnival midway of Charlevoix's Venetian Festival.

"Let me guess," she answered. "You want to operate a booth at a carnival midway."

"How did you know?" I asked, somewhat abashed. "I've never even mentioned it before."

"You were down here twice last night after you came home from work," she answered. "This is your second or third trip down here today. You don't have to hit me over the head. You're hooked on carnivals."

"It's not just the carnivals," I explained. "They are a part of Americana that never changes. I probably went to my first carnival 50 years ago and it looked just like this one. The Ferris wheel. Belly-twisting rides. Cotton candy. Caramel corn. Impertinent young men in blue jeans and T-shirts hawking games of skill and chance. Stuffed animal prizes. Gaudy lights. Milling crowds. Happy smiles. Calliope music.

"They don't have a calliope," Judy observed. "The music is canned. I can't even tell where it's coming from."

"I don't care about the music," I said. "It's the atmosphere that matters. And I would like to do something to help preserve that atmosphere."

"Did you want to run away and join a circus when you were a kid?" Judy asked.

"No. Maybe that's why I want to run away and join a carnival now that I'm a senior citizen."

Judy didn't answer. But I had the distinct impression that if I want to run away and join a carnival, I have her permission. She will probably run away with me, which would make it even nicer.

ALL OF WHICH is to say I had a super time at the 1981 edition of Charlevoix's Venetian Festival and I hope you did, too.

Of course, Saturday morning's million-dollar rain almost washed out the street parade, but it ended just in time — after giving the old town a much needed scrubbing.

Furthermore, boat parades in the past have been better organized.

And I am told flaming debris from the fireworks caused something of a problem in the vicinity of the city dock.

But all in all, it was an excellent festival. It is difficult to estimate crowds spread out over such a big area as downtown Charlevoix. The usual police estimate for Bridge Street on Venetian Night is 25,000 — and I'd say we broke that wild guess by several thousand. Furthermore, the visitors seemed to arrive earlier. By suppertime, parking spaces were at a premium even as far away as 500 block of Dixon Avenue — meaning that many of our visitors had a smart hike ahead of them after they abandoned their cars.

I have no idea how many volunteer hours went into this year's Venetian Festival, but they must have numbered several thousand. And they were all well spent.

BACK TO THE million-dollar rain. Green is returning to our lawns after Saturday's downpour and gardens have never looked better. With any luck at all we'll have home-grown tomatoes by mid-August. It's not early enough — of course — but it's better than September.

Letters: Venetian thank-you's

To the Editor:

While walking through East Park Saturday afternoon a gentleman approached me and said, "Aren't the people of Charlevoix great?" He was referring to the overwhelming turnout for the Venetian Festival that day in spite of the threatening weather conditions. I, of course, echoed his remarks.

I'd like to take a moment, here, to go a bit further and besides thanking the people of Charlevoix, their friends and neighbors for the tremendous response to all of the Venetian activities, I'd like to thank those people who made this year's events possible.

A tip of the hat must go to Georgia LaBlance for the successful queen's pageant; Dave Fowler for the Drum and Bugle Corps Pageant; Crickett Uhrick who chaired the Dress Up and Doll Parade; Marina LaBisnce who put her first parade together; and Dennis Heck for the boat parade.

Special thanks also go to you, Dave, for the publicity and Jacquie Merta and Jim McGarry for pulling everything together to make this past weekend as successful as it was, along with Bob Harper who hosted the activities in East Park Saturday afternoon.

Residents of Charlevoix - permanent and seasonal alike - are most fortunate. Not many communities are blessed with people who will participate like those who did over this past weekend.

I know there are hundreds of other "thank-you's" to be made and they will be made personally.

and operates a service station business in Charlevoix and is a member of the 305th Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron of the Air Force Reserve at Selfridge AFB.

Muma is concerned most about the unemployment situation in Charlevoix and thinks the time has come for action. "People want work," he says, "But we can't provide steady, year-round jobs because we are too strictly geared to a tourist economy. We have got to entice industry to come in to provide the jobs we need. Employment is so much cheaper up here than downstate that we should be able to persuade industries to move into the area."

In light of the city's economic woes, Muma feels the city budget could still take some trimming. "I thought we could have cut more out of the budget this year but it's hard without letting important things go like the street program," he said. "Salaries are the biggest part of our costs; perhaps we should look closer at raising them so much each year."

"The most important thing, though," he emphasized, "Is to get this town back on steam and by that I mean jobs."

The program for this Wednesday evening's Concert in the Park by the Charlevoix City Band includes the following pieces: 76 Trombones by Wilson, Hall of Fame March by Olivadoti, Ambassador Overture by Scarmolin, The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise by Seitz, Dante Fantasy for Band by Morrissey, Brian's Song by Legrande, Coat of Arms by Kenny, Copa Cabana by Walters and Blue Skies by Berlin.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. with the band under the direction of Terry Isenbarger.

organized effort within city government. The high turnover rate in the city manager's position over the past years has resulted in a lack of any continuous programs to promote the city, claims Strawbridge.

"We need to find a city manager with a good financial background and the ability to seek out all the grant money available to the city," said Strawbridge. "And then we have to give him complete support and confidence."

Light, non-polluting, labor intensive industry is what the city should be looking for, he said. To protect the established shopping areas in the city, Strawbridge is also a strong advocate of planned development. For residential growth, he points to more planned unit development as the answer to housing needs saying that the "days of a single family dwelling for every family are coming to an end; we must look for alternatives."

"Most important to our local government right now, however," said Strawbridge, "is stability. We need a direction and a common focus."

BARBARA ANN KANE, 38, got interested enough by going to City Council meetings to decide to get into the action herself. This is her first experience in seeking public office. Mrs. Kane is a housewife and has lived in Charlevoix all her life.

"I just enjoy going to the meetings," she said when asked why she entered the race, "I like to know what the City Council is doing and I think it is important that people take an interest in their city government."

Her main involvement with City Hall in recent years has been through such neighborhood concerns such as getting street lights along Ferry Ave. where she lives. "We kept asking them for street lights but so far we only have one and it gets pretty dark down here at night."

THEODORE S. FELTER, 33, is another newcomer to the local political scene having been persuaded by neighbors to enter the race for the Third Ward seat. Felter is an electrician at the Medusa Cement Company plant and has lived in Charlevoix for ten years; he is originally from Mt. Pleasant.

AS a taxpayer, Felter feels that municipal spending has got to be watched more closely. He is particularly concerned about the number of studies authorized by the council in recent years. "They always seem to be paying for studies," said Felter, "But once they vote on them, we never hear about these studies again. If we are going to do so many studies, I think we should follow up on them better."

He claims the money would be better spent in such areas as street improvement. "People would rather see their tax dollars go toward something that they can see; something that will make their neighborhood a nicer place to live."

Felter also agrees that the city needs more light industry to provide jobs. He sees no problem with developing such industry in areas where it can be screened so as not to detract from Charlevoix's natural beauty. He added, however, that efforts should be made to bring in industry only if the jobs created are made available to local residents. "If a business or industry moves up here and brings all their own people," said Felter, "It won't solve our unemployment problem at all."

Windpower comes to Clipperview

The skyline of the Clipperview neighborhood of Norwood Township has a new look following the erection recently of a wind-powered generator at the home of Dr. Gerald Hennessy of Flint. The structure stands 67 feet tall from the ground to the top of the blade and was installed by Great Lakes Energy Systems of Boyne City. At left, a Great Lakes employee is shown bolting the generator, manufactured by Enertech of Vermont, to the top of the tower which stands on a base of 77 tons of cement. Hennessy is shown above right with Phil Armstrong of Great Lakes as the assembly is prepared to be raised. Hennessy, whose home is all electric, expects to produce approximately half the electric power he needs from the wind generator. It's AC synchronous system feeds power directly to the load center of the house.

County Transit System will mark first year with free rides

The Charlevoix County Transit System is celebrating its first anniversary this week.

To commemorate the occasion, the Transit System will offer free local rides within the city limits of Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, July 29, 30, and 31 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

"This is a bonus for our regular riders and an invitation to new riders," says to Art Saworski, who manages the System.

"If they've never tried Charlevoix County Transit, it will cost them nothing to check us out and discover what has been going on for the past 12 months. Please give us a call at least 30 minutes before pickup is requested.

The dispatch number is 582-6900 and can be reached between the hours of 5:30 am. and 6:30 p.m.," Saworski suggests.

Buses for the free local rides can also be boarded without contacting the dispatcher first during the above days at Oleson's Shopping Center and the Captain's Corner Shopping Center.

Oriental ceramics exhibit slated for art center

The mystique and charm of the Orient comes to this area Friday as the Detroit Institute of the Arts statewide services traveling exhibition program presents "Oriental Ceramics for the Collection of Justice and Mrs. G. Mennen Williams" at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey.

Louise Herlocher, executive director of the Crooked Tree Arts Council presenting the show, says the exhibition will be on view from Friday, July 31 through Tuesday, September 1. Show hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

Artworks in the show feature items collected by Justice and Mrs. Williams while he was serving as the U.S. Ambassador to the Phillipines.

Chinese, Vietnamese and Thai wares from the 14th through 17th centuries provide a look at the delicate art associated with the Orient.

Visitors to the show will see bowls, plates, wine jars, water droppers and a ceramic elephant.

Ferris State College's newly formed Recreation Administration Advisory Committee, designed to advise the recreation administration program within the School of Education and Learning Resources at Ferris, held its initial meeting recently on the FSC campus. Committee members included, back row, left to right, Mike Davis, youth coordistor for Charlevoix County; Robert Lockhart of Cadillac, and Leonard Torrence of Muskegon; in the front row are Garth McHattie of Ferris State, Gertrude Cross of Flint and Marilyn Clark of Ferris State.

Four receive annual Bob Miles Award at luncheon

by PEG OHLE

Four members of the Charlevoix Historical Society were honored with the Bob Miles Award at the Society's annual Heritage Day luncheon last week.

The award is given by the Society each year to the person or persons who have contributed in some special way toward preserving the history of the Charlevoix area.

Those honored this year were Hilda Gibson, Society membership chairman; Mary Margaret Gelken, Society secretary; Robert Morgridge, member of the Society's board who recently published a book about the history of Boyne City; and Weldon W. Price, the Society's retiring president. All are residents of Charlevoix.

Louise Gill welcomed the members to the Harsha House (where the luncheon was held). She is a granddaughter of the late Horace S. Harsha, the original owner of the Harsha House, which is now the home of the Charlevoix Historical Society and its museum. Horace Harsha's granddaughter, Ann Harsha, Mrs. Gill's cousin, willed the house to the Historical Society in 1973.

Leonard Burns, a pioneer resident of Oyster Bay and a retired school teacher, was speaker of the day. He retraced much of Charlevoix' early history and gave his listeners a classroom quiz on dates of historical interest in Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix Historical Society is over 100 years old. Since acquiring the Harsha House, an addition has been made to the building to serve as museum space, and interior work is being completed as money becomes available. Funds for this work come from sales of the picture history of Charlevoix, "Bob Miles' Charlevoix - a Century in Pictures". The book is available at the Literary News Center, Rexall Drug Store, and the Shop of the Gulls.

Marilyn Boss will serve as president of the Historical Society during the next year. She will be assisted by Robert Morgridge, first vice-president; Robert Miles, second vice-president; Mary Margaret Gelken, secretary; Ralph Hamilton, treasurer; Hilda Gibson, membership chairman; and Bonona Kohler, Dale Boss, Frieda Stewart, Myrtle Fulton, Lou Orlowski, and Dorothy Lewand, board members.

Eighteen year-old Tami Noirot, daughter of Alva and Evelyn Noirot of Charlevoix, was named Miss Charlevoix 1981 Thursday night at the annual Venetian Festival pageant. Tami is shown in the photo at the left being crowned by Tami Helms, Miss Charlevoix 1980; at the left is Janice Egler who was named Miss Congeniality for the pageant and at the right is Lori Niswander, runner-up for the title. All five contestants were featured in a Western dance number choreographed by Lois Hodgson and Pat Carland. Shown above from left to right are Tami Noirot, Jean Himebauch, Kim Jones, Janice Egler and Lori Niswander. For her talent competition, Lori presented a skit putting her in the role of a little girl about to get a new baby brother or sister; she is shown in the photo to the right with an impish expression. Chairman of the pageant was Georgia LaBlance and Master of Ceremonies was Jim Scollin.

Christine Davenport and Michael Way

Engagements

Davenport - Way

Mr. and Mrs. Deano Davenport of Charlevoix are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Christine Jane, to Michael David Way. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Way, also of Charlevoix.

The couple will be married on August 15 at the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix.

The bride-elect is a 1975 graduate of Big Rapids High School and a 1980 graduate of Central Michigan University, with a bachelor of science degree in education. This fall she will begin teaching physical education and coaching volley ball at Michigan Technological University, where her fiance is studying electrical engineering. He is a 1977 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Weathervane is cited for safety

The Weathervane Terrace Hotel has been awarded a certificate of merit in the annual safety awards program conducted by the American Hotel & Motel Association. The certificate recognized that the Weathervane Terrace Hotel had no reportable injuries to employees during 1980.

Aim of the Safety Awards Program is to minimize accidents in hotels and motels by making management and employees more safety-conscious, according to Bill Cox, chairman of the hotel association's security committee.

Pettis - Bagaglia

The engagement of Susan K. Pettis to Alfred A. Bagaglia is being announced by her mother, Mrs. Viola M. Pettis of Charlevoix.

Parents of the future bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bagaglia of North Providence, Rhode Island.

The bride-to-be is a 1972 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a 1975 graduate of the Blodgett Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Grand Rapids. She is presently employed by the Charlevoix Area Hospital as afternoon nursing supervisor.

Mr. Bagaglia is a 1972 graduate of North Providence High School and a 1976 graduate of Bryant College in Smithfield, Rhode Island. He is controller for Harbor Industries North.

A fall wedding in Charlevoix is being planned.

Childrens House parents to meet

Parents of children aged two-and-a-half to six who are interested in a nursery school are invited to attend an informational meeting about the Children's House on Wednesday evening, July 29, at 7 p.m. in the Charlevoix Public Library.

Teachers will be on hand to explain the philosophy and program of the Children's House and to answer any questions that parents might have.

Heather Woods, who is experienced in the nursery school field, has accepted the job of Directress of the Children's House.

Ms. Woods is a 1974 graduate of the University of Michigan and has completed half the number of hours required for a master's degree in education from the University. She is certified to teach kindergarten through eighth grade.

Her studies have emphasized early childhood education and development, and she holds a Montessori certificate from the West Bloomfield Montesorri School.

Ms. Wood's teaching experience includes classes in early learning and child development at the University of Michigan Dearborn campus, substitute work in the Wayne and Oakland County schools, classroom teacher in Romulus, and substitute work in Petoskey since moving to the Deer Lake area.

In addition to Ms. Woods, the school staff will include Lily Donaldson as administrative assistant and Kay Beatty and Cindy Streur as aides.

NMH to offer Nurse Refresher program

Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey will offer a Nurse Refresher program during September and October for registered nurses who have been out of an acute care setting for five or more years.

The ten-week course will consist of weekday sessions that, upon completion, will have participants ready for re-entry into the nursing field. Sessions will be Tuesday through Friday with eight weeks scheduled for between 7 A.M. and 3:30 P.M. and the other two weeks of experience scheduled for the hospital's afternoon and evening shifts.

The course meets the Michigan Board of Licensure's guidelines for re-entry programs and will include both classroom and clinical experience.

The intent of the program is to bring area RN's who have been away from nursing back into their professional field and help ease a growing national shortage of qualified nurses.

"We've had numerous inquiries from nurses wanting to know how they can re-enter the nursing field," said Judy Brink, associate director of nursing at Northern Michigan Hospitals.

FIERY GEM OF PASSION

Different colors seem to correspond with various feelings and emotions. Blue, for instance, is a calm, cool color, and a blue environment tends to have a calming effect. Black is a stately, somber color, which has been associated with mourning, and, to a lesser extreme, with dignity. Red, on the other hand, calls up all the fiery passions within us.

Red has come to signify warmth and love. That's why it's tied in with the spirit of Christmas and the celebration of Valentine's Day. That's also why the fiery red ruby is such a favorite gift for these occasions. It is also the birthstone for those born during the hot summer sweats of July.

Because of the connotations ruby carries with it, the romantic at heart often choose ruby gifts for their loved ones. Some choose ruby to express their own strong feelings. Others, however, choose them in an attempt to arouse feelings of passion in the person of their affections. Now that colored stones have found acceptance in engagement rings, rubies are a popular choice for the center stone.

Rubies can be found in many delicate romantic jewelry styles. When combined with a heart motif, they are especially significant. They often float in ethereal settings in the company of diamonds. And they're as popular in men's jewelry as they are in women's pieces.

Rubies are one of my favorite gemstones. There is nothing like a ruby with truly fine color. If you would like to see some fine examples of ruby, visit our store. I think you'll find this gemstone will work its love charms on you as it has on me.

Weddings

Drost - Filkins

Kelly Jo Drost of Charlevoix became the bride of Michael William Filkins of Grawn at a double-ring service solemnized at the Assembly of God Church, Saturday afternoon, July 18.

The Reverend Fred C. Spring officiated at the service before an altar graced with arrangements of white mums and baby's breath and lighted candelabra. Mrs. Dawson Way at the organ and Steven Stargardt at the piano played a program of traditional music and accompanied the soloists, Mrs. Robert Klooster and Vincent Chew.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Patricia Drost and Jerry L. Drost of Charlevoix, Mrs. Jane C. Filkins of Falls Church, Va., and Capt. William C. Filkins of Arlington, Va.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride selected a gown of sheer polyester organza over acetate taffeta for her wedding. Fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and sheer lace bishop sleeves, the bodice and A-line skirt that ended in a chapel length train were accented with lace appliques and simulated pearls. A lace-trimmed headpiece secured her chapel-length train. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white carnations and baby's breath.

Pamela Lamoreaux served as maid of honor and her sister, Treasure Drost, Susan Filkins of Cleveland, sister of the bridegroom, and Cathy Spence, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of blue pleated polyester and carried white New Testaments topped with a single white rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Filkins

Charity Love Bradley, cousin of the bride, as flower girl wore a white polyester gown with blue accents.

Robert Henthorn of Interlochen assisted the bridegroom as best man. Robert Betts III and Peter Filkins, brother of the bridegroom, both of Falls Church, Va., Paul Bradley, and Daniel Drost, brother of the bride, were groomsmen.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed at the church hall. Mr. and Mrs. Joel Evans of East Jordan were master and mistress of ceremonies. Assisting were Mrs. Michael Bonar and Mrs. Melvin Plum. Mrs. Plum made the wedding cake and presented it to the couple as a gift.

After a wedding trip to Cedar Point, Ohio, the couple will be at home at 8084 US-31 South, Grawn.

The bride is a cosmetologist and the bridegroom is an evangelist.

Flower - Hoig

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoig

Lisa Ann Flower became the bride of Richard Hoig on Saturday evening, July 18, at the Charlevoix Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Flower of Charlevoix, and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hoig of Pellston.

Approximately 200 guests witnessed the double-ring candlelight ceremony performed by the Reverend David Yingling.

The bride approached the daisy-covered altar on the arm of her father in a traditional wedding gown of Chantilace with Princess Ann neckline, full Bishop sleeves, and tiered ruffled skirt that swept to a cathedral train. Her mantilla of bridal illusion was edged with re-embroidered lace and she carried a cascade-style bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Kim Schnackenberg attended the bride as maid of honor, and Lori Flower, Connie Left, and Sherry Selissen were the bridesmaids. Their gowns were of embroidered Chantilace, fashioned with scoop necklines, ruffled bemlines, and pick-up bustle backs. The maid of honor's gown was blue and she carried a bouquet of blue-tinted spider chrysanthemums and white daisies. The bridesmaids' gowns were yellow and they carried bouqueta of yellow spider chrysanthemums and white daisies.

Christy Empey served as flower girl. Her yellow gown was similar to those of the other attendants, and she carried an umbrella basket filled with a daisy bouquet.

Henry Heusing served the bridegroom as best man, and Tim Selph, Richard Schaefer, and Neil Flower, the bride's brother, were groomsmen.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Sally Saunders, who played traditional wedding music, and Lori Flower, the bride's sister, who sang "The Wedding Song".

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Flower chose a dusty rose sleeveless gown fashioned with a V-neck, empire waist, chiffon overlay, and a beaded band around the midriff. Mrs. Hoig wore a short-sleeved gown of blue print with lace and ribbon accents and two rows of lace on the skirt.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception in the Charlevoix American Legion Hall, assisted by Norman and Kay Empey. Tammy Mallory, the bridegroom's sister, tended the guest book, and Mary Vacek, the bride's great aunt, served the cake.

The rehearsal dinner, on Friday evening, was held at the Pizza Hut, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Guests from several southern Michigan cities attended the ceremony.

Following a camping trip to Cedar Point, Ohio, the newlyweds are at home on Walloon Lake. The bridegroom is a deputy sheriff with the Emmet County Sheriff's Department, and the bride is a manager of the dining area at Ellas Brothers Restaurant in Petoskey. Both are certified divers.

Historical Society to meet Tuesday

The Charlevoix Historical Society will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, August 4, in the Harsha House headquarters at 103 State Street.

Program of the evening will be a talk by Bob Emery of Glendale, Calif., who will tell about his family in the early days of Charlevoix. Before moving to California, Bob Emery was at one time City Clerk of Charlevoix. His father, Charles Emery, had a clothing store on Bridge Street in the building now occupied by Colwell Realty. His grandfather, Rome Emery, was in charge of the local express office.

All who are interested in the history of Charlevoix are invited to attend Society meetings and to share with others information about historical events and to exhibit items of historical interest.

Individuals and organizations are invited to assist in the development of museum exhibits which will further the objectives of the Historical Society in telling the Charlevoix story.

Pearsall named Zone 4 commander

Harry Pearsall, a 36-year member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, was selected as the American Legion's Fourth Zone Commander for the year 1981-82. His new office was confirmed at the annual state organizational convention held at Dearborn.

In the new office he and four other zone commanders will be responsible for large geographic areas of the state. Pearsall's territory is north of a line from Midland to Muskegon to the Straits of Mackinac. These officers travel their respective areas working directly with local American Legion posts and district committeemen. Each zone commander will serve as a liaison between his area and the State Commander.

Pearsall, a three year veteran in the U.S. Army during World War II, is a past commander of Post No. 226 and has served as District Committeeman in the Lower 11th District as well as in various state offices prior to his appointment as zone commander.

His wife, Betty, is a member of the Auxiliary of the local post. Both are also active in Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the D.A.V. They have two grown children, a son and a daughter, and several grandchildren.

The American Legion, which is presently observing its sixty-second year, is recognized as the largest organization chartered by the U.S. Congress working in behalf of veterans and their dependents. Michigan's membership is nearly 75,000 of the nation's total of 3.0 million members who represent WW I and II, and the Korean Conflict and the action in Vietnam.

Series E bonds purchased between May 1941 and April 1952 are now beginning to reach final maturity. As the bonds mature all interest earned will be subject to taxes, whether or not the bonds are cashed in, Ronald Geer, Charlevoix County Veterans Counselor advises.

The paying of taxes can be deferred by trading in the E Bonds on new EH Bonds which have a life of 10 years. The option is available for up to one year after final date of maturity of the Series E bonds.

Sports World takes fastpitch tournament title

Sports World out of Traverse City, a regular under one name or another in the Venetian Fastpitch tournament, won the event here Sunday, defeating RE-MAX of Petoskey 6-1 in the finals at the Carpenter Ave. field.

In the first meeting between the two teams, Sports World sent RE-MAX into the loser's bracket by a score of 3-1 in the semi-finals earlier in the day. In this game Norm Norris had given up four hits while Del Fordt had allowed three.

In the finals Norris gave up eight but RE-MAX was unable to take advantage of the hits and managed only one run. Sports World collected seven hits off Fordt including homeruns by Dick LaFever and Wayne Klicherman.

RE-MAX had defeated the Knights of Columbus of Cheboygan 7-3 in the finals in the loser's bracket to go against the champions. Dick Bare was on the mound in this game. Earl Wright was the losing pitcher. Bare allowed five hits while Bare give up five. Gary Hice and Jerry Donnelly each had homers that helped win the game for the Petoskey team.

LaFever of Sports World received the Most Valuable Player award. Ron Brandeau of Cheboygan's KC team won the batting honors and Norris of Sports World received the pitcher's trophy.

Dwight Boss presented the championship trophy and individual trophies to Sports World and the runner-up trophy to the RE-MAX team.

Enroute to the title, Sports World had defeated Spare Time Lanes of Cheboygan 5-0 in their first game; Petoskey Eagles 3-2 and RE-MAX 3-1 in their first meeting.

In their first game Friday night, RE-MAX edged Reef Petroleum of Traverse City 4-2 and Cheboygan KC's 5-4 before being toppled into the loser's bracket by the Traverse City squad.

In other games, Cheboygan KC's trounced Ferguson Surveyors of Charlevoix 11-1; Petoskey Eagles shut out Sara Bucher of Eaton Rapids 1-0; Cheboygan KC's defeated Coral Gables of East Lansing 2-1; Petskey Eagles dumped the Travelers of Pontiac 8-2.

In the loser's bracket, Ferguson's defeated Reef Petroleum 4-1; Spare Time Lanes eliminated Sara Bucher Realty 3-1; Travelers ousted Ferguson's 7-1; Spare Time Lanes sent Coral Gables out of the tournament by a score of 7-1; Petoskey Eagles defeated Travelers 4-1; Cheboygan KC's took Spare Time Lanes 3-1 before going on to defeat the Petoskey Eagles 7-2. The KC's then fell victim to RE-MAX 7-3 in the finals in the loser's bracket.

This marked the second time Sports World has won the Venetian Fastpitch tournament. In 1979 they took the title as The Office team out of Traverse City.

ANNOUNCES
THE MOST EFFICIENT NEW HEATING SYSTEM BREAKTHROUGH IN YEARS.

At last, there's a more efficient, more economical way to heat electrically. And it's now available locally — the Sun-Twin Heating System. Most versatile system available. Heat your whole house or business. Use a single unit to warm up the basement or room addition.

Easier, less expensive to install. No duct work, no special 240V wiring, chimney, or piping needed. Easily installed in an closet, in the attic, or as a movable unit in an attractive cabinet.

Zone-controlled for economy. Individually controlled units provide heat only where and when it's needed.

Extremely energy efficient. Tests show: More environmental heat using less power.

More comfortable, even heat. Heat not wasted near the ceiling as with conventional systems. More comfort at floor level with lower heat settings.

Virtually maintenance-free. No burners, pilot light, or main heating element. Assures long, trouble-free service.

Kurt Thomas performs the "Thomas Flair" in which he turns in a whirling motion with his legs doing a rapid scissor kick.

Thomas to appear in exhibition

Had the United States participated in the 1980 Olympic Games, perhaps the biggest star may have been Kurt Thomas who has been called the best gymnast this country has ever produced. Gymnastics enthusiasts in Northwestern Michigan will be able to see Thomas in person on September 13 at 3 p.m. when the Charlevoix-based Gym B.A.G. (Booster Association for Gymnastics) will sponsor an all-star gymnastics exhibition at the Glacier Dome in Traverse City featuring Thomas.

Despite fears of growth problems when he was young, Thomas has become the premier participant of his sport in the country today having appeared on numerous television broadcasts and competed in several international meets. Among his titles are the AAU Junior championship, two NCAA all-around championships and a gold medal, the first ever for an American, for floor exercise at the World Championships in France.

Tickets for the September 13 exhibition, which is being co-sponsored by the AMF Equipment Company, will go on sale August 3 at all three Bahnhof Ski Shops in Charlevoix, Petoskey and Traverse City. The cost is $6 a person.

Local tennis team is second in state

The Charlevoix Tigers were runners-up in the State of Michigan finals of the Michelob tennis tournament held recently at Michigan State University.

Charlevoix's adult tennis team, organized in April, earned the trip to East Lansing by defeating teams from Petoskey, Alpena, and Traverse City to represent northern Michigan.

Although the team has been beset by injuries, including a broken leg and two eye injuries, it defeated a strong Grand Rapids team in humid 96 degree heat. Tigers then lost to the St. Clair Shores team representing the metropolitan Detroit area.

A runner-up trophy was presented at a banquet at the University's Kellogg Center.

Coached by Bruce MacArthur team members included singles players Hagen Manker and MacArthur; doubles players Don DeMoor, Bill Dietrich, George Richardson, Guy Swanson, Gunnar Lundteigen, and Bob Morgridge. Singles alternate was Reed Freidinger and doubles alternate Richard Georgi.

Mens soccer team bows

In its latest outing, the Charlevoix fndependent Soccer Team lost to Alpena 5-0 at a neutral Gaylord field.

With only eleven players on hand, the Charlevoix team had no substitutes and was literally worn down by the Alpena team which scored twice in the first hall and three times in the second.

One Alpena score came on a penalty kick.

Charlevoix has two remaining games on its schedule in the Northern Lites Soccer League. On this Sunday, August 2, Charlevoix hosts Cadillac at Shanahan Field for a 4 p.m. game and on August 9 Boyne City comes to town for a 4 p.m. game also at the township field.

The public is encouraged to attend.

Good looking super-efficient thermal shades used on all four sides

Stop the Great Heat Escape!
Window Quilt insulated shades cut window heat loss up to 79%

If you're serious about home heating efficiency, you already know that far more heat escapes through windows than walls, roof or doors. You can pack your walls with thick insulation, install tight fitting storms or double glazing. Even so, you'll most likely loose more than half your precious winter heat through your windows.

What's the answer?

Window Quilt. This multi layered thermal shade can eliminate up to 79% of winter heat loss through single glazed windows, as much as 66% through double paned glass. In your house, Window Quilts probably will pay for themselves well within 5 years.

Window Quilts fit tightly on all four sides, sealing warm air in and cold air out. They're easy to install and operate, easy to live with, far more efficient than ordinary shades or insulated drapes.

- Fit almost any size window, even 8' wide sliders.
- More than twice as effective as storms, better than 4 glazings (R value 4.25).
- In snow country, with double glazing one sq. ft. saves 1 gal. oil per year. Payback is 2-5 years.
- Helps keep summer heat out — saves on air conditioning.
- Attractive quilted design and neutral bone white color enhance any decor.

The secret of Window Quilt's amazing efficiency. A thin foil layer is surrounded by layers of insulating fibers with polyester covers, all quilted by ultra sonic stitching.

ORDINANCE NO. 387

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX amends Section 9.202 and Section 9.203, Chapter 116, entitled Bicycles, as follows:

Section 9.202, entitled Prohibited Operation is amended by adding thereto the following sentence:

No Bicycle shall be secured to a sign post, meter post, street light post or tree by a chain, cable or other such device.

Section 9.203, entitled Penalty is amended by adding the following subsections thereto:

(1) Juvenile Arrest Procedure. In the event that a police officer witnesses a violation hereunder by a minor person, such police officer shall, on a first offense, confiscate said minor person's bicycle, the return of which after a period of twenty-four (24) hours, shall be conditioned on the minor person being accompanied to the police department by a parent or legally appointed guardian.

(2) Subsequent arrest and prosecution of minors under the age of seventeen (17) years for violation of this Chapter shall be in accordance with Section 14 and the other provisions of Chapter XIIA (M.S.A. Sec. 27.3178 (5.98,11 et seq.) of Act 288 of the Public Acts of 1939, State of Michigan, as amended.

(3) In all other instances, enforcement of a violation hereunder shall be by providing such person with a notice to appear on a standardized form approved by the police department.

DECLARATION:
This Amendment shall be given immediate effect on enactment by a majority vote of the Council members present, for the reason that the personal safety of pedestrians is otherwise in jeopardy.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

July 20, 1981
6:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Supernaw presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Absent: None.

The Minutes of the July 6, 1981 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated July 13, 1981.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Muma to accept the offer submitted by John Campbell of Site Planning Design to purchase two acres of property in the Industrial Park from the City for $10,000 contingent upon approval of the proposed site plan by the City Planning Commission.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: Councilwoman Roloff. Absent: None.

Council discussed a damage claim filed by Dave Kimball for damage to his motorcycle in the amount of $157.51 caused when he slid on a dust control substance on State St. hill. The matter was referred to the City Attorney for his review and recommendation.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter:

RESOLUTION 81-7-2

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix is a member of Municipality of the Michigan Public Power Agency (MPPA), a joint agency organized and existent pursuant to Act No. 448 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1976; and,

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix as a member of MPPA is granted the right to vote on all matters coming before the MPPA.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the City Manager of Charlevoix be appointed delegate to MPPA to vote on its behalf, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City Treasurer/Comptroller of Charlevoix be appointed alternate delegate to MPPA to vote on its behalf in the absence of the City Manager.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms to hold a public hearing on August 17, 1981 regarding a proposed amendment to the City Ordinance regulating bicycles.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Wood to authorize payment of an examination for Pat Martin by Dr. Watkins of Petoskey provided the City received a copy of the doctor's report.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council authorized Marilyn Boss to repair three City signs at a total cost of $235.00.

Council agreed to close State Street from Antrim to Mason from 7:00 P.M. to 9:0r P.M. on July 26, 1981 for a street dance.

Council directed the City Attorney and the City Clerk to prepare a millage proposal for street resurfacing to be placed on the ballot in the November General Election.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilwoman Roloff that the Charlevoix Housing Commission be directed to contact HUD to apply for additional grant money for the sewer system on State Street due to the fact that the Commission's Senior Citizen Housing Project will be placing an overload on the system.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council discussed changing the City employee's group health insurance from Blue Cross and joining a group of cities in a self insurance program. It was generally agreed not to make the change as the majority of City employees had indicated they were opposed to the proposed plan.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter to authorize Granger Engineering to prepare the design and specifications for the proposed extension of the City Airport runway.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Wood to adopt the following Ordinance:

We Have a lot in Common

Broad as your credit union's field of membership may be, the common bond that holds us together still makes a big difference when it comes to financial service.

Why?

Mostly because the similarity we share allows us to tailor the credit union's programs closer to your own specific needs.

In short, it translates into a type of service that's really quite uncommon!

Obituaries

LEROY E. ALLERS

Funeral services for Captain LeRoy E. Allers, 78, who died Friday, July 17 at Little Traverse Hospital after a lengthy illness, were held Monday, July 20 at the Winchester Funeral Home. His nephew, Msgr. Victor Gallagher of Sacred Heart Church at Elk Rapids, officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born at South Haven June 19, 1903, Mr. Allers moved to Beaver Island with his parents at the age of one year and lived there until the early 1930's when he moved to Charlevoix to make his home. On December 29, 1929, he was married to the former Hazel M. Geer at Charlevoix. From 1937 until 1949, he owned and operated the Charlevoix-Beaver Island Transit Co. between Charlevoix and Beaver Island. In 1950 he joined the Arnold Transit Co. which operates boats in the Straits of Mackinac and continued with the company until he became ill. During the summer of 1956, he was employed by the Roan Steamship Co. of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and, during the winter months, had captained yachts on the East and West Coasts.

He was a member of the Seafarers International Union and United Commercial Travelers.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Harry (Dorothy) Evans of Portage; a son, Captain Paul Allers of St. Ignace; six grand children; and a sister, Mrs. Erwin (Lenore) Belfy, Sr., of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society or the Community Church of God.

VONDA McCONNELL

Funeral services for a former resident, Mrs. Terry J. (Vonda) McConnell, 51, of Petoskey who died July 21 at Little Traverse Hospital following a long illness, were held Thursday at the United Methodist Church in Petoskey. The Reverend Donald Merrill officiated. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

The former Vonda Howe was born August 28, 1929 in Hayes Township. She attended Hayes Township and Boyne City schools, graduating in 1947. On September 24, 1955, she was married to Mr. McConnell at Petoskey, where they made their home.

Mrs. McConnell was a telephone operator with the Michigan Telephone Co. at Petoskey from 1952 until she retired in 1980.

She was a life member of the Telephone Pioneers, and a member of CWA Local No. 4106, and served as its secretary, treasurer as well as chairman of the hospitality committee for several years. She attended the United Methodist Church in Petoskey.

Surviving are her husband and three sisters, Mrs. Thomas (Ardeth) Wieland and Mrs. Larry (Ellnor) Speigl of Charlevoix, and Mrs. William (Arvilla) Bates of Baldwinsville, N.Y.

The family suggests memorials to the United Methodist Church Landscape Fund in Petoskey.

GEORGE W. COOK

Funeral services for George W. Cook, who died July 24 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, were held Monday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Dean Lugenbill, interim pastor at the First Presbyterian Church in Boyne City, officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Hayes township August 10, 1886, Mr. Cook had always resided in the Charlevoix area, first on a farm in Hayes township and, for more than 60 years, at his present home in Charlevoix township. In 1912 he was married to the former Cleo Clark who preceded him in death in 1968. In 1969 he was married to the former Elizabeth Baker. He had been employed at the former Chicago Club Golf Course, the Charlevoix County Road Commission and the Belvedere Club until he retired in 1955. He had been a member of the Knights of Pythias and the Maple Grove Lodge, F.O.O.F.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John M. (Lucille) Stebe of Charlevoix and Mrs. Robert (Mary) Williamson of Boyne City; a son, Ira of West Olive; four grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; two great-great-grandchildren; a brother, Harvey of Sparta and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Walker of Texas and Mrs. Gladys Probst of Florida.

As deer herd grows, so do problems of crop damage

There's good news and bad news about the Michigan deer herd: It's very large now.

That's good news if you're a deer hunter or a northern Michigan merchant, but bad news if your're one of the farmers suffering heavy crop damage by deer, or if you're a motgrist who damages your car playing dodge-'em with with deer on a Michigan road.

Glenn Dudderar, Extension wildlife specialist at Michigan State University, says the Michigsn Department of Natural Resources will probably liberalize the hunting season this fall to try to stabilize the deer population. That means more hunter's choice permits will be issued to take antlerless deer in southern lower Michigan, northern lower Michigan, and Menominee County in the Upper Peninsula.

These areas will be the focus of DNR efforts to increase the deer harvest because it's here that agriculture is suffering most from deer damage to crops.

Dudderar has received reports of deer browsing on a wide variety of crops. Fruit trees are always a favorite, along with young corn and beans of all kinds, but deer have hit the fruit-growing regions of the state particularly hard this year, feeding oo grapes and blueberries as well as apple, cherry, and peach trees. They've also fed on potatoes, small grains, and Christmas trees in the northern lower peninsula, and sugarbeets, carrots, and celery in the southern part of the state.

"Locally, they've even gotten loto melons," Dudderar says. "They seem to like the fruits when they're just about peach-sized."

In some suburban and rural areas, deer are pests of vegetable gardens, backyard tree plaotings, and even spring flowering bulbs. They damage golf greens, too, not by feeding on the lush grass – though they do– but by walking on them and pocking them with their hoofprinis.

As yet there is no estimate of the total economic losses suffered by growers, but statewide, deer damage to crops is likely to reach into the millions of dollars this year. Some orchards have already suffered damage in the tens of thousands of dollars.

Most growers are willing to tolerate a considerable amount of deer damage, Dudderar observes. Many enjoy seeing deer around, and some are also hunters. When damage becomes severe, however, they start looking for ways to reduce it.

The DNR and the Extension Service have carried out research on chemical deer repellents and other measures to protect crops from browsing deer. Shooting them doesn't necessarily solve the problem, Dudderar points out.

"Deer travel over a square mile or more", he explains, "so if there are many deer on one farm, there are probably even more deer on the surrounding property. Also, shooting large numbers of deer takes a lot of time, so it quickly becomes economically unfeasible. And in some situations, it can make a person very unpopular with his neighbors."

Increasing the fall deer harvest is one way the DNR can try to stabilize the deer herd and so reduce some of the problems they cause. One problem with this approach is that the harvest takes place after the summer damage has already occurred. Another is that a large fall "kill followed by a severe winter and unavoidable losses of deer to starvation in southern Michigan could reduce the deer herd below desirable levels in those areas.

"But the past two winters have been mild ones, and the one before that wasn't as hard on the deer as some people thought, including myself," Dudderar says. "Deer losses were lower thao predicted, and that cootributed to the recent increase in the deer population."

Other factors in the continuing increase in the deer herd include:

--Changes in forest management and use. Managing and harvesting forests for pulpwood and firewood have opened up and stimulated a lot of oew growth. Deer prefer to feed on young, tender growth, which is now much more plentiful than it was in the late '60's, for instance, when forests were more mature and deer numbers were down.

--Deer habitat improvement in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula.

--Coooversion of some northern Michigan areas to farming and some marginal lands in the southern Lower Peninsula to forest. Both of these changes have resulted in the mix of agricultural and forested lands that deer do best in.

–Growing acceptance of DNR deer management programs to balance the herd with the natural food supply and the needs of the people.

"How many deer is too many varies from area to area," Dudderar points out. "Some areas could support many more deer than are living there now, but allowing numbers to increase to that estent would vastly increase the crop damage. In other areas, the deer herd should he considerably reduced. Ten to 20 deer per square mile may be too many there, while 40 to 50 per square mile might not be a problem elsewhere.

Growing acceptance of hunter's choice permits – which allow the hunter to take either an antlerless deer or a huck – has made hunting more valuable as a management tool, Dudderar says, particularly in southern lower Michigan. The use of that tool is closely restricted by law, however. The dates and length of the bunting season and the limit of one animal per hunter in the firearm season have been established by the legislature, and the DNR would have to go to that body for discretionary authority to alter them.

In some parts of Michigan -- ootably tbe Upper Peolosula -- stroog sentiment against hunting antlerless deer still prevails, even though the aim of the hucka-ooly season – to increase the deer herd and so increase the number of animals harvested – hasn't beeo achieved. In the southern part of the state, where hunters have been ahle to take antlerless deer for over a decade, the herd has not decreased but rather increased, Dudderar says, and deer taken in that part of the state are accounting for a larger share of the total kill every year.

Changing life styles create new trends, different

The "typical" supermarket customer – historically referred to as "she" and thought of as a "homemaker" – is taking on a new profile.

"Social trends," according to Linda Halleran, manager of consumer information for the Washington, D. C. based Food Marketing Institute, "have created a 'new' consumer."

Halleran was one of 13 speakers at a day-long conference oo changing trends in the American food industry sponsored hy the Michigan Food Dealers Association in cooperation with the Food Systems Economics and Management Program at Michigan State University.

The purpose of the seminar was to hring together experts from the food industry, government, and education, and representatives from the media to exchange ideas about the interests and concerns of the Michigan consumer and the grocer.

Halleran's observations about today's consumer include:

Women are still the leading supermarket shoppers, hut now approximately 51 percent are working outside the home. Working women tend to have more money to spend than non-working women, hut less time to spend it. They visit the supermarket less often for a shorter period of time, but will travel a greater distance to a favorite store.

Time and convenience are of major importance to men, who represent about one-third of all major food shoppers in the United States. Because most are employed, they shop during off-hours, often after 5 p.m. They tend to spend less money in the supermarket and make briefer trips than women.

The number of older shoppers is increasing. Although the average income of older consumers is lower, the amount of "discretionary dollars" can be higher than that of young shoppers. Older shoppers spend less money during each shopping trip than younger shoppers, but take more time doing it. They are more apt to use shopping lists, coupons, and food ads.

Teenagers are increasingly responsible for at least some of the family food shopping and are playing a more active role in spending a family's food dollars and in influencing family food selections.

Although a trip to the supermarket can be both frustrating and difficult, 87 percent of all disabled persons have no limitations on their mobility. This indicates tbat most handicapped persons are ilkely to be reguiar supermarket shoppers.

Halleran also cited statistics from "1981 Trends", the tenth report in a series of studies on consumer attitudes, shopping bebavior, and supermarkets conducted annually for the Food Marketing Institute.

More than 1,000 shoppers, 60 percent women and 40 percent men, were contacted regarding major trends affecting the supermarket industry.

The report indicated that consumers tend to blame the government, rather than the supoermarket industry, for rising prices. In fact, consumers see supermarkets as an ally in the fight against inflation.

The three most important factors to shoppers when choosing a sopermarket were saving money with specials, finding a wide variety of items in one stop, and getting the best value for their dollar.

In addition, the report showed that consumers feel supermarkets are doing a good job in providing a wide selection of producta, making shopping easy and pleasurable, keeping popular items in stock, and giving good service.

Consumers also have strong expectations about the role of supermarkets in safeguarding consumers. An increasing number think tbat supermarkets are responsible for belping shoppers feed their families nutritiously. Furthermore, many consumers feel that supermarkets should use cautionary labels and refuse to carry allegedly unsafe products.

Consumer activism in the form of letters to congressmen and petition drives is declining, but more shoppers are returning products and making in-person complaints to supermarkets.

Other speakers at the conference covered the food marketing process "from the farm to the table," consumer protection, the role of the government in food marketing, and the changing food industry from the grocers' viewpoint.

The speakers at the conference included Dr. Jack Allen and Dr. Tom Pierson of the Food Systems Economics and Management Program, Michigan State Univarsity; Mary Zehner, Consumer Marketing Specialist, Michigan State University Extension Service; Maryann Beckman, Consumer Marketing Agent, Michigan State University Extension Service; Robert Newmann, Senior Researcber, MSU Information Services; William Balienger III, Director, Department of Licensing & Regulation; Kent Wilcox, Michigan Consumers Council; State Representative H. Lynn Jondahl, House Committee on Consumer Affairs; Dr. Edward Heffron, Chief, Food Inspection Division, Michigan Department of Agriculture; Richard Feldpausch, Vice President, Feldpausch Food Centers and President of Michigan Food Dealers Association; Roy Call, President, Quik Pik Food Stores; and Michael Burandt, Vice President, Marketing & Sales, Spartan Stores.

Historic Beaver Island

Life at DNR's Beaver Island station lonely but peaceful

Life in a one-man DNR office in St. James on Beaver Island would be rather lonely for some people. But to Bill Wagner, it's the good life.

Wagner has manned the DNR post for 17 years. The station was established on the island in 1942 to serve mainly as a fire prevention headquarters for Beaver Island and surrounding islands.

Fire prevention is still Wagner's primary duty but he is also responsible. for maintaining thousands of acres of primitive camping area owned by the state on Beaver Island. State land open to campers comprises about one third of the island.

Last year, for the first time, campers were charged a fee to camp on Beaver Island's state land. In a move that applied to all previously free state park campgrounds in Michigan, campers pay a $2 fee.

In his 17 years on Beaver Island, Wagner has not seen a major forest fire. In fact, there has not been a bad one for the past 25 years. If a blaze should get started, however, Wagner thinks he is ready. In his garage at the DNR station Wagner has a four-wheel drive pumper, a tractor plow and a tilt bed to haul it.

In a pinch, he could round up a lot more equipment from the community.

Another hat worn by Bill Wagner is that of game warden. He is deputized by the state to enforce all game and fish laws and takes part in other related activities such as habitat surveys.

Hunting pressure on Beaver Island becomes intense only one week out of the year - deer season. There are usually around 400 to 500 hunters that take part in the bucks-only hunt on Beaver Island. There has not been a doe season since 1970.

Wagner's expertise and background is in forestry. That was his field when he joined the DNR in 1957. With literally thousands of loggable acres on Beaver Island, it is another of Wagner's jobs to coordinate when and where and how much logging is to be done each year on the public lands.

Despite the rigors of a seven-day-a-week job and the isolation of life on Beaver Island, Bil Wagner would have it no other way.

"I love it here," he says, "I wouldn't want to live anywhere else."

Don't want to spray bugs? Try trapping them!

Home gardeners who don't want to spray their backyard fruit trees with chemical insecticides now have an alternative – other than putting up with wormy fruit, that is. The can trap some pesky insects.

According to Mark Whalon, research and Estension entomologist at Michigan State University, sticky insect traps that are often used in commercial fruit plantings to monitor insect pests can be used in the home fruit planting to help control them.

Visual traps mimic some part of the tree – foliage, blossoms or fruits. Bait traps use a substance that attracts the pests by the smell it gives off. Pheromone traps use a synthetic ses attractant – a pheromone – to attract the male insects. With each of these traps, the insects attracted to them are caught in a sticky substance (usually Tanglefoot).

Among visual traps are yellow or white panels, 8 by 11 inches, and red wooden balls, 2 3-4 inches in diameter.

"These are effective because they resemble some natural object the insects orient to," Whalon explains. "The yellow panel reflects wavelengths of light that insects perceive when they see leaves. Aphids and apple maggots seeking leaves for food sources are attracted by the yellow panels.

"Panels painted with a special white zinc oside paint are effective in capturing early season insects, such as the tarnished plant bug, that are attracted to apple blossoms," he goes on. "To the insects, the panel appears to be a very large flower."

Red wooden balls are used to imitate fruits and attract insects like the apple and cherry maggot flies, which search for round objects in fruit trees on which to mate and lay their eggs.

To make yellow panels most effective, Whalon advises placing them about eye height on the outside of the tree canopy on the south side and removing the twigs and foliage for about two feet around them. Yellow panels to attract cherry maggot flies should be placed in trees about May 25; for apple maggot flies, in mid-June. One to three traps per tree should give some warning of the presence of the flies while they're in their pre-egg-laying phase.

Using a bait increases the effectiveness of the yellow panels, Whalon points out. Baits may be incorporated into the sticky stuff on the panel or be hung below a trap in a refillable dispenser.

As the flies begin searching for mating and egg-laying sites, red sticky balls become more effective traps. At a rate of one sphere per 100 apples, they can provide about 95 percent control of apple maggots, Whalon notes.

The south side of the tree at about eye height is the best location for a white sticky board to catch tarnished plant bugs, he says. One white panel per tree, put in place when the tree is in the prebloom stage, should be sufficient for detection.

Pheromone baits are often used commercially to detect pest emergence so chemical controls can be applied when they'll be most effective, Whalon notes. Using pheromones to disrupt mating hasn't been employed in commercial orchards, where pest populations tend to be low. This strategy may help reduce damage in isolated home fruit plantings, but its best use is still probably to pinpoint the proper time for use of chemical controls for codling moth (which attacks apples), Oriental fruit moth (a pest of peaches and apples) and the peach tree borer complex (attacks peaches, cherries and plums).

Proper use of sticky traps includes regular maintenance, Whalon notes. Traps must be cleaned periodically and coated with fresh Tanglefoot to keep them effective.

Roadside picnic tables to get new, modern look

Rustic roadside picnic tables, for years a symbol of Michigan hospitality, are slowly giving way to a "new breed" of tables along the state's 9,500-mile highway system.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), which maintains some 3,000 picnic tables at its 76 rest areas, 103 roadside parks and 175 table sites adjacent to highways, is gradually replacing the old wooden standby.

The new design is non-portable, easier to maintain, longer-lasting and virtually thief-proof, say MDOT officials. The design is simple: wooden planks attached to a concrete pedestal serve as benches and table top, while the entire rig is anchored to a slab of poured concrete on the ground. Currently, approximately 150 such tables stand at rest areas along state freeways.

But the wooden tables, which have been used for millions of picnics since their emergence in the 1930's, will not become extinct, say MDOT officials.

"Eventually, we plan to replace all the wooden tables at our rest areas with the pedestal design," said Ross Wolfe, MDOT's chief forester.

"We will retain them at roadside parks and table sites, however," Wolfe said. "Last year, at least 27 wooden tables were stolen, even though they weigh about 300 pounds and were bolted to the ground. Three tables were stolen from one area, and that's not all that uncommon."

Wolfe said the switch to the fixed design also is spurred by an effort to reduce maintenance costs. The wooden tables must be hauled off to garages each fall where they are stored during the winter, sanded and varnished. In the spring they must be transported back, with only three to four tables fitting into one truck.

"Maintenance of the fixed-style tables is considerably lower," Wolfe noted. "We only remove the wooden boards which serve as benches and surface come winter, and we can haul hundreds of them on our trucks at the same time."

The roadside picnic table began in 1929 when Ionia County Road Engineer Allan Williams, tired of eating Sunday picnics on three stumps, hammered together some discarded boards and placed the "table" along US-16 in Ionia County. A historic marker now marks the spot.

The State Highway Department quickly picked up on the idea, and by the 1930's tables were appearing along many state highways. The wooden tables reached such a pinnacle in popularity during the 1970's that the Department of Transportation printed a brochure telling folks how to make them for their backyards. Thousands have been distributed from the department's travel information centers.

With the development of the interstate freeway system, rest areas became more popular as motorists chose to reach their destinations quickly, rather than take the leisurely trips down two-lane highways, punctuated by frequent stops at parks and table sites.

The need for tables at rest areas now appears to be running higher than ever. During 1980, a record 38 million persons stopped at rest areas and roadside parks despite a downturn in overall travel expenditures and a 5.2 percent drop in vehicle miles driven.

...And the new.

LexaLite fire idles 115 employees; rebuilding to start

by DAVE KNIGHT

Work crews were already busy early Monday morning sifting through the ruins of the LexaLite manufacturing plant, a major portion of which was destroyed by fire Sunday.

By the time the blaze was controlled at about 3 p.m. Sunday, little was left of the manufacturing wing of the plant other than four crumbling cement block walls. Early indications were that some of the most crucial machinery on the north end of the plant was saved along with much sophisticated equipment in the office wing which suffered only smoke damage.

In a hastily called press conference held Sunday afternoon amid billowing smoke from the fire, LexaLite owner Josh Barnes told reporters that efforts to rebuild the plant will begin immediately. Barnes said that one of his first objectives will be to contact state legislators to diacusa the possibility of emergency bonding measures.

LexaLite, a plastics manufacturing firm specializing in traffic control lamp lenses and globes, employs 130 area residents. Of that total, about 115 worked at the main plant three miles north of Charlevoix in Hayes Township at the time of the fire. LexaLite only recently opened a branch facility in the City of Charlevoix for storage and product development uses.

Barnes said that while most of the employees involved in the manufacturing process will be laid off for the time being, office personnel and managerial staff will continue to fill as many customer orders as possible. He added that workers will be called back as needed with some call-backs beginning as soon as next week.

Crucial to the continuing operation of the plant are the molds used in the manufacturing process. As of Monday, it was still unclear how many, if any, molds were salvageable from the fire. Barnes said that the condition of the molds, more than anything, will dictate how long it will take to get back into production.

Sunday's fire was reported shortly before 11 a.m. by a passing motorist who saw smoke coming from the roof. Responding immediately to the scene were units from both the Charlevoix City and Township fire departments. City fire department trucks experienced about a five-minute delay at the U.S. 31 drawbridge downtown when they were caught by the 11 a.m.

Shown from the air in an early stage, the fire can be seen concentrated in the central portion of the manufacturing wing; black smoke towered thousands of feet into the air and was visible for miles.

Charlevoix City and Township firemen battled the LexaLite fire Sunday for about 15 hours, using every piece of equipment available, before bringing the blaze under control.

Bid accepted for school tax anticipation notes

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education accepted a bid of 10.98 percent on $1,450,000 in tax anticipation notes at its regular meeting Monday night. The successful bidder was Liss Tenner & Goldberg of Newark, N.J. Tax anticipation notes are a means of providing the district with operating funds until tax revenues are collected in the spring.

A second bid of 11.789 was submitted by the Chicago office of E.H. Hutton & Co.

The bonds will be due in 237 days or April 1, 1982 after revenues from taxes have been received.

The transaction will cost the school district $104,813 in interest.

When the bids were opened and accepted, Business Manager Vincent Olach reacted favorably saying, "We are lucky. I wouldn't have been surprised if the bids had been for 12 percent or even higher."

In 1980 the tax anticipation bonds were bid in at slightly under six percent. The interest represents approximately .75 mills based on the school's state equalized valuation.

In the only other formal action taken at the meeting, the board approved a resolution calling for a special education millage election in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The Intermediate District will ask for a .75 mill tax levy for three years to underwrite the cost of special education within the district. The levy would be for three years only. The election is scheduled for September 8.

Olach reported that a new roof was needed on the Middle School gymnasium and the area directly north of the gymnasium that was added in 1952 which presently houses the Middle School cafeteria and classrooms.

The areas to be covered total 8,932 sq. ft. over the gymnasium and 11,025 sq. ft. over the classrooms. Four bids were received and turned over to the building committee of Steven J. Smith, Doris Pearl and Elaine Martin for tabulation before a decision is handed down at the August 24 meeting.

The project will be financed by funds remaining from the one-mill tax levy for a period of five years to underwrite the rennovation of the Middle School.

The board's next meeting previously scheduled for August 17 has been set back one week to August 24.

Chicago Club to celebrate its 100th birthday

by PEG OHLE

One of Charlevoix' oldest institutions is celebrating its 100th birthday this week – the Chicago Club.

The birth of the Chicago Summer Resort Association (later changed to the Chicago Club) was heralded in newspapers in two cities.

On August 21, 1880, while the Association was little more than an idea, the Charlevoix Sentinel reported:

"Wealthy Chicago parties are negotiating with J. S. Dixon for the purchase of forty acres of land on the opposite side of the cut from the Baptist grounds (now the Belvedere Club); to be used as grounds for a resort. The movement is being made by leading members of the First Congregational Church of Chicago, which numbers 1,200 members, and represents in its membership much wealth and influence. Rev. Dr. Goodwin, who is rusticating here, is its pastor. The gentlemen have visited all of the prominent resorts of northern Michigan, and pronounce Charlevoix far superior to any of them in the number and variety of its attractions."

In the fall of that year, the following story appeared in a Chicago daily newspaper:

"During the past summer, a group of Chicago gentlemen, on a fishing trip through northern Michigan, visited several resorts, among them being Mackinac, Petoskey, and Charlevoix. At the latter place, they stayed for several days, charmed by its surroundings, its cool nights, the pure air, the pleasant breezy days, the absence of the dust of the city and its heat, all of which went to make their stay a very pleasant one. After some discussion, they agreed to purchase a tract of land and set it aside for a summer resort, which has been done.

"The officers of the company consist of the following well-known gentlemen: Caleb F. Gates, president; Silas M. Moore, vice-president; Harvey Dean, secretary; Brayton Saltstonstall, treasurer; directors, Robert M. Cherrie, James M. Scoville, James H.

Rec. Dept. to sponsor three-wheel cycle races again

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will sponsor the second annual three-wheel plastic cycle races at the Charlevoix Middle School track at 1 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7, Dwight Boss, recreation director, has announced.

The races will be run in five divisions determined by age: two-three year olds, four-five year olds, six-seven age group, eight-nine years and 10 years and older. Boys and girls will participate as one group. Ribboos will be presented to the top three winners in each catagory.

Thoae planning to participate may register at the city hall between the hours of 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. with the exception of the noon hour and until noon on the day of the races. There will be no fee to register. However, every child must furnish his or her own cycle.

If anyone has questions they may call the Recreation Department office at 547-4272.

Program to focus on stress

Stress, a subject about which everyone can speak from personal experience, will be the topic at Charlevoix Area Hospital's August 12 community education program, in the hospital's classroom on the lower level of the new wing, at 7:30 p.m.

Bill Everett, counselor with the Northern Mental Health Center and the East Jordan Counseling Center, will lead the program. He will define stress, discuss how to measure one's personal degree of stress, and offer techniques for managing stress, anxiety and frustration.

The program, which begins at 7:30 p.m., is free to the public. Stress was selected as the topic at the request of people who attended earlier programs in the Charlevoix Area Hospital's series of community education programs.

The presentation on stress will be informal. Everett will offer an overview on the problems of stress in our daily life, discussing both the negative, potentially damaging aspects of stress, and the positive aspects of stress.

Participants will learn how to gauge their own levels of stress and identify stressful situations in their lives.

Everett explained, in an interview, that understanding the causes of stress in ones life is an important first step in its prevention.

A portion of the evening session will be devoted to specific techniques for reducing stress and its harmful effects.

The program on stress is part of a series of programs for the community, conducted by the medical staff and employees at Charlevoix Area Hospital. The Community Education Committee designs these programs to meet the interests of people in the community. Preventive medicine, they feel, is an important part of Charlevoix Area Hospital's service to the community.

Recognising the relationship between stress and potential physical health problems, especially in times of economic uncertainty, they urge anyone interested to attend this free public presentation.

Warner in one-man show

Charlevoix artist Todd Warner will be featured in a one-man show Thrusday August 13, at the Petoskey Bay View Country Club.

Warner, whose wildlife stoneware sculptures are displayed in galleries from coast to coast, has donated all the proceeds from this show to the Little Traverse Bay Homane Society.

The benefit show opens at 6:00 p.m. with a free champagne reception, during which Warner will be on hand to discuss his unusual approach to animal sculpture.

Whimsical warthogs, unlikely Brahman bulls with cattle egrets perched on their ears, hippopotamus, yaks, all manner of off beat characterizations of animals will be part of the display of Warner's work.

The animal connection makes Warner's interest in the Humane Society a natural. He grew up with snakes in his bath tub, frogs in his pockets. At his home in Charlevoix 36 year old Warner, his wife Vicky and two children maintain a menagerie of animals, which seems to be in constant flux – a horse or two, a myna bird, parrot, dogs, cats, and any lost or wounded creatures passing through.

The Warners moved to their Charlevoix home some seven years ago. A graduate of Central Michigan University in Fine Art, Warner taught and operated a studio with Vicky in Midland before moving to northern Michigan. He is a native of Farwell, Michigan. Attracted by the sailing potential, the Warners chose Charlevoix in which to live, to be close to nature, and establish their retail studio.

The Bull Frog Bazaar, on U.S. Highway 31 at Bay Shore, with Warner's working sculpture studio behind, is open year round.

Warner's animal sculptures have won many awards at art shows around the country. They are distinctive for their humorous approach, giving such animals as moose or hippos an unusual appeal. The variety and range of Warner's work goes from the animal sculptures to such adult toys as large rocking cows.

Questioned about his whimsical approach to animals, Warner has said, "The whimsical aspect of my creations is purely a natural one, I do believe, however, that life in general is quite heavy and a little whimsey may be a pleasant relief."

Todd Warner and friend.

Fireman Tom Meggison is helped away from the LexaLite building after narrowly escaping serious injury when a portion of the roof collapsed over him.

The clean up chore began early Monday morning as heavy equipment moved in to knock down the remaining walls.

When it was all over, the interior was left in charred, smoking piles of rubble.

Manistee News Photo

Occasional explosions, such as this one caught by the camera from the back of the building, erupted through the roof when large concentrations of paints or chemicals were ignited.

Scenes from LexaLite fire

The Petoskey Fire Department's snorkel truck came in handy for fighting the flames through the collapsed roof.

By attacking the fire from both ends of the manufacturing wing, firemen were able to prevent it from spreading to areas with expensive machinery and the office complex, shown to the left of the building in this aerial photo

Knight on the Town

Here's looking at you, Babe

by Dave Knight

There must be something in the summer air - perhaps CO2 from barbeque grills or fluorocarbons from aerosol bug dope - that triggers brief spasms of abnormal behavior in the pubescent male.

Then again, some teenagers are just naturally wierd.

Whatever the reason, 'twas no different 13 years ago when the boys chased the girls from sunup to sundown and everyone ended up in the drive-in as darkness fell. Such was the setting of one memorable evening during which was written a new definition of "blind date."

Had "Endless Love" or "Blue Lagoon" been circulating in the summer of '68, chances are "Dr. Zhivago" would have been just another travelogue. As it was, "Zhivago" was uncontested as the summer's most romantic fare. The girls loved it even as their mascara flowed freely down their cheeks. The boys didn't mind for once the girls stopped crying, images of Yuri and Lara snuggling on the Siberian steppe made them, all the more affectionate in the back seat of the folks' car.

Thus it was an easy decision for Smug, a 16 year-old senior-to-be, when his buddy Slick called with an urgent request. A girl Slick had been pestering all summer, Kitten, had finally succumbed to his entreaties - and accepted an invitation to the drive-in where "Dr. Zhivago" had been held over most the summer.

Her acceptance, though, was not without strings.

Her female cousin, Coy, was visiting. Kitten would not go to the show if Coy could not come along. A classic set-up was in the making and Smug was the needed fourth. Naturally Slick described the cousin as a Miss Universe contestant despite the fact he had never had eyes on her. In these matters, truth often takes a back seat to necessity.

Fast developing man of the world that he was - after all, he was going to be a senior - Smug was an easy mark. The deal was sealed.

With visions of Jane Fonda dancing in his head, Smug pulled on his cleanest football jersey and most ragged jeans - as Slick pulled into the driveway. The two set off to pick up their dates.

Self-confident as he was when it came to women, Smug had one hang-up. He was blind as a mole under a sunlamp without his thick, horn rimmed glasses. They made him look much too studious, he thought, and did not at all project the care-free, rakish umage that the girls really went for.

This bothered Smug all the way to

Illustration by Ken Schmackenberg

Kitten's house and, just as the car pulled to a stop, he took action. Into his pocket went the glasses. Slick looked at Smug's naked face with a puzzled look and laughed as the two walked up to ring the doorbell.

Because of its spontaneity, Smug had not assessed the full impact of his decision to shed the glasses. Immediately he realized that Coy could be a trout-face and he wouldn't even know it. Worse, she could be a Jane Fonda.

Kitten's mother answered the door and invited the boys inside not noticing the odd way Smug trailed closely behind Slick. In the blur of the living room, Smug made out the easily identifiable ito every boy in the senior class! shape of Kitten and tried not to squint as Coy rose from the couch.

She was blond, had short hair and possibly blue eyes, She had a nice voice. Beyond that, Smug could only depend upon his imagination.

The couples departed safely despite Smug's near fall down the front steps. Of course he didn't see them but Slick and Kitten were stifling chuckles as everyone clumbed into Slick's '62 Plymouth.

Things were actually going pretty well for Smug; in the course of conversation, he and Coy discovered they had much in common. He was having a very good time, in fact. Slick finessed his way into the back seat when they got to the outdoor by claiming that he suffered leg cramps if forced to sit in front for long. That was okay with Smug and Coy literally jumped into the front seat at the suggestion.

When the movie started, however, Smug suddenly came to a chilling realization. He was faced with about two hours of watching nothing more than a melange of colors and forms move across the screen as disembodied dialogue pounded in his ear. It was not a happy thought.

As the movie, which Smug had already seen, unfolded, he grew more and more frustrated. He knew when the good parts were and couldn't stand having to just pretend to watch the screen intensely as they came on.

Coy would say, "Isn't that photography lovely?"

And Smug would answer, "Yeah...just look at that scenery," hoping a close-up of Julie Christie was not on the screen at the time.

It became slow torture.

Finally he could stand it no longer. If Coy didn't go for the studious type, too bad. Smug was not about to spend four bucks to listen to the Russian revolution for two hours. With a silent gulp, he swallowed his macho pride.

"Gee, my eyes are tired," he said, "I think I'll put on my glasses." As if he just carried them around like two Aspirin.

Coy's eyes did not leave the screen as she said, "I think I will, too."

And as Smug watched incredulously, she reached into her purse, pulled out a pair of wire rimmed glasses, put them on and turned to Smug with a sheepish smile.

Of all the couples to have ever parked in that drive-in theater's gravel rows, perhaps no two people have ever enjoyed a movie as much as a spectacled pair in the front seat of a beat up Plymouth on a summer's night in '68.

Letters: Dust, hospices, housing

Chorlevoix's beouty ot stoke

To the Editor:

Charlevoix the Beautiful, once known as the "Switzerland of North America" for its sweet, clean air, is fast acquiring the dubious reputation of "Cement Dust City..." And Charlevoix's "honeymoon" with Medusa Cement is almost over...

As cement dust settles over houses and cars, and airplanes and boats; as cement dust smears on windows and paint and cannot be removed with water but calls for the use of vinegar or other chemicals to clean surfaces - as mothers are concerned with the damage that the fine dust particles might be doing to their children's lungs, an aroused citizenry is finally awakening to the danger and the damage of Medusa Cement!

Last week Mr. Kaiser admitted that Medusa Cement Co. could not control or stop the cement dust settling over Charlevoix.

"Pray for rain," he told this writer, "That will help settle the cement particles..."

It's a sad commentory on Medusa's environmental controls that the citizens of Charlevoix must pray for rain to keep their homes, their health, their property and their vitol tourist industry from being destroyed by Medusa's cement dust.

In 1966 the Boulder Park Association paid for the following obituary which appeared in the Charlevoix Courier:

In Memoriam
1776-1966

Died a violent death,

One of the most beautiful bays in the world,
Its stately trees uprooted,
Its shoreline gouged and converted by bulldozers,
Into gravel pits and quarry roads,
Its wildlife destoyed,
Its quiet beauty lost forever.

May all of us who have robbed future generations of their inheritance learn from this sad experience; mere ownership of land does not give man the right to outrage it...

Thonks for the support

To the Editor:

On Wednesday, July 22, a community forum was held in Boyne City on Hospice. On behalf of the Coping? Steering Comittee and the Diocese of Gaylord, Office of Aging I would like to extend my sincere thanks to the nearly 50 people who attended. Their generous support and enthusiasm has indicated to us that we should indeed pursue the establishment of a community-based, home-care, volunteer hospice program in Charlevoix County. We hope to be contacting them in August with further details on its development.

A community of people helping one another is a philosophic ideal whose time has come, and we thank you.

Elderly housing looking good

To the Editor

I wonder if you know what a privilege it has been to watch and see the handiwork of our government dollars at work – the work, the care of man at work to create and build a beautiful mansion for our elderly of Charlevoix.

Having the privilege of working beside the building site of the Senior Citizen Housing here in the Commission on Aging office in the Sheriff's Department Building has been truly a blessing.

Watching the excavation, the basic forms and set up, seeing the walls erected higher and higher, floor by floor. Watching a crew of men lay each tiny brick so quickly, so precisely. Hours being spent on the interior. Now to watch the forming of the circle drive and parkway. The delicate, just-so work of that heavy clumsy equipment, the pushing and smoothing, packing and even brushing by hand of the soil underlay of the drive is marvelous to watch (like the ironing of a piece of fine linen). The coordination of men and their equipment with God over all (God-given skills and know-how). And not forgetting the appointed committee who worked, planned, and bargained for so long for it all to happen.

I give thanks and a salute to all concerned for the privilege of just watching.

Clockwise

Rising from the ashes

by Bob Clock

FOR 16 YEARS I have felt something of a mystical link between myself and the Medusa Cement plant at South Point and the LexaLite plant on U.S.-31 North.

Work on the two facilities was started the same week Clockwise hove on the Charlevoix scene in July, 1965, and I have felt a particular kinship with them ever since.

I have watched both both plants grow from nothing into multi-million dollar facilities employing hundreds of Charlevoix area residents.

Among the first photos I took as editor of the Charlevoix Courier were pictures of the little house trailer Medusa used as construction headquarters at South Point and of structural steel rising just east of Big Rock Point — future home of LexaLite Corp.

That is why I was thunderstruck Sunday morning when Judy raced out to the city garden where I was doing battle with potato bugs to tell me LexaLite was on fire.

A few minutes later I joined the gallery along the highway to help record the demise of the LexaLite plant on film. Some of my fellow bystanders were employees at the plant who described where the paint room was located and where certain pieces of machinery were to be found in the inferno.

They spoke with little catches in their voices, but you couldn't exactly blame the acrid smoke of burning plastic. I think all of us felt an overpowering sadness in witness the end of a Charlevoix landmark that has come to mean so much to the local economy.

By Sunday evening, the mood of the onlookers had changed. Josh Barnes, founder and president of LexaLite, was now on the scene and was buoyant with plans for the future — even though firemen were still spraying the smoldering ruins of his plant.

"Clarence Smith will be here tonight to pull down the walls," he said. "Tomorrow the contractor will arrive and we'll start rebuilding. We'll be back in business by Labor Day."

"Labor Day?" someone asked incredulously.

"We better be," Josh answered. "If we're down two months we'll start losing customers.

"Maybe things have been going too well," he added philosophically. "Maybe we've had things too easy. This ... give us a chance to show how good we are."

IS THERE ANY way for the community to thank the firemen from Charlevoix, Charlevoix Township, East Jordan and Petoskey who spent most of a perfectly good Sunday fighting the LexaLite fire?

Probably not. By Sunday evening they were tired, hot and dirty — but they stayed on the job until the fire was out, only stopping long enough to grab a drumstick or a chicken wing sent to the command post by Kentucky Fried Chicken.

If we were required by law to compensate our volunteer firemen in proportion to the risks they take and the conditions under which they work, every local treasury in Northern Michigan would go belly-up in a matter of days.

So the next time you run into a fireman, say thanks. He did a first-rate job at the LexaLite fire.

SUNDAY WAS a nostalgic day on another front.

When the Clocks arrived in town 16 years ago, they were accompanied by a young rat terrier and a litter of pups.

The pups have long since been scattered to the four winds, but the mother — Gin — is still alive and well.

Sunday we celebrated her 17th birthday. Allie made a chocolate cake and all the neighborhood kids — and dogs — were invited over for cake and ice cream and a rousing chorus of "Happy Birthday to You."

At 17, Ginny can't have too many birthdays left. But Sunday's celebration was one to remember.

LexaLite fire guts building

opening of the bridge.

When the first units arrived at the scene, the fire was burning in a central area of the manufacturing wing. Early efforts to control it were futile as one hose crew barely got out of the building as a section of the roof collapsed.

Fireman Tom Meggison, who scrambled out of the building on hands and knees, recieved minor shoulder injuries from the falling roof. No other injuries were reported. The plant was unoccupied at the time the fire started.

Fed by plastics, chemicals, paints and cardboard boxes, the blaze quickly made its way through the clear span building. A tower of dense, black smoke rose thousands of feet from the burning plant. As the smoke and fumes intensified, law enforcement personnel closed the stretch of U.S. 31 near the plant fearing possible explosions and toxic gases.

Before cars were rerouted, heavy Sunday traffic slowed by onlookers snarled the highway.

While firemen battled the blaze on the south wing, Lexalite employees worked feverishly to carry out file cabinets, office machinery and other valuable records from the north end of the plant.

Units from the East Jordan and Petoskey fire departments were also called to the scene including Petoskey's five-story snorkel unit. Firemen remained on the scene until about 2:30 a.m. Monday and were called back at 9 a.m. Monday as recurring flare-ups hampered the salvage process.

A cause of the fire had not been determined as of Monday though Barnes speculated that it may have started in the maintenance department of the plant. State fire marshals were on the scene this week investigating the fire.

Barnes said that operations could conceivably begin again by Labor Day of the rebuilding can start immediately. He also expressed gratitude to several other Charlevoix manufacturing firms who offered assistance in getting LexaLite back on its feet.

Out of the Blue

I envy the few with derring-do,
Who'll fight when others won't -
I'd like to, too, but I'm one who Has too much derring-don't.

United Methodist Church welcomes Rev. David Yingling as new pastor

The Reverend David Yingling is the new pastor at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church and Greensky Hill United Methodist Church. This week the Courier talks with him about his ministerial work, and about himself.

Rev. David Yingling

COURIER: What other churches have you served as pastor?

YINGLING: I came here from the Faith United Methodist Church in Edmore. I was there for five years. Before that, I was pastor of the Milwood United Methodist Church in Kalamazoo for four years.

COURIER: Where were you before that?

YINGLING: I grew up in Mansfield, Ohio and graduated from high school there. I went to Ohio State University, where I received a bachelor's degree in social work. Then I went to the Methodist Theological School in Delaware, Ohio, where I received two master's degrees – one in Divinity and one in Christian Education.

COURIER: Do you have a family?

YINGLING: Yes, my wife, Cheryel; son Jarred, who is eight; and daughter, Jodi Lynne, who is seven.

COURIER: What are your special interests in the ministry?

YINGLING: Preaching, pastoral counseling, Christian Education, and ecumenical programs. I enjoy being involved with other churches rather than saying, "My church is the only church." I'm also involved at the Conference level serving on the Board of Discipleship with the primary responsibility of Christian Education – helping the laity to do the work of the church. In addition, I'm in charge of all adult activities in the Conference, such as United Methodist Men's Rallies, Single Adult Retreats, and Marital Growth Experiences.

COURIER: What do you think is the place of the church in the community?

YINGLING: It should be one of leadership – of helping people cope with the stress of today's life. In the past, the church has been a follower rather than a leader. There's a great opportunity in this community. We should gather in the church not only for membership but to cope with being a parent or a husband or a wife or a single person. The church should provide kind of a spiritual medicine.

COURIER: What are your interests outside the church?

YINGLING: In Edmore, I helped organize a volunteer counseling program in the public schools, procuring volunteer counselors to assist the school counselors in listening to the needs of students, faculty, and parents. With my social work background, I can help meet the needs of people this way. I also was assistant Cub Scout leader and a member of the Lion's Club. I've joined the Kiwanis Club here.

COURIER: What do you do as a family?

YINGLING: We like to camp – we have a small camper. My wife and I both enjoy painting as a hobby. I'm a bow and arrow hunter, so are our son and daughter. We all have bikes, and we like swimming.

COURIER: What are Mrs. Yingling's interests outside the church?

YINGLING: She grew up in Maderia, Ohio, and attended the University of Cincinnati a short time before we were married. More recently she has been attending Ferris State College working toward a degree as a Medical Records Secretary. Before moving here, she managed an office equipment store.

COURIER: The Charlevoix United Methodist Church is over 100 years old, isn't it?

YINGLING: Yes, and the Greensky Hill Church will be 150 years old in 1983. It's a National Shrine.

Womens' Club tea set

The Charlevoix Women's Club will host its annual membership tea at the Charlevoix Public Library on Friday, Aug. 7.

The event will be held on the main floor of the library from 1:30 until 4 p.m.

Presiding at the tea table will be the recently-elected president, Mrs. Raymond V. Wood. Greeting guests will be the other officers and board members of the club. They are the vice presidents, Mrs. Bruce Bartlett, Mrs. Gerald L. Muma and Mrs. E.H. Leedy; the recording secretary, Mrs. Clifford Biddick; the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Stoel; the treasurer, Mrs. Robert G. Martin, and Mrs. Robert Murray, immediate past president.

Mrs. Leddy heads the committee for the membership tea. She will be assisted by Mrs. Kit Carson and Mrs. J. Leddy Baer.

All women in the Charlevoix area are invited to join the Charlevoix Women's Club and become informed of its activities and its goals.

The tea will be held during the annual book sale sponsored by the club. Books are being accepted for the sale which will be held at the ground floor level of the library from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. both Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Charles Duerr is chairman of the booksale. Books for the sale may be left at the library or call 547-2603 for pick-ups.

Schedule of noon concerts in East Park announced

A noon day treat, a series of weekly concerts in East Park, is in store for Charlevoixtians every Thursday for the next month according to Irene Richardson who made the announcement on behalf of the spondoring organizations, the Crooked Tree Arts Council and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

On Thursday, August 6, artists from Bay View Conservatory are scheduled to play during the lunch hour from the park stage in East Park.

Thursday, August 13, will mark the appearance of the Northwood Symphonette; Aug. 20, the musical combo "Up for Grabs", presently playing at a local inn and on Aug. 27 another musical group, "Air Tight".

Residents are invited to bring a brown bag lunch for the noon hour concerts.

Embroiderers' Guild to have outing on Bay Queen

On Friday, August 7, lunching and cruising Lake Charlevoix on the Bay Queen, the Northern Michigan Chapter of the Embroiderers' Guild of America will have an opportunity to discuss their love of stitching. A special showing of hand-made articles all worked with a needle and thread will be offered by Mountain Rags of Charlevoix. This fashion show promises to be a program that exploits the sheer enjoyment of stiching along with special effects.

Anyone interested in Art-Needlework is welcome to attend this 'first time ever' Embroiderers' Guild of American luncheon cruise. Tickets are available for $9.95 per person. Reservations can be made by calling 547-9032.

The Embroiderers' Guild of America, Inc. is an educational, non-profit organization, founded in 1958. For 12 years it was affiliated with the Embroiderers' Guild of London. Its purpose is to set and maintain high standards of design, color and workmanship in all kinds of embroidery and canvaswork. Towards this end, the Guild: maintains an office to handle all business pertaining to the Guild's operation (9 a.m. to 5 p.m.), offers examination for teaching certificates, offers classes, correspondence courses and master craftsman award programs, sponsors and arranges lectures, seminars, exhibitions, field trips, etc. serves individual needleworkers, functions as the parent body of Chapters and Regions, offering guidance in organization and education. All Guild services are self-supporting and administered by volunteers.

The Northern Michigan Chapter is presently housed at Indian River and offers a full program of monthly meetings scaled to the direct needs of its members. Memberships will be available to interested persons on the luncheon cruise. A membership includes a subscription to Needle Arts, published quarterly by the Embroiderers' Guild of America, Inc. Any further questions can be forwarded to the Membership Chairman, Mrs. Frederick Nickels, 4093 Sunny Ridge, Rte. 1, Alanson, 49706 and her phone number is 529-6592.

THE DIAMOND ANNIVERSARY RING
You can start a tradition with your next wedding anniversary that will solve your anniversary gift problems for years to come. If you've celebrating your fifth anniversary for instance, you can have a ring made up with a row of five diamonds. Then each year you can add a diamond to signify how your love grows with time.
This is just one of the ways you can give a diamond anniversary ring. These rings come in many styles. The size and number of diamonds is entirely up to you. The basic requirement is one row of diamonds that goes around at least half the ring. You can make a full circle with diamonds if you like or add another row or two.
Diamond anniversary rings owe their popularity to the fact that when most men decide to get married, their budget limits the amount of money they can spend on engagement and wedding rings. After several years, however, these same men are often in a better position financially and can afford to spend a bit more for an important piece of jewelry. The diamond anniversary ring is an excellent choice because it can be harmoniously worn with most wedding sets and bands. Even an unusually shaped set or band can be custom fit with a row of diamonds.
When you give your wife a diamond anniversary ring, you are choosing a special gift whose significance is known the world over. You may add your own personal meaning such as "Thanks for putting up with me" or "You deserve beautiful things," but the essential message is "I love you now more than ever."

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bradley

Bier-Bradley

Karen Marie Bier and Gary Lewis Bradley were married Saturday, July 18, in the garden of the bride's brother on Warner Road.

The bride is the daughter of Ray Bier, Jr. of Sand Lake and H. Roselle Bier of Ada. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Bradley of Harbor Springs.

The ceremony, which was witnessed by immediate family members, was performed by the Reverend Rebecca Clokely of Harbor Springs.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Sally and Kenneth Bier, sister and brother of the bride, who sang, "Time in a Bottle", and Richard Beemon, brother-in-law of the bride, who sang, "A Wedding Song".

The bride's gown was of white qiana knit, empire style with puffed sleeves. She carried a bouquet of pink and red wild roses and baby's breath.

JoAnne Beemon, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor in a rose-colored dress. She carried a bouquet of wild flowers.

Ray Bier, III, the bride's brother, served as best man.

Following the wedding ceremony, the bridegroom's parents hosted a reception at the Holy Childhood Parish Hall in Harbor Springs. They were assisted by Mary Matton of Petoskey and the Petoskey 4-H Club, directed by Pam Barnett.

This fall, the bride will be a senior at Grand Valley State College, where she is studying journalism. The bridegroom will begin studies in the field of paramedics at Davenport College in Grand Rapids.

The Charlevoix Little League Major League All-Stars lost a hard fought battle to North Emmet 1-0 in a ten-inning struggle at Gaylord on July 24. Pitcher Jim Ciuk hurled nine scoreless innings before being relieved by Mike Thompson in the 10th. Sean Ferguson hit the ball hard for Charlevoix while Shaan Bier turned in some crucial defensive plays at third base. Included on the Charlevoix team were, front row, left to right, Derek Dutcher, Brian Greenway, Scott Wise, Casey Richardson, Shaan Bier, Robert Sharrow and Mike Thompson; in the back row are Coach Don Potter, Scott Denny, Scott DeYoung, Sean Ferguson, Jim Ciuk, Joey Miller, Jamie Spencely, Dan Drury and Manager Nick DeYoung.

Dick Georgi, left, puts everything into a shot in the recent finals of the Michelob Tennis Tournament held at Michigan State University in back of the stadium. Team members included Coach Bruce MacArthur, singles players Hagen Mankee and MacArthur; doubles players Don DeMoor, Bill Dietrich, George Richardson, Guy Swanson, Gunnar Lundteigen and Bob Morgridge. Singles alternate was Reed Freidinger and doubles alternate Dick Georgi.

Walloon Lake auction, sale set

At 9 a.m. "sharp", on Saturday, August 8, the 1981 Third Annual Garage Sale-Auction will get underway at Vert's Boat Storage in Walloon Village. The auction will begin at 11 a.m., and both the Garage Sale and Auction will continue until all items are sold.

This year's Chairman, Homer Golden, issued this personal message: "A BIG 'thank you' to all the wonderful volunteers who have made a tough job much easier. Special thanks to Bob Ryan of McLaughlin Company, and Howard Weber of Charloon Corporation, for the use of their trucks."

This year's auction will feature such unusual and useful items as a player piano, pump organ, Boston Whaler, sailboat and outboard boat, plus many other interesting articles. More donations are needed, however, and a calling committee has been set up to contact all Association members. Anyone interested in donating items may bring them to the drop-off stations located around the Lake, or they may call Roy Belknap, 347-4379, or Homer Golden, 347-2361, to arrange pickup.

Bill Fisher, Walloon Lake Association Trust Treasurer, emphasizes that all proceeds of the sale and auction will go toward funding the work of the Trust. Since this organization has qualified for tax-exempt status by the IRS, gifts to the Trust are tax deductible, and donations to the sale may be taken as charitable contributions. The donor has the responsibility to determine the value of the gift or service donated.

Auctioneers will be Weldon Rumery of Allegan, Michigan, and "Pennsylvania" Pete.

A food concession will be operated by the Boy Scouts.

Chicago Club to mark 100 years of summer memories with weekend celebration

Moore, Caleb F. Gates, Silas Moore, Cuthbert Sprong, J. K. Harmon, T. M. Avery, Rev. J. W. Dinsmore."

During the winter of 1880-1881, the "wealthy Chicago parties" developed their plans for the Association. They had brought a landscape gardener to Charlevoix in November to "lay out and arrange their grounds", and he apparently had done his work well because on June 4, 1881, the Charlevoix Sentinel reported further:

"Workmen are engaged in clearing the grounds of the Chicago Summer Resort, and work on the large Club House will start June 6th.

"It will be a two story building, in the form of an 'L', and will have fronts 60 x 100 feet, with broad verandas the entire length of both wings."

"Large, high, airy rooms"

Work on the Club House progressed rapidly, and Charlevoixans apparently followed it closely, because on July 23, 1881, the Sentinel reported again:

"The Club House, which has but recently been opened, occupies a commanding location upon the site, fronting 100 feet on Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix), and 80 feet toward Charlevoix and Lake Michigan. It has large, high, airy rooms, broad halls, and deep verandas above and below, encircling the house and entire frontage, and the comfort that is pictured upon them on a cool summer evening, with the large armchairs occupied by the crowd of happy resorters, is something to be envied.

"A tower arises above the angle and from its top a view is presented that is beyond our powers of description. Away up Pine Lake can be seen Boyne City, while just below you Round Lake glistens in the sun, with Charlevoix affording a beautiful bird's-eye picture on its western border. You lift your eye and the broad Lake Michigan stretches away beyond the islands and from it comes a refreshing breeze...

"The Club House contains 27 sleeping rooms, a ladies' sitting room containing a superb Hallet & Davis piano, a gents' Clubroom, a large dining room, and a culinary department abounding in all the modern improvements of the art of cooking. The house has water pipes running to every room, and a large hand force pump to supply the water."

The 27 sleeping rooms have now been reduced to five suites and three single rooms which are used mostly by the counselors who teach Chicago Club children and adults to swim, play tennis, sail, row, and do handicrafts.

Ann Cross, a descendant of the Stuart family, is a fifth generation member of the Chicago Club.

The Club House dining room may look different from what it did years ago, but a lingering feeling of sameness is expressed by members recalling the past.

Ellen Williamson, a member of the Douglas clan who were pioneer Chicago Club members, wrote in her best-selling book, "When We Went First Class":

"Gradually, dinner moved to evening (from noon) except on Sundays, and Sunday evening, after a supper of cornmeal mush and stewed pears, we all went next door to the Casino and sang hymns. We still sing hymns, but now after a buffet supper of roast beef and broiled whitefish and assorted fruit and pastries."

It will again be a buffet supper of roast beef with all the trimmings this coming Sunday evening when Club members and their friends gather at the Club House dining room for dinner. And afterward they will join together to sing the same old hymns that have echoed around the Club grounds for so many years.

The One-Hundredth Anniversary Celebration begins Friday evening with cocktails at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pew, who have the newest modern home on the Club grounds. Children will have dinner at the Club House while the adults are having cocktails. Dinner for adults will be served later.

The young people of the Club and their friends will present a program following dinner.

Saturday festivities include a trip to the Waterfront Art Fair, a tennis tournament, golf and sailing, games at the beach for the children; a picnic lunch at noon on the lawn, and a Bay Queen Dinner Cruise in the evening.

Now 25 cottages

Everyone at the Club, young and old, has been invited on the cruise. Many will dress in costumes reminiscent of bygone days, and the adults will do their bit of entertaining following dinner.

On Sunday, there will be a luncheon for out-of-towners at the home of Barbara Dixon at Oyster Bay. In the afternoon, there will be baseball games for both children and adults, followed by cocktails in the evening and the above-mentioned buffet dinner at the Club House.

There are now 25 cottages on the Club grounds, and, according to one member, they are overflowing this week.

The Stuart cottage.

Among those here is a sixth generation descendent of a founding member, two-year-old Kristen Million of Phoenix, Ariz. She is a great, great, great granddaughter of Judson K. Harmon, a former governor of Ohio, who was a prominent member of the Club for many years. Kristen and her family are in the Cassett Cottage, named after her great, great grandmother, Marjorie Harmon Cassett.

Fifth generation descendents of pioneer Chicago Club families include members of the Uhl, Stuart, Wilson, McIlvaine, Stevenson, and Lord families.

Other family cottages are full of grandchildren, great grandchildre, and great, great grandchildren of the founders. Occupying the original family cottages are Dickinsons, Pews, Parsons, Stuarts, Macdonalds, Brewsters, Wilsons, and Levines.

Still other families related to early club members sharing different cottages at the Club include the Reids, Warners, and Palmers.

"What memorable places..."

At least two descendents of original cottage owners now have cottages in the Charlevoix area outside the Chicago Club grounds: Barbara Dixon at Oyster Bay and Nina Wilson, farther down on Lake Charlevoix.

And, not to be outdone, there are a son and two daughters of founding members:

Cyrus Adams, son of Cyrus H. Adams; Mrs. Gardner Brown, daughter of Harold Smith; and Jean Richardson, daughter of Robert Stuart.

Many of those who have spent time at the Chicago Club in past years and who could not return for this week's birthday party might answer a question in the same manner as Ellen Williamson in her book:

"What memorable places and incidents would I like to see again or repeat if I could? The list would be so long that you would be reading past midnight, so I'll mention a few. First, I'd like to be once again in a sailboat race up in northern Michigan on a summer afternoon with the whole fleet of six-meter yachts that we used to race, about 15 sloops in all. The breeze would be fresh, the blue waters would be sparkling, and I would either be at the helm or maybe handling the Swedish jib."

Members are widespread

Although the Chicago Club was founded by Chicagoans, its membership now lives all over the United States – in the Detroit area, Cincinnati, Grand Rapids, California, but the greatest number still call the Chicago area home.

William R. Dickinson of Lake Forest, Ill. (a Chicago suburb) has been president of the Chicago Club for many years. He is assisted by Robert Pew of Grand Rapids as vice-president; Angus Macdonald, also of Lake Forest, as treasurer; and Jean Warner of Birmingham as secretary.

Mrs. Henry Hogan was the Courier contact on the One-Hundredth Anniversary story. She reports that almost every Club member has had a part in making and carrying out arrangements for this week's festitivites.

Members of the Chicago Club have always been good neighbors to all of Charlevoix, supporting local businesses, the churches, the hospital, and the United Way. The whole community joins in wishing them a very happy birthday.

STATEMENT OF NONDISCRIMINATION
July 27, 1981

Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc., P.O. Box 138, Boyne City, Michigan, 49712, has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules, Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, the organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in, any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder and may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250 or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 180 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations.

Flute-piano recital to be presented at First Congregational Church

A duo recital for flute and piano will be presented by Kenneth Andrews and Nancy Zipay, artists at the Bay View Conservatory of Music, at the First Congregational Church here at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 11.

The program will include a wide variety of selections for flute and piano.

The program will open with the Sonata No. 2 in E. Flat Major by J. S. Bach followed by a 20th century composition of Bela Bartok entitled Suite Paysanne Hongroise which is being performed in observance of the 100th anniversary of Bartok's birth. A selection by a French flutist, Francois Borne, entitled Fantaisie brillante sur Carmen based on the themes from the opera Carmen will conclude the first part of the concert.

Following a brief intermission, they will play Concertino Op. 107 by Cecile Chaminade followed by Sequenza by Luciano Berio and Sonatina by Eldin Burton.

The artists have presented a number of concerts at Bay View and elsewhere in the area this summer. On Aug. 18 they are scheduled to present a concert at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey. This fall they are scheduled for concerts in New Hampshire and New York.

Ms. Zipay, who has been with the music festival at Bay View for the past eight years, is a graduate of the Manhattan School of Music with an M.M. degree. Andrews, who is with the festival for the second season, is a graduate of Indiana University with an M.M. degree and is currently on the faculty at Ohio University.

Garden Club to visit Ransom Preserve

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club will make a field trip to the Charles A. Ransom Nature Preserve in Hayes township on Tuesday, Aug. 11. The Boyne City Garden Club will join the local club for the field trip which will originate at the home of Mrs. Max Hosmer, 205 Elm St.

Members and their guests will meet at the Hosmer residence at 12:45 p.m. for the trip to the nature preserve, an 80 acre tract of land at an elevation of 320 feet which features rolling meadows and mature hardwood forests. It was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Ransom to the Little Traverse Conservancy which protects unique, important natural lanes in northern Michigan for the benefit of the general public. The view from the hilltop is superb. Mrs. Hosmer and the co-hostess, Mrs. Gerald Staublin, will serve refreshments.

At the same meeting, reservations will be taken for the annual meeting and luncheon to be held at the Weathervane Inn at 12:30 p.m. Sept. 8. Hostesses will be Mrs. Paul Steffan, Mrs. Clifford Biddick, Sr., Mrs. W.W. Francis, Mrs. C.H. Ringler and Mrs. J.A. Zinn.

Members are also advised of a luncheon cruise aboard the Bay Queen on Monday, Sept. 7, at which Robert Miles will present a special narration calling attention to points of interest along the cruise route and their historical significance. Mrs. Carl F. Kohler is in charge of ticket sales for the cruise.

Tickets on the one-of-a-kind quilt made by club members which will be given away on Saturday, Aug. 8 may be obtained at Sears.

Mrs. Homer Brady hosted a recent meeting of the club. Mrs. Ralph McRae was the co-hostess. During the meeting, the membership visited the nearby rose garden at the Henry Felix home where Mr. Felix explained the scheduled watering, spraying and fertilizing plus keeping a watchful eye on the garden is the secret to a successful one. The garden features a variety of roses in a rainbow of colors.

Charlevoix residents and visitors got an unexpected surprise over the weekend when the Pride of Baltimore, above, paid an unexpected visit to Round Lake on Saturday afternoon through Sunday. The Pride of Baltimore is a 137-foot square rigged sailing vessel that is making a tour of such Great Lake ports as Chicago and Detroit.

Northwood Symphonette plans visit

August is the month the Northwood Symphonette marks the beginning of its third season touring northern Michigan resort areas. Highlighting the 1981 Festival of the Lakes, sponsored by Northwood Institute, are performances in Ann Arbor, Charlevoix, Detroit, Good Hart, Harbor Springs, Interlochen, Mackinac Island and Roscommon.

The Festival is being presented in cooperation with the Crooked Tree Arts Council, the Roscommon Chamber Music Society Arts Council, St. Ann's Church and The Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Three performances are in conjunction with existing series, with the Symphonette appearing as guest celebrities: The University of Michigan Summer Fare Series August 5 in Ann Arbor, the National Music Camp Celebrity Series August 18 at Interlochen, and the 12th Annual Fine Arts Summer Festival sponsored by the Roscommon Chamber Music Society Arts Council, August 9 at Kirtland Community College and August 16 at Roscommon High School.

Culminating their twelve-concert tour August 5 - 20, the group travels to Detroit August 22-23 as featured orchestra of the National Flute Association Convention, performing with outstanding flutists of national and international prominence.

The Northwood Symphonette was formed two years ago by Northwood Institute as a visible example of the college's commitment to support creative achievement in the arts. Northwood Institute is a college of business management with campuses in Michigan, Indiana and Texas, and extensions and programs in Florida, California, Canada and Europe. Its practical free-

When Mom goes camping, she needs special help with kitchen chores

Vacation. You look forward to it all year. It's a time when the hum-drum of everyday life turns into an adventure. In short, it's a get-a-way.

That's one of the biggest reasons why millions of people have purchased some type of recreation vehicle – to get away from the cities or suburbia and replenish the spirit through a trip to the less cluttered parts of America.

But what about Mom? The last thing she wants to do while on vacation, whether on a two-week journey to the Porcupine Mountains in the Upper Penisula or simply a weekend escape to a neighboring campground within a few hours of home, is to spend a lot of time in the kitchen, planning and preparing meals or doing housework.

She needn't woory. With a little planning and some help from her fellow RV campers, there's no need for Mom to spend any more than a fraction of her normal time with "house" chores.

Experienced camping mothers offer the following pointers on how to best handle the cooking duties when on an RV vacation.

First, remember that you're going to be cooking simple. RVs take travelers to exciting places where there's lots to do besides eat. Meals become much less formal and, therefore, less complex to prepare.

Second, vacations are family affairs. A short talk with the kids before leaving home can establish some ground rules for helping out whoever is planning to be the chief cook. Rotating dish duty or appointing a daily kitchen assistant works will for many families. Some families just continue the rules that are in effect for helping Mom when at home.

Stocking your camp kitchen with the right staples and utensils is also important. In the necessities category are some of the following kitchen tools: a set of nestled pots and pans that take up as little space as possible, a griddle, a baking pan, casserole, water bucket and measuring cups and spoons.

You'll also need a can opener, spatula, a few knives and clean-up equipment. And if you don't mind the added expense, paper plates and cups can save quite a bit of washing time.

The staples you need depend somewhat on what you plan to cook, but you'll probably want to stock the "mini-pantry" with flour, coffee, shortening, mashed potatoes, mustard, onions and sugar.

A little meal planning is important, too. Obviously, the fewer pots used, the less time it takes to clean up. Therefore, a premium should be put on meals like stews and casseroles and hoagies or burgers. They're just as nutritious and take less time to prepare.

According to Arlene Strom's popular book "Cooking on Wheels," whoever is doing the cooking should consult the head driver so that meal planning can be done around anticipated stops near big grocery stores. Your chances of finding everything you need while making just one shopping stop are obviously much greater at supermarkets than at small markets.

Mrs. Strom also warns RVers not to be unreasonable with themselves. If no one feels like cooking on a given evening, go out to eat. You'd do the same if you were at home, and when on vacation, the idea is to indulge yourself a little – or even a lot!

Remember, most of the recipes used at home can be cooked easily on the road, especially if your RV is equipped with a gas stove and oven. Even if it's not, camp fires may take a little getting used to, but they can also produce dishes to rival those at home.

A good tip to remember when cooking over an open fire is to coat the entire outside of the pot with some type of bar soap. Lye is best, but any bar soap will do. If you coat the outside first, the black soot virtually wipes away. It's an old Boy Scout trick.

RV dealers and camping supply stores usually stock a hefty supply of camping cookbooks at reasonable prices. The investment of a few dollars is well worth it to have proven dishes that are designed specifically for outdoor or RV cooking.

Simple rules can keep some of Mom's other at-home duties to a minimum, too. For example, if you're on a long trip, laundry duty should be rotated among family members, as should cleaning up the camper when that's needed.

The whole idea of camping is that it's a family affair and that should include the chores as well as the adventures. Conventional housework is drastically reduced in an RV just because there isn't as much space to be kept clean. A little help from the rest of the family can make everyone, including Mom, come back from the RV vacation rested and feeling like there really has been a break in the routine.

The trick is a little planning and a lot of teamwork.

We know a special place for you...

Symphonette sets schedule

enterprise-based curriculum has received the support of business leaders throughout the country.

The Northwood Symphonette, under the direction of Don Jaeger, is a group of professional musicians living in the United States and Europe who combine their individual talents to form this virtuoso ensemble. In the past two years, the Symphonette has travelled across the country, including the Festival of the Lakes tour, a winter sunbelt tour and Festival of the Desert in Palm Springs, California, and they made their New York debut in Lincoln Center with Canadian Brass.

This Festival of the Lakes features a wide spectrum of musical literature with members of the orchestra appearing as soloists. Special concerts in Ann Arbor and Interlochen feature guest soloists William Bennett and Keith Bryan, flutists.

Week I showcases the virtuosity of clarinetist Frank Kowalsky, Symphonette member who is also a member of the Interlochen Arts Academy faculty. The week begins August 5 in Ann Arbor with guest flutist Keith Bryan premiering the La Montaine "Flute Concerto."

Dates and locations are: Wednesday, August 5, Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor at 8:30 p.m.; Thursday, August 6, St. Ann's Church, Mackinac Island at 3:30 p.m.; Saturday, August 8, Holy Childhood Church, Harbor Springs at 9:00 p.m.; Sunday, August 9, Kirtland Community College, Roscommon at 8:00 p.m.

Week II features Symphonette Concertmaster William Preucil, Jr., together with Gwen Starker and Norman Paulu performing the Bach Concerto for Three Violins. Also featured will be Rip Pretat on double bass with Preucil in the Bottesini "Grand Duo Concerante."

Dates and locations are: Thursday, August 13, St. Ann's Church, Mackinac Island at 3:30 p.m.; Friday, August 14, Community Reformed Church, Charlevoix at 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, August 15, Holy Childhood Church, Harbor Springs at 9:00 p.m.; Sunday, August 16, Roscommon High School, Roscommon at 8:00 p.m.

Week III takes the Symphonette to Interlochen for a performance by England's premiere flutist, William Bennett, performing the Mozart Flute Concerto in G Major. The Symphonette then completes its northern tour in the Grand Hotel with orchestra members Jacqueline Hofto and Catherine Paulu as featured soloists.

Dates and locations are: Tuesday, August 18, Kresge Auditorium, Interlochen at 8:00 p.m.; Thursday, August 20, The Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island at 9:00 p.m.

In addition to their regular concerts, special appearances by ensembles Symphonette will take place in Charlevoix August 9 and 16 onboard The Bay Queen, a dinner ship which will cruise Lake Charlevoix for brunch. A brass ensemble will perform in the downtown marina park at noon August 13.

A special concert is slated for August 12 at St. Ignatius Church in Good Hart at 8:30 p.m. featuring the Symphonette brass, string and woodwind ensembles in a candlelight performance.

The Northwood Symphonette music director and conductor, Don Jaeger, is well known to Michigan audiences as former conductor and music director of the Midland Symphony and is conductor of the Northwestern Michigan Symphony Orchestra. Long affiliated with Interlochen, Jaeger conducted most ensembles there and served the Academy as its director. He is also former director of the Midland Center for the Arts.

It was Jaeger who brought together members of the Symphonette, many of whom had performed with one another in orchestras and ensembles throughout the country.

Home base during the Festival of the Lakes for the Symphonette is Hemlock Point, Walloon Lake.

August brings new list of chores

The trickle of garden produce turns to a veritable flood this month. But the vegetable garden isn't the only feature of the landscape to demand attention. Michigan State University Extension specialists suggest the following chores are timely:

Take cuttings from coleus, fuchsia, impatiens, wax begonias and geraniums to grow indoors this winter. Take more cuttings than you think you need or want to make up for those that don't form roots.

Encourage dahlias to produce larger flowers by removing some of the lateral buds and thinning some of the side shoots. Stake and tie tall plants as necessary.

Begin preparing beds for spring-flowering bulbs and order bulbs for late fall planting.

Plant day lilies and peonies. Divide and replant crowded iris, peonies and lilies if you haven't already done so.

Cut back the foliage of perennials when it begins to die.

Pinch the faded flowers and seedheads from annual flowers to keep them producing blossoms until frosts.

Seed bare spots in established lawns. Loosen the soil before seeding and firm it afterwards. Use seed that's compatible with existing grass and the lawn environment. Generally, that means Improved Kentucky bluegrass varieties in sunny areas and a mixture of bluegrass and red fescue for shaded spots. Water daily during dry weather – more than once, if necessary – until the grass is well established.

Establish a new lawn or renovate an old one between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15. MSU research has shown this to be the best time for lawn establishment in Michigan.

Plan to apply a complete fertilizer to establish lawns around Labor Day.

White grubs and sod webworms may be damaging lawns now. Get expert help to identify the problem and control it with the insecticide diazinon applied according to label directions.

For top quality, harvest vegetables as soon as they're ready and use or preserve them as soon as possible.

Keeping picking cucumbers, peppers, tomatoes and summer squash to keep them producing.

Harvest potatoes after tops die.

Storage onions should be harvested after the tops turn brown and fall over. Cure the bulbs about a week in a well ventilated area before storing. Onions for fresh use can be harvested as you need them.

Thin and-or transplant fall vegetables planted in July.

Plant peas, beans, lettuce, spinach, radishes and beets for a fall harvest. If maggots have been a problem in root crops sprinkle diazinon in the furrow according to label directions.

Now is the time to collect plants for drying

Fall is a good time to collect materials for dried plant projects. But if you wait until then to start collecting, you may miss out on some fine materials.

Horticulturists at Michigan State University suggest collecting and drying materials all spring and summer, as well as into the fall. The result will be a wider variety of pressed and dried plant materials for arrangements, plaques and other crafts uses.

Seed pods of tulips, iris, daylily, poppy, lilac and other spring and early summer blooming flowers and shrubs will be gone or deteriorated by fall. Likewise the cones of many evergreens have better color if collected before they are weathered by rain and stained by soil and fallen leaves.

Various weeds and grasses mature all summer, the horticulturists point out. For use in dried arrangements, harvest them before they go to seed.

Cattails, too, will last longer indoors if they're collected while immature. Wait until fall to gather them, and they are likely to break open and fill your home with cattail fluff.

If you live in or near a rural area, you might want to gather ripe grain during the harvest season. Wheat, barley and oats left bebind by the combine can be collected and used in dozens of ways.

Flowers – both annuals and perennials – maintain their shape and color better if they're harvested before they're completely mature.

Aging flowers tend to fade and shed petals as they dry. Harvesting strawflowers, globe thistle, cockscomb, allium, statice, salvia, marigold, zinnia, ageratum, baby's breath, pansy and viola, Queen Ann's lace, chrysanthemum and other flowers as they are available gives you a wide variety of flowers to use later.

Some plant materials are available only in late summer and fall, of course. These include goldenrod, milkweed pods, teasel, water lily seed pods, dried fern fronds, osage oranges, acrons, gourds, Indian corn, and many other seed pods and cones. Combined with flowers, grasses and seeds gathered in the spring and summer, these materials should provide the makings of dozens of craft items.

It's full speed ahead for LexaLite rebuilding plans; EDC may help

All indications are that LexaLite International Corp. will rebuild at the Hayes Township site of its main plant which was almost completely destroyed in an August 2 fire.

A possible supporting role in the rebuilding effort will be offered by the recently established Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation which has indicated approval of the sale of up to $3 million in low interest bonds.

In a statement Thursday, LexaLite president Josh Barnes said that operations were continuing at three sites in Charlevoix including the firm's Specialty Products Development facility. Production is scheduled to begin this week Tuesday at rented facilities in the area while limited manufacturing operations may resume at the main plant later this week.

Building contracts for a new, larger facility were also slated to be let this week and equipment orders placed by next week. Contemplated is a building 12,500 square feet larger than the former manufacturing area of 60,000 square feet.

Totally destroyed in the fire, according to a LexaLite summary, were the entire manufacturing building except one bay over the photometric lab and extreme east end of the press room; all Charlevoix Tool & Engineering (LexaLite's tooling facility) machinery and equipment, crane, benches, small tools, offices, engineering and design areas; all painting and metallizing equipment, air compressors, vacuum pumps, ovens and support equipment; all maintenance equipment; employees' facilities including locker with personal effects; all finished goods and work-in-process; most raw materials; some exclusively owned molds crucial to the firm's operation.

Other molds were either undamaged or repairable thus allowing limited operations to begin this week.

Barnes said that the precise cause of the fire is still unknown although the State Fire Marshal did pinpoint the maintenance and tool storage area as where it started.

Asks formation of panel to review fire

Concern over the devastation of the Lexalite International Corp. by fire has prompted a call by a local industrialist for a review of the fire to help prevent such a tragedy from occurring in the future. Don Hufford of Hufford Industries, Inc. of Charlevoix appeared before the City Council last week to ask that a special review panel be formed to look into how the LexaLite fire got out of control enough to destroy the entire manufacturing wing.

"I am not criticizing the firemen," said Hufford, "But the fact is the building burned down. Without pointing any fingers, I think we should sit down and figure out what we can do to prevent something like this from happening again. If it had happened to us six weeks ago when our plant was full of inventory, we would have been wiped out. It's that simple."

Hufford suggested that a reveiw panel include representatives from the City Council, city fire department and Charlevoix Township fire department. He also said that the County Board would be a good forum for the discussion since they do not administer any fire fighting equipment and would be more objective.

"We just need some answers before it happens again," said Hufford.

Supernaw will face Staley on mayoral ballot in November

Overwhelming support from Second Ward voters in last week's primary election made mayoral challenger Ken Staley a strong contender going into the November general election.

Staley accumulated a total of 480 votes to incumbent Sam Supernaw's 221 and F. Earl Muma's 152 in the city primary. Staley and Supernaw, the two top vote getters, will face off on the November ballot.

Supernaw's strongest showing was in the First Ward where he received 116 votes to Staley's 81 and Muma's 30. In the Second Ward, 227 votes were cast for Staley compared to 49 for Supernaw and 37 for Muma. In the Third Ward, it was Staley again on top with 172 while Supernaw received 66 votes and Muma 85.

In a three-way race for the Second Ward seat on the City Council, the two council veterans on the ballot survived. Ivan Whitley, who left the council in December after five years, was the top vote getter with 152. Incumbent and seven-year council member Robert Timms received 112 votes to insure his place on the November ballot against Whitley. The third candidate, Hugh Mason, received 46 votes.

Joseph Morris and David Strawbridge will advance to the November election for the Third Ward representative on the council following their strong showings in a four-way race. Morris attracted 124 votes to Strawbridge's 106. Theodore Felter received 49 votes in the primary and Barbara Ann Kane received 41.

Unopposed and thus not involved in the August 4 city primary were First Ward council member Jeffrey Porter and City Clerk Deanne Baich.

Dixon Avenue residents unite against rezoning

by DAVE KNIGHT

Growing neighborhood opposition to a proposed multiple housing unit on E. Dixon Ave. will be aired at the August 17 City Council meeting when the council will review a rezoning request turned down by the City Planning Commission.

By a 4-0 vote, with one abscence and one abstention, the Planning Commission voted last week to recommend that a vacant lot at 102 E. Dixon Ave., adjacent to the Lodge motel, not be rezoned from R-1, single family residential, to R-4, multiple family dwelling.

The request to rezone the property was made by Jack Uhrick who represented a group of developers proposing to build six condominium-townhouse units at the location.

As of last Friday, Uhrick did not have a finished site plan for the project but said that it would consist of two buildings of three units each. Styling, landscaping and other features have not yet been determined, said Uhrick.

About 45 people turned out Monday night, August 10, at the home of Gene Bridge to form the Dixon Avenue Property Owners Association (DAPOA). Bridge's home at 200 E. Dixon adjoins the property being eyed for development.

James Elliott, 301 E. Dixon, was elected president of the neighborhood organization Monday night. Elliott said that although the DAPOA may deal with other concerns of Dixon Ave. residents in the future, its sole function for the present time is to prevent the development of multiple family dwelling units at 102 E. Dixon.

"We are mainly concerned about the problems caused by the increase in population density in what is now a residential area," said Elliott, "After all, population density is the basis for any zoning ordinance."

Elliott cited increased traffic on an "already busy street", more problems with snow removal, parking congestion and increased need for municipal services as potential effects of a multiple dwelling unit project on the proposed site.

Other DAPOA officers elected Monday night included Ruth Curtis, vice president; Barbara Miller, secretary and Lucille Ingram, treasurer.

Said Uhrick in response to the objections from neighbors, "I don't see what they are upset about. This property (102 E. Dixon) has a commercial operation on one side and a rooming house across the street. It is not as if it was in the middle of a residential area."

Uhrick pointed to the proposed development as a positive influence on the local economy saying, "What we are proposing would be good for Charlevoix at a time when the community needs all the help it can get."

DAPOA organizer Gene Bridge, along with Elliott, has circulated petition forms opposing the rezoning of the property. Bridge said that, as of Friday, he had collected "well over one hundred signatures" on the petitions. He also said that he received numerous calls from neighborhood residents supportive of the DAPOA but unable to attend Monday night's meeting.

"We have seen what uncontrolled condominium development has done to the south side of Round Lake," said Bridge, "And we don't want it to happen to the north side."

Rostars are building their dream home literally from the ground up

by ANNE KELLY

When Faye and Mike Rostar of Charlevoix told their friends that they were planning to build their own home the usual images were conjured up. Builder's plans, contractors, masonry work, electricians, plumbers. These are the ingredients that go into the making of a house after all. These and all the numerous little frustrations associated with an undertaking of that sort: materials that don't arrive on time, time limits that don't get met, specifications that somehow aren't fulfilled.

What their friends didn't realize at the time was that Faye and Mike (with a little help from family and friends) wear all the hats when it comes to their hand-hewn home on Pincherry Road in Boyne City. They're not just building a house, the Rostar's are creating one. From the woods, from the swamps, from the cedars, from the perspiration of honest labor, this family is now to the point of raising the walls that will protect them from the elements next winter.

The idea of building a log home, in itself, is not unique. Log cabins for vacationing and hunting are more or less a trademark of lake and woodland areas, and are certainly a fairly common sight in northern Michigan. Mike considered this simple idea himself while formulating a plan in his mind for something slightly more complicated. His parents have transformed a hunting cabin into a log home, little by little over a number of years. But he and Faye wanted a more finished look. Thus the idea grew from that of a rounded log concept to half-rounded exterior to both sides flat, the interior side being planed.

The initial step involved clearing the prospective site. Rostar's land on Pincherry is a 10-acre parcel heavily wooded primarily with cedar and poplar. The cedar used in the construction of their home was felled either on the construction site or was cut and dragged some 500 feet from a nearby swamp. One of the few outside services which Reibel ponders appeal of suspension by Atty. Discipline Bd.

Charlevoix attorney Arthur Reibel says he has not yet decided whether to appeal an August 3 decision by the State Attorney Discipline Board to suspend his law practice for 90 days.

Reibel has until August 23 to file an appeal with the Michigan Supreme Court. The Attorney Discipline Board's action last week amended an earlier decision by the 46th Circuit Hearing Panel to suspend Reibel for one year. The board also reversed the panel by allowing Reibel to forego recertification which is not legally required unless a suspension is of three years or more.

Grievance proceedings grew out of events of February 19-23, 1979 in which Reibel handled the case of former Charlevoix resident Joel Arvilla. Arvilla had been jailed in Leelanau County for passing bad checks and requested that Reibel represent him. Reibel then contacted Arvilla's sister Denis who later forwarded to him a sum of $2,600 collected from her mother, brother and her own funds.

Denis Arvilla testified that Reibel indicated $1,200 of the money to be used as cash bond to free Joel and that it would be returned. Reibel claimed that his fee accounted for $2,500 of the sum and that he was not bound to return the $1,200 to Denis Arvilla.

Reibel was charged by State Grievance Administrator Michael Schwartz with charging an illegal fee, failing to segregate funds provided by Ms. Arvilla, posting bond in his own name on behalf of a client and failing to pay Ms. Arvilla funds to which she was entitled. In a May, 1981 decision, the 46th Circuit Hearing Panel sustained all charges except those of excessive fee and posting of bond and recommended suspension of one year followed by recertification.

The Attorney Discipline Board basically agreed with the panel's findings but found the penalty too severe saying in their decision, "Although the misapplication of funds requires substantial discipline, a suspension of one year is too severe in light of all the surrounding circumstances."

Said Reibel of the amended suspension, "I think this indicates that the hearing panel was immature and ill-informed when they made their decision of a one-year suspension. Frankly, I thought it would be reduced even more."

He added that he has not had a chance to study the discipline board's action of last week and will not decide whether to appeal until he has a chance to go over the material.

Norwood reunion plans made

Plans for a reunion of former students and teachers at the Norwood School over the Labor Day weekend have been announced.

The reunion will be held at the former school building, now known as Friendship Hall, in the village of Norwood. Former students, teachers, and school board members at the school, which became a part of the Charlevoix School system, are urged to attend the event beginning at 5 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 5. The event will include a potluck supper with the meat and beverage being provided.

Anyone desiring additional information may call Mrs. William Parsons.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The first passenger train from the south came into Charlevoix on June 26, 1892, stopping at the newly-built depot on the north side of the swing bridge. No provisions had been made for stopping on the south side of the bridge, but very soon members of the Belvedere Club were complaining about being passed up by a train that passed just a few feet from Club property. So the train began making stops at the south end of the bridge and a board walk was built from the railroad tracks to the Belvedere Hotel. A few years later, the Belvedere Depot (pictured above) was built, making Charlevoix the only town of its size in the country to have two depots. The Belvedere Depot served the Club and the south side of Charlevoix well for many years. It burned to the ground just 50 years ago, in September, 1931, and, due to economic conditions, was never rebuilt.

Birds of the Art Fair

By all accounts, Saturday's 23rd annual Waterfront Art Fair was one of the best attended and featured some of the highest quality exhibits in the art fair's history. Over 160 exhibit spaces were taken at the fair which was threatened early in the day by showers but went on under sunny skies by mid-morning. Included in the many exhibits this year were several unique interpretations of birds done in every medium imaginable. From the realistic to the impressionistic, the photos here feature some of the avian themes seen by fair-goers Saturday.

Opinion

Knight on the Town
Season of Plenty

by Dave Knight

If the air traffic controllers knew what they were doing, they'd forget their crummy (according to themselves) old (according to Ronald Reagan) jobs and get into the tourism business up here in Northern Michigan.

It's been a bountiful season so far: one that may break some records and that has already surpassed the expectations of just about everyone in the industry. Extremely heavy traffic in Charlevoix, both vehicular and pedestrian, has been almost a daily routine since early this summer.

Though traffic, by itself, does not necessarily convert to ringing cash registers, who can deny that the first step to more business is to attract more people.

Our area has definitely attracted more people this summer and many of them have come by boat.

Local commuters and others who find themselves driving through Charlevoix's central business district with any regularity may have noticed, as I have, that we are being caught more often by the drawbridge raising over the Pine River channel this summer and being held longer as well.

It is not our imagination.

According to bridge tender Carl Soblesky, who keeps very accurate records on such things, the bridge had opened a total of 2,140 times this year as of August 4. That compares to a total of 2,160 times for the same period last year.

Soblesky points to the Beaver Island Boat Company's two new vessels, the Bay Queen and the Happy Dolphin as partially responsible for the increase in bridge openings but says that he has noticed a definite increase in the number of pleasure boaters as well.

That opinion is solidly backed up by the figures kept by Charlevoix City Dockmaster Jim Ance.

The city has a gold mine on its hands, says Ance of the newly refurbished city docks featuring improved electrical and water hookups, more available dock space and generally better facilities than most municipal operations. As of August 5, $28,839.95 in docking fees had been collected from visiting boaters. As of the same date last year, only $22,351 had been collected and in 1979 the total was $20,265 for the corresponding period.

Though municipal docking rates were raised slightly this season, the approximate 30 percent increase in fees collected definitely reflects heavier traffic, says Ance. The stays are shorter, he observed, with many of only one or two nights, but there simply are just more boats coming in.

They started coming earlier - about the first of July - and the activity has been sustained ever since. Many are boating for the first time, said Ance, who also noted that several more boats from Wisconsin are showing up this year.

Boaters aside, one new attraction that has accounted for literally hundreds more visitors roaming the downtown daily is the Bay Queen.

Luncheon cruises, with capacities of over 200, are booked full almost every day of the week. Supper cruises are also doing well and the boat has been chartered for special groups well into September and October.

Publicity director Ann Hendricks of the Bay Queen-Sea Hawk Cruises says the response to the dining cruises has been far beyond their initial expectations. While they first planned to operate only a short time past Labor Day, plans have now been changed and the Bay Queen will be sailing well into the autumn season.

The current tourism boom is not strictly a local phenomenon. Statewide, revenue from tourism is about six percent above last year already and it is almost a sure thing that the 1978 record of 50 million tourists from out-of-state will be topped this year.

Whether lowered gasoline prices, a new confidence in the economy, people taking delayed vacations from years past or whatever, we'll still have a nice, long winter to sit back and figure out what went right this season and why.

For now, let's just be thankful.

Letters: We'll be back again soon

To the Editor:

In July I was in Charlevoix with my children. While attending a concert at Castle Farms I lost my purse. Frankly, I never expected to see it again. To my great surprise it was returned to me by mail with everything intact.

I am very grateful to the honesty and thoughtfulness of Barry Lee who lives in your town. For him to take the time and effort to return my purse to me is an outstanding quality.

My family loved our visit to your beautiful town. Now, more than ever, we are looking forward to a return visit. You certainly have many reasons to be proud of Charlevoix.

Letters: Cancer tourney, beaches

Thanks for a great job

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Charlevoix unit of the American Cancer Society, I would like to say a tremendous thank-you to Phil Loomis for his undying optimism in organizing the Hagen-Zaharias Benefit Golf Tournament last Sunday, August 2 at the Antrim Dells Golf Course. He worked so tirelessly for the ACS and put in so many hours and always so willingly, we are so proud to have Phil on our board. I hope we can continue to share his optimism and determination in his efforts to raise money for the ACS. How lucky we are, and thanks again, Phil!

Also, a tremendous thank-you to Lloyd and Jeff Kirby, who generously donated the classic Antrim Dells Golf Course, and their staff. Also to Erle Sump, Jim Hart, Marsh Nowlin and Dan Miller. Your generosity will never be forgotten by the families of those we help in the fight against cancer.

Disappointing visit

To the Editor:

After living half my life in Charlevoix, I recently returned home for a visit.

I went to the beach on Lake Michigan where I played as a child and walked along the shore as a teenager. To me it was always the most beautiful beach that ever was. This is the reason for my letter.

First I was shocked and ashamed, then angry, that this beautiful beach should be allowed to become such an eyesore.

The sidewalk that used to lead to the pier - now buried under four feet of sand - the stone wall that we sat on to watch the many sunsets - now cracked and crumbling from the weight of the sand and tree roots that have been allowed to grow wild - dead tree limbs - brush and garbage everyplace but in containers.

Then I saw the new observation deck and it was impossible for me to believe that the money used for that could not have been better spent on the beach which is a bigger asset to Charlevoix.

Thank God, I remember the beauty that was once there - the glaot slides - the merry-go-round - the monkey bars - that gave so much enjoyment to the kids - the many people that lined the beach and swam in the water.

How many of you city officials have taken a good look at the mess that exists down there? Maybe you should. It's sad that such a beautiful beach be allowed to become a disgrace. Where is the pride that once was Charlevoix the Beautiful?

Clockwise
Art fair notes

by Bob Clock

I WAS ELBOWING my way down Bridge Street Saturday en route to the Waterfront Art Fair when it suddenly dawned on me that Charlevoix was probably setting a new record for warm bodies in the downtown section.

Sidewalks on both sides of the street were jammed with two streams of foot traffic flowing in opposite directions.

Young girls in skimpy tennis outfits struggled to carry massive pottery purchases to their cars.

Gentlemen in white ducks ogled the girls in skimpy tennis outfits.

Young mothers blazed trails through forests of legs with tykes in strollers.

Bewildered grandmas and grandpas wondered where they had parked their cars.

The day was perfect after the rain Friday and early Saturday - a little steamy, perhaps, but the sun shone relentlessly in a blue sky and there was little wind. Artists like calm weather to display their paintings in East Park.

THEN SUDDENLY, I was alone on the street, headed for the post office to mail a letter on an evening in January. It had been snowing all day and the street crews would wait until morning before tackling the waist-high drifts and banks along Bridge Street.

A bitter wind was blowing off Lake Michigan, packing Pine River Channel tight with ice. Chick Gallagher had shoveled the bridge clean, but the snow was packed and squeaky south of the bridge and in some places the sidewalk was almost impassible.

Overhead, shop signs creaked and groaned in the wind and stinging flurries obliterated most of the street lights ahead.

At the county bank, the revolving clock and thermometer said it was now 10 below zero. Before I left home, the man on the radio predicted 20 below by morning...

THEN JUST as suddenly it was summer again-Art Fair Day, 1981. The crowds were thicker near the park. The bridge was up and no traffic had moved on Bridge Street in five minutes.

A plump woman in a bikini stood on the corner in front of Murdick's Fudge Shop calling to her equally plump husband across Clinton Street:

"MARVIN! Do you want the vanilla fudge or the chocolate fudge?"

Marvin shrugged and made a helpless gesture with both hands. The plump woman disappeared into the fudge shop, cellulite jiggling playfully on her upper thighs.

Sometimes I think our visitors come to Charlevoix in the wrong season.

FROM ALL ACCOUNTS, the art fair was an astounding success. In the past, promoters claim the Waterfront Fair is second only to Ann Arbor's annual art show. But this year I think we may have surpassed AA.

The quality of the exhibits was better than ever; and visitors appeared to be in a buying mood.

I heard of one young lad from town who was asked to "watch" a booth while the artist grabbed a bite of lunch. While the proprietor was gone, the boy took in $150 - all in a matter of a few minutes.

Unfortunately, the fair also brought to town artists of a different stripe: A three-month-old 10-speed bicycle was stolen Saturday night from the Clock's front porch. The theft appears to be more than a prank, because several three-speeds next to it were untouched.

Charlevoix police report that 10-speed and BMX bicycles are popular among rip-off artists this year. Invariably they disappear like snowflakes in Lake Michigan and the thieves are never caught.

So keep your bikes and other valuables under lock and key, at least until Labor Day.

Mrs. Dutcher's Indian travels bring fulfillment

by PEG OHLE

"You've raised a family of six children and you've retired after many years as a telephone operator. What do you do with all the extra time you now have?

Carol Dutcher of Charlevoix found a most rewarding way to spend that time.

"Ruth Hofstetter, a nurse serving in a mission hospital in Khariar in the state of Orissa in India, came to the Congregational Church to tell about her work," Mrs. Dutcher relates.

"I was interested in serving in a Third World country and Ruth increased my interest. A few months before, I had spent ten days in Honduras on a work mission helping to build a church. I dug ditches, made cement blocks, did a lot of other things, and knew I wanted more," she continues.

"Ruth said I could help her at the hospital doing a lot of things, especially typing, sewing, mending hospital gowns, and making draw sheets, so I decided to go."

Mrs. Dutcher left Charlevoix on Election Day last November and spent five months in India working at the mission hospital in Khariar, which is run by the United Church Board for World Ministries, with which the Charlevoix Congregational Church is affiliated.

"I did all that typing and sewing," she recalls, "but my greatest joy was teaching English to orphans on the hospital grounds. I had a boy and a girl, six and eight years old, who were waiting to be adopted by a family in Indiana. I not only taught them English but how to eat with a spoon. Later, I branched out into teaching high school girls who needed a lot of help with English. They could read English words but didn't know the meaning of the words. We had to put the meaning into simpler words."

Khariar is a depressed rural area of India, Mrs. Dutcher explains.

"The people often walk for days or ride in oxen carts to get to the hospital. Diseases are prevalent – cholera, malaria, diptheria, tetanus, and leprosy. There are 15 million cases of leprosy in the world and India has five million of them," she says.

"In addition to providing medical care, we shared our love and Christian beliefs with people in the hospital compound as well as with the Hindu families."

Mrs. Dutcher spent last Christmas in Khariar. "It was a joyous occasion," she recalls. "On Christmas Eve, I sat on a floor cross-legged for three and a half hours to listen to the songs and music provided by patients and workers in the hospital. The music is colorful – mostly flutes and drums.

"We exchanged gifts of sweets, little cakes on a plate. A friend would give us a plate of cakes and we would fill it up with our own cakes and return it. No one had any money for other gifts. We put candles on a tree outside the hospital and decorated it with foil wrappers from medicine packages."

A mission hospital can do only a small part of what is needed in India, according to Mrs. Dutcher. But one project of the Khariar hospital, a book called "What To Do When There Is No Doctor", is enlarging the hospital's sphere of helpfulness, she believes.

Under this project, hospital personnel are going out into the villages with copies of the book, trying to find leaders who will take the book, study it, and consent to be the village "doctor". They are then given free medicines to treat the various diseases, which are illustrated by pictures in the book. They can also deliver their babies under sanitary conditions.

The best way to help these unfortunate people of India is for people to give to their own church missions, Mrs. Dutcher says. "They know where the money goes and very little of it goes for administration.

After five months in Khariar, Mrs. Dutcher left for home "the long way around". She went to New Delhi, Bangkok, and Hong Kong, seeing all the tourist attractions, but also meeting many of the native people. In Hong Kong she visited for three hours with a little Chinese girl whose schooling is being sponsored by the Charlevoix Congregational Church. "She could say 'hello' and 'goodbye' in English, but that was all," Mrs. Dutcher remembers. "But now all of us at the church feel that we know her personally."

Looking back on her trip, Mrs. Dutcher believes that "There is no hope for India until they remove the caste system. The people are born into a caste and there is no way of getting out of it except by dying. The Hindu religion teaches that if you live a good life, you are re-incarnated into a higher caste."

Since returning home, Mrs. Dutcher has shown slides and talked about her experiences to several local club groups. She would be glad to talk to others and can be reached by calling 547-2893.

"The time I spent in India was fulfilling to me and I hope I made some impression on the children and other people I came in contact with," she says.

Three of Mrs. Dutcher's five living children reside in Charlevoix, as do nine of her 14 grandchildren. Her other interests include singing with the Bay View Choir Sunday nights, singing with the Charlevoix Congregational Church Choir, Eastern Star meetings, and the Garden Club.

But she will find time to talk about India.

Tax specialist addresses Lions

Peter Davis, a senior economist for tax analysis on the U.S. Senate Budget Committee, spoke to the Charlevoix Lions Club Monday on the subject of how the tax legislation now being enacted in Washington will affect people from this area.

Davis has been an aide to Senator Pete Domenici since February, 1981. He worked seven years with the Joint Committee on Taxation and has worked on all major tax bills since 1974. He is a 1972 graduate of the University of Rochester.

The class of 1946 of the Charlevoix High School returned recently for its thirty-fifth reunion.

Nineteen members of the class of 35 members and three former classmates returned for the event held at the Charlevoix V.F.W. post home.

Those from away who attended were Mrs. Jack (Nancy Totten) Abfalter of Williamsburg, Robert Crain of Beulah, Mrs. Jack (Beth Meggison) DeWildt of Wyoming, Doris (Ouderkirk) Foster and Donna (Ouderkirk) Luft of Traverse City, Mrs. Edwin (Mary Shaw) Gregory of Kalamazoo, Mrs. Robert (Donna Rose) Phillips of Ann Arbor, William Steffens of Petoskey, Mrs. Robert (Peggy Fox) Strauch of Marion and Bernie Zeitler of Elkton.

Local members who attended were Don Brown, Mrs. Eugene (Maxine Lewis) Bergmann, William Fochtman, Lois (Shapton) Kallie, Mrs. George (Shirley Bradley) Lusk, Elaine (Taylor) Martin, Jack Mol, Eugene Bridge, Vincent Olach, Kenneth Russell, Bernie Ward, Sr. who is not pictured.

Thirty-nine members, their mates and guests gathered for a social hour and dinner and an informal program.

Planning the event were Mrs. Richard (Bonnie Sutton) Fochtman, Mrs. Bergmann, Mrs. Lusk, Mr. Olach, Mr. Russell, Bruce Newman and William Fochtman.

Patient Assistance Service is boon to NMH staff

An anxious mother comments, "I went to lunch with my son's tears on my mind and came back to find him smiling and playing with you."

Such sentiments are the only reward the volunteers in the Northern Michigan Hospitals Auxiliary Patient Assistance service get or want. In less than three month's time, the new Patient Assistance Service has proven itself to be a welcome addition to NMH. To date, more than 40 patients have been referred for this service and have been visited by auxiliary volunteers daily until their release.

At present, 13 auxilians are visiting patients who have been referred from the staff as candidates for diversional activities. These volunteers are found sharing their time and themselves in most areas of the hospital.

Marilee Fowler, clinical coordinator in Orthopedics, is enthusiastic about the service and furnishes many referrals.

"They're really helping us," said Marilee. "They're doing many things we don't have time to do."

Departmental staff report remarkable improvements in many patients' spirits and auxilians continue to drop in and show an interest and concern.

The purpose of the Patient Assistance Service is to provide activities for those patients who are in need of diversional outlets. Possible activities include reading to the patient, writing letters, playing games, helping with handicrafts and puzzles, and often just listening or conversing.

After each visit, the volunteer records activities and notes any information that might be useful to other volunteers who will be following up with additional visits.

Long-term patients benefit greatly from the visitations as it helps take their thoughts away from their situations, relieve their depressions, and hurry along slow-moving waiting periods. In addition, short-term patients are obviously grateful for the many small favors the auxilians are willing to do for them during the companionable times they spend with them.

Currently there is a need for men in the service, and in general for volunteers to fill in during the summer months or to serve as substitutes throughout the year.

Funding for the new service comes from the auxiliary who put on several fundraising events each year to support their programs. In mid-August, one of the largest fundraisers will be held. The annual Summer Fashion Show is scheduled for Thursday, August 13, at Stafford's Bay View Inn in Petoskey.

Further information about the Patient Assistance Service may be obtained by calling [illegible].

Weddings

Westenbrook-Kaufman

Susan Kay Westenbroek became the bride of Joseph David Kaufman on Saturday afternoon, August 1, at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

The newlyweds grew up in Charlevoix but have made their homes in Milwaukee in recent years. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roger D. Westenbroek and Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Kaufman, all of Charlevoix.

Approximately 200 guests witnessed the double-ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Larry Grooters. For the occasion, Mrs. Anna Klooster of Charlevoix decorated the altar with baskets of white gladioli and garden flowers, candelabra, and a unity candle. The pews were marked by white ribbons and stephanotis.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of white qiana knit, fashioned with a high neckline, a yoke of silk Venise lace, and a full circular train. The veil was a chapel-length blushing veil trimmed with silk Venise lace. It was secured by a headpiece trimmed with Alencon lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of mixed yellow and cream-colored rose buds and baby's breath.

Classical music for the ceremony was provided by soloist Dan Mort and organist Frances Boss, who played a traditional wedding march.

Two sisters of the bride, Sherry Lee Westenbroek of Maple Valley, Washington, and Sally Jo Westenbroek of Charlevoix, served as maids of honor. Tami Bier of Charlevoix and Linda Himebacuh of Harbor Springs were the bridesmaids. All attendants' gowns were of yellow satin qiana fashioned with scooped necklines, short tucked sleeves, and skirts gathered at the waist and covered with tie belts. They carried arrangements of three cream-colored long stemmed roses and baby's breath accented by long yellow ribbons.

Kevin Biehl of Somerville, Mass. served the bridegroom as best man, and Douglas Marone of Milwaukee and Paul Callan of Fox Point, Wisc. served as groomsmen and ushers.

Mrs. Westenbroek and Mrs. Kaufman both wore floor-length gowns. Mrs. Westenbroek's was light blue with white accessories and Mrs. Kaufman's was beige with tan accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kaufman

Following the wedding ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception in the Church Hall. Later, the bridegroom's parents hosted a reception at the American Legion Hall.

Assisting at the church reception were Lori Westenbroek, a cousin of the bride, and Julie Martin, who attended the guest book; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Westenbroek, the bride's brother and his wife, who served the cake; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Timmer (the latter is a cousin of the bride), who served the punch; and Jane Bussies, a cousin of the bride, who served the coffee.

The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at the Grey-Gables Inn, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip through northern Wisconsin, the newlyweds will be at home in Milwaukee, where the bridegroom is in his third year of law school at Marquette University. The bride will start work on a master's degree in child psychology at Marquette this fall.

Guests from Michigan, Washington, Wisconsin, Texas, and California attended the wedding.

Engagements

Shadko-Brown

Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Shadko of Memphis, Tenn. are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Dianne, to Robert Brown. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, Sr., also of Memphis.

Deborah Shadko

The intended bride's paternal grandmother is Mrs. Irene Williams, formerly of Charlevoix, and her paternal grandfather is Gregory Shadko of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Raleigh Egypt High School in Memphis and is employed by Goldsmith's Department Store. Her fiance is a graduate of Craigmont High School in Memphis and is employed by General Electric.

The wedding will take place August 29 at the Church of the Ascension in Memphis.

Sr. pics deadline set

Charlevoix High School Seniors and their parents are advised that senior photography appointments for senior pictures should be made no later than October 15.

This date will give photographers the necessary lead time in order to have all pictures (one each for the Yearbook and the Commencement supplement of the Charlevoix Courier) in by the Nov. 13 deadline with the yearbook company.

Pictures not received by the Nov. 13 date will not appear in the 1982 Yearbook.

Questions regarding the pictures may be directed to the high school office at 547-5491.

PERIDOT: VOLCANO'S CHILD (Part I)

Peridot is a product of Hawaiian type volcanic eruptions. The peridot which forms from the cooled lava is, for the most part, not of gem quality.

As a matter of fact, souvenir shops on the islands mount it in inexpensive settings and sell it to tourists. In many cases the stones are correctly sold as olivine (peridot), but occasionally they're marketed as "Hawaiian diamonds." This is very misleading, but the misnomer may have sprung up quite innocently. As an American Gem Society jeweler, I'm particularly sensitive to such misleading terms, because the members of our organization all strive to keep the public aware and well-informed, not confused.

Peridot is not easy to mine if it is firmly embedded in the basalt (a particular type of hardened lava), because of the hardness of its host rock. Only when fissures are present in the basalt of weathering has weakened it, can the peridot be removed.

In the case of the Hawaiian island, most of the gems are found on the beaches. The coarse black sand is actually eroded basalt.

Peridot of finer quality is found in ancient deposits, the remnants of age-old volcanic eruptions. St. John's Island in the Red Sea has long been the source of the finest peridot. Today much is also mined in Burma.

Some gem quality peridot is found in North America, but seldom in large sizes. It is usually found in dark, volcanic rocks. I'll go into this in my next article.

Three workshops aimed at theater directors

The Little Traverse Civic Theatre will be sponsoring a series of three director's workshops August 19th, 20th, and 24th at 7:30 PM at the Virginia McCune Community Art Center in Petoskey. The workshops will be taught by Patricia Grove, a talented director, actress and teacher from Bradford, Conn.

Since graduating from the University of Chicago, Groves continued her studies at Lee Strassberg's Actor's Studio in New York and the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. She has performed with the Second City Acting Company in Chicago for three years. Over the last ten years she has been affiliated with the Drama Departments at Yale University, the University of New Haven, and has been an acting coach with the Long Wharf Theatre in Connecticut. Recently, Groves was the Artistic Director for five years of the Wooster Square Revival, an experimental Ensemble Theatre in New Haven.

According to Groves, the directing workshops she will be teaching will not be formal lectures, but dynamic working sessions involving everyone who attends. She has requested that participants bring 10 copies of a short scene or One Act Play no more than 10 minutes long. This material will be used to simulate the various auditioning, casting, and blocking situations that a director must manage.

There is a $15.00 enrollment fee for each workshop. Enrollment is limited. For further information, call Pat Stedman at 526-5653.

BBC wins Beaver Island Invitational tourney over Townhouse

The annual Beaver Island Invitational Slo-Pitch tournament went to 13 games here last weekend before Bar Beverage Control (BBC) emerged the winner.

In the final game, BBC shut out the Townhouse 5-0. The champions, however, had been defeated by Townhouse 8-2 before claiming the title.

Joe Battle of the championship squad was named Most Valuable Player and batting champion. Rich Gillespie of the host team, Beaver Islanders, won home run honors.

BBC started off by defeating Medusa 11-8 early in the tournament behind the pitching of Dave Novotny who allowed ten hits while Bob Holtzman gave up 12. Battle had two home runs and Ray LaVoie one for the winners. Pat Klooster had two and Brian Williams and Scott Boss one each for Medusa.

In their second game, BBC sent Townhouse to the loser's bracket by a score of 13-1 and later Saturday sent Erber Auto along the same route by a score of 22-5.

Townhouse, however, was not to be denied and came back to the finals after eliminating Beaver Island 4-3 and Erber Auto 5-2.

In the final and 13th game of the tournament, Jim Ciuk gave up only three hits as the victors collected nine off Don Willis and brought five runners home for the win. It was a pitcher's dual all the way with none of the heavy hitters collecting home runs.

In the semi-finals, which sent BBC into the losers bracket, both Willis and Novotny allowed eight hits with Curt Meixsell collecting the only home run for a 5-2 win.

Earlier in the tournament, Townhouse had defeated Beaver Island 7-1 with Scott Blanchard and Joe Jones scoring home runs for the winners. Gillespie had one for the Islanders.

In the Townhouse loss to BBC, Ciuk gave up six hits to Willis' 12 with Battle and Wayne Boss adding home runs as Townhouse went down by a 12-1 score.

In other games, Erber Auto defeated Carpet Clinic of Petoskey 17-3 with Bob Warner scoring a home run for Erbers; Erber Auto 7-4 over Flight Deck with Warner scoring two home runs; Beaver Island 18-2 over Carpet Clinic with Gillespie, Tom McDonough, Tim McDonough and Joel Polecheen scoring homers for the victors; Medusa 15-7 over Flight Deck with Matt Doan and Scott Boes adding homers; Beaver Island over Medusa 5-4.

Jim Willis, Rich Melke and George Melke of Charlevoix were umpires for the tournament; Joe Smith of Charlevoix was the scorekeeper and Tim McDonough and Rich Gillespie were tournament managers.

Slow pitch softball results from last week

In mens slowpitch action on August 3, BBC beat the Weathervane 14-12 as Dan McKenzie, Steve Dunkleberg, Ray LaVoie and Joe Battle all homered for the winners. Ron Siwarga had a round-tripper for Weathervane. LaVoie was the winning pitcher.

Townhouse topped Erbers 19-14 in another home run fest. Curt Melxsell, Scott Blanchard and Joe Jones each homered for Townhouse while Jim Alger, Greg Loper, George Baldwin (with two) Bob Warner and Jim Marsh homered for Erbers. Don Willis was the winning pitcher.

Medusa beat Mesquite 20-7 behind the pitching of Dan Boss, two home runs by Matt Doan and one from Gary Drury; Jim Poole homered for the Mesquite.

On August 5, Carsons beat Air Force 17-0 as Bernie DeVries socked four homers for the winners; Ralph Doan, Bud Alexander and Pat Kerr also homered for the winners. Jim Yell was the winning pitcher.

Weathervane beat the Coast Guard Station 17-3. For Weathervane, Larry Skippergosh, Herman Madison, larry Darrah and Tom Pence all homered while Joe Travers hit one for the Coast Guard. Jim Werner was the winning pitcher.

Townhouse shut out Mesquite 21-0 behind the pitching of Ron Wiselik. Homers came from Joe Jones and Scott Blanchard.

In womens action August 4, Topside beat Tri-City 10-7. Sue Barta waa the winniog pitcher.

Woodland Oil beat Medusa 14-7 with Jackie Paul on the mound.

Paul Bunyan won by forfeit over Flight Deck.

On August 8, Medusa beat Flight Deck 12-8 despite a home run by Kelly Cross for the losers. Max Brackney was the winning pitcher.

Topside beat Woodland Oil 5-3 with Sue Barta picking up the pitching victory.

Tri-City slammed Paul Bunyan 26-5 with home runs by Laurie Parker of Tri-City and Pat Lambert of Paul Bunyan. Ellen DeVillaw was the winning pitcher.

Soccer team downed

Charlevoix's Independant Soccer Team lost a hard-fought battle to Boyne City Sunday afternoon by a 5-3 margin.

The game was closer than the score indicates since one Boyne City goal was scored inadvertently by a Charlevoix collision in its own goal and another came on a penalty shot.

Charlevoix goals included two by Billy Bolones, one a breakaway and one on a penalty kick; and one by Jim McGarry with an assist by Holmes. Charlevoix goalkeeper Scott Swanson made numerous saves in the game to hold down a Boyne City offense that scored 11 goals against Charlevoix in an earlier scrimmage.

Sailing class openings

There are still openings for students in the second session of the sailing classes being offered by the Charlevoix Yacht Club according to coordinator Bruce MacArthur.

The session will start Tuesday, August 18 and will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays for two weeks. Subjects included in the course are nomenclature, rigging, rules of the road, sail trimming and skippering, solo sailing, racing and advanced knots.

A special session on sailboarding will also be taught by David Lepman.

Rostars' dream home

will be used in the construction of their home was engaged at this time. An excavating firm bulldozed the stumps and dug a basement to lay the groundwork for future progress. The foundation and basement was perhaps more in line with Mike's usual occupation. He is self-employed in his own company (Great Lakes Concrete Systems, Inc.) which specializes in concrete and masonry.

With the cement block and basement work completed it was time to embark upon the next step: the logs had to be cut and made into lumber. This was perhaps the most strenuous and time consuming job of the entire process.

Mike and his father put a little ingenuity into play at this point. Why not construct their own sawmill? Out of a 1965 Ford sedan evolved a contraption which served as their sawmill this spring. The chassis was literally "halved" to expose the drive shaft which was in turn connected to the rotary blade mechanism. "The thing works in three gears," remarked Mike's dad the day I examined this incredible piece of machinery. "The speed is controlled by means of a lever attached to the accelerstor." He tried to demonstrate the procedure, but the car was "out of gas!" Faye told me that about 250 logs were run through the sawmill last spring. At this point I was exhausted just thinking about the branches that first had to come off with a chain saw. What a way to develop bulging biceps!

The floor was then laid with Faye measuring, cutting and nailing down a third of it herself. Even the children, Tonya, 8, and Michael, 4, have contributed to the family project by helping to haul logs and to run errands.

A friend of Mike's was on location the day I arrived for photographs – helping to raise the walls. About seven of the 4 inch cedar boards had been caulked and spiked together, tongue in groove. Each of these sections was carefully pounded and caulked into place. With each section raised, leaving space for windows and doors, the Rostar's blueprint project began to take the form of a real house. They had only had to call in an excavator and haul the boards they had run through the sawmill up to Harbor Springs to be planed. All the rest was done themselves.

Plans for the roof and interior come into play as the next step. There will be round log beams still to be cut and peeled, a roof of cedar, styrofoam insulation, tar paper and shingles.

Mike and Faye Rostar, Michael and Tonya at their home site.

One of the most appealing parts of the floor plan to me is an area which will be slightly sunken. The floor in this section of the house, just off the kitchen, will be brick. The walls will be windows utilizing the solar concept. Faye is planning this sunroom area as the perfect setting for plants.

The Rostars hope to complete the shell of their home by the end of September and to have finished enough of the interior so that they can move in by February or March. Mike will of course be doing the plumbing and electrical work by himself.

Just out of curiosity I asked Mike about cost and about how much he figured he had put into his home so far. He paused for a moment and began to figure. "Well, there are the nails, and the caulking, the cement block and the excavating. I guess that's about it." Check the market on the price of new homes. Talk to a builder about building your own. I boggled my mind to think that the Rostar's were talking in miniscule terms in comparison.

The future? Well, of course the completion of the project and then to tackle an economical way to supply the power they'll need for heat and electricity. Right now Mike is working on a way to provide a natural energy source. He has two in mind: to build a windmill or possibly to channel the energy supplied from a creek which runs through their property, by damming it up and employing a water wheel.

One thing is sure – nothing is too great a problem that it won't be met with a plausible and creative solution. The Rostar's are inventive, undaunted and determined, all the qualities which when coupled with hard work should give them exactly what they want for themselves and their family in their new home.

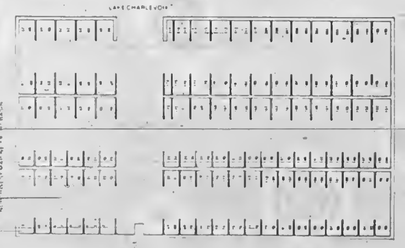
NORTHWEST Marine inc. & BROKERAGE 547-4088

Problem: Trying to locate a boat slip year after year?

Solution: Northwest Marine Yacht Basin Condominiums

an idea that has come of age. This unique concept revolutionizes boat docking and storage by guaranteeing boaters the security of a permanent waterfront boat space for a minimal monthly payment. This equity-building, real estate investment is a viable, economical alternative to paying rent year after year and owning nothing.

Northwest Marine Yacht Basin Condominiums are nestled in the natural splendor of Lake Charlevoix and have a natural access to Lake Michigan. This boating paradise provides an escape from the everyday bustle and crowds and yet it is conveniently located in Charlevoix. It will include a building complex with a three story atrium, offering diners at the third floor restaurant a magnificent view of the harbor and Lake Charlevoix. First floor businesses will include such shops as a delicatessen; bakery, party store and a boating supply store. An adjacent bath house facility will provide the clean, comfortable conveniences of home.



This spectacular development consists of two construction phases. The first phase includes sixty-six slips. Thirty-six slips will accommodate up to a 34 foot boat and thirty slips for boats 44 foot in length. The 34 foot slip is affordably priced at $16,500 and the 44 foot boat slip at $18,500. Special provisions for accommodating vessels larger than 44 foot may also be made in the second phase. Each slip is individually metered for both water and electricity to ensure the independence of each owner.

For your introduction to boating independence contact: Northwest Marine Inc. & Brockerage, 104 Michigan Ave., Charlevoix, (616) 547-4088 or Thomas Real Estate, 100 Pine River Lane, Charlevoix (616) 547-4494.

Yellow Submarine features 25 kinds of subs, variety of pastries

by FRAN MARTIN

A choice of 25 different combinations of meats and cheeses in a submarine sandwich? Impossible, you say? Not at all for that is what the Yellow Submarine Shop at 207 Bridge Street, features on its menu.

"We feature only the finest meats including such specialities as Capbeolla Italian ham, Genoa salami as well as regular salami, a special type bologna plus the usual choice of cheeses served on a choice of five kinds of French bread...all of which are made in our own kitchen" Tom Kneeland, who with Kim Schnackenberg, operates the newest of the community's eating places said. They also offer a vegetarian Submarine sandwich.

In addition to the Submarine Samdwiches, the shop features other types of sandwiches plus tossed salads.

The newest addition to the menu is a pork and beef barbecue sandwich served on a Kaiser roll which was introduced over the weekend and was well accepted.

In addition to the usual coffee, tea and commercial soft drinks, fresh lemonade, oranga juice and sun tea is offered.

And for those with a sweet tooth, the shop offers sweet rolls of every description and seldom-found kolaches including yummy pecan rolls and a choice of cookies, pies, and cakes all make in their own kitchen by Miss Schnackenberg under the direction of the well-know baker, Ron Fairbanks, who is teaching both Schnackenberg and Kneeland the art of baking.

Kim Schnackenberg and Tom Kneeland, who operate the Yellow Submarine Sandwich Shop at Bridge St., are pictured before the original paintings by Kim that give the shop its name.

As the weather cools, Kneeland said they are preparing to offer such foods as hot soups and chowder, chili and other hot foods in addition to sandwiches.

"We do not plan to operate a seasonal shop" Kneeland said of the business. "It is our intention to remain open throughout the year, offering hot, short order foods in addition to those presently on the menu. And, of course, we will continue to offer the homemade breads and wide variety of pastries you now see in the case" he added.

Why the name "Yellow Submarine"? It's from a song popular in the Beatle era. It lent itself to the bright colorful decor that Kim has painted and which has an eye-catching effect" Kneeland explained. They plan to add to their present "underwater" paintings when there is time, Kim, the artist, said.

The bright blues and yellows in the paintings against the rough lumber walls are complimented by snow white furnishing which give the shop a clean, airy appearance attractive to the hungry passerby who is tempted inside by the heavenly smells drifting out from the bakery.

Why a asndwich shop, Kneeland was asked. "Just because I've always dreamed of having one. I have a friend in Battle Creek who has operated one and who has helped me to open this one. I've profited from his errors. As for the bakery, that just happened. Ron, whom everyone knows, had operated a bakery here earlier and offered to join us and teach us to bake.

The owners are dedicated to success by working long hours...from 8 a.m. until midnight Sunday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. until 3 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights.

ANNOUNCEMENT

In the public interest there is being formed an organization known as THE DIXON AVENUE PROPERTY OWNERS ASSOCIATION.

The immediate objective of this group is to oppose the granting of a zoning change at 102 East Dixon Avenue which would permit the erection of yet another CONDOMINIUM in Charlevoix.

Believing that many residents in Charlevoix share our objections to more CONDOMINIUMS being errected in our beautiful city, we urge attendance at the City Council meeting that will be held Monday evening, August 17th at the City Hall at 8:00 p.m.

Come to this PUBLIC HEARING AND VOICE YOUR OBJECTION.

Temple B'Nai Israel marks 85 years

Members of Temple B'Nai Israel celebrated their 85th anniversary at the Friday night worship services on July 31, which was open to the public. Honored guest speaker at the services was Dr. Eugene Mihaly, Executive Dean for Academic Affairs, Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio, who spoke of the founding of the Temple in Petoskey. In 1896, a small group of 14 Jewish citizens in the Petoskey area, who had been worshipping together, including Samuel Rosenthal, Meyer Fryman, and Herman H. Welling, founded the Hebrew Benevolent Association. This name was later changed to the present "Temple B'Nai Israel" which means "Children of Israel". Fourteen members who were present at the Friday night services are descendents of the original settlers of the Temple. From this small nucleus, the members have maintained services over the years. The highest membership attained has been 30 to 35 families. The present membership is 23 families, although some are too far away to participate. Active members include families from Charlevoix and as far as St. Ignace and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

As part of the Service, a scriptural selection from I Kings 8 was read. This selection describes the dedication of the ancient Temple in Jerusalem. In his address, Dr. Mihaly spoke of the meaning of Judaism and the fact that throughout centuries, the Jews have continued with religious services and building temples – from the days of King Solamon to the present. Yet, while we build Temples to God, we cannot contain God, for even the heavens cannot contain God -- He is everywhere and cannot be contained. We are always reaching towards God – never quite touching Him. The Jewish community of Petoskey, Charlevoix, etc. has also always been outreaching in brotherhood, fellowship, and service to other churches and in all community affairs. Several other churches have used the Temple for services while their own churches were undergoing construction. Members of all religious denominations attended the Friday night worship services.

Dr. Mihaly also noted that many of the student-rabbis who have served the small Petoskey congregation, have gone on to become some of the most outstanding Jewish leaders and teachers in national and international circles, including Rabbi Alexander Schindler, Rabbi David Wise who served in 1931, Dr Robert Katz who served in 1941.

Student Rabbi Steven Adams then presented certificates to members in special recognition of their devoted service to the Temple over the years. Recipients included Mrs. Zalman Frayman, Mrs. Belle Bloch, Mrs. Alfred Frank, Mrs. Irene Gordon, Mr. Seymour Heller (past president of the Temple for many years) and Mrs. Leonard Levine (present Sisterhood president.) Rabbi Samuel E. Karff of Temple Beth Israel, Houston, Texas also gave a short address on what the Temple has meant to him and his family over the years, and the services performed to the community. A lovely reception was held following the services in the newly redecorated recreation room of the Temple. Mrs. Levine and Sisterhood members assisted as hostesses. Many flowers, letters of congratulations and good wishes were received from former student rabbis, members and friends of the community who could not attend.

A short service was held Saturday morning, with open house all Saturday which was open to the public. Religious symbols, artifacts and some moments from the Temple's past were on display. The displays will be maintained for the summer season. Sabbath evening services will be continued each Friday night at 8:15 P.M. at which time anyone interested may join Temple members for worship and view the displays.

Steven Adams of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati is serving this season as student Rabbi. Melvin Holden is president of the congregation and Mrs. Leonard Levine is serving as Sisterhood president.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, Porter, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to elect the following persons Fund Trustees to the Michigan Worker Compensation Self-Insurers Fund: David Aronson, Carol Arvoy, Jean Anderson, Kenneth Courtney, William Ringler, and Gary Kuckle for two year terms and Richard Conti for a one year term.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, Porter, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council agreed to allow the Shriners to sell advertising to local businesses.

Don Hufford, of Hufford Industries, requested that the City recruit a review board comprised of City, County, and Township fire officials and business owners to attempt to determine why the recent fire at Lasalle Corp could not be contained before severe damage was done to the facility. Mr. Hufford expressed concern for he and other area businesses in the event of a future similar occurance.

Council generally agreed to appoint a committee for review and recommendation.

Council tabled authorization to close the sale of City property to John Campbell of Site Planning Design.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Timms to approve the request by Art Reibel of Castle Farms to bury power lines at Castle Farms, at Mr. Reibel's expense, at an estimated cost of $6600.00, subject to the following terms: The City requires $2,000.00 down and $2,000.00 per year, with payment due at the start of concert season; any default of annual payment, the entire balance is due in full with the City reserving the right to disconnect power; annual interest rate to be set on unpaid balance, and a signed agreement from Mr. Reibel stating that this charge can be placed on the Township Tax Roll in the event of default; the City attorney to draw the contract.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Roloff, Wood, Muma, Porter, and Timms. Nays: Councilman Block. Absent: None

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to set a Closed Meeting at 9:00 P.M. on August 10, 1981 following the regular Committee of the Whole Meeting, for the purpose of reviewing applications for the position of City Manager.

LEONARD OLIVER

Funeral services for Leonard Oliver, 61, who died Friday at the V.A. Hospital in Saginaw where he had been a patient for several weeks, were held Monday at the Greensky Hill United Methodist Church. The Rev. David W. Yingling officiated. Interment was in the nearby church cemetery.

Mr. Oliver was born in Charlevoix Nov. 7, 1919, and always resided here except for the years he served with the U.S. Army in Europe during World War II. He was a groundskeeper and was most recently employed by Glenn Kenney.

He is survived by a daughter, Marion, and one son, Lawrence, both of Paris, France; two grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Edward (Marion) Olson of Sheboygan and one brother, Jay J. Oliver of Charlevoix.

The family soggests memorials to the Greensky Hill United Methodist Church.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

CLARA RUBINGH

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Rubingh, 89, who died Aug. 5 at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility a short time after being admitted as a patient, were held Saturday at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church. The Rev. Aodred Spiensma of the Atwood Christian Reformed Church officiated. Interment was in the Ellsworth cemetery.

Born in the Netherlands Oct. 13, 1891, the former Clara Drenth came to Banks township with her parents in 1901. On June 30, 1914, she was married to Gerrit Rubingh at Ellsworth. They resided on a farm north of Ellsworth until 1965 when they moved into the village. Mr. Rubingh preceded her in death in 1972. She was a member of the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church and was active in its Ladies Aid.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Burr (Harriet) Abrahamson of Mt. Pleasant and Mrs. Carol Higby of Wyoming; 10 grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Alice Ruis of Ellsworth.

Concert program

This week's Concert in the Park, scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday night, August 12, in East Park, will be directed by C.A. Odmark and will include the following pieces:

A Santa Cecelia by Raedelli; Fantasy on American Sailing Songs by Grundman; The World is Waiting for the Sunrise by Seitz-Yoder; Barnum and Bailey Favorite by King; Hymn of Freedom by Brahms-Tolmage, Beguine the Begin by Osser; Hebrides Suite by Grundman, On the Mall by Goldman, Tea for Two by Youmans and El Capitan by Sousa.

During the concert, the Welcome Wagon Club will conduct the drawing for the handmade quilt made by the group. Proceeds of the benefit will go towards the Band Shell Fund aimed at building a shelter over the East Park stage.

Beaver Island.... before it's too late

Beaver Island, 30 miles off the Charlevoix coast in northern Lake Michigan. It doesn't have the crowds, the commercialization or the congestion of many other resort areas. What Beaver Island does have is miles of clean, unspoiled beach, a variety of recreational activities, and an opportunity for you to own a piece of an island that once was the home of a king and his enslaved, separate country.

If you're interested in what only a few can have; peace, privacy and grandeur, then call us today — Ski & Shore Real Estate — Beaver Island (616-448-2433) or Charlevoix (616-547-9905), or write us — Box 3, St. James, Beaver Island, MI 49782. Contact us now ... before it's too late!

My master and me we play tennis, ya see.
So we went to play on one bat day when the sun was shining real bright.
He wasn't complaining and it started raining
So he got mad, and just took it out on me, ya see.

There once was a player
named John
Who played tennis on the lawn
But in defeat, his racket he beat
And now it is totally gone.

Some people lose very graciously,
Dthers accept defeat
loquaciously.
But when I can't hack it
I crack up my racquet
Aod alam the net
pugnaciously.

This used to be John
McEnroes racquet
He broke it after the judge told him to "Pack it"
Although he wom
Whimbelton
He said it wasn't much fun
'Cause he had to give so much money back to it.

There was a young fellow named Brett
Out playing a tennis set
When a blonde passing by Caught a gleam in his eye
And the racket ended up in the net!!

While batting the ball cross
the net
I lost the whole match, game, and set
I prayed to above
My score was still love
There racket, you deserve
what you get!

I've go a gut feeling
That I did it this time.
I spoke out of turn
And really spilled mine.

I whacked it, I smacked it, I busted my racket
And now I am out of the game.
It netted my naught to be this distraught
For I've only my temper to blame!

I frequently hit the net with my serves
So one day that nasty old net
Grabbed at my racket
And went on to crack it
And hasn't returned the thing yet!

Tis hard to compare
The thrill to compete
But can we prepare for
The agony of defeat!

Who put this net here?

I'd rather be cooking.

I finally got my serve down.

Are you upset darling?

Was it in?

I thought Tennis was a love
game.

Tennis. A smashing game.

John McEnroe must have

McEnroe was here!

When you feel all broken up, its nice to know you have someone to lean on.

Everyone has a breaking point.

Is that what you mean by follow through?

They don't make 'em like they used to.

Are you blind? That ball was out!

It's this lousy racquet!

Now, THAT'S what I call a serve!

Did anyone get his license number?

These sidewalk aale racquets just don't hold up.

I saw the ball fly thru the air
I swung with all my might
I realized then — a bit too late
A sea gull was in flight!

When I awoke this morning I could hardly wait
To get to the courts and hit the ball straight
When I finished as you plainly can see,
Tennis was no longer the game for me.

There was a young player
named John
Who'a game you could never call fun.
His lob was a menace
He vocalized tennis
And finally he's won Whimbleton.

I was a fine tennis racket
Of my owner I was proud as could be,
But this match he got beat
And this photo so neat Shows he did the same thing to me!

How did I know, I was serving a bowling ball?

I really went to the courts today.

Next time I'll sue the net.

How did John McEnroe get mixed up in this?

Not tonight, Dear, I have a splitting headache.

But Dad, McEnroe does it!

I tried to hurry - but this is as far as I got.

Wimbledon? Who cares - all
I want to do is rest.

Now I know how the poor fish feel.

If you're taken to court, you could get the breaks.

That's how the ball pounces.

Why is it that whenever he loses a match, I suffer?

Just then, this huge, fast round object came flying straight at me.

And the winner is...

There once was a man named Dennis
Who took up the game of tennis.
He thought he could hack it.
'Til he cracked up his racket...
Poor Dennis, the menace of tennis.

Burglary is one of fastest growing crimes in Michigan

Burglary was committed 18 times an hour in Michigan last year. Almost 100,000 residences and more than 60,000 other buildings were hit by breakins.

"With high unemployment and tight economic conditions, burglary has been identified as one of the fastest growing crimes in the state," said Terry Buckles, president of Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC).

"While the number of such crimes throughout the state climbed 15 percent last year, value of stolen property rose 20 percent to more than $86 million. In the end, everyone shares these losses through higher prices for goods and services or higher insurance rates.

Buckles said that increased vigilance by residents, cooperation with neighbors and exercise of certain safeguards could stem the rising tide of household burglaries.

"Statistics show that burglars operate around the clock, not just at night," he said. "Where the time of home breakins can be determined, numbers committed during night and daytime hours are about equal."

"And burglary is not just a big-city problem, as some assume. Many suburban and even rural areas are being hard hit. The less-densely populated northern counties, for example, are among those experiencing highest incidence of this crime, on a per capita basis."

Buckles said many burglars simply gain entry through unlocked doors and windows. Often, locks are easily overcome with simple tools such as the edge of a plastic credit card, he added.

The growth in crime has prompted development of many effective yet relatively inexpensive locking devices for doors and windows," he said. "These can be easily installed by the average homeowner to serve as a first line of defense and used along with present locks to double protection.

While burglaries occur in every season, summertime life styles may leave homes more vulnerable, Buckles said. Homes remain unoccupied more frequently in this season while residents are away on vacation and daylong or weekend outings.

"One of the most effective deterrents against burglary has been formation of neighborhood watch groups, often organized with the aid of local police," he said. "Less formal programs also can be effective if cooperation is enlisted among neighbors. Nearby residents should be requested to watch for any unusual activity around your home while it is unoccupied.

Another safeguard is to make the house appear occupied even when it's not. Inexpensive timers can be installed to switch lights and radios off and on at different times in various parts of the house, for example.

Buckles said a newly-enacted Michigan law controlling the sale of precious items such as gold and silver should make it more difficult for thieves to dispose of stolen merchandise. "This should discourage those looking for a quick payoff and hopefully reduce the number of juveniles involved in these crimes," he said. "Last year, more than 42 percent of those arrested were 17 or younger. The more experienced, however, may still transport stolen items from nearby states which have not yet passed similar laws."

The MAIC president recommends marking valuables with an engraving tool, using a driver's license or social security number. Such identification can deter theft and aid in recovery of stolen merchandise. Low-cost engravers are available on loan from some insurance companies, police departments, and other agencies.

He also advises that consumers check their home insurance policies to make sure coverage is adequate. Generally, only limited protection is provided for certain types of personal property which is especially susceptible to loss, such as jewelry and furs. For an additional premium, property owners can purchase a policy endorsement that insures specific items to full value.

MAIC is a non-profit public affairs organization representing 48 property-casualty insurers. Headquartered in Lansing, its member companies write more than 50 percent of all auto and home insurance provided for Michigan residents.

State peach harvest is 12 percent down

Thirty-five million pounds of peaches would make a mound of peach sundaes or peaches and cream! Good things are growing in Michigan and our state's peach growers are estimating this harvest of peaches this summer, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Due to adverse weather conditions, this year's production is forecast at 12 percent less than last year. Peaches are picked when 'firm-ripe'. Because of this, they're very perishable and require special handling.

Unlike peaches, Michigan pears are picked when not quite fully ripe and still firm. To ripen pears, store them in a dark place at 60 to 70 degrees for two to three days. Our state's pear production is forecast to drop 10 percent, with an estimated 18,000,000 pound harvest this summer. Michigan was fifth in the nation in tot l pear harvest, according to MDA.

Most of our state's pears, primarily Bartletts, go to canners; however, fresh Michigan pears are available mid-August through October.

Prune plum production in Michigan was fourth highest in the nation in 1980, despite an 11 percent crop decline. Growers harvested 25 million pounds with a total market value of about $2.6 million.

All three froits are excellent for snacks and preserving, but check your cookbooks for new recipes, too. Boiled or baked peaches complement ham or duckling main courses. And here's a great recipe for plum sauce, to use with spareribs at a backyard picnic or with roast loin of pork.

One and f-2 pounds fresh Michigan ploms, f cup sugar, 1-3 cup horseradish, f-4 cup chopped onion, 1 clove garlic (crushed), 1 tablespoon salt. Combine all ingredients, bring to boil and simmer until plums are tender. Put in blender and puree (half the mixture at a time). Reheat. Makes 2 cups.

Late summer apples ready

August marks the beginning of harvest time for the popular Paulared apple (Paula-red), a late summer apple variety. According to Mark Arney, Manager of the Michigan Apple Committee, "The Paulared apple is a fairly new variety. It is a late summer variety with a fall-apple flavor and will be available at the market place from now through the middle of September."

Arney, a newcomer to Michigan, following the former manager's retirement, says he is very impressed with the Paulared apple, and the excellent response from consumers. It is a good all-purpose apple, leans on the tart side and a good keeper under refrigeration for several weeks. This late summer apple is not intended for winter storage such as the fall varieties.

Paufareds were discovered on a Michigan orchard around 13 years ago. ft takes several years to get a new variety started. After trees are propagated and planted, it takes three to four more years before trees begin to crop. Three years ago, Paulared trees produced the first sizeable crop of apples. Since that time, trees have grown producing more bearing space, meaning larger trees and greater yield.

All fresh apples, including the Paulared, are comparatively low in calories. An average size apple supplies only about 85 calories. Potassium in the apples, while not the leader of the group, is substantial and significant. Also, apples are significantly low in sodium.

Mosquitoes: The bane of summer relaxation

You're sitting in the backyard after dinner with a tall, cold drink at your side and your toes stretched out in the cool grass. Everything seems peaceful. Then you hear it, or more poignantly, you feel it – the whine and bite of a mosquito.

When you're ready to relax, it is prime biting time for the mosquito. Mosquitoes are most active about one hour before sunset and throughout the evening, according to Sally Narlock, executive director of the Saginaw Bay Mosquito Control Commission. The insects are also active if the temperature or the humidity is high, she notes.

Aedes vexans, a late summer mosquito which breeds once every seven to ten days if there is sufficient water, is present in about average numbers in Bay County this year, Narlock says.

Bay and Saginaw counties are the only counties in Michigan that continually monitor and chemically control the mosquito population. The Saginaw-Bay County Mosquito Control Commission, now in its fourth year of operation, is funded by residents at a rate of 25 cents per $1,000 of state assessed property value. Narlock says this equals about $4 to $6 per household in Bay and Saginaw Counties.

A family could easily spend more than this if they were controlling mosquitoes themselves, points out Harold Newson, Michigan State University professor of entomology.

Newson says he believes that the Michigan mosquito population is higher this year than last, partly because of the weather. Last summer there was more rainfall than usual. A mild winter followed, and then a temperate spring with no late frosts and precipitation, Newson explains. He adds that his ideas on mosquito numbers are based on general impressions and not scientific fact, because there is no statewide reporting system.

Nationwide, mosquito control centers are common, Newson says. The first mosquito control center was established in New Jersey in 1904, he notes. Michigan is one of the few states that do not have county-organized control centers sanctioned by state law.

If you don't live in an area with an organized mosquito control program, there are ways to keep the mosquito populations in check.

Newsome suggests purchasing one of the many varieties of insect repellents, wearing appropriate clothing (such as long-sleeved shirts) while camping or gardening, and spraying the yard with a hand-held fogger to keep mosquitoes away.

He also suggedsts regularly checking the yard to eliminate the places where mosquitoes breed.

Any container or area that holds water for more than two weeks can serve as a mosquito hatchery, Newson says. Old tires filled with rainwater, plugged storm gotters, wading pools, feeding troughs, and bird baths are likely places for mosquitoes to breed. Bird baths should be flushed at least every week.

In rural areas, drainage ditches that hold water provide an excellent place for mosquito larvae. Proper irrigation and water control are two important factors in keeping the mosquito population down, Newson says.

The mosquito is as much a part of the Michigan summer as the ant is part of a picnic – and it's just about as welcome. It can be controlled, however, with organized management.

Correct campus attire depends on personal preference, lifestyle

Before you buy that new outfit for college, make sure it fits your lifestyle – including your extracurricular activities.

According to Isabel Jones, Michigan State University Extension specialist and assistant professor of human environment and design, the most popular attire on campus is still slacks worn with a variety of tops, shirts and sweaters. This may vary from campus to campus, she said, with some urban campuses tending to be a little more formal.

She also urges students to purchase the very best quality clothing they can afford. A bargain price blouse, for example, is no bargain if it needs to be replaced every year. On the other hand, a more expensive, high quality blouse will probably last through college and beyond.

What has been described as the "preppy" look can actually be a wise clothing investment, Jones says. Preppy clothes are usually classic in design, can be worn for many years and are suitable for many occasions. Because of their fiber content and their durability, they can prove cost-effective in the long run.

In deciding what to buy, Jones suggests that students examine last year's clothing purchases. Look at what faded, fell apart or was so trendy that you can't bear to wear it this year. These items were not wise purchases and you should learn from these mistakes.

A major mistake many students make is buying clothing that is too small, she added. The life of a tightly fitting garment can be limited because of the extra pressure placed on the seams and fabric.

Also she adds, students, especially freshmen, sometimes fail to realize that they may not be finished growing, or they do not take into account the fact that most students gain a little weight at college. A garment you cannot wear is wasted, Jones points out.

The way college students clean and care for their clothes sometimes cuts down on the wearability or the life of the garment. Going to the laundromat is never convenient, she says, but like time for studying, time for doing laundry should be budgeted into your schedule. She suggests aiming for tsundry excursions every two weeks, instead of just once a month. And she cautions against cramming the washer full to the top.

"You may think you are saving money," she says, "but you are actually getting clothes that are not clean and have a dingy appearance."

Observe the laundry care labels on the garments, she advises. Never purchase an item that does not have a care label. It may be a costly mistake if the first washing ruins your garment.

Another caution is the label "colorfast." Your black socks may be labeled colorfast, but this does not mean the color will not run. They should not be washed with white clothes.

The two major rules of washing clothes, she says, are "small loads" and "like things together."

Jones encourages students to shop at home for their clothes instead of waiting until they get to school. Once school begins, they will find themselves lacking the necessary time for wise shopping. Another possibility is to defer shopping until they can spend a weekend at home. Take more clothes than you think you'll need, she advises, especially socks and underwear.

And finally, she suggests selecting outerwear with Michigan's severe winters in mind. Make sure your coat is long enough to cover your torso, she advises.

Council won't rezone for Dixon Ave. townhouse

by DAVE KNIGHT

Plans to build a six-unit townhouse complex at 102 E. Dixon received a setback Monday night when the Charlevoix City Council unanimously refused to rezone the property from R-1, single family residential, to R-4, multiple family dwelling.

An audience of about 80, many of them residents of the Dixon Avenue area, cheered the council's action which came after numerous statements for and against the project.

James Elliott, a Dixon Ave. resident and recently elected president of the Dixon Ave. Property Owners Association, presented petitions opposing the rezoning with over 200 signatures. He cited such problems as overtaxed sewage lines and increased vehicular traffic as potential effects of a condominium-townhouse development on the lot at 102 E. Dixon which is adjacent to the Lodge motel and presently vacant.

Former Charlevoix mayor Edward Hansen, representing project developer Jack Uhrick, explained the townhouse plan to the council as "the best use of the property." Uhrick has an option to purchase the lot from owner Robert Brown.

Hansen, who as mayor was involved with the establishment of the city's zoning ordinances, pointed out that a single family residential home on the lot could occupy much more space, be built much closer to lot lines and block more of the view of Round Lake than a multiple dwelling complex under the zoning laws.

Said Hansen, "If I were on the council, I would recommend that we try to put the least amount of building on the lot."

Elliott refuted Hansen saying, "Mr. Hansen is dealing with fantasy. There is no proposal for another building. We are only talking about a condominium."

Another Dixon Ave. resident, Gary Miller, suggested to the council that multiple dwelling units create a "metropolitan" atmosphere in a residential neighborhood and detract from Charlevoix's small town charm. Said Miller, "Many of us just seem to have an affection for single family homes in this community."

Richard Donaidson, who owns a home just south of the property in question, lent support to the project saying that a single family home on the lot is not economically feasible and that the council has already turned down requests to split it.

"Townhouses appear as some kind of monster that everyone is afraid of," said Donaldson, "But I think all of us are going to have to learn to live with more condominiums and other types of multiple living units in the future."

Uhrick, who said after the meeting that he has not given up on the project and will be back before the council at another time, pointed out that although the zoning requirements allow as many as nine units on the property, his plan for six would be more desirable. He also said that his family planned to occupy as many as three of the units thus making it more of a "family project" than something proposed by outside developers.

Disclaiming the petitions circulated by the D.A.P.O.A., Uhrick said, "Give me a week and I could get the same number of signatures supporting the project."

On a motion by council member Earl Muma, the council voted 6-0 to follow a recommendation by the Planning Commission (which voted 4-0 to deny the rezoning request) and retain the R-1 zoning classification of the 102 E. Dixon property. There was no council discussion.

In another major zoning matter, the council also refused to rezone a parcel of land at the corner of Mercer Blvd. and Taylor Rd. from PR, public reserve to C-1, commercial. The request to rezone was made by Site Planning Design which was turned down at a special council meeting last week in an attempt to purchase the city-owned property.

Site Planning Design was described by owner John Campbell as a property-owning firm to complement his landscape architecture firm of Site Planning Development which he termed a "contractual" firm. Campbell told council members that the 60 foot by 96 foot building he proposes to build would be used for gymnastics classes and storage for his business.

Council member Shirley Roloff opposed the sale and the rezoning on grounds that the price of $10,000 offered by Campbell was too low. Mayor Sam Supernaw suggested that first indications of the project, when it was presented to the council two weeks ago, were that it would be an appropriate addition to the city's Industrial Park by providing more jobs.

More specific information about the proposed use of the property, said Supernaw, may have caused council members to rethink their initial approval.

On a motion by Roloff to deny the rezoning request, council members Earl Muma and James Block voted with her while Jeffrey Porter, Robert Tinuns and Ray Wood voted against the motion. To rezone, a two-thirds majority is required thus making the 3-3 tie a denial of the rezoning request.

In other action, the council:

-Approved the site plan for a project proposed by Michael Barnard for the corner of Ferry Avenue and Stover Road which would involve a convenience store, restaurant-lounge and six motel units. Barnard said ground could be broken on the project by as early as November of this year.

-Adopted stricter language in the city's bicycle ordinance by a 4-2 vote with Roloff and Tinims opposing.

-Named City Treasurer Robert Muma as acting city manager, zoning administrator and street administrator.

Pine River Place is now actively seeking tenants.

Elderly housing project dubbed Pine River Place

by FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix's largest multiple housing facility, known until now as the Senior Citizens Housing has a new name...Pine River Place, named for the lazy river from which the early community, now called Charlevoix, was once named.

The facility, for which ground was broken Aug. 5, 1980, is nearing completion and plans for its dedication on Sept. 12 are already being made.

As of this week, 32 of the facility's 62 apartments had been assigned to tenants and others who are considering utilizing the facility are being encouraged to submit their applications at the earliest possible date.

To be eligible, a single person may have assets totaling $40,000 and an income of $9,350. The maximum is $10,700 for a couple.

It was explained that rents should not exceed 25 percent of a tenant's annual income. Anyone interested in learning more about the facility may call 547-5451 for an appointment. The same number may be called to see a model apartment.

The three-story structure, located on West Garfield Ave. 1½ blocks off US 31 South, offers the use of an elevator, a mail center, a community room and common kitchen. Laundry facilities will be provided as well as television reception. Cable will be available at a fee to tenants. Garden plots and parking spaces will also be available.

As of now, the construction is in the final stages with only the interior to be finished. Sidewalks and asphalt drives have been completed. The landscaping is now being done. The sodded lawns, trees, bushes and other plantings will be irrigated by an underground sprinkler system.

A spokesman for the Charlevoix Housing Commission under which the facility has been constructed said that a great deal of attention has been given to the safety and personal welfare of prospective tenants, through such alarms, high pressure fire hoses, ceiling sprinklers, personal emergency signals and an inter-communication system are in place. The building is equipped with a fire alarm that will ring simultaneously both at the building and the Charlevoix Fire Department. Fire doors will close automatically to seal off corridors and confine a fire to its place of origin.

Each apartment will offer full living quarters including a living-dining area, kitchen, bedroom, bath and storage. there will be three two-bedroom apartments, one of which will be occupied by the resident custodian. The remaining 59 are one-bedroom units.

Each bedroom will have a balcony or patio. In addition, there are eight exit doors on the first floor.

Effective Tuesday, Aug. 18, the Housing Commisssion office will be moved from the city hall to Pine River Place for the convenience of prospective tenants.

However, it will be necessary to call the office for an appointment to see a model apartment or to discuss occupancy.

The executive director, Edwin Gregory, will be at the office every morning Monday through Friday and Ann Cunningham will be in the office each afternoon from 1 until 5 p.m.

Applications may be obtained by calling 547-5451. It is also important to call the same number for an interview with the director.

The many persons who showed an interest in the facility when it was proposed are urged to see Pine River Place before cancelling their original application.

Pine River Place has been constructed with low interest monies obtained through HUD.

Paulsen to headline hospital dedication

Actor, commedian and former Presidential candidate Pat Paulsen will help Charlevoix Area Hospital dedicate its new wing and renovated facilities Sunday, August 23, at 2:00 p.m.

Paulsen, owner of the Traverse City Cherry County Playhouse since 1975, and well known film and TV actor, will join the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors, medical staff and employees as the featured speaker at the ceremonies. He will be starring in a production of "Who Gets the Drapes?" in Traverse City August 18-30.

The hospital is extending an invitation to all its patients, friends, and supporters to join the dedication ceremonies.

The hospital has just completed the construction of a new two story wing and a major remodelling of its out-patient departments, within the main hospital structure, to meet the growing pressure on these hospital services.

In 1978 the Board of Directors launched a fund raising campaign in the communities served by the hospital – Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, Central Lake, Ellsworth, Bellaire, Charlevoix and the rural areas of Charlevoix, Antrim and parts of Emmet Counties.

The $750,000 raised from the fund drive enabled the hospital to obtain a $3 million loan from the FHA at the County Transit System still in red

by PEG OHLE

After being in business for a year, the Charlevoix County Transit System is still operating at a substantial loss and attracting very few passengers.

Art Saworski, manager of the System, presented a report to the Board of Commissioners last week which indicated that the gross cost of providing 75,429 rides was $213,187, or $2.82 a ride. Fares collected for these rides averaged 48 cents, so the net cost per ride was $2.34.

The net cost per ride has increased since last fall, when, after operating for three and a half months, the cost was $2.16.

Somewhere between 1,100 and 1,200 individual residents of Charlevoix County rode on the buses during its first year of operation. This is approximately six percent of the County's population.

About half of the riders are either senior citizens or handicapped individuals, according to Saworski. Among the handicapped are the clients of Bergmann Center in Charlevoix, a workshop for retarded persons, who are transported to and from the Center five days a week from as far away as Hudson Township. Previously, Bergmann Center had its own transportation system.

Senior citizens ride mostly to and from Commission on Aging meal sites, to the Senior Centers in East Jordan and Boyne City, and to shopping centers, physicians' and dentists' offices, and hospitals. Before the County Transit System was organized the Commission on Aging had two buses which served senior citizens.

To help decrease the operating loss, bus fares were recently raised. They began at 40 cents within the cities, 75 cents within the county, and $1.50 for out-of-county rides. Senior citizens, handicapped and children under 12 rode at half fare. Present fares are 50 cents, $1.00, and $1.75, with the same half fare stipulations.

Saworski told the Board of Commissioners that further increases in fares might be necessary before the end of the coming year.

Basic funding for the County Transit System comes from the State Department of Transportation from revenues derived from gasoline taxes and the sale of license plates. It is a three-year program, with the State providing 100 percent funding for the first two years and 75 percent the third year. If the County decides to continue the service after the end of the second year (September 30, 1982), some source for the required 25 percent of operating expenses will have to be found. One source might be voted millage, according to Commissioner John Haggard.

The greater part of the $278,900 annual budget of the Transit System goes for salaries, fringe benefits, and travel of its employees – manager, secretary-accountant, bus supervisor, drivers, and dispatchers – for a total of $188,600. Other major expenses budgeted are rent, $4,000; utilities, $2,000; fuel and oil, $56,300; insurance, $12,000; and repairs, $8,500.

Operating equipment, which consists of seven buses, three with lifts for handicapped riders, was provided to the Transit System by the State at no local cost. Two of the buses are stationed in Charlevoix, two in Boyne City, two in East Jordan, and one is used for a "spare".

Children's choir musical planned

The children's choir, right, will highlight Super Summer Sunday No. 3 at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix this Sunday evening by singing the musical production "The Music Machine". The August 23 event will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the church at 202 W. Hurlbut according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor. The musical is under the direction of Miss Brenda Boss, front row left in the photo, who is a junior at Anderson College in Anderson, Indiana majoring in Elementary Music Education. The children have been rehearsing since the beginning of June when Miss Boss returned from a college study trip to Europe. "Music Machine" centers upon a Biblical theme and teaches the Fruit of the Spirit- peace, patience, gentleness, goodness, faith and self-control. The musical is part of the program planned for the church's Super Summer Sunday No. 3 which begins with a potluck supper at 6 p.m. Then the Kingsmen Quartet of the Community Church of God will present a half-hour concert at 6:45 p.m. Following the children's musical, dessert will be served in the fellowship hall. The public is invited to participate in the evening's activities at no charge.

Summer reading participants to have party

Boys and girls who participated in the Charlevoix Public Library's Story Hour this summer will be guests of the library at a party this Wednesday, August 19, at 1 o'clock, at the library.

There will be treats and entertainment for all, and each child will be presented with a certificate indicating the names of books, with authors, he or she read during the summer.

Proponent of better television programming for children addresses local group

by ANNE KELLY

It took two weeks spent at a semi-secluded lake cottage without a T.V. for our kids to realize that they could survive without "The Brady Bunch". That they could be the Brady Bunch. That they could be doing the doing. Monopoly and Yahtzee made Friday night swing nearly as much as "Solid Gold". An entire Saturday morning could be whiled away rowing and swimming and feeding the ducks without a single cartoon to spur them on. The experience was a lesson in "Different Strokes", and the entire family benefited. Even Grandma lived "The Days of Our Lives" while thousands of viewers only watched in their stuffy little T.V. Rooms.

Aside from the first two days when everyone including I, suffered withdrawal symptoms, the vacation provided, among other things, the answer to that frequently asked question of the past several years: Can a typical American family survive without T.V.? Or in fact, should they want to?

So it was, that I welcomed the invitation to attend a gathering of concerned parents and teachers at the home of local educator Mrs. Carolyn DeMoor. She had invited Jean Mobray, summer resident of Bay View and active member of the Board of Directors with the organization known as Citizen's Action for Better Television (C.A.B.T.V.) of greater Philadelphia, to speak on the subject "The Effects of Television Viewing on Children". Ms. Mobray who holds degrees from Steven's College, the University of Michigan and the University of Pennsylvania, is currently a professor of Behavioral Sciences at Harcum Jr. College in Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania. She periodically conducts workshops in Early Childhood Development and has co-authored a book entitled Diagnosing Individual Needs for Childhood Education.

As a representative of C.A.B.T.V., Ms. Mobray distinguished the purpose of her organization from other national citizens groups and the "Moral Majority" by emphasizing that their goal is to inform the community about the effects of T.V. viewing rather than to advocate abstinence from partaking in this medium, which has in fact become an institution over the last 30 years. Theirs is not a negative purpose acting AGAINST the added dimension television affords its viewers, but rather acts FOR a better quality of programming. She pointed out that television has become a pervasive environment in our culture. And just as we are aware of pollutants of the physical order we should be increasingly aware of the psychological pollutants infiltrating the air waves.

"T.V. has become the most powerful pervasive influence in our culture," Ms. Mobray reminded the gathering. "It is presently the most important socializing influence in a child's life, outstripping the former influences of the family, church and school. Children spend more time watching T.V. than they do in engaging in any other activity other than sleep. That's more than 1-2 of their waking life; an average of 1000 hours a year spent in front of this primary educator, this "people's university".

The crux of the matter is namely 1) what children miss while viewing their favorite T.V. fare hour every waking hour and 2) what the direct effects of WHAT they watch has upon them.

When children are watching T.V., what aren't they doing? The answer is an endless list of creative possibilities: learning to cope with boredom, reading, learning basic skills, using their imagination, learning to interact with one another constructively, to become loving, caring and concerned persons. Television, after all, makes few demands on its viewers. It leaves little time to think or do. It provides only vicarious experience.

A recent Claifornia students survey revealed that success in school as indicated by the test scores of those studied, was in direct proportion to the amount of T.V. the students viewed. The more the viewing, the lower the scores, and vice-versa.

What is the curriculum of the electronic classroom? What are children learning from network T.V.?

Television teaches about people, about different ways of life, about attitudes and work habits. It teaches through entertainment, well recognized as the most effective teaching aid available. Analyzing typical T.V. shows gives an interesting insight as to how T.V. is doing as an educator and whether in fact it is presenting its students with an accurate view of reality. How does your favorite show view the status and roles of men and women? Senior citizens? Blue collar workers? Businessmen? How does it deal with the basic social principles governing morality and violence?

If in fact the Communications Act of 1934 states that "the airwaves belong to the people," then it stands to reason that the people, not the networks or the sponsors should be the conscience regulating broadcast content.

In reality the major indicator of personal viewing preferences at this date is the Nielsen Ratings in which a mere 1200 families in a nation wide survey dictate the T.V. program menu for the country. Its level of competence being only 69 percent accurate is coming under justifiable criticism as offensive programming goes on.

The negative approach taken by some individuals and families, to eliminate T.V. altogether from their homes, has very little effect on broadcast schedules.

There are a few positive approaches for social action, however. One is to be aware of legislation which will dictate to or affect programming. Another is to actively support citizen's action groups. Another is to actually write to the networks or sponsors and let them know how you feel about programs being aired which you consider either offensive or, on the otherhand, excellent.

Ms. Mobray suggests "Project Postcard", which involves community members in critiquing questionable or controversial shows and sending a brief signed statement to the sponsors and/or the broadcasters.

Parent awareness of T.V.'s impact is a key step in the improvement of famfly viewing habits and may lead to alternatives of 'television' viewing. This is a worthwhile goal for those concerned with the formation and nurturing of young minds. A typical American family shouldn't have to survive without T.V. if the progamming is more carefully regulated, if viewing is used as an enrichment tool rather than as a teacher or a babysitter, if ideas and standards are monitored effectively, and if the family realizes the importance of doing things together.

Further information regarding Project Postcard may be obtained by contacting Carolyn DeMoor. A community campaign is currently in the planning stages.

School registration starts Monday

Registration of new students in the Charlevoix School System may begin Monday, Aug. 24.

Effective on that date, principals will be in their respective offices from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. with the exception of the noon hour for the convenience of parents who are registering students for the first time.

Children entering kindergarten who are not already registered must be five years of age by Sept. 1 in order to enroll. This is a policy of the Charlevoix schools. Parents registering these children are to bring the child's birth certificate, and health record.

The K-5 school is located on Division Ave. The phone number is 547-6583; the Middle School for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students on Grant St. The phone number is 547-4402. The high school is located on Garfield Ave. The phone number is 547-6491.

VFW Aux. plans pig roast

Plans for a pig roast luau to be held at the V.F.W. post home in September were made at a recent meeting of the V.F.W. Auxiliary.

Co-chairmen of the event which will be open to the public will be Mrs. John Gilding, Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Mrs. Kenneth Staley and Mrs. Leland Warner with Mrs. Clarence Goldstick handling publicity.

Mrs. Ethel Pearsall was accepted as a member. She and other new members will be initiated at the Sept. 3 meeting.

At the business session at which Mrs. Albert Russell presided, reports were given on the recent district meeting held at East Jordan at which the Charlevoix Auxiliary received citations for their membership record, for the historian and president for participating fully in all department programs during the 1980-81 year and for aiding in programs of service to veterans and the community.

Attending the district meeting were Mrs. Joseph Seidel, president, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Gilding and Mrs. Warner.

Members voted to pay all quotas to the District, State, Hospitals, National Home and to meet other obligations for the coming year. Mrs. Staley, Cancer chairman, reported that $99 in cash register tapes had been redeemed at Glen's Market and donated to the V.F.W. State Cancer Research project. Members are asked to continue saving the tapes for this purpose.

Mrs. Russell, legislative chairman, reminded members to vote in upcoming elections adding "Our veterans fought to preserve liberty and democracy and to give us the privilege to vote. We should all accept this responsibility by voting in every election."

Mrs. Goldstick reported on the retirement and class reunion dinners served by the auxiliary members in recent weeks. She also acknowledged the cookie baking sessions by Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Russell Dohm, Mrs. James Whitley and Mrs. Thomas Hodgkinson. The cookies were sold at the bingo concession.

There will be no social meeting this month.

Mrs. Goldstick served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

PERIDOT: VOLCANO'S CHILD (Part II)

In my continuing saga about volcanoes and gemstones, I'd like to continue the story of peridot, focusing on the North American continent.

Peridot is generally found in volcanic "bombs," masses of liquid lava which are thrown out by explosions and harden in flight. These eventually land upon the slopes of the cinder cone where they form much of the debris.

In about 1915, gem quality peridot grains were found in volcanic bombs on Timothy Mountain, British Columbia, between two extinct cinder cones. This led to an extensive working of the area from which some fine green crystals were obtained.

The most productive locality for peridot in North America is near an Indian village in Arizona. The gem material is found on the summit and sides of a flat tableland called Peridot Mesa. The mesa is capped by a peridot rich basalt flow that varies in depth from 10 to 100 feet.

Kilauea Hole is a strange shallow circular depression in New Mexico. Geologists feel it is the mouth of a long extinct volcano. Pale green peridot is found in the basalt rim of the crater.

Peridot is the traditional birthstone for August. Some say it was assigned to August because of its summery green color. Mounted in gold and worn on the left hand, it was claimed to put ghosts and demons to flight, dispel melancholy, and foolishness and to show the eternal paths to wisdom.

Peridot has a fascinating past and still fascinates people the way it did centuries ago. I hope you enjoyed reading this fragment of its story.

Knight on the Town
Wee-enforcement

by Dave Knight

Somewhere along the line in our society, many young people in America tend to develop an adversary relationship with the law enforcement profession. Whether by peer pressure, parental influence, fictional television portrayals, or other factors, youngsters often wind up distrusting police officers and having little regard for the policeman's authority by the time they are teenagers.

Such attitudes, say the experts, are right at the heart of the exploding juvenile crime rate.

Now there is a local program to provide elementary-aged students with a positive image of law enforcement.

Under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and the Charlevoix Womens Club, thirteen area boys and girls have become certified Junior Deputies.

The Junior Deputy program got underway this past spring with impetus provided by Sheriff George T. Lasater and Advisor Patty Numa. Most of the students now involved in the program were first introduced to it by a presentation made by Lasater in the schools.

Lasater points out in a letter to parents of a prospective Junior Deputy that the program is not necessarily designed to recruit future police officers.

"Our program is aimed at building better citizens for tommorrow. We encourage our members to strive to be good examples both at home and at school for their friends. We ask our members to maintain good grade average and be model citizens at school," says Lasater, "Because a person becomes a member of the Junior Deputy Sheriff's Program, it does not mean that they will be persuaded to be police officers in the future."

To be a Junior Deputy, an applicant must be between the ages of 10 and 15, must have parental approval, must be in school and stay out of trouble. A prospective member is interviewed by an advisor and evaluated for membership on the basis of grades, reasons for joining and character references among other things.

Before being officially accepted as a Junior Deputy, a prospect must attend three consecutive meetings. Following this initiation period, he or she receives a uniform, badge, ID card, shoulder patch and 20-page training manual.

Junior Deputies meet monthly at the Sheriff's Department. At each meeting they are exposed to a different phase of law enforcement and police work. Meetings this year have included such activities as tours of the Sheriff's Department, Fire Department and Ambulance Service, instructions on taking finger prints and CPR certification. Future sessions will include basic first aid, a visit to District Court in session and a talk by a FBI agent.

Meetings are not always strictly business; there are also picnics, softball games and a Christmas party on the agenda.

"We talk about some really interesting things at the meetings but we do a lot of fun things too," says Lori Maue, 10, one of four girls involved in the program, "Like ride in the Venetian parade."

Included in the training manual is an extensive list of rules and regulations for the Junior Deputies which combine Boy Scout-type pledges of courtesy and honesty with a list of violations for which dismissal is the result. For instance, a Junior Deputy can be dismissed from the program for "conduct unbecoming to an officer" or for "willful disobedience of any order issued to him by any Superior Officer in the Junior Deputy Program."

There are even prescribed channels for bad blood among members. Says the manual: "Any complaint by any member of the Junior Deputy Program or any other charge against a member by another member shall be presented in writing to the advisor of the Junior Deputy. The full name, rank and badge number shall accompany such reports."

Following the rules and regulations, there is also a 13-point code of ethics which the Junior Deputy signs with the Sheriff as witness and a Junior Deputy Sheriff's League Pledge which the member must also sign.

There is no cost involved with being a Junior Deputy; uniform shirts are ones that have been retired from the Sheriff's Department and taken in by members' mothers.

Though not all participants are budding police officers, at least some Junior Deputies are thinking seriously about pursuing law enforcement careers.

"I'd like to be a policeman someday," said Scott Ippel, 10, "I think it's fun to learn about what policemen do. Taking fingerprints was one of the most interesting things we have done."

Phillip Muma is another participant who would like to follow up on his Junior Deputy participation with a career in police work.

Like any good police officers, the Junior Deputies are instructed to be constantly on the alert for suspicious activities or potential crimes being committed. Already, one of the Junior Deputies has helped provide information on a case by reporting a suspicious vehicle.

Sheriff Lasater has helped them make their homes more secure by providing such resources as burglary prevention checklists for the Junior Deputies to take home and fill out.

On the current roster of the Junior Deputy program are Christian Groves, Jason Wiser, James Holm, Linda McClanathan, Marci Wynkoop, Scott Ippel, Ann Hogan, Tom Herriman, Scott Truman, Mark Smith, Barry Loper, Phillip Numa and Lori Maue.

Meetings are held on the last Wednesday of each month.

Clockwise
Reagan shows class

Come Thursday, Ronald Reagan will have been president for a full seven months, and, contrary to the grim predictions of his opponents, he turning out to be a first-rate administrator.

We haven't seen the likes of him since the days of Harry Truman.

I voted for Reagan last November not because I particularly liked his policies, but because I knew the nation could not endure another four years of Jimmy Carter's indecision. A lot of others apparently felt the same way.

Today I stand in awe of all Reagan has been able to accomplish in such a short time.

Despite some grey areas — such as the automobile industry, which will not recover until labor contracts are renegotiated — our economic future appears brighter today than it has in years. Inflation, which has been running in double-digits for months, dropped back to 5.5 percent in July. It is still higher than I would like, but it's moving in the right direction — down.

The American dollar continues to show surprising strength against most foreign currencies. Some economists fear the dollar is too strong and that comparatively low-priced imports will continue to hamstring the American job market. But I can't buy that. The relative position of the dollar among world currencies should have little effect at home, given the pro-business stance of the Reagan administration.

Contrary to all expectations, Reagan has managed to push through Congress a number of budget cuts and tax breaks which would have been unthinkable under Carter. True, the cuts are piddling in comparison to overall spending and tasation, but they — like the inflation rate — are moving in the right direction.

In a year or two, the average citizen should have a few more dollars in his jeans to spend or invest — which should further bolster the economy.

An organization called "Michigan Citizens Supporting the President" claims that the economic bills signed last week by Reagan will save taspayers $5.7 billion a year in Michigan alone when they are fully effective in three years.

Reagan's penchant for talking tough and acting tough with the Soviet Union comes as a surprise after a generation of detente. His decision to build the neutron bomb shocked a good many of us until France pointed out that Russia already has tested neutron bombs. Now physicist Edward Teller — one of the founders of the nuclear age — tells us that the neutron bomb is the only answer to the neutralization, or "Finlandization," of Europe.

I think we'll find the Soviet Union dealing a lot more frankly with the West once the Kremlin realizes Reagan means business.

Probably what I like best about Reagan is his matter-of-fact attitude toward the presidency. He is well organized; he has delegated tons of responsibility to underlings, handling only the the major problems himself. He doesn't try to impress everyone with his long hours in the Oval office.

The pomp with which Richard Nixon tried to clothe the office is a thing of the past. Ronald Reagan goes about his business without ruffles and flourishes, which again is surprising, considering his long Hollywood career.

He is even less theatrical than Jimmy Carter who used to get on TV, wrinkle his little brow on cue and tell us we were sick, sick, sick.

Reagan also has handled the attempt on his life last spring with a good deal of class, although the lung wound could well have been fatal if skilled surgical help had been more than a few minutes away.

The president could be excused if he had used the assault to play on our sympathies or as an excuse for not giving his utmost to the job.

But aside from espressing his sympathy to the family of the young man who fired the bullet, he has shrugged off the incident with good humor.

And that in my book is class.

The nation's former air controllers may not agree, but future historians are going to have a lot of good things to say about Ronald Reagan.

Letters: The fire, condos on Dixon

City fireman objects to criticism...

Dear Editor:

It never ceases to amaze me that so many people have so much knowledge about fire fighting.

Mr. Hufford's sole concern seems to be whether or not the inventory could have been, no should have been saved.

Was the smoke toxic? Were the burning elements explosive? Were there dangerous or explosive items elsewhere in the building? None of these questions were asked.

In a fire of this magnitude the situation is one of stress for the firefighters and panic for the owners; there is not much time for consultations.

Maybe if owners did their homework there wouldn't be so much public second guessing. For example: fire alarms on a dedicated phone line, sprinkler systems, and designated areas for toxics.

Mr. Hufford should get the panel together and get the facts before publicly attacking the fire fighters.

Barry Wood
City of Charlevoix Fire Fighter

...Barnes replies

Dear Barry:

A little surprised by the tone of your letter to the Courier regarding Don Hufford. While I did not hear his presentation, I read nothing in the Courier that indicated he was suggesting anything other than that a panel be formed and that some questions need to be asked. . your letter confirms that some questions need to be asked. I don't think Don should get the panel together, but I do agree that a panel should be formed to get the facts.

Nowhere did I read where Don is "public attacking the fire fighters". If he has, I take exception...I saw no evidence of a lack of skill (or effort) of the fire fighters, and they deserve nothing but compliments. Nevertheless, there may be room for improvement in many other areas and a panel could be very beneficial to all concerned.

The three questions you say were not asked, were asked of me by the fire chief (and were answered).

1. The smoke contained no toxic materials that would not be found in any home or building fire (such smoke is, in itself, "toxic").

2. The only explosive elements (propane tanks for lift trucks and volatile materials stored in and alongside the separate building) were pointed out and their location described.

3. See answer to number 2.

As to our homework, we try...fire alarms are either manual or water flow operated (heat type are useless in a facility such as ours)...sprinklers would be nice but they are not considered effective unless a municiple or gravity water supply is available, in our fire they would have been useless without one of those supplies, as the main power interrupted...we have a designated area for volatiles, other than those we have no toxics unless you consider hydraulic oil as a toxic...we necessarily have that in every machine.

Let's encourage a panel to see if improvements in techniques, availability of vital aid equipment, a better understanding by all of fire management and who is in authority, and cooperation of local industry can result in a more efficient fire prevention and fire fighting program.

J.T. Barnes, President
LexaLite International Corporation

Note: Toxicity seems to be a big concern. Only reacted plastics in the form of pellets or granuals are used at LexaLite; the products of combustion of the materials used, in raw material, or in finished goods, are classified "non-toxic" and all are approved for use in public buildings, transportation, etc. In no way was this fire similar to one at a chemical plant that makes plastics resins, wherein the products of combustion, or released chemicals, may include toxic materials such as free chlorine, formaldehyde, etc. We are not a plastic manufacturer, we are a plastics processor; i.e., we melt and resolidify in finished form reacted plastic materials. We do not react chemicals into plastic materials.

Bocks rezoning for condo

A letter submitted to the Mayor and Council before Monday night's meeting:

I am writing in reference to the possible rezoning of the property owned by Robert Brown at 102 E. Dixon.

I am in favor of Mr. Brown's request.

I understand from newspaper stories that a Dixon Ave. Property Owners Assoc. has been formed to try to prevent the rezoning. The property in question borders two streets...Dixon and Thistle Downs, and is just one lot in from a third street...Michigan Ave., so more than the E. Dixon property owners may have concern. In fact, my property will or could be affected more by whatever happens with the vacant lot than any other as I have approximately 200' of my lot adjacent to Mr. Brown's lot. Thus it seems strange that I wasn't invited to the meeting.

I would like to review some of the statements that were printed in the Aug. 12, 1981 issue of the Courier:

A. Remarks by Mr. Elliott:

1. Problems that could be caused by the increase in population density:

(a) "Increased traffic on an already busy street." This doesn't hold water as E. Dixon is one-way and is currently lightly traveled when compared with other major east-west streets such as Antrim, Clinton, Park, Belvedere, etc. Also, because E. Dixon is one-way, any increased traffic from a mere six housing units would most likely be for just one block.

(b) "More problems with snow removal." Why? The city already plows the street.

(c) "Parking congestion." Why? With multiple housing the city will require a sufficient number of off-street parking spaces.

(d) "Increased need for municipal services." The services already exist on E. Dixon. The group's remark here sounds like they don't want to hook up any new customers! Anywhere!

2. "An increase in population density in what is now a residential area." In reply to this I think it is necessary to look at the properties in and around 102 E. Dixon: the first property to the west is a motel. (The second property is a rooming house.) The first property to the east is a residence, (Mr. Bridge.) The first property to the south is a residence, (mine.) Also to the south the second property contains a gift shop, a lumber company, a marine sales and service, a turf shop and a cruise dining ship...with as many as 100 cars parked in the immediate vicinity. If you want consider properties across E. Dixon the first house at the corner of Michigan is a rooming house. Does this sound like a prime residential area?

B. Remarks by Mr. Bridge:

1. He said he had collected well over 100 signatures on his petition. My reply is that it is not difficult to secure signatures on petitions for just about any cause. Also, of the four immediate area property owners, only one (Mr. Bridge) has signed the petition.

2. "We have seen what uncontrolled condominium development has done to the south side of Round Lake and we don't want it to happen to the north side." My comments are: (a) I am a 50-year native born and raised in the Charlevoix area and I disagree because the condos are all very attractive and they replaced run-down buildings and previously unattractive landscape. (b) The new condos brought some very nice seasonal owners who are real assets to Charlevoix. (c) the development was not uncontrolled.

Mr. Brown has somewhere near $80,000 tied up in this vacant lot. He has tried on two previous dates to cut up the big lot into two separate lots so that two homes could be built but the city council turned him down. It is not practical to build one house on the lot because of high land cost. In fact, it would take a $350,000 to $400,000 home to justify the cost of the land. I think the city has been unfair to the property owner in the past and should allow the rezoning.

When I look out my windows, I presently see a vacant lot with a very unattractive tool and equipment building and usually a field of hay and weeds. Mr. Bridge doesn't see this as he has a hedge of bushes on his lot which blocks out Mr. Brown's lot. I would much prefer to see a beautiful new six unit townhouse.

In recent months there has been too much negative conversation around Charlevoix about condos and townhouses. The units that currently exist are well-built and very attractive and, I think, definite assets to Charlevoix. Most experts in the USA today are saying that multiple types of housing may be our only salvation in the next few years. New single family homes are now out of reach for the vast majority of Americans. The U.S. housing industry is in deep trouble today with the only bright spots being duplexes, townhouses, condos, rental apartments, some commercial buildings and very expensive houses (in some areas.) I have lived in Florida condos and an Arizona townhouse; I have enjoyed the experience. Whether you like it or not many of you will live in multiple housing in the near future. Rather than to "knock it" now, why don't you recognize the inevitable and start working with people on multiple housing.

There are many advantages to multifamily dwelling units not the least of which is the fact that they use 55 percent less energy per square foot than single-family detached houses.

For reasons really unknown some people in Charlevoix seem to think that the six-unit development at 102 E. Dixon will be some sort of monster. I think that is probably the best possible use of the property.

I have served this community in the past on the city council and the school board and so realize that pressure groups can and do (or attempt to) dictate policies and try to influence decisions. This is part of the American system, but we do have the silent majority to consider also.

I would like to see the rezoning request approved.

Dick Donaldson

Greg Long survives third running of bulls in Spain

How many times have you read about an event or happening and said to yourself, "I'm going to do that some day"? Many times, perhaps, but somehow or other it just never materialized. It was different with Greg Long of Horton Bay.

COURIER: You just returned from Spain. Why did you go there?

LONG: I went to the Festival of San Fermin in Pamplona to run with the bulls. This is the third consecutive year I've gone.

COURIER: How did you learn about the Festival?

LONG: I read about it in Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises". That was in 1977 and then and there I decided I had to go and run with the bulls. It sounded adventurous, something totally different and alien from everything else I do – being chased by a bunch of bulls. It was two years before I made my first run – in 1979. I was 30 then and vowed to do it for at least 10 years. Too many people lose their sense of adventure at 30 and I figured this would guard against being complacent.

COURIER: Is just anyone permitted to run with the bulls?

LONG: No, you have to be a male, over 18, and sober. Women aren't permitted to run, but they could probably disguise themselves well enough to get by with it. However, I've never heard of any.

COURIER: Were there other Americans in the run this year?

LONG: I met fewer than 10, but there are always others who just go to participate in the Festival. The unofficial godfather of the run is American-born and has run for 28 years.

COURIER: Well, what exactly is a run? How does it work?

LONG: Each morning during the Festival, six fighting bulls are released to run a varied one-mile course through the center of town into a corral. Part of the run is uphill, part of it consists of sharp turns, and part of it is a straight-away into a chute. There's a barricade for runners along the side of the course and they can start to run anywhere along the course as soon as they see the bulls coming or hear they're on the way. I stand in the square until I see the bulls coming, then run out of the way. It's really not racing the bulls, it's jogging with people and playing the crowd. It's the thrill of seeing the animals come toward you and getting out of the way. The music is playing and there's much shouting and cheering. You have to have an idea of what you are going to do, and when. It takes quick thinking and reactions rather than speed and endurance.

Greg T. Long

COURIER: It sounds dangerous. Don't people get hurt?

LONG: Every day. Some people are knocked down, even trampled, by the bulls, and occasionally some one is killed. But it's not only the bulls you have to look out for. Someone can start a rumor, people begin to panic, and they trip and fall. Part of the course has barricades that can be used for emergencies. This area is patrolled by skilled and efficient medical teams with stretchers, so first aid is always available.

COURIER: Do the bulls try to trample people?

LONG: No, but they have a herding instinct and follow the leaders without looking about them. Lone bulls are the ones you have to look out for and the runners should learn to count the bulls as they go by.

COURIER: How did the bull run get started?

LONG: It started a long time ago, probably by Spaniards who wanted to give the bulls their last chance at the people in town before meeting the matadors in the ring in the afternoon. It has been popular for many years, but "The Sun Also Rises" really publicized it and made it a world-wide event. The run is also mentioned in two of Mitchener's works, "The Drifters" and Iberia".

COURIER: What about the Hemingway statue and the red scarves?

LONG: The statue is in the plaza at Pamplona. Everyone who goes there buys a red scarf to wear and an extra one to put around Hemingway's neck. The statue is a meeting place for everyone after the run. All the runners wear white pants, white shirts, red scarves, and red sashed. By tradition, you're supposed to wear the red scarves until July 14, Bastile Day, no matter where you are. I wore mine in an English pub and someone recognized it.

COURIER: What else goes on in Pamplona during the Festival of San Fermin?

LONG: There's lots of music, dancing, and drinking. People from the surrounding villages come in with their banners showing pictures of bulls with slogans about them. They seem to be thanking the bulls for the pleasure they have been given in the bull ring. Many literary people go to the Festival, people like Orson Welles and George Plimpton. They sit around outdoor cafes and talk about books, art, and similar things all this while fireworks and going off and loud music is playing. One morning, at 8:30, I heard a man recite every verse of "The Raven" from memory.

COURIER: It must be a mob scene.

LONG: During Festival week, the people of Pamplona close their eyes. The parks are filled with tents and sleeping bags. Even the bank buildings are opened for people to sleep in. They sleep everywhere except in the streets. But there's very little crime. I've never seen a fight, people being molested, a robbery, or even a policeman. My friend and I stay about 28 miles away from Pamplona in a renovated castle.

COURIER: It sounds like a great trip. Did you go anywhere else?

LONG: We drove around the English countryside, then to France and Barcelona and Pamplona. Afterward we went across France again to Paris and back to London. We drove about 2,600 miles in a week's time. I was great, especially going through the heart of the Pyrenees.

COURIER: And you're going back next year?

LONG: For my fourth year.

Clarence Way publishes booklet

Charlevoix resident Clarence Simeon Way has recently published a booklet of memoirs by his late father, George Way, which reflects pioneer life in northern Michigan.

The elder Way was born in 1858 in Ontario and came to the United States with his family in 1865, settling first in Port Huron. In 1870, the family took up a homestead in Clearwater Township, Kalkaska County, having reached there via steamer to Northport, and oxcart through Traverse City, Acme, and Williamsburg.

George Way tells of clearing the woods, building the cabins, and harvesting the crops in the primitive manner of the day, all with a gentle fond recall. The booklet also contains several poems based on contemporary happenings and thoughts.

Achee-Buday

Kathy Achee of South Plainfield, N.J. became the bride of Edward Buday, Jr. of Arlington, Va. on August 1 at Our Lady Of Czestochowa R.C. Church in South Plainfield, N.J. Fr. John Skwara officiated in the double ring morning ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stewart of South Plainfield are parents of the bride and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Buday, Sr. of Charlevoix.

The bride, given in marriage by her step-father, Norman Stewart, wore a gown of candlelight peau de soul with Alencon lace trim. Her matching veil was attached to a cap of lace and she carried a nosegay bouquet of silk tiger lilies, rosebuds, stephanotis, baby's breath and off-white ribbon streamers.

During the service, the groom's sisters, Ann and Mary Jo Buday, read ceremonial readings. Yellow roses were presented to the grandmothers and mothers during the Mass and at the conclusion of the ceremony, the bride and groom read "Coupies Prayer".

Denise Haraburda of East Detroit attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a light powder blue gown of Qiana with an empire waistline and accordian pleats. She carried a nosegay bouquet of silk flowers in light blue to match her gown.

Thomas Host of Grand Rapids was best man and ushers were Douglas Buday, brother of the groom, and Larry Stewart, brother of the bride.

A champagne brunch at Sleepy Hollow Restaurant in Scotch Plains, N.J. followed the ceremony. The rehearsal supper was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Buday at Jaques Restaurant on Friday evening.

The couple is honeymooning in the Shenandoah Mounians and Williamsburg, Va. and then will make their home at 701 S. Walter Reed Dr., Arlington, Va.

They are both graduates of Aquinas College in Grand Rapids.

Weddings

Shaffner-Browe

The marriage of Lauri Shaffner and Ronald Browe at Houston, Tex., July 11 has been announced by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorn Shaffner of Eastport and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Browe, Jr., of Charlevoix.

The couple was married in a civil ceremony at the home of Robert Frabis, a former local resident who also gave the bride in marriage.

Patrick Plumm, former resident now living in Houston, attended the bridgroom as best man. Jennifer and Jason Frabis of Charlevoix, who were visiting in Houston, served as flower girl and ringbearer, respectively.

The bride, who has lived in Houston since spring, is a collections teller at the First Alief Bank in Alief, Texas. The bridegroom, who was transferred to Houston earlier this year as a plant manager of the Houston Division of Midwest International.

Mrs. Shaffner and Mr. and Mrs. Browe were in Houston for the wedding.

H & R BLOCK TO OFFER TAX SCHOOLS IN PETOSKEY AND CHARLEVOIX

Thousands of people are earning money in their spare time as income tax preparers.

H & R Block, in conjunction with North Central Michigan College, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 10 with morning, afternoon and evening classes available.

During the 12 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block personnel will teach current laws, theory and application as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications. Courses are ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers or persons wanting to increase their tax knowledge.

Qualified course - graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligations to accept employment with H & R Block.

The modest course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course. The course is licensed by the state of Michigan.

Registration for Petoskey will be Thursday, Sept. 3, 8-9 p.m. at North Central Michigan College.

Registration for Charlevoix will be Monday, August 31, 7-8 p.m. at Charlevoix High School.

For additional information please call NCMC, 347-3973, ext. 246.

Records fall in Recreation Dept.'s annual track and field meet

The annual Track and Field Day sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department attracted more than 35 youngsters in the eight through 13 year age group Dwight Boss, city recreation director, reported following the event Thursday.

Three new records were set by the girls and two by the boys Boss said.

In the standing long jump Stacy Gebott set a new record of 5'6" in the junior girls' division.

Soccer team advances

The Charlevoix Independent Soccer Team won its first game in the Northen Lites Soccer League tournament Sunday with a 2-1 victory over Gaylord at the Boyne City field. Both goals were scored by Ralph Hollinshead with the winning goal scored with about 30 seconds to play in the game. Charlevoix will advance to the next round and play Harbor Springs next Sunday at Boyne City.

Cheerleaders attend camp

The Charlevois Rayder cheerleading corps returned recently from a week-long training camp held at Central Michigan University under the sponsorship of the Dynamic Cheerleaders Association, Mrs. Donald Trimper, cheerleading coach, has announced.

Charlevoix's Varsity squad of eight members placed fourth in overall excellence among the 21 Varsity squads entered in the competition. The team had a total of 192 out of a possible 200 points Mrs. Trimper said.

During each camp, one cheerleading squad among those attending receives an award for the most outstanding routine. This year the Charlevoix team of Janine Browe, Jennifer Juilleret, Colleen Wilhelm, Patti Cook, Tricia Morgan, Michele Hellew, Linda Joy and Kim Curtis won the award.

Their routine was a clever one done to the music of "Morning Train".

Charlevoix's Junior Varsity team, one among 14 JV squads, also won a fourth place overall excellence award. This team is composed of Pam Drury, Karen Speigl, Debbie Rogers, Missy Walker, Carrie Richardson and Becky Wojan.

Charlevoix's freshman cheerleading team also attended. Tbey competed against two other freshman squads and the 14 JV squads which was escellent training for them Mrs. Trimper said. Members of this team are Tammy Horstman, Cheryl Hartnett, Lori Kane, Mary Donnelly and Melinda Morgan.

Mrs. Trimper and Mrs. Louis Itollow accompanied the cheerleaders.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time in a Special Council Session called by Mayor Supernaw for the purpose of considering the sale of a parcel of City-owned property to Site Planning Design and to set a date for a Public Hearing on UDAG projects in the City.

Present: Councilmembers Wood, Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, and Roloff. Absent: None.

John Hesa of Site Planning Design appeared before Council to discuss the company's plans for a parcel of City-owned property at the corner of Mercer and Taylor Rd. that Council had previously agreed to sell to the company for $10,000, contingent upon approval of their proposed site plan. Mr. Hesa presented a plan showing placement of a proposed building on the property and landscaping. He stated that Site Planning would use part of the building for office space and storage and would rent part of it for a gymnastics school. Council discussed the fact that the property, located in the Industrial Park, was originally intended to be used to create additional jobs in the City and expressed concern that Site Planning's proposal would not achieve this purpose. Councilwoman Roloff also stated she thought the property was being sold at too low a price and Councilman Porter questioned rather Site Planning's proposal would be the best use of the land.

Moved by Councilwoman Roloff and supported by Councilman Muma to deny the sale of a parcel of City property in the City's Industrial Park to Site Planning Design, Inc. based on the rejection of the proposed Site Plan presented on this date.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Muma, Block, Porter, and Roloff. Nays: Councilman Timms. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms to hold a Public Hearing at 8:00 P.M. on August 24, 1981 regarding Urban Development Action Grant projects in the City.

Aug. 10, 1981 (cont'd.)

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Samuel C. Supernaw, Mayor

Official Notice

HAYES TOWNSHIP BOARD REGULAR MEETING-AUG. 3, 1981

The meeting was called to order at 8:05 P.M. by Supervisor Lee Sneathen

All the members of the Board were present for the meeting

The Clerk's report of the July, 1981 Regular Meeting was read and approved.

The Clerk read a report from the Zoning Administrator, Orville Beal and Planning Commission Member, Kirt Eggers. They investigated a complaint made by Mrs. Betty Zipp regarding zoning violations by Jim and Mike Baker in Bay Shore. The report stated that Jim & Mike Baker were not in violation of the Hayes Township Zoning. This report was also presented to the Hayes Township Planning Commission.

A letter was read from Mr. Bruce Green. He submitted his resignation from the Hayes Township Planning Commission. The Board accepted his resignation and commended Mr. Green on his years of service to the Township.

An estimate was received from the Charlevoix County Road Commission for improvement work on Dalton Rd. The estimate was for $39,000. A Motion was passed that the improvement work on Dalton Rd. be denied.

A letter was read from the Charlevoix County Road Commission regarding some House Bills which have been introduced which would increase the income of the Road Commissions.

Mr. Dick Wood attended the meeting in regard to a storm water drainage problem he is having. He contends that the it is caused from the higher grade of the adjacent property belonging to Mr. Henderson. Mr. Wood requests that the Board cite Mr. Henderson for a zoning violation for filling above grade. The Board decided to turn this matter over to the Hayes Township Planning Commission and the Zoning Administrator for investigation and report.

A Motion to pay the bills in the amount of $1,800.94 was approved by a roll call vote of the Board.

The Board discussed the uses and fees that should be charged for renting the hall. The Board will do more study before deciding on a set fee.

A Motion to adjourn the meeting was approved

Sandra Somerville
Hayes Township Clerk

Hospital dedication this Sunday

remarkable low interest rate of 5 percent.

The construction of the new wing and the renovations of the out-patient departments within the hospital, built in 1954, were necessitated by the phenomenal growth of each department. Since the early 1970's, in and out-patient use of the laboratory, radiology, physical and respiratory therapy and emergency services has doubled and in some cases tripled and quadrupled.

The tremendous increase in use of these departments has been attributed to several factors, including the near tripling of the size of the hospital's medical staff. Today the Charlevoix Area Hospital's staff includes physicians with specialities in internal medicine, family practice, general and orthopedic surgery, obstetrics and gynecology and radiology.

Also a factor in the growth of the use of these hospital services is the current trend in medicine to treat cases on an out-patient basis whenever possible.

Thus each of the out-patient departments has been vastly expanded, permitting the addition of needed new equipment.

The enlarged emergency rooms and entrance have been relocated to the front of the hospital as a convenience to the public.

The new wing, running parallel to Lake Michigan has patient rooms, moved from the interior of the original building, on the upper floor and administration and classrooms on its lower level.

The project did not call for the addition of new patient rooms, just their relocation to permit the expansion of other departments in the hospital.

The new classrooms have permitted the hospital's in-service training department to plan more sessions for hospital staff.

The first Charlevoix Hospital was a two story remodelled fram house on Hurlbut Street.

The current hospital was constructed in 1954 after a community fund raising project. In 1972 the Coronary Care and Intensive Care Units were added.

Administrator Richard Krueger observes that the completion of the current renovation project brings Charlevoix Area Hospital into the 1980's, making it a very up to date medical facility.

Obituaries

WILLIAM W. DYE

William Warren Dye, sone of Mrs. Fred Dye of Detroit and East Jordan and the late Mr. Dye, long-time summer residents at Lake Charlevoix, passed away on July 21, 1981 at a Petoskey hospital after a lingering illness.

The descendant of pioneer Charlevoix County families, Mr. Dye was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Monroe, Jr. (Catherine Clark) who resided in East Jordan. Mr. Monroe was a dock and bridge builder who built the first permanent bridge across the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. William Dye was the great grandson of John Monroe, Sr., who came to Charlevoix County as a lumberman about in the 1850's with his wife, Marceline LaLonde Monroe. The LaLonde family also pioneered in the Charlevoix County region: Monroe Creek was named for the family and was the site of the Monroe family homestead.

Born in Detroit November 27, 1921, Mr. Dye, who was known as Bill to his many friends, attended the University of Michigan where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. He was graduated from Indiana University at Bloomington, Indiana, and received his J.D. degree from Indiana University Law School, where he was a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity.

Mr. Dye was an attorney associated with his father, Fred Dye, who was also a lawyer in Detroit, and later was a legal referee for the Administrative Law Exmn. of the Department of Labor of the State of Michigan, Michigan Employment Security Commission, and was residing in Lansing at the time of his death.

Survivors include his widow, Lenore; his mother, Mrs. Fred Dye of East Jordan and Detroit; three children, Fred Dye and Deborah Dye, both of Denver, and Constance Dye of San Angelo, Texas; two grandchildren, Jennifer Dye and Karen Dye, of Denver; and two sisters, Mrs. E.D. Wood of New York City, and Mrs. James V. Winkler (Katherine), of Potomac, Maryland.

Services were held July 25, 1981 in Detroit, and interment was in the family plot in Grand Lawn Cemetery in Detroit. Services were conducted by the Rev. Dale Turner, of East Jordan.

Forestry tour planned

Several members of the state legislature will tour forest industries plants in the Gaylord-Grayling area this coming Thursday and Friday.

Led by State Senator Mitch Irwin, the group will visit the Weyerheuser and Champion International plants as well as some wood chipping and sawmill operations.

The trip is designed to educate the members of the Senate Consumer Affairs Committee, Forestry Committee, and Tourist Industries Committee about the potential for forest products and economic development.

"It is my firm conviction that there is tremendous potential for forest products to help revitalize Michigan's economy," Irwin said. "It is my hope that this two-day trip will generate legislative ideas and lead to better utilization of our forests."

A.C.E. plans open house

The A.C.E. Genealogy Society will sponsor an open house at the Boyne City Public Library Saturday, Aug. 22.

On exhibit at that time will be genealogical books, literature, and forms for use by those interested in tracing their family roots. Demonstrations on the use of Microfilm readers and the Microfiche reader will also be given. There will also be displays of work completed by persons who have done their own family genealogy.

Anyone interested in displaying their own work in genealogy is asked to make arrangements no later than Aug. 15.

Interested persons may call Mrs. Lloyd Arnold, chairman of the Society, for further information or to obtain space for an exhibit.

The hours of the open house are from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 22. The Boyne City Public Library is located at the corner of East Main St. and Park Ave. in Boyne City.

The A.C.E. Genealogy Society takes its name from the three most northwesterly counties of the lower peninsula of the state, Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet. Its membership is devoted to people interested in learning how to trace their family roots.

EVEN A LITTLE KID CAN DO IT - This youngster is learning how easy it is to get up-to-the-minute weather information from a new electronic radio system the Michigan Department of Transportation is installing in all 76 rest areas along Michigan freeways. By merely pushing a button on a board mounted in the lobby of the restroom facility, travelers will hear a recorded message describing weather conditions in the area. In cases of severe weather, such as tornadoes or blizzards, the system will automatically switch on and broadcast emergency bulletins. This is the first system installed at a rest area east of Lansing on I-96, and plans call for having them in all rest areas by the fall of 1982. Federal funds are paying 90 percent of the cost.

New weather service debuts in rest areas

Whether it's a tornado warning or a blizzard alert, Michigan motorists will soon be able to learn about severe weather conditions as they travel along the state's 1,722 miles of freeways.

A new electronic radio system which provides up-to-the-minute weather information was recently installed by the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) at its rest areas along I-96 Freeway near Okemos, just east of Lansing. The department plans to install the system in all 76 rest areas in the state by next year. MDOT officials said they will monitor the Okemos system, and expect to correct any technical deficiencies by that time.

Each unit costs approximately $500, with federal funds paying 90 percent of the cost. It was designed and built entirely by MDOT staff.

The system consists of a wallboard in the lobby of the rest area facility telling persons to press a large button for current weather information. The button activates a recorded message from the Nation Weather Service.

Taped weather messages are revised every one to three hours. The messages are tailored to weather information needs of persons within the receiving area. Travelers near the Great Lakes, for example, will receive special information for boaters, fishermen and other marine activities.

When severe conditions develop, the system will automatically switch on and broadcast emergency bulletins until threatening conditions have passed.

The messages are transmitted to the rest areas through one of the U.S. weather service's nine stations in Michigan.

Archaeological digs to start at prehistoric sites in Berrien County

The state has awarded an archaeological escavation contract to uncover the remains of five prehistoric sites in Berrien County. They are known to contain artifacts, hearths, refuse pits and other features left by Native North Americans who occupied the area for several thousand years.

After competitive bidding, Western Michigan University received the $538,212 contract awarded jointly by the Michigan departments of Transportation and State to salvage prebistoric materials from the sites, which lie in the path of the planned US-31 Freeway extension.

The freeway will run from the Indiana line northwest to I-94 Freeway just south of St. Joseph.

Federal and state laws require that experts investigate all potential impacts of new and rebuilt highways, including their impact on historic and archaeological sites, before any construction can begin. Federal highway funds will pay 77 percent of the cost of the project and state funds the remainder.

A team of archaeologists and other scientists, directed by Dr. Elizabeth B. Garland of Western Michigan's Department of Anthropology, will begin escavation of the sites this month. Preliminary surveys conducted along the freeway route in 1979 and 1980 unearthed evidence indicating that the sites were of major archaeological significance and warranted a full-scale salvage effort.

Kathryn Ataman, the transportation department's archaeologist, said the sites contain artifacts dating primarily to the period known as the "Lake Archaic" (between 3000 B.C. and 500 B.C.). Small quantities of material dating as far back as 10,000 B.C. to 8000 B.C. and as recent as A.D. 1500 also were recovered. The materials furnish clues to the culture, economics and settlement patterns of these prehistoric people, she said.

"Without these escavations, most of that information would be destroyed forever," Ataman said.

According to the State Archaeologist, Dr. John R. Halsey of the Michigan History Division, Michigan Department of State, this is the largest and most significant set of escavations to be undertaken in southwestern Michigan since the 1948 University of Michigan escavations at Moccasin Bluff near Buchanan. "I believe finds at these escavstions will greatly alter our understnading of prehistoric developments in the St. Joseph River valley of southwestern Michigan and northern Indiana," he said.

The archaeologists will work for two months this year and resume digging again next summer for three months. The excavation work will be followed by many months of laboratory analysis. A final written report is not expected until 1983.

When tanning, don't overdo it

Doctors do not recommend sun tanning. There is no health value to sun tanning and it leads to premature aging and wrinkling of the skin. Those are simple and valid statements. However, thousands, perhaps millions of Americans will ignore this advice and flock to Michigan's beautiful lakes and beaches for the "healthy" golden tan.

If you're after a tan, no matter what the price may be, did you know there is a way to do it without burning? While these steps are not a cure-all, they do offer some precaution against spending a weekend suffering from a sunburn says the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS).

On the first day of sunning, allow 15 minutes on each side. Gradually, on a daily basis increase your time. When your skin begins to brown you may proceed at the best pace for your own skin to tan without burning. While on vacation it is difficult to confine your exposure, but remember, if you try to hurry the tan you'll burn.

The time of exposure should also be adjusted to the time of day. The sun's rays are hottest between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. After 5 p.m. you aren't likely to do much burning.

Creams and lotion can't speed up tanning, however, they may reduce the danger of burning. Remember though, you can still burn through creams if you stay out long enough. In addition, water in the pool or lake or prespiration wash away much of the cream in a short time. Remember too, to protect your eyes and hair to prevent damage. A sun hat may keep your hair from becoming brittle and hard to manage, while dark glasses or gauze pads may help protect your eyes.

If it is cloudy and somewhat cool don't assume the sun is gone. Some of the worst burns of the summer occur when people think the sun's rays are covered by clouds. You must use the same sun care precautions whenever you're out in the sun, MSMS dermatologists warn.

Enjoy the outdoor life of the summer months without painful burns or peeling and flaking skin – don't overdo the tanning. If you can remember the saying "everything in moderation" you should save yourself a lot of discomfort.

Principal well suited for Beaver Island School

When Barb Rakowski was named principal at the Beaver Island Community School about two years ago, it represented a break from tradition.

"I'm the first lay principal in - I believe - about 90 years," she said.

For years, sisters from the Dominican order held that responsibility. But when Sister Dennis Marie Kirt left for Traverse City St. Francis, the schol board elected to fill the vacancy with someone from outside the order.

"There were two or three of us who applied for the job," Barb recalled, "But I was the only one who would get on the boat to come over - at least that's what I've been told."

Before moving to Beaver Island, Barb taught biology eight years at Saginaw St. Peter & Paul. Ironically, Sister Dennis was at St. Peter & Paul at that time, too.

Barb was no stranger to the Island when she was hired as principal. As a student at Central Michigan University - where she earned Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees - Barb took several classes at the university's biological field station on the Island. She also brought her botany class at St. Peter & Paul to the Island every spring.

Barb describes herself as a workaholic and perfectionist. She likes taking on new adventures and challenges. And although being principal is a full-time job, Barb likes to be in the classroom working with the students. She finds time to teach typing, art, accounting, science, German and, yes, automotive fundamentals.

Beaver Island Community School offers a solid basic education emphasizing writing, phonetics, spelling, reading, English, math, science, music, social studies, art, physical education and, at the secondary level, government, business and history.

The school has an enrollment of approximately 75 students, 50 in the primary level and 25 in the secondary grades. High school students can earn a half credit as a teacher's aide at the elementary level.

Summer heat can be dangerous

Along with the fun of summer and the enjoyment of the great out of doors comes the health and accident hazards that have their highest risk in hot weather according to the Michigan State Medical Society. Sun strokes and heat strokes are life-threatening emergencies which occur from too much exposure and too much exercise in the hot sun. Prolonged excessive heat, either in or out of doors, can cause heat stroke. These emergencies are a distrubance in the body's beat-regulating system and are caused by extremely high body temperatures due to exposure to heat. The body temperature can be 106 degrees or higher. The skin is red, hot and dry, and there is no sweating. The pulse is rapid and strong. The sufferer may be confused or lose consciousness.

In such cases, the victim should be placed in a tub of cold water. If no tub is near, spray the victim with a hose, or sponge the bare skin with cool water or rubbing alcohol, or apply cold packs. This process should be continued until temperature drops to 101 or 102. Medical help should be sought after immediately. Alcoholic beverages, coffee and-or tea should not be given.

Heat exhaustion can also occur after prolonged exposure to high temperatures and high humidity, either indoors or outdoors. Body temperatures may be normal or only slightly elevated, the skin is pale and clammy and there is heavy sweating. The victim is tired, weak, dizzy and has a headache. He or she may be nauseated and have stomach cramps. To help victims suffering from heat exhaustion, move them into shade or a cooler area. He or she should lie down so that the feet are elevated 8 to 12 inches. Wet cloths should be placed on the forehead and body. If the victim is not vomiting, clear juice or sips of cool salt water can be give.

The best preventative for this type of risk begins with two words – moderation and gradualism. Go moderately when temperatures and humidity are above normal and gradually acclimate your system to the more intense exposure that summer brings.

Summer stuffings make for tasty treats

It's time to talk of summer stuffings, while all the good things are growing in Michigan. In recent weeks we've stuffed cucumbers, and earlier this year suggested stuffing mushrooms.

Now, with Michigan's cantaloupe harvest coming to market, think of a beautiful orange melon-half stuffed with cottage cheese for a refreshing low-calorie lunch; another half filled with fresh blueberries to brighten your breakfast plate; yet another heaped high with cool ice cream for dinner's delicious dessert.

Last year, Michigan growers produced 16,200,000 pounds to rank our state sixth in the nation in cantaloupe production. The crop was valued at more than $3.2 million, according to the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

When you buy cantaloupe, let your nose be your guide. The aroma tells you when the melon is ripe, and the blossoms end will yield slightly when pressure is applied.

Cabbage and green peppers are other good things growing in Michigan to be stuffed. Our state ranks eighth in cabbage production, with almost 44 million pounds harvested last year with a value of $4.3 million. A lot of our cabbage goes into sauerkraut, but there's always plenty for stuffed cabbage rolls. Choose your favorite recipe, and remember that cooked cabbage rolls can be frozen

'Ethics in Nursing' seminar to be held at Petoskey Holiday Inn

"Ethics in Nursing" will be the topic of a one-day seminar sponsored by Northern Michigan Hospitals Nursing Education Committee. The seminar will be held at Petoskey's Holiday Inn on Friday, September 11. The purpose of the seminar is to update the professional nurse's knowledge of ethical dilemmas and issues confronting nurses today.

"More and more now we are seeing nurses becoming directly involved in decision making, and frequently these decisions are of an ethical nature," said Susan Kaiser, R. N., and chairperson of the Nursing Education Committee. "Although nursing theory has always advocated inclusion of a code of ethics, today's nursing practice requires that members of the profession deal with ethical dilemmas regularly, and it is imperative that we be well prepared."

Leah Curtin, R. N., M. S. M. A. and nationally known editor of "Supervisor Nurse", will be the featured speaker and will address topics including the Code of Ethics and the Nurse Practice Act, personal and religious ethics; and the professional nurse as an agent in ethical decision making.

According to Ms. Curtin, "Nursing is vitally concerned with ethics because nursing is essentially a moral art; that is, its primary moral conviction shapes its fundamental nature."

Ms. Curtin is a graduate of Good Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing, received her B. S. and masters degrees from the University of Cincinnati, and her M. S. from Athenaeum of Ohio, the last majoring in philosophy – specializing in Health Care Ethics. She is the recipient of numerous honors and awards, and presently is a faculty member in the Department of Nursing, College of Mt. St. Joseph, teaching nursing ethics.

Her other professional activities include being the founder and current director of the National Center for Nursing Ethics, member of the editorial board of "Nursing Forum", editor of "Update on Ethics", and a writer for more than 50 published articles.

Other program objectives for the ethics seminar include teaching how to differentiate between solving problems and dealing with ethical dilemmas, describing a methodology for defining ethical issues, seeing how to use it, and defining participants' own personal code of ethics.

Additional faculty for the day include Ann Zuzich, R. N., M. S., Assistant Professor, Wayne State University College of Nursing, a nationally known speaker on rights of retarded citizns and Nicholas Michels, R. N., Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Also, Rochelle Igrisan, R. N., M. S. N., Perinatal Nurse Educator, Northern Michigan Hospitals; and Barbara Kurtz, R. N., M. S. N., Director of Nursing successfully. I like to make a main course batch for dinner, then use the smaller leaves to make miniature cabbage rolls. They come out of the freezer later, to be heated in a piping hot oven and served as hors d'oeuvres.

Green pepers take kindly to stuffings of sausage or ground beef and rice. For a delicious vegetable accompaniment, stuff large pepper halves with creamed, diced potatoes, topped with shredded cheddar cheese and baked until bubbly and browned.

Another good stuffing combination is shredded cabbage, fresh corn cut from the cob, a little chopped onion, chopped tomatoes and seasonings. The proportions depend upon what's in the garden or the refrigerator, and it always seems to turn out equally well.

Then there's the stuffed tomato, and I'm sure you all have your favorite recipes. Mine is one I learned from a charming Belgian-French home economist at a food trade show in the Netherlands. She hollowed out ripe tomatoes, then filled them with fresh sweet corn seasoned with a little mayonaise to which she added curry powder, salt, and pepper.

It sounds a bit surprising, but then, she also served cooked buttered iceberg lettuce! Both are good. Maybe we all need to encounter new food combinations occasionally.

Michigan propduced about 12 million pounds of green peppers last year, worth $3 million to growers. We grew 35 million pounds of tomatoes for fresh market and a whopping 147.4 million pounds for processing. Altogether, those tomatoes were worth $14 million to farmers, and ranked the state fifth in processing tomatoes, ninth in fresh. We place seventh aong the states for green pepper production.

Tis the season for ripe tomatoes

As tomatoes begin ripening, home gardeners usually start asking question about tomato acidity and safe home canning.

Carolyn Lackey, Michigan State University Extension food and nutrition specialist, says fruits, pickled foods and tomatoes are generally acid enough to be processed or canned using the hot water bath method. The acidity in these foods prohibits the growth of the microorganism that causes botulism, she explains.

Vegetables, on the other hand, have a higher pH – that is, are lower in acidity – and need to be processed in a pressure canner that can raise the temperature to 240 degrees F, the temperature necessary to kill the spores of the botulism organism.

All tomatoes, Lackey says, vary in acidity, but tomato varieties commonly grown in Michigan are sufficiently acid for safe water bath conning – unless they are overripe or damaged.

The acidity of tomatoes decreases as they ripen, Lackey explains. If tomatoes have started getting soft or mushy, do not can them.

Also avoid canning tomatoes showing signs of spoilage – brown or black spots, sunken spots, rotten areas or mold. Discard the whole tomato. Cutting away the spot isn't enough, Lackey points out, because the organisms that caused the rot have already worked some chemical changes in the tomato that probably reduced the acid level in the fruit.

If you have tomatoes that are overripe or imperfect, cut away and discard any bad spots and freeze the fruits or use them to make kethup, chili sauce or barbecue sauce. All of these products contain a large amount of vinegar, which will raise the acidity of the finished product.

Yellow, orange, white and patio tomatoes, which are often described in seed catalogs as "low-acid" should not be singled out as potentially dangerous to can.

Yellow or patio varieties, Lackey says, generally contain the same acid level as regular tomatoes. They may taste less acid than the standard red varieties because of higher sugar content that tends to mask the acid taste.

Some people urge adding either lemon juice or citric acid to tomatoes before canning them to raise the acid level. Extenalon specialists at MSU say that adding acid can do no harm, but that, except possibly for a few varieties, it is not neceasary or even recommended. There is evidence that certain varietlea of tomatoes available in Michigan – expecially Ace, Ace 55 VF, Cal Ace and Garden State – are sometimes undesirably low in acidity. Although the risk is minimal, Extension specialists suggest adding acid when canning one of these varieties. Generally, however, there is really no great risk of high pH when canning properly selected, Michigan-grown tomatoes by approved canning methods.

Catalogs...The Hottest In Fashion Fever.

Gone are the days when catalogs were considered declasse, of interest just to the farmers wife, or the suburbanite with eight children. Catalogs have now made it to the cities big or small for a variety of reasons

A working woman can spend a hall hour pouring through the latest Spiegel, Neiman Marcus or Sears catalog saving time, energy, gas and the hassles of crowded malls or lack of downtown parking spaces

Not only are the big names such as Tiffany, Bloomingdales, Saks Fifth Avenue, Cartier and Gucci promoting catalogs, but local retailers have also found them beneficial Mettler's by the Bay and Shop of The Gulls, both of Charlevoix and Ed Behan's Tweed Shop of Petoskey's Gaslight offer catalogs for seasonal residents

Mail order merchants sell anything they can ship from gifts, decorative accessories, furniture sporting goods, books and clothing They display their wares in slick four color catalogs, black and white pamphlets and single page letters and mailers. Whatever their format they are convincing people to buy

Several times this summer area women have asked me for additional copies of my article in the August issue of the 1980 Best of the Bay, on how to reorganize, update and add to a wardrobe. following is a reprint of that article.

1. Never, never throw any piece of your wardrobe away. Why? Because fashion trends are just that...trends Anything that is not a classic will eventually return and become a "new" fashion essential Of course a major prerequisite is to keep your figure intact for example, several years ago in eighth grade, a friend gave me a black blazer that was accented with rhinestone buttons At that time it was passe But you all know that recently black and rhinestones have been a big fashion must So I pulled the blazer out of my closet and had it cleaned, and didn't have to spend a penny on a new trend

2 Avoid frivolous purchases and fashion fads; because they can become costly mistakes

Here's what to do Before you shop, empty your closet and drawers and separate what you have into piles, blouses in one, pullovers in another, cardigans in another, pants, two piece dresses, one piece dresses, and skirts all in their separate piles You have probably heard this advice before, and chances are you may have been discouraged by the lack of "go-togethers" you were able to come up with Rest assured that this time you will be able to come up with some pretty terrific combinations --- it only because "being in fashion" has more flexibility these days and is more than ever an individual look

Start "playing" with the clothing piles you have Try to think of all the combinations and don't just imagine hold them up side by side. Now that you know what you have, remember that the newest shades and colors plus styles that are in for the season, think of what they'll go with in your wardrobe and go out and buy to update and existing wardrobe

3. Classics are Forever Classics are basics They are the lifesavers, (moneysavers), the backbone of any good wardrobe, the clothes that never go out of style

A classic stays with you for life and you'll probably pass it on. Recently Americans have re-learned that it's quality not quantity that counts OK so that new blazer can cost from $160 to $500. Divide that by a lifetime and the result is pennies Besides blazers, some other classic examples are, Hacking jackets, Fair Isle sweaters, crewneck Shetland sweaters, Irish Tweed turtlenecks, tailored skirts, and basic black, brown or navy pants with a medium leg width

So whether your headed back-to-school, South or are just re-vamping a fall and winter, wardrobe, keep these three principles in mind. And before you buy anything new, be sure it's in a color that will go with clothes that you already have

P.S. This fall and winter look for pieces in feather, always a luxe fabric ..it has made it big this season Colors are red, black, raspberry, dusty rose and lilacs and Lavendars are continuing on into autumn Look for metallics, low heels, big jewelry and stylish feminine sweaters

Willie Holmes ... Fashion Genius Right Here in Charlevoix

by Mary Lee Huber

Willie Holmes is a name that sounds like it should be synonomous with football, basketball or baseball Instead the title belongs to a talented fashion designer who resides in Charlevoix

Willie, who learned how to sew at his mother's knee, had no particular ambitions to design clothing as a means of income. Instead after graduation from high school he decided to attend Northern Michigan University and major in Business Discovering that the Fashion Merchandising curriculum was similar to Business, except for a few sewing courses, Willie switched majors

During the course of his sophomore year Willie entered a nationwide fashion design contest sponsored by Winklemans, and wonders of wonders he won He was offered either a cash award or a six month scholarship to the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York. He decided to accept the scholarship and pursue his education in fashion design

In New York Willie learned such basic design necessities as flat pattern design, and clothing construction

After graduation he went back to Northern to finish his degree. Deciding to "start small" he choose to begin his career in Charlevoix

Last Wednesday aboard the Bay Queen, Willie organized a special fashion show of clothing he designed and sewed Contemporary furnishings and Decorating Services are alive and doing well in Northern Michigan.

By Geri Ann Santek —

Home decorating needs will vary according to one's lifestyle, but the common denominator is the desire for style, quality, and good design. Several area businesses are waiting to help you with your decorating needs, from accent pieces to complete room settings.

Charlevoix's Wickerville Station carries all the popular and stylish wicker and rattan furnishings for your home. Couches, hampers, etageres and the classic Peacock chair are all available as well as baskets, lamps, and woven rugs, all the items to build a room or accent it.

You'll also find high-glaze Haeger pottery, canvas-mobile shelves, screen prints on linen, and striking brass mirrors from Morocco.

Owner Kitty Chase will special order anything and guarantees its craftsmanship. "People don't buy as much but they buy a better quality and I carry quality items," she says.

The Hess Furniture name has been associated with the area for over 25 years and now present owners Sheila and Dennis McClelland are in their third season of serving Michigan with their own special style.

At Hess, you'll find everything you need to create an atmosphere of comfort and ambiance in your home, from the carpet to the draperies and all the accessories in between. Hess features Levelor window treatments, custom draperies, wallpaper, and vinyl floor coverings in the best styles at the most competitive prices. You'll also find beautiful Lee carpets in all the newest shades from the lightest blue to salmon pink. Clayton Marcus, Pulaski, Young Hinkle, Bassett and Broyhill are just some of the quality names in home furnishings which are available.

Hess will make any special order for you, and deliver it to your door anywhere in the northern half of Michigan. You'll also receive decoratmg consultation before the sale so you are sure to be satisfied with your purchase. "There are no commission salesmen here, says Sheila McClelland, "and no high pressure sales." "We really feel good about serving our customers and I think they can sense that too."

Stop in their easy-access alley and see the fine home fashions at Hess Furniture, where their trademark is service and a personal interest in your needs.

Bartlett's Decorator Center, Inc. is another Charlevoix home store dedicated to providing the area with quality and style at a fair price. You'll find furniture from Flexsteel, Riverside, Bassett, Chromecraft, plus wall weavings, wicker accessories, lamps and pillows.

Bartlett's is much more than furniture with every kind of window treatment from woven wood shades to custom drapes. You will find over 20,000 yards of carpeting in stock from Bigelow, Lee, and Coronet. Vinyl floors, ceramic tiles, and wallpaper samples from over 200 wallpaper books are also available.

Bartlett's will install hardwood floors in oak, maple, or teak, or will refinish your existing wood floor. They will also make custom area rugs in any shape, pattern and color. "We love special orders," say design consultants Linda Louiselle and Suzy Walker.

Puff's Home Center is Petoskey's one-stop shopping experience for all your home decorating needs. At Puff's you will find the finest names in interiors along with a highly trained professional staff who will help you put together a look that says style, quality, and good taste.

The Pampered, Practical, Popular Vacation ... A Cruise!

by your Friends in Travel at Bay Side Travel

The vacation setting can be as varied as the majestic splendor of the Alaskan waterways to the calm warmth of the Caribbean. No matter what location is chosen, a cruise holiday takes along with it all the comforts of home and a lot more. All these pampered comforts, the varied and fascinating locations chosen, and the all-inclusive, moderate rates have made cruising a popular choice of more and more discriminating travelers.

A cruise vacation will be filled with exciting new experiences--new people, new places and a whole lot of fun!

Along with visiting fascinating island ports, on board you'll enjoy gala cocktail parties, dancing in romantic lounges or a swinging disco, all sorts of fun-filled games and contests,-deck sports out in the fresh sea air, current run feature length movies, spectacular nightclub shows with live entertainment, gambling in a full casino, and much, much more!

No matter what cabin class you choose on most of today's cruise lines, you'll find the same amenities, the same attentive service, and the same abundance of facilities awaiting your pleasure.

From the moment the sun appears over the horizon, your ship is alive with activity. You can start with early morning exercises out on the deck, or go jogging in the fresh sea air. There's ping-pong in the game room, golf driving and skeet shooting off the fantail, and shuffleboard.

We also have plenty of games and contests for plenty of fun...a plank toust, a beer drinking contest, a grandmother's bragging party, and even shipboard versions of your favorite TV game shows. One thing is for certain you'll never run out of things to do!

You can simply relax, too, if you like. Lie back and let the sun perfect your tan, or go for a refreshing swim in a pool. On some ships, there's even more than one pool to choose from. And the important thing for the budget-minded traveler to realize is that all of these forms of entertainment are included in the total cost of the cruise. Except for drinks, land excursion activities and a few shipboard diversions (often you must pay a small fee for skeet shooting), there will be no necessity to reach for your wallet on a cruise.

Fabulous food has always been on the hallmark of a cruise vacation. Most ships start the day with a continental breakfast for early birds out on deck and finish up with a late night mini buffet. You can enjoy a full course breakfast in the dining room, or if you prefer, have a complete breakfast in bed.

Luncheon in the dining room features five courses, with five or six different entrees offered each day. If you'd like to stay out and enjoy the sun, a buffet lunch is served out on deck at sea from noon to three. Dinner time is always a special occasion. Dedicated and talented chefs prepare great International and American favorites. Most dinners feature a choice of entrees, with seven courses in all! You can complement your meal with a wine selection, perhaps from the wine steward's preferred list of some of the world's finest vintages. Especially tempting desserts, and even singing waiters, can make dinner a memorable event.

They also offer midmorning snacks, afternoon teas, and two late night buffets. Bon appetite and bon voyage!

asville, Brown Jordan, and many more of America's leaders in home furnishings.

At Puff's, your kitchen and bath get the same professional attention as the rest of your home. Striking and distinctive designs from Poggenpohl, Mutschler, Richmaid, Schmidt, Nine-Nevermar, and Merillat are on display.

An added feature is the Interior Design Studio where you can browse through hundreds of wallpaper books and custom drapery and upholstery fabrics and bedspreads. An interior designer will help you co-ordinate your choice with one of the 5,000 different types and colors of floor coverings as well as paint samples from the nation's leading suppliers.

Puff's is also the condominium specialists in the north. They have been working closely with condo owners in a special studio to develop striking interiors for the discriminating buyer.

Second home owners can also take advantage of Puff's design package. Your vacation home will be tastefully decorated and fitted out with everything from towels to the wine opener.

But the key to Puff's success is combining year-around service with quality and good taste in all price ranges.

"We're really set up to fit into any budget requirement," says Lowell Schmidt, Home Fashions Manager. "We are competitively priced with any of the stores in larger cities because of our volume buying."

Whether your castle is a modular or a mansion, the area home fashion experts will be happy to help you create an atmosphere of gracious living with functional design in home decoration.

The new wing under construction

Expansion project reflects growth

Charlevoix Area Hospital's dedication of its new wing and renovated out-patient departments, Sunday August 23, at 2:00 p.m., is seen by the hospital directors, staff and employees as a major landmark in the hospital's history.

The new wing and renovations reflect the growth of the use of the hospital, particularly the out-patient departments.

The decision to expand the out-patient departments -- Emergency Services, Xray, laboratory, respiratory and physical therapy, was based on the fact that during the past decade the demand for services in these departments has in all cases doubled, in some cases more than tripled.

Hospital administration attributes this growth to a number of factors.

Since 1964 the medical staff has more than doubled. The staff now includes physicians with specialities in surgery, family practice, obstetrics and gynecology, internal medicine, radiology and orthopedic surgery. The addition of these physicians with this spectrum of specialities has meant more people are receiving health care at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Simultaneously, trends in medicine now emphasize out-patient treatment whenever possible, to minimize hospitalization. This trend has developed not only to help hold down hospital costs but because it appears to increase the rate of recovery for most patients.

In 1978 the hospital directors determined that if the hospital was to maintain a high level of service to its growing constituency the out-patient departments would have to be expanded.

Architects were consulted. The plans called for expansion and remodeling of the vital out-patient departments within the existing hospital while patient rooms and administration would be moved to the two floors of a wing running parallel to the Lake Michigan shore.

While no patient beds would be added to the hospital's total of 44, the new wing would permit an enlarged nursing station to be conveniently located between the two main wings of rooms. The solarium was therefore, moved to an end of the new wing.

The changes within the hospital have been made with efficiency and patient convenience in mind.

Departments moved for convenience

The emergency room and ambulance entrance are now at the front of the hospital. Admitting is located between the emergency and main entrance. The radiology department has been relocated to just behind the emergency room. The move of Xray permitted the laboratory to expand at its original location.

At the same time, the relocation of the patient rooms has permitted respiratory therapy to move to its own quarters, no longer sharing space with physical therapy. Physical therapy has expanded into the area made available by respiratory therappy's move.

Additional storage space, better quarters for medical records, conference rooms, classrooms, an enlarged and renovated cafeteria have also been results of the expansion.

The cost of the new facilities and remodelling total $2.4 million. While most of the funds have been financed with an FHA 5 percent loan, the project would never have succeeded without the fund raising support of people from around Charlevoix, Antrim and parts of Emmet counties.

During the busy summer of 1978 volunteer fund raising committees in Boyne City, East Jordan, Bellaire, Central Lake, Charlevoix and throughout the area raised over $750,000.

Hospital Board President since 1975, Thomas Carey, states, "Without the gracious support of the individuals, businesses and organizations throughout our area, these new facilities would not have become a reality."

The new nurses' station is spacious and conveniently located.

Radiology relocated, enlarged, improved

The radiology department has been relocated so that it is next door to the emergency room. As a result of its relocation to enlarged facilities it has been able to add Xray rooms and new equipment.

The location behind the emergency room will enable physicians to obtain X-rays of emergency patients with greater efficiency and convenience to the patients.

Six new dressing rooms and a larger waiting area will be the first conveniences out-patients will notice.

The enlarged radiology department now has two working Xray rooms, with some of the most modern Xray equipment available.

A radiographic and tomographic machine will provide the radiologist with traditional Xray images of an injury or lateral sections of a body part in order to pinpoint the exact location of a problem.

A radiographic and fluroscopic machine with a TV screen on which the image of the organs being examined will greatly enhance the department's diagnostic capabilities.

Since 1978 the Charlevoix Area Hospital has had an ultra-sound machine which uses sound waves as opposed to Xrays to produce an image on a TV-like screen. This type of non-radiating machine is especially useful in diagnosing potential childbirth problems or disease of internal organs which cannot be clearly viewed by Xray.

The new dressing rooms, and the extra Xray machine will enable the radiology department to handle its steadily increasing patient load more efficiently.

Some of the most modern radiographic equipment available has been added.

FREE ENTERPRISE
At Work In Our Town

In our Free Enterprise Society, community institutions like the Charlevoix Area Hospital provide sharp contrast with their socialized counterparts. In England where the government controls all health care, this socialized system consumes up to 7% of their gross national product. England's medical bureaucracy outnumbers on-line personnel 4 to 1.

Here in Charlevoix, we have an absolute reversal of these wasteful and impersonal government-controlled conditions. Our Charlevoix Area Hospital is locally managed by a small Administrative Staff and a Board of Directors who serve without pay. It is operated in a businesslike manner and is in the black, a financial condition applauded by anyone who has met a payroll or raised a family.

Raising over $750,000 for our hospital expansion and renovation from individuals, business and industry is a notable achievement for a Free Enterprise Society whose potential is unbounded.

Congratulations to all.

Laboratory to double

The lab at Charlevoix Area Hospital has doubled in size with the remodelling project. The effect of the doubling will be quite noticeable to patients according to Ralph Corwin, Chief Medical Technologist.

A private room has been set aside for blood tests. A private waiting room is now ready for laboratory patients.

The added space, according to Corwin, will "increase our capability and mean the time for reporting on tests will be much quicker."

"An important addition to the lab has been a separate room for bacteriology, where infectious diseases can be analyzed in a sterile setting. This addition will give the Charlevoix Area Hospital additional ability to conduct studies in parasitology and microbiology," Corwin explained.

The lab, which has four medical technologists on the staff, in addition to Corwin, also maintains a close relationship with other area labs for conducting specialized tests, when required.

Over sixty years, change has been constant

On May 21, 1917 a frame house was purchased on Hurlbut Street and the first Board of Trustees of the Charlevoix Hospital embarked on a fund raising campaign to meet the costs of remodelling the structure.

The Charlevoix Hospital officially opened May 5, 1920. Dr. Robert B. Armstrong was elected Manager. The first Board of Trustees included, Harry Nicholls, President, Jacob Crane, Vice President, Lisle Shanahan, Secretary, Ira Adams, Treasurer, and H.H. Miller, Alvah Crimmins, Albert Bridge and William Finucan as members.

By 1925 another addition was built onto the hospital, to provice a total of 27 beds.

The building was a two-story frame structure with a basement. It was an awkward building for a hospital with narrow stairways, doors and halls. By the early 1940's the trustees were convinced a new hospital was needed. W.H. Wallace, E.J. Edwards and Earl Young raised $4,800 and engaged an architect to study plans and sites for the new hospital, but the plans were put aside because the costs seemed out of reach.

By 1949 the State Fire Marshall was ready to condemn the old building.

Fortunately, the U.S. Congress passed the Hill-Burton Act the same year, making aid available to communities wanting to build hospitals. When Charlevoix received approval and assurance for this aid, fund raising began again. By 1950, $120,000 had been raised. A second campaign, directed by a professional fund raiser brought the total to $294,000, enough to cover the community's percentage of the costs for building and equipping a new 44 bed hospital.

Construction began July 18, 1953. The new hospital was dedicated August 22, 1954.

The hospital building, dedicated in 1954, remains as the core of Charlevoix Area Hospital. Within it, with community support, improvements have been made, new equipment added, keeping the hospital abreast of changes in medicine. In 1958 EKGs were offered for the first time, the solarium was added in 1957, the physical therapy department opened in 1963, respiratory therapy was added in 1973, ultrasound was added to the radiology department in 1978.

In 1972 a fund raising campaign raised $200,000 enabling the opening of the Coronary and Intensive Care Units.

The changes made possible by the new wing and remodeling of 1980-81, brings the hospital truly up to date.

As Richard Krueger, Administrator observes, "Health care and methods of treatment, have changed greatly in the past 30 years, since the Hospital was constructed. The changes in hospital design and atmosphere is an attempt to meet the emotional as well as the physical needs of our patients and is a part of keeping up with the progress in medicine."

The support for these changes by the staff of Charlevoix Area Hospital was essential. Before the formal fund raising campaign was launched, hospital employees signalled their enthusiasm for the project by pledging over $40,000.

The benefits of the expansions and remodelling, will be obvious to patients as they are cared for in a more efficient and pleasing atmosphere. The improvements are welcomed by hospital staff who speak with pride of the improved working conditions.

Side by side with major changes, renovations of out-patient departments, are the small touches which while subtle will have a major impact, on patients and staff.

The enlarged supply stations give the nursing staff easier and quicker access to vital equipment and supplies.

A small kitchenette behind the nursing station will enable nurses to keep snacks and food items on hand for patients, without having to go or call the main kitchen.

An intercom system between patient rooms and the nursing station will be appreciated by patients. A new low bathtub in a central bathroom, will be a convenience for nurses helping patients who cannot bathe themselves.

The nurse's conference room, across the hall from the nursing station in the new wing, will give the staff a quiet place to meet without disturbing the work at the nursing station.

The enlarged central supply has already proved to be more efficient.

The aircooling system in the new wing will help keep the whole hospital cool through the hot summer months.

The improved and new facilities "brings the Charlevoix Area Hospital into the '80's," as Administrator Krueger observes.

The Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society Congratulates the Charlevoix Area Hospital and extends thanks for the services provided to area residents....

Plenty of room for community education

Community education programs, preventive medicine seminars, in-service training sessions for hospital employees, have been flourishing with the completion of the hospital's classrooms and conference rooms on the lower level of the new wing.

Since 1979, Charlevoix Area Hospital has had a program of community education, offering programs of interest to the public. With the opening of the new classrooms, these free public service programs can be conducted on a regular schedule.

Continuing education for hospital employees is an important part of any hospital's daily life. New technologies, new theories must be understood by the staff. Mary Ann Cox, In-Service Coordinator, is expanding these sessions with the addition of the new spacious classrooms.

The community education committee consists of representatives from the medical staff, nursing staff and other departments. They tap other knowledgeable members of the staff to conduct the free public sessions in their fields of expertise.

Hospital Dietician Diane Charlebois led a session entitled Diets – Fads and Fancy, to open the series in the new classrooms. Dr. Bruce Lindsay conducted a session on hypertension and mental health counselor Bill Everett has led a seminar on stress. Plans for the future include community education sessions on physical therapy, training athletes, First Aid, and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

The hospital board of directors, medical staff and committes also use the new class and conference rooms.

Lower level classrooms are used often for community education programs.

Respiratory therapy in new, private quarters

The staff of the Respiratory Therapy Department is particularly delighted with their department's new private location next to the laboratory, in the main hospital building.

Formerly the respiratory therapy department shared space with physical therapy. Both departments have experienced a phenomenal growth in the past several years, making it imperative that each have their own quarters if they were to continue to serve the people coming to their departments.

Jan Ballard, Chief Respiratory Therapist, explains her department averages 40 treatments a day and the number of patients using the department has about quadrupled.

The out-patient treatments have been the major source of the growth of this department. Out-patients are seen and treated for emphysema, pneumonia, chronic bronchitus, pulmonary function testing, pleurisy and chest physical therapy.

With the move to new quarters the respiratory therapy department has been able to add a new blood gas machine, which analyzes the amount of oxygen reaching the blood, vital information in the treatment of such problems as emphysema.

We are proud to have been a part of the remodeling and construction of the Charlevoix Area Hospitals' new facilities.

Best Wishes

Emergency room now near building front

The relocated and enlarged emergency room facilities at Charlevix Area Hospital are at the front of the main building.

The ambulance entrance is just around the corner. The admitting offices are directly adjacent to the emergency entrance.

All these changes mean patients will enjoy quicker service, more privacy, and easier access to other hospital facilities, in a spacious and bright atmosphere.

The new emergency facilities actually consist of three specialized rooms – a cast room, an examination room and a major trauma room. However, each room is fully equipped to handle any type of emergency.

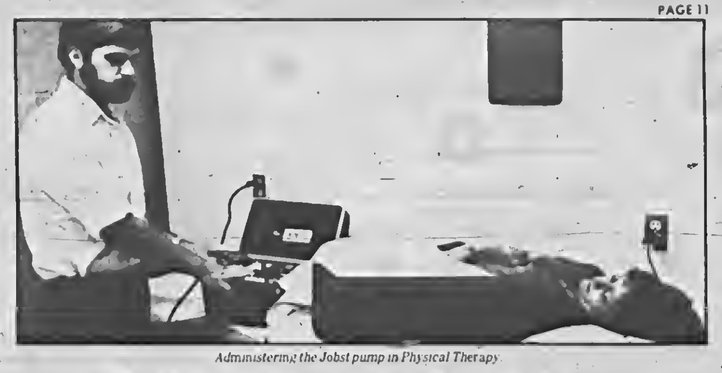
Kathy Boss, R.N., Director of Patient Services, observes that the new layout has improved several aspects of the emergency services.

"The lay out has meant we can serve more people at one time, with reduced waiting times for everyone. The facilities are also improved in terms of working conditions for the staff, which is having a direct effect on the treatment time."

Patients who use the emergency room will also find a private waiting room, stocked with reading material, is a pleasant improvement.

Mrs. Boss revealed that a study comparing the old and new emergency services is underway and the results are already very positive.

New emergency facilities have been added.



Administering the Jobst pump in Physical Therapy.

Physical therapy growing dramatically

Two years ago the Physical Therapy Department gave some 350 treatments a month. This year they are averaging 1200 treatments a month.

Bob Gorkiewicz, Physical Therapist, and his staff, know their patients will appreciate the increased privacy and quiet as a result of the department's expansion.

Formerly physical therapy and respiratory therapy shared the large room which physical therapy now occupies alone.

"Quiet is vital for patients to concentrate. It's particularly important for patients with pain problems and patients trying to relearn motor activities after a stroke," Gorkiewicz explains.

The physical therapy department at Charlevoix Area Hospital receives referrals from physicians around northern Michigan, in addition to the hospital's own staff physicians.

"Orthopedic problems – backs, necks, shoulders and knees – are the most frequent cases the department handles. Complications from strokes are the second most frequent cases.

Discussing orthopedic problems, Gorkiewicz says, "We initially show a patient how to rest their joints, making them more comfortable with heat. Then gradually we increase the use so the patient doesn't lose functin of the joint."

"For stroke victims we help them maximize the functions they have, learning substitute skills in order to carry on daily living activities."

Sixty to seventy percent of the physical therapy patients come as outpatients, the department head reports.

Pediatric physical theraph is a specialty of the Charlevoix Area Hospital's physical therapy department. The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District refers children with physical disabilities to the department from around Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Paulsen adds humor to hospital dedication

A standing room only crowd gathered Sunday under a colorfully striped circus tent in the parking lot of the Charlevoix Area Hospital for the dedication of the hospital's newly added facilities. Included in the three-year, $750,000 project were the relocation of several departments and the expansion of such functions as radiology, physical therapy, respiratory therapy, community education and laboratory testing.

Glenn Kenney, below left, was presented with a commemmorative plaque by Carey for his efforts as chairman of the local drive to raise funds for the hospital project.

Drug round-up is largest ever in Chx. County

by DAVE KNIGHT

A seven-month investigation during which a sheriff's deputy bought thousands of dollars worth of cocaine, LSD and marijuana in Charlevoix County culminated Thursday morning with the mass arrests of 59 (at last count) people who allegedly sold or delivered the drugs to the undercover officer.

In the largest such investigation ever made in the county, a total of 86 criminal warrants were authorized by the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office for sale or delivery of the illegal drugs, a charge which is a felony under Michigan law and draws sentences of from four to 20 years and fines between $2,000 and $25,000.

Forty sheriff's deputies and local police offficers participated in the arrests starting at 5 a.m. Thursday. While subjects were individually picked up by squad car in the immediate Charlevoix area, school buses rented from the Boyne City school district were used to transport groups of subjects from Boyne City and East Jordan to the county jail in Charlevoix.

Forty drug buys were made in the City of Charlevoix during the special investigation; 27 were made in Boyne City and 22 in East Jordan. Other townships and the number of drug buys made include Wilson, four; Norwood, three; Hayes, two; Charlevoix, two and one each each in Marion, Melrose and Eveline.

The investigation involved an exchange of deputies between Charlevoix County and another Michigan county which the Sheriff's Department has refused to name. On the complaints filed in the investigation, a deputy named Gary Taylor is named as having participated in all but three of the transactions. Among the charges filed were also six cases of obtaining money under false pretenses in which the substances bought turned out not to be the drugs the sellers claimed.

Money to make the buys was provided by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. Sheriff George T. Lasater estimated that $5,100 had been spent on cocaine and $3,200 on marijuana during the investigation. The first transaction occurred on February 23 and the most recent on last Wednesday, August 19, the day before the warrants were served.

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Scott Beatty said that restitution will be sought when the cases come to trial to recoup the county funds.

Those arrested Thursday ranged in age from 15 to 36 and included a husband and wife from East Jordan whose children were left in the custody of a juvenile officer until other relatives could be notified.

A makeshift courtroom was established at the jail to process the large number of subjects Thursday as they were brought in. Most bonds set by newly installed District Judge Harvey Varnum were in the $1,000 to $3,000 range.

The following is a list of those named in the warrants, the substance they were alleged to have delivered or sold, the date and location of the transaction

School Board okays new roof for Middle School

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday, accepted a bid for a new roof on the Charlevoix Middle School, certified the 1981 tax levy, approved prices for hot lunches, offered a contract to an elementary teacher, granted a leave of absence to a teacher and accepted bids for milk and baked goods for the 1981-82 school year.

The bid submitted by Hunt Roofing of Petoskey in the amount of $39,000 was accepted for the new roof on the Middle School. The roof will be what is known as a Carlisle Roof which has a 15-year life span. Work on the roof is scheduled to begin at once and be completed by the time school starts. For bids for the work were received.

The tax levy for 1981 as certified by the board will total 28.10 mills and will include 9.10 mills allocated for operation, 16.25 voted for operation, .50 mills for public library operation, .50 mills for 1959 (high school) debt

Clark School reunion held

A reunion of Clark School teachers, students and board members was held at the Friendship Hall in Norwood Sat. Aug. 15 with over 70 people present for a potluck dinner at noon. The guests enjoyed visiting and meeting old friends, and remembering school days at the country school dating back to 1901, the opening year. Hazel (Jolliffe) Edson of Ellsworth was on hand to tell about that. Mrs. Edson nearing 87 years of age was the oldest person present.

Charles Stevens, Tom Wynsma, Dick Potter, Jiles Warner, John Brock, Clyde Warner, Laura Wilson and others remembered the old times also.

Ivan Parsons, the youngest student present, attended Kindergarten the last year of school at Clark in 1943. The only teachers able to attend were Mrs. Clyde (Anna) Warner, Mrs. Harrison (Grace Baumback) Warner and Mrs. John (Iola Chew) Boss. Oscar Boss from Breighton came from furthest away.

Mr. Clyde Warner and William Parsons were the only former school board members present. They were also former students.

The group appointed William Parsons chairman and planned to meet again on Sat. Aug. 26, 1982 at the Ellsworth Community Hall in Ellsworth, and those members who spend the winter months in Florida will hold a potluck luncheon at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Lee Shapton (Ruth Matchett) in Zephyrhills, Florida in February.

Spanish to be offered at Middle School

A class in Spanish will be offered to eighth grade students at the Charlevoix Middle School David J. Smith, Middle School principal, has announced.

The class will be in beginning Spanish and will allow the students to take Spanish II as a ninth grade student in high school.

Eighth grade students who wish to register for this class may do so at the Middle School office on Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday of this week.

The first 25 students will be enrolled in the class.

H & R BLOCK TO OFFER TAX SCHOOLS IN PETOSKEY AND CHARLEVOIX

Thousands of people are earning money in their spare time as income tax preparers.

H & R Block, in conjunction with North Central Michigan College, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 10 with morning, afternoon and evening classes available.

During the 12 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block personnel will teach current laws, theory and application as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications. Courses are ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers or persons wanting to increase their tax knowledge.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligations to accept employment with H & R Block.

The modest course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course. The course is licensed by the state of Michigan.

Registration for Petoskey will be Thursday, Sept. 3, 6-9 p.m. at North Central Michigan College.

Registration for Charlevoix will be Monday, August 31, 7-8 p.m. at Charlevoix High School.

For additional information please call NCMC, 347-3973, ext. 246.

New commander takes over on Mesquite

A tradition-filled change of command ceremony was held Friday on the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite tied up at the Coast Guard Rescue Station in Charlevoix. The ceremony marked the relieving of CDR Warren E. Miller, Jr. as skipper of the Mesquite by LC CDR David H. Blomberg. Miller has been transferred to Washington D.C. where he will attend American University to study public administration. Blomberg comes to Charlevoix from San Francisco, Calif. Officers and crew assembled on the deck of the Mesquite in dress uniform for the ceremony, above, while audience members watched from seats on the dock. CDR. Miller paid his respects to the crew with one last inspection of the ranks, left. At right, Miller congratulates Blomberg on his new command with Ninth District Commander Rear Admiral Henry Bell, center, looking on. A buffet luncheon was held at the Coast Guard Station following the ceremony.

Special bus run will orient kindergarteners

The special bus run for the benefit of kindergarten children who will be entering school for the first time in September is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 27, according to Vincent Olach, business manager.

Buses will depart at 9 a.m. Thursday and, following designated routes, will stop at the home of every child who is registered for kindergarten.

Parents are asked to be present at the time the child meets his or her driver who will then take each child on a tour of the bus, explain bus ettiquette and answer any questions the child might have regarding the bus.

Starting school can be a traumatic experience for a child even though it is something he has been looking forward to with pleasure. By acquainting the child with his new mode of transportation, we feel it will help make the experience a happy one Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren explained.

Middle School to start earlier

With the opening of the Charlevoix Public Schools for the 1981-82 school year on Sept. 9, Middle School students will be starting school at 8:05 a.m., 55 minutes earlier than in the past.

To allow for the early starting time in the Middle School, High School students will start classes at 7:50 a.m.

With the move toward the sharing of teachers in the two schools and also the sharing of the high school band room, the new schedule became necessary it was explained.

The new schedule will also allow coaches who teach at the Middle School to begin practice when school is dismissed at 2:20 and 3:20 p.m., respectively, and permit less teacher and student time loss during spring sports. It will also allow Middle School students involved in sports to be home by 5:30 p.m. because of the earlier starting time.

The new starting time will also better fit the custodians' schedule and help make the bus routes more efficient.

Land use expert to speak on 'Visual Pollution' at Garden Club

Clan Crawford, Jr., legal expert on zoning and land use issues, will speak on Visual Pollution at the annual meeting of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club to be held at the Weathervane Inn at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, September 8.

His talk will follow the luncheon.

A one-time Ann Arbor councilman, Crawford was chairman of the Ann Arbor Sesquicentennial Beautification Committee and a member of the Ann Arbor Zoning Board of Appeals.

Crawford has lectured widely at various state educational institutions and professional organization meetings. He has also written books and articles on Michigan zoning and planning.

The Ann Arbor attorney is a member of the State Bar Association of Michigan and the American Bar Association, Michigan Society of Planning Officials, the Sierra Club and Trout Unlimited to name a few of his affiliations.

He has served on numerous ad hoc committees on billboard control and land and water use issues. He also was a member of the steering committee for the ENACT Environmental Teach-In at the University of Michigan in 1970 which focused attention on environmental issues.

Hostesses at the annual meeting will be Mrs. Paul Steffan, chairman; Mrs. Clifford Biddick, Mrs. W.W. Francis, Mrs. W.C. Ringler and Mrs. J.A. Zinn.

Stephen Stephan was the winner of a one-of-a-kind quilt depicting Charlevoix scenes given away in drawing in August.

Historical Society to meet

The Charlevoix Historical Society will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, September 1, in the Harsha House headquarters at 103 State Steet.

Following the theme of Charlevoix area families as featured during recent Society programs, Mrs. Bud Gill will tell about Daniel H. Swartz, who was the Boatman for the Wilson family at the Chicago Club for 54 years. He was thus part of the scene for over half the life of that resort association, which recently celebrated its 100th birthday.

All who are interested in the history of the Charlevoix area are invited to attend Society meetings.

The grand opening of Haggard Plumbing & Heating's new facility, The Plumbery Home Center, on Highway 31 south of Charlevoix was marked, appropriately enough, by a pipe-cutting ceremony last Tuesday, August 18. Above, the participants in the event watch as Charlevoix Township supervisor Oscar Stroud does the honors with a pipe cutter. On hand were, from left to right, Pat Shrift, Gordon Wellman, Roman Pierce, Bill Haggard, Stroud, John Haggard, Phyllis Haggard, Ronald Haggard, Sam Supernaw, Bruce Livingston, and Karen Rodgers. The Plumbery features a full line of plumbing and heating supplies for do-it-yourselfers plus free advice from a professional plumber on hand to help customers with their plans.

Knight on the Town
Good show

by Dave Knight

I must admit, I was slightly skeptical when it was announced that Pat Paulsen would be the keynote speaker for the dedication of the new construction at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Not that I don't enjoy Pat Paulsen.

Ever since his first appearances on the irreverent Smothers Brothers show of the late Sixties, I've joined millions in chuckling at the his droll, straight-faced delivery that almost made him a viable candidate in the 1968 presidential election (which says something about the other candidates at the time.)

But a hospital dedication?

Such events as building dedications are known to all reporters as notoriously typical affairs. A group of VIP's gather on the dais and parade one by one to the microphone to utter their carefully chosen remarks. Sometimes the remarks become treatises. At some of the more tedious dedications, I have had the notion to hold another celebration marking the completion of the dedication ceremony.

Often times, politicians are tapped to be guest speakers at dedications. In fact, in the case of the Charlevoix hospital, this was the first inclination but no pols of sufficient stature could be booked.

For that I am truly grateful.

Pat Paulsen not only made a typical affair quite untypical, he even made it downright enjoyable. I'll go to a dedication again anytime with Paulsen on the program, even if it's scheduled for a beautiful summer Sunday afternoon when one has so many other things he might rather do.

For those who were occupied with some of those other things this past Sunday, the following is a sample of the wit and wisdom of Pat Paulsen as expounded on the hospital parking lot.

On downtown Charlevoix:

"I had a great time watching the time change on the bank."

On the new hospital:

"This hospital is so nice the tourists will be wanting rooms in it. After all, it's probably cheaper than the Weathervane."

On former president Jimmy Carter:

"Jimmy Carter is back down in Plains now writing his memoirs. He started at 10:30 a.m. yesterday and finished at 10:35."

On President Ronald Reagan:

"President Reagan has come out against abortion and against praying in schools. That means if you get pregnant at school you don't have a prayer."

On the recent assassination attempt:

"I understand that when they wheeled Reagan into the emergency room, he said to the doctors 'I hope you're all Republicans.' I'm sure that when I get shot and they wheel me in, I'm going to say to the doctors 'I hope you're all comedians.'"

On the presidency:

"Anyone who runs for president can't be too bright. What kind of person wants a job in which the main object is to avoid bullets."

On greatness and humility:

"When a man takes off the great cloak of duty, he still wears the shorts of greatness."

Clockwise
Biking for hunger?

I read recently in the newspaper about a group of church-connected young people who bicycled something like 700 miles through Northern Michigan to raise money for the world's hunger.

Don't ask me what bicycling has to do with hunger because I don't know, although you certainly can raise a monumental hunger of your own pedaling a bicycle for hours on end on country road.

I also am a little hazy about how the cyclists raised their money. I suspect that before leaving home they secured pledges from friends and relatives to kick in X-number of pennies per mile traveled. That's the way bike-a-thons, walk-a-thons and run-a-thons usually work.

The cyclists were put up at night by sympathetic church people along the route, who contributed meals in addition to fresh bed linen. I assume the young people also discussed world hunger with their hosts and probably picked up a few more donations along the route.

So far, the whole adventure sounds like a lark - which it probably was.

There are few activities more enjoyable than long-distance biking, particularly when it is coupled with the camaraderie of the open road in the company of a dozen or more kindred souls.

But I still fail to see what bicycling has to do with world hunger, and I wonder at the advisability of teaching our children to ask for hand-outs, regardless of the nobility of the cause.

If this particular group of young people were truly interested in doing something to alleviate world hunger it would have made more sense for members to plant gardens rather than ride bicycles. They could then have sold their produce to friends and relatives and turned the money over to the United Nations, CROP, CARE, or some other organization dedicated to providing for the world's poor.

True, it is more fun and less demanding to ride a bicycle than it is to hoe corn and haul water all summer long, but I think the participants - deep down - would feel a lot better in the knowledge that they had actually worked for their gift to the less fortunate of the world.

I am sure that church leaders who organize such events as the bike-a-thon do so with the best intentions. But I am afraid we are doing our young a great disservice by confounding their values. There is absolutely no way that a 700-mile bicycle trip will add to the world's total food supply; yet I am sure this is the impression some of the young participants took home with them.

The fact remains that for every dollar they sent overseas, someone, somewhere had to put in a modicum of honest labor - and it wasn't a kid on a bicycle seat unless he delivers newspapers or groceries.

I hope I am not leaving a false impression. There is absolutely nothing wrong with long-distance bicycling - if it is done to sop up sunshine, improve muscle tone, enjoy the scenery and have a grand old time. However, it is wrong for bicycling and other forms of healthful physical exercise to masquerade as worthwhile, profit-making activities in the name of charity.

The American work ethic can't stand much more of such nonsense.

Lament of a fisherman's wife by C. Robertson

My husband, Fred is just finishing a two-week vacation in Charlevoix. During this time he has completely given up all previous interest in family affairs or current events. He is conducting a scientific study called "How to Catch a Fish." I am now looking for a benefactor or government grant so that he can continue his research during the coho season.

This summer Fred spent $500 on a fish-finder. I happen to be from the old "rod and line era", myself, but from what I gather, a fish-finder is a very special battery-generated box, which looks like a small tv set, but which, actually traces underwater objects on a roll of magnetic tape, much like an electrocardiagram. Every day Fred takes this magic box with him to his $10,000 boat. There are two $200 downrigger gadgets attached to the stern of the boat to hold the rods and the fishing line is dropped to depths of up to one hundred feet and held there by two lead balls ($16 each). Near the end of the line is one of thirty or more flashing, shining, lures ($3 - $5 a piece). Somewhere at the very end is a very inexpensive hook.

Fishing begins before daybreak since it takes time to get all the equipment set up and in running order. About noon, the scientist returns--tired, smelly and empty-handed. But before sinking down for a long nap, he unfurls yards and yards of magnetic tape, covered with black dots which represent fish--NOT beer cans, as I suggest--and zigzy lines which are the down-rigger lines. He shows me how the fish "went for the hook, but just didn't take it--here, and here" and then he estimates the size of the fish by the size of the dot.

As with all scientific research, progress is slow, but yesterday Fred did catch one good-sized lake trout. We weighed, measured, photograshed, cut-up, and then cooked the poor fish--all with great flurry. Everyone thought it was delicious, except Fred, who announced that he can't eat anything he has just killed.

Letters: Little League thank-yous

To the Editor:

Another successful Little League season has been completed.

Special thanks to Olesons and Edwards IGA for food donations, Medusa Cement for the bleachers, Oscar Stroud for the booth security light, Juilleret's and Duffy's of Charlevoix for the car washes, Tri-City Asphalt for the bottle gas donation for our Venetian booth and Village Inn Pizza for the pizza party.

In conclusion, we would like to thank all of the coaches, umpires, auxiliary mothers, the Little League Board of Directors and all the wonderful volunteers who helped to make the games and projects possible this season.

See you all next Spring.

retirement, 1.10 mills for 1968 (K-5) debt retirement and .63 mills for 1979 (high school addition) debt retirement.

Prices for hot lunches were increased as the result of inflation and a decrease in the reimbursement from state and federal sources.

Students who were eligible for reduced rate meals will now be required to pay 40 cents, up from 20 cents, as state required.

Regular meals will now be 85 cents in the Elementary, 95 cents at Middle School and $1.05 at high school. Weekly tickets will now be $4 at K-5, $4.50 at Middle School and $5 at high school. Meals for adults will be $1.30 in all three schools.

A la carte foods will continue to be served a the high school.

The price of milk will now be 15 cents a half pint. Effective this year, the school will receive no federal reimbursement for milk.

Free lunches will be available to children who qualify.

Christine Bentley, who has been in charge of the Title I program at the Elementary School, has been offered a probationary contract to teach at the school.

Barry Anderson, who has been the golf coach for several years, was appointed assistant football coach for the 1981 season.

A maternity leave from Nov. 2 until January 22, 1982 was granted to Ann Shindorf.

The Milk KeWay Dairy of Kewadin was awarded the milk contract for the school year. The company's bid was .1160 for homogenized, .1120 for chocolate and .1150 for two percent in half pint containers. The company is introducing a new packaging method, a plastic bag with a special straw for piercing the bag which is less expensive and less bulky to transport. Three bids were received. The bids ranged from the lowest to .141, .149 and .136 respectively for the three types of milk.

Two bids for bakery products were received. The bid of Grocers Baking Company of Grand Rapids was renewed. The bids were in the amounts of .445 for a 20 oz. loaf of white bread; 58 cents for a 24 oz. loaf; 60 cents for a 16 oz. loaf of whole wheat bread; 67.5 cents per dozen for hot dog buns and the same per dozen of hamburger buns. The bid was the lowest of two received.

In other action, the purchase of Middle School math books was approved. The textbooks are from Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Levels 6, 7 and 8, 1981 edition.

The high school handbook which includes information relating to high school students and their various activities was approved. It includes such information as the code for student conduct, athletic code, attendance policy, school trespass ordinance, requirements for graduation and related information.

The appointment of Mrs. Connie Raymer to the Charlevoix Public Library advisory board was approved.

The board also accepted the 1980-81 audit as prepared by Bairs Cotter and Bishop.

The problems with the heating system at the Elementary School were discussed with no action taken at the meeting.

Because of the Labor Day holiday, the next meeting of the board is scheduled for Sept. 21.

Clarence Way has been into everything

Clarence Way

Meet Charlevoix

by PEG OHLE

Clarence Way is one of Charlevoix' senior citizens who manages to keep "his fingers in many pies". This week the Courier talks with him about his activities.

COURIER: You are well-known as an author. How many books have you published?

WAY: Two. My first book, which I published several years ago, is called, "Rhyme, Rythm 'n' Reason". It's a collection of pieces I wrote over the years expressing my thoughts about many things. The book is in its sixth printing and I have only about 600 left to sell out of a total run of 7,000. I have sold almost all the books myself by personal contact. I simply go out to places where people gather -- like a park -- and approach the people with the books. I also have gone door to door.

COURIER: And your other book?

WAY: It's a book of memoirs and a collection of poems written by my late father, George Way. I added an introduction and a prologue. I've also written several tracts and separate poems. The kids in the family always want a poem by Grandpa for their weddings.

COURIER: You certainly know how to use words. How far did you go in school?

WAY: Half way through the ninth grade. My mother became ill and I had to stay home to do the cooking and other household chores.

COURIER: Where did you grow up?

WAY: Near Rapid City in Kalkaska County. I left the farm there to go to work in Detroit during World War I and spent 31 years with U.S. Rubber. I also ran a trucking business for a while and belonged to the Teamsters Union.

COURIER: When did you move to Charlevoix?

WAY: In 1947. We bought 240 acres in Norwood Township and ran a dairy farm. We sold the farm in 1965.

COURIER: Weren't you apprehensive about going into farming after all those years in the city?

WAY: Well, yes. I went back to work in Detroit for four and a half years after we bought the farm and left the boys and wife to run it.

COURIER: What have you been doing since you sold the farm?

WAY: I built and remodeled houses for a while. Then I went to work for Norman Brumm in his shop. I do torch welding -- attaching the birds to their bases -- that sort of thing. I've been working from 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., but after Labor Day I'll change to 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

COURIER: And how old are you?

WAY: Eighty-two.

COURIER: What are your other interests?

WAY: The church. I'm a member of the Assembly of God Church and teach in the Sunday School. I've been teaching the Book of Revelations to adults.

COURIER: How many children do you have?

WAY: We had six and five are still living. Three of the boys -- Douglaa, Dawson, and Dick, our three D's -- live in Charlevoix. Our son Robert is pastor of a church in Houston, and our daughter Geraldine is married to Art Hillenberger and lives in Fort Lauderdale. We also have 18 grandchildren, nine girls and nine boys, and nine great grandchildren.

COURIER: Do you stay in Charlevoix all winter?

WAY: Except for a trip to Florida and Texas to visit Geraldine and Robert. We usually spend a total of four weeks on the trip.

COURIER: Where did you meet Mrs. Way?

WAY: At church in Detroit. Her maiden name was Ruth Olson. She keeps busy these days taking care of the house and yard while I'm doing other things.

COURIER: You said you were going to an old-timers picnic today. Where?

WAY: It's the Kalkaska County Pioneer Picnic down near Rapid City. I'll see a lot of old friends and I want to give some of them copies of my father's book. I'm also going to conduct the memorial service for those old-timers who died during the past year.

COURIER: Anything else you would like to say?

WAY: Only that I'd be glad to talk to anybody about my books or anything else. My number is in the phone book.

Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fairbanks.

Cindy Sandahl and Michael Fairbanks exchanged their marriage vows at the Barnard Church near Charlevoix on Saturday, August 15. Fresh flowers graced the altar of the church as Dave Willet performed the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Sandahl of Charlevoix are parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Fairbanks of Ojai, California are the groom's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown with embroidered flowers on the bodice and hem. She carried a bouquet of garden flowers.

Offering music were Lisa and Melissa Sandahl.

Maid of honor was Diana Fairbanks, sisterr of the groom, of Ojai, Cal. and matron of honor was Toni Avery of Traverse City.

Dale Fairbanks attended as best man for his son and Gerry Jay Sandahl, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of Gerry Brindel on Boyne City Road given by the parents of the bride and assisted by Frenchie Hounes.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner on Friday evening at the Argonne in Charlevoix.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in the Upper Peninsula and then will travel to Houston, Texas where they will make their home. The bride is a secretary at Credit Alliance in Houston and the groom, a 1980 graduate of Michigan Tech, is employed as an engineer with Shell Oil Co. in Houston. (Photo by Charlevoix Camera).

American Legion to install officers ...

Plans for a joint installation of officers with the Leslie T. Shapton post of the American Legion were made at a recent meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The event will be held at the post home on Tuesday, Sept. 1. The installation ceremony will be preceded by a 6:30 p.m. potluck dinner. Members of both organizations are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service.

Mrs. Lois Bruce of Bellaire, past Lower 11th District President, will be the installing officer, Mrs. William Farkas, who presided at the meeting, has announced.

At the same meeting, plans were made for several dinners the auxiliary has been asked to serve. Mrs. Farkas will be in charge of these events.

Mrs. John Pidek was accepted as a member in the auxiliary.

Contributions of $150 to the Veterans Hospital at Grand Rapids and $50 to the Veterans Hospital at Battle Creek were approved.

Mrs. Harry Pearsall presented a report on the state meeting held in Dearborn. She also advised that national dues for senior members would be increased by $1.00 and 50 cents for junior members after November 1.

Dues may be paid to the auxiliary treasurer or secretary. All members are urged to pay their dues as soon as possible so the auxiliary can meet its goal.

The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held Sept. 10.

Fels - Williams

Patricia Ann Fels and Ray Lee Williams were married on Saturday afternoon, August 15, on the lake shore at Elm Point Park in East Jordan.

The bride is the daughter of Jack and Barbara Fels of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Raymond and Jeanne Williams of Ironton.

The Reverend Harold Krause of the Ironton Congregational Church performed the single-ring rites, which were witnessed by approximately 250 guests.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of Silesta chiffon fashioned with an empire bodice and accented with bishop sleeves with lace-trimmed cuffs, and a sunburst pleated skirt which extended into a chapel train. The train was edged in a flounced ruffle of embroidered lace, and the imported illusion veil, also edged in lace, held the Juliet cap in place.

The bride's bouquet was made of assorted yellow and white daisies, yellow chrysanthemums, blue carnations, and miniature roses.

Robert Bryan of Boyne City furnished piano music for the occasion, and Evelyn Lambdin of Ironton sang "The Wedding Song".

Lori Fels served her sister as maid of honor, and Rebecca Cummings and Sandra Hodge were bridesmaids. They wore floor-length yellow chiffon gowns and carried smaller versions of the bride's bouquet.

Jessica Cummings, a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a long yellow dress with a lace overlay and a ring of flowers in her hair. Her bouquet was the same type as those of the other attendants.

Ryan Cunningham, a nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. Tim Coen was best man, James Marsh and Casey Culbertson were groomsmen, and Michael Fels, a brother of the bride, and Russell Williams, a brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

A reception on the lawn of Elm Point Park, hosted by the bride's parents, followed the ceremony. They were assisted by Charles and Betty Bergmann and Pierce and Mary Erb. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Ironton Ferry Landing on Friday evening.

The bride is a registered nurse at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, and the bridegroom is employed as an operting engineer by Hodgkiss and Douma of Petoskey. They are at home on Spayde Road, Charlevoix, but will take a trip to Alaska this fall.

...Auxiliary will join them

The Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, and its Auxiliary will hold a joing installation of officers at the American Legion post home on Tuesday, Sept.1.

A potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. on that date will precede the installation ceremony.

Officiating at the installation of post officers will be Harry Pearsall, 4th District Commander, and Douglas Wildman of Bellaire, state committeeman.

Louis McKenzie will be installed as post commander to succeed Paul Steffan; Fritz Allard, first vice commander; Quinton Walker, second vice commander; Stephan, finance officer; Maurice Cudd, adjutant; Richard Louiselle, chaplain; Clarence Goldstick, sergeant-at-arms; Craig Wise, Charles Coyne, John W. Curtis and Wallace Brown, executive committee.

Mrs. Lois Bruce of Bellaire, past 11th District president, will be the installing officer for the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ray Wood will be installed as president to succeed Mrs. William Farkas; Mrs. George Lochner, first vice president; Mrs. Bertha Sternaman, second vice president; Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, secretary; Mrs. Lester Smith, treasurer; Mrs. Lillian Hull, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. Gertrude Holt, historian; Mrs. Ethel Pearsall, Mrs. Farkas, and Mrs. Louis McKinzie, executive committee.

Members of the two organizations are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service for the dinner preceding the installation ceremony.

Weddings

Davenport - Way

Christine Jane Davenport became the bride of Michael David Way on Saturday afternoon, August 15, in the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix.

They are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Way of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Davenport of Charlevoix and Big Rapids.

The double-ring rites were performed by the Reverend Robert Way of Houston, an uncle of the bridegroom, before approximately 350 guests.

The bride was escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her parents. For the occasion, the aisle was lined with white hurricane candle holders flanked by red and white gingham bows, red geraniums, daisies, ivy, and red candles.

The altar was decorated with lighted candedlabrs and unity candles. White wicker baskets of red silk geraniums, daisies, baby's breath, and ivy arranged by Nancy Fowler and Judy Williams formed the setting. White bamboo bird cages graced the front of the church and birds' songs were heard throughout the services.

The bride's gown was of white eyelet styled with a peasant neckline and featuring a triple eyelet ruffle and short sleeves. The high waist was tied with lace and the full skirt with lace-trimmed ruffle fell into a chapel-length train. The bride also wore a full-brimmed picture hat of white eyelet and lace accented with a lace bow that draped down her back. A single strand of pearls and earrings, a gift from the bridegroom, were her only pieces of jewelry. The bouquet was of white sweetheart roses, daisies, and asparagus fern accented with a flowing red and white gingham ribbon.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Steve Stergardt, who played a program of classical piano music and accompanied the soloist, Carol Hillman of Detroit, who sang "Evergreen", "You Light Up My Life", and "The Wedding Song". Gayle Boss of Howell played the traditional wedding march on the organ.

Amy Salinger Bordano of Marshall served the bride as matron of hohor, while Jodi Davenport, sister of the bride from Big Rapids, Susan Fowler of Charlevoix and Detroit, Mindy Hinkle of Warren, and Kym Nicholas of Big Rapids served as bridesmaids. Stacy Way of Charlevoix, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid.

The bride's attendants wore identical long gowns of red and white gingham in a peasant style trimmed with white eyelet lace. They carried white wicker baskets of red silk geraniums, daisies, baby's breath, and ivy. Bows and streamers of miniature red and white gingham adorned the baskets.

Mark "Barney" Way served his brother as best man. The groomsmen, who also served as ushers, were Terry Davenport of Big Rapids, brother of the bride, Michael Boss of Howell, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Mark Warba of Lansing, and Brian Williams, of Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Way

Mark Way ushered in his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brumm and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Way. Terry Davenport ushered in his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. "Hap" Cunningham and Mrs. Dean R. Davenport.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a buffet luncheon in the church parlors. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. William Steffens of Petoskey, aunt and uncle of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Boss of Charlevoix, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom, who served as masters and mistresses of ceremony. Other assistants were Kathy and Karla Steffens, cousins of the bride, who served the cake; Val Thomson of East Jordan and Indiana, who presided over the gift table; Charlene Way, a cousin of the bridegroom, who served the punch, and Sue Boss of Howell, a sister of the bridegroom, who was in charge of the guest book.

Dick Enberg, a friend of the family from Los Angeles, proposed the toast to the bride and bridegroom, and the bridegroom's grandfather, Clarence Way, read an original poem dedicated to the newlyweds.

The rehearsal dinner was held on Friday evening at the Weathervane Inn, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, the Upper Peninsula, and northern Wisconsin, the newlyweds will be at home in Houston, where the bride will teach and coach at Michigan Technological University and the bridegroom will continue his studies in electrical engineering.

Wilderness training program will teach outdoor survival

Charlevoix County older youths and adults who want to learn more about wilderness survival should take advantage of the opportunity to participate in the 4-H Challenge--wilderness adventure training program, says Leah Green, Charlevoix Program Assistant.

Through the 4-h Challenge program, participants learn a variety of skills including climbing and mountaineering, hiking and backpacking, canoeing, cross country skiing, orienteering, and wilderness cooking and survival.

According to Charlevoix county residents interested in becoming part of the Challenge program and after training serving as group leaders for your, should sign up now.

The 4-H Challenge leader orientation session will be held September 18-20, 1981 at Kettunen Center, the state's 4-H leader training facility near Cadillac.

Leah Green says that anyone wanting to become a Challenge leader must attend the orientation session and seven additional weekend intensive training sessions, pass a comprehensive written test and take a Red Cross first aid course.

"Because Challenge leaders will participating in wilderness outings, they must be prepared", Green points out. "After completing all the training, Challenge leaders become certified and are qualified to take youths on wilderness adventures."

"It is worth all the hard work and studying if you like the challenge of the out-of-doors," Green adds.

To be eligible for the 4-H Challenge certification program, applicants must be at least 21 years old. Young people aged 16-20 years may become associate leaders, who must be accompanied by a certified adult leader when taking a group of youngsters on a Challenge outing. Training for both leader types is identical.

SPARKLING RAINBOWS

One of the most spectacular trends in current jewelry fashion is the rainbow look. This is the harmonious mixture of several colored gemstones in the same piece of jewelry.

Popular and exciting combinations include rich lavender amethyst with pink tourmaline, cool blue aquamarine with golden topaz, and spring green peridot with pink or green tourmaline.

The ultimate is the suite of gemstones in graduated colors which travels through the entire spectrum from violet to red, with many lovely shades of pink, orange, green and blue in between. These suites of stones are used to make dramatic bracelets and necklaces. They can be accented with earrings and rings made from two or three stones selected from the group.

A number of manufacturers are producing rainbow jewelry, but you can also have combinations custom made to your liking. You can take an add-a-gem approach, picking out a new gemstone for your suite for each special occasion or birth of a child.

Many gemstones come in a wide range of colors, so it's actually possible to make up an attractive mother's ring or other birthstone piece. For example, garnet, the January birthstone, comes in every color except blue. Sapphire, the September birthstone, and tourmaline, the October birthstone, also can be found in a wide range of colors.

Reusch Jewelers is an American Gem Society member store. This means we have highly knowledgeable jewelers on staff. We would love to help you pick out a piece of rainbow jewelry to suit your colorful personality.

It's BBC over Medusa for slowpitch playoff title

Last week was playoff time for both men's and women's city slowpitch leagues.

In the men's, Bar Beverage Control came out on top following two victories over Medusa in Wednesday's double header for the championship.

Earlier in the week, BBC beat Townhouse 24-5 with a massive 32-hit attack led by Dan McKenzie, Wayne Boss, Phil Skeel, Spook Coleman, Joe Battle, Ray LaVoie and Steve Dunkleberg who all homered for the winners. Boss had three round trippers in the game.

Townhouse home runs were hit by Mike Crain, Gary Crain, Joe Jones and Vince Left. The winning pitcher was Dave Novotny.

BBC then lost to Medusa by one, 16-15, even though they outhit their opponents 18-16. Wayne Boss again hit three homers while Pete Dunkleberg, Steve Dunkleberg, Ray LaVoie and Spook Coleman also homered for BBC. Pat Klooster and Matt Doan slugged home runs for the winners.

Bob Holtzman took the mound victory for Medusa.

On Wednesday, BBC edged Medusa in the first game 20-21 in eight innings. The offensive attack was led by Skeel and Pete Dunkleberg with four homers apiece. Also with home runs for BBC were Battle, Novotny, Steve Dunkleberg, Coleman, LaVoie and Boss. For Medusa, Gary Drury slugged four homers, Brian Williams had three, Scott Boss, two and Bruce Meggison and kevin Swanson one each. Dave Novotny was the winning pitcher.

To attend horse show

4-H members from across Michigan will attend the 1981 Michigan 4-H Horse Show August 25 at Michigan State University. Representing Charlevoix County at the event will be Cinda Crozier of Boyne City, Sheila Harris of Charlevoix and Laurie Sherman of East Jordan.

More than 200 classes will be judged at the day long event. Classes will range from western and english riding to costume and reining classes.

"The purpose of the event is to give 4-H horse project members an opportunity to evaluate their horsemanship skills by competing against other youths from throughout the state with similar interests," says Leah Green, 4-H Program Assistant, Charlevoix County.

The show will begin at 9:00 a.m. near the commuter lot on the MSU campus. The event is free and open to the public and is one of several livestock-related activities scheduled during Michigan 4-H Animal Science Week at MSU, August 24-27. For more information, contact Leah Green at the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service Office, or call 582-6232.

Ice cream social set

An old fashioned ice cream social is planned for Saturday, August 29 at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church at 104 State St. in Charlevoix.

Featured will be home made ice cream and pastries. The social will begin at 10:30 a.m. and last until the ice cream is gone.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The following Ordinance was adopted by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix at their Regular Council Meeting on August 17, 1981:

ORDINANCE NO. 368

The CITY OF CHARLEVOIX amends Section 9.202 and Section 9.203, Chapter 118, entitled Bicycles, as follows:

Section 9.202, entitled Prohibited Operation is amended by adding thereto the following sentence:

No bicycle shall be secured to a sign post, meter post, street light post or tree by a chain, cable or other such device, nor shall the owner or operator of a bicycle leave or permit a bicycle to be left unattended on said sidewalk in such manner as shall interfere with the free flow of pedestrian traffic.

Section 9.203, entitled Penalty is amended by adding the following subsections thereto:

(1) Juvenile Arrest Procedure. In the event that a police officer witnesses a violation hereunder by a minor person, such police officer shall, on a first offense, confiscate said minor person's bicycle, the return of which after a period of twenty four (24) hours, shall be conditioned on the minor person being accompanied to the police department by a parent or legally appointed guardian.

(2) Subsequent arrest and prosecution of minors under the age of seventeen (17) years for violation of this Chapter shall be in accordance with Section 14 and the other provisions of Chapter XIIA (M.S.A. Sec. 27.3178 (598,11 et. seq.) of Act 288 of the Public Acts of 1939, State of Michigan, as amended.

(3) In all other instances, enforcement of a violation hereunder shall be by providing such person with a notice to appear on a standardized form approved by the police department.

NATURAL RESOURCES COMMISSION ACTION
(Under authority of Act 286, P.A. 1929, as amended and Act 230, P.A. 1925, as amended)

PHEASANT HUNTING REGULATIONS FOR 1981

The Natural Resources Commission, at its meeting on June 12, 1981, under authority of Chapter II, Section II, Act 286, P.A. 1929, as amended by Act 243 of Laws Relating to Natural Resources, revision of 1977), and Sections 1, 2, and 3 of Act 230, P.A. 1925 (p. 158 of Laws Relating to Natural Resources, revision of 1977), and Act 230, P.A. 1980, the Commission establish the following general pheasant hunting season regulations for 1981:

Seasons
Zone 1:

In that part of Menominee County lying south of Highway US-2 and Delta County, south and west of Escanaba River, October 10-20, inclusive.

Zones 2 and 3:

October 20 - November 11, inclusive

Bag Limits

Zone 1:

The bag limit shall be restricted to 1 male pheasant per day, 2 in possession, and 4 during the season.

Zones 2 and 3:

Statutory bag limits shall apply - 2 male pheasants per day, 4 in possession, and 8 during the season.

Pheasants taken in any of the prescribed pheasant put-take areas shall be included in the small game hunter's daily bag and possession limit.

Competitive trail riding to be held

4-H members wanting to test their horsemanship skills against the great outdoors may want to enter the annual State 4-H Competitive Trail Ride, scheduled for Sept. 18-20 near Higgins Lake in Roscommon County.

The ride will be held in conjunction with the ninth annual Open Competitive Trail ride sponsored by the Arabian Horse Association of Michigan.

Competitors will check in for the ride Sept. 18. Beginning at 8 a.m. Sept 19 riders will compete over a 40-mile trail on South Higgins Lake Road. Awards will be presented at 2 p.m. Sept. 20.

"The ride is a unique opportunity for 4-H'ers to compete outside of the show ring," says Dick Dunn, state 4-H horse specialist. "It gives them confidence and builds trust between horse and rider."

Horses may be any breed or sex but must be at least 60 months old at the time of the event. A negative Coggins test within 180 days of the ride is required.

The horses will be examined by a veterinarian every 12 miles and after they have completed the trail. A trophy and ribbons to sixth place will be awarded, based on the horse's condition throughout the ride and the rider's horsemanship.

"Trail riding helps riders understand the importance of conditioning their horses", Dunn says. "This isn't an event for a horse that hasn't been conditioned for it."

Any 4-H member may enter. Entries must have the name of the member's club and the signature of the club leader. The entry fee is $20.

For more information about the event and applications, contact the ride secretary: Gail Werner, 8869 Patterson, S.E., Caledonia, MI 49316; or call (616) 891-1681. Entries are due Sept. 10

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

August 17, 1981
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Superman presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Absent: None.

The Minutes of the August 3, 1981 regular meeting and the August 10, 1981 special meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the request presented by The Lodge to rezone the property at 102 E. Dixon from R-1 to R-4 to allow construction of a six unit condominium. Ed Hansen, on behalf of Jack Uhrick of The Lodge, presented drawings to show that more extensive lot coverage of the property would be allowed with a single family residence than with the multiple use. A large crowd of City residents was present to protest the proposed rezoning with Jim Elliott of Dixon Avenue presenting petitions signed by over 200 City residents opposed to the project. Those persons speaking against the project cited increased load on a problem sewer system, increased traffic flow, too many condominiums in the City, and the fear that this project would lead to others along Dixon Ave. as their reasons for objecting to the project. Dick Donaldson spoke in favor of the rezoning and pointed out that five of the six residents closest to the property did not object to the project.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Timms to accept the City Planning Commissions' recommendation to deny the request submitted by the Lodge to rezone the property at 102 E. Dixon from R-1 to R-4.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

A Public Hearing was held to consider the adoption of an Amendment to the City Bicycle Ordinance. John Sherrow and John Campbell, members of the General Public present, each stated that there is a need for additional bicycle racks in the downtown area. Mr. Sherrow also objected to citizens not being allowed to chain their bicycles to light and meter poles.

The following Ordinance No. 368 was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood.

ORDINANCE NO. 368

The CITY OF CHARLEVOIX amends Section 9.202 and Section 9.203, Chapter 118, entitled Bicycles, as follows:

Section 9.202, entitled Prohibited Operation is amended by adding thereto the following sentence:

No bicycle shall be secured to a sign post, meter post, street light post or tree by a chain, cable or other such device, nor shall the owner or operator of a bicycle leave or permit a bicycle to be left unattended on said sidewalk in such manner as shall interfere with the free flow of pedestrian traffic.

Section 9.203, entitled Penalty is amended by adding the following subsections thereto:

(1) Juvenile Arrest Procedure. In the event that a police officer witnesses a violation hereunder by a minor person, such police officer shall, on a first offense, confiscate said minor person's bicycle, the return of which after a period of twenty four (24) hours, shall be conditioned on the minor person being accompanied to the police department by a parent or legally appointed guardian.

(2) Subsequent arrest and prosecution of minors under the age of seventeen (17) years for violation of this Chapter shall be in accordance with Section 14 and the other provisions of Chapter XIIA (M.S.A. Sec. 27.3178 (598,11 et seq.) of Act 288 of the Public Acts of 1939, State of Michigan, as amended.

(3) In all other instances, enforcement of a violation hereunder shall be by providing such person with a notice to appear on a standardized form approved by the police department.

Ordinance was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

A Public Hearing was held regarding a proposed Amendment to the City Zoning Ordinance pertaining to off-street parking in the Central Business District of the City. Council generally agreed to table the matter for further study.

A Public Hearing was held regarding a request by Site Planning Design to rezone the City-owned property at the corner of Mercer and Taylor Rd. from Public Reserve (PR) to Community Service Commercial (C-1). John Campbell of Site Planning Design outlined his proposed plans for the property if the City agrees to sell it to him and asked for questions from the Council. Mayor Superman stated that the Council originally believed Mr. Campbell would use the property to expand his business and create additional jobs not for construction of a partial rental property as he presently plans. Councilwoman Roloff stated that the Council had already denied the sale at their Special Meeting on August 10, 1981 due to the change in Mr. Campbell's proposed use and, therefore, there was no need to consider the rezoning. Councilmen Wood and Muma both suggested that Mr. Campbell revise his proposed Site Plan for the property by moving the building back from Mercer. Mr. Campbell indicated he would not be receptive to this change. Otto Yemans, and adjoining property owner, stated that he is opposed to Mr. Campbell's plan for the property.

Moved by Councilwoman Roloff and supported by Councilman Muma to deny the rezoning of the City-owned property at the corner of Taylor and Mercer from Public Reserve (PR) to Community Service Commercial (C-1) as requested by Site Planning Design, prospective buyer of the property.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, and Roloff. Nays: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, and Wood. Absent: None.

Council adjourned to the Board of Appeals.

Following the Board of Appeals meeting roll call of the Council was again taken with all members being present.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood to appoint Robert D. Muma, City Treasurer, as Acting City Manager, Acting Zoning Administrator and Acting Street Administrator.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the request presented by Art Rebel at a cost of approximately $6,600.00 plus interest, to be paid by Mr. Rebel over a 3 year period with $2,200.00, to be paid in advance.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood to hire James M. Brinker as a manager consultant on current capital improvement and grant projects at a fee of $28.00 per hour.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council tabled any action on the City Sign Ordinance as proposed by the City Planning Commission to allow further discussion at the next regular Committee of the Whole meeting.

Council generally agreed to hold a Special Council Meeting at 8:00 P.M. on August 24, 1981 for the purpose of holding a Public Hearing on Urban Development Action Grant projects in the City.

Mayor Superman read the following results on the August 4, 1981 City Primary Election.

Kenneth A. Staley and Samuel C. Superman having received a sufficient number of votes have been nominated as non-partisan candidates for the office of Mayor.

F. Ivan Whitley and Robert N. Timms having received a sufficient number of votes have been nominated as non-partisan candidates for the office of Second Ward Councilmember.

Joseph G. Morris, Jr. and David J. Strewbridge having received a sufficient number of votes have been nominated as non-partisan candidates for the office of Third Ward Councilmember.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Muma that Robert Muma be appointed Officer Delegate and Deanne Balch Officer Alternate to represent the City at the Annual Michigan Employees Retirement System meeting on Sept. 24, 1981.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council directed the City Clerk to schedule interviews for those City Manager applicants they have selected for further consideration and generally agreed to pay the applicants' 20 per mile to come for an interview plus paying one nights lodging for applicants who must remain in the City overnight.

The Council having examined bills totaling $188,456.46 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Porter that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amount.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Deanne Balch, City Clerk
Samuel C. Superman, Mayor

August 17, 1981

BOARD OF APPEALS

The Board of Appeals convened with members Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood present. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilmen Porter and supported by Councilman Timms to approve a variance as requested by Harold Black of 207 Antrim St. to allow construction of a 7 ft. high fence, 3 ft. higher than allowed in the Zoning Ordinance.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, and Wood. Nays: Councilwoman Roloff. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Block and supported by Councilman Porter to approve a variance as requested by Richard Meyers of 202 West Lincoln to reduce the required rear yard setback at their location from 8 ft. to 3½ ft. to allow construction of an addition to his garage.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Muma, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Board of Appeals adjourned.

County 4-Hers spend a week camping at Beaver Island lighthouse site

Sixty Charlevoix & Emmet County 4-H members recently participated in a unique new experience. Young people aged 9-18 spent the week of July 27-31 camping on Beaver Island at the Charlevoix Public Schools Lighthouse property. In addition to the restored lighthouse building and the camp facilities for the work crews who do the restoration the Charlevoix Schools have created a primitive campground area for tenting on three high beautiful wooded ridges which parallel the unbeatable sand shore. For the local 4-H youngsters it was like going to another country even though one half of them were not even leaving their own county. A highlight for many was the idea of the 2½ hour trip each way on the Beaver Islander. Beaver Island Boat Company vans transported the campers the fifteen miles to the south tip of the island and supplies were carried on a pickup truck borrowed from Barb Beckers of the Shamrock.

Purpose of the camp was to "Get In Tough" through learning about and experiencing nature living & working with others by setting up camp, getting meals, doing activities, etc., and learning more about oneself through a totally new experience and estending oneself for the group.

Activities were simple and primarily required available equipment. 4-Hers swam and took instruction from Jayne Thomas, WSI from Petoskey who holds a degree in Recreation Therapy; they used natures bounty without doing damage by making sand candles with Kyle Scott, Emmet Teen member and holding a very popular sand castle contest with teams organized by Barb Brooks and Nancy Brooks of East Jordan, volunteer 4-H leaders. Nature trails set up on the school property were utilized by groups of young 4-Hers conducted by Leah or Nelson Green with some learning about and others sharing their knowledge of local trees and plants. Leathercraft a popular choice was taught to most campers by Claudia Grutsch of Charlevoix County, 4-H Leader. Larry Kaster caretaker of the Beaver Island Lighthouse took time to conduct tours of the lighthouse tower and spoke to the campers about the history of the site. More history, this time about Beaver Island itself, was passed on by Shirley Gladish from Beaver Island Historical Historical Society.

Charcoal drawing was a new effort for many who tried this rewarding art form instructed by Jan Hamp, Emmet County 4-H volunteer. Some really fine pictures of the lighthouse and beach were produced.

Campfires were held each evening along with singing, stories, and marshmellows, etc.

John McKinney, Regional Sea Grant Agent spent a day on the Island and took the campers on a beach walk in order to really see what exists where the land and water meet. Sea Grant, a federal program existing in states having major shorelines is administered in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service which 4-H is also a part.

The youngsters who stayed in two groups for two nights each, slept in tents that held from 2-15 people and ate community meals cooked on campstoves. A relaxed atmosphere was one of the major hallmarks and was purposely maintained to coincide with the goals of the entire experience. Pam Barnett, R.N. of Emmet County, Camp Nurse was an informative and integral part of the maintenance of camp goals. This new 4-H camp idea for Charlevoix and Emmet county 4-H members was designed and carried out by the 4-H program assistants of the respective counties, Leah Green and Trina Stimson. Preliminary plans and ideas for repeating this event in 1982 are already being made. The 60 campers and 8 adults who visited Beaver Island this year are ready to go again!

Pleasant fishing trip turns into harrowing struggle for life

The steelhead had barely begun their spring upriver run when Joe and Diane decided to spend a laid-back afternoon trolling on the Manistee River.

It was a snowy April day in northern Michigan – 32 degrees F and windy. As they stowed fishing gear in their boat and pushed off from shore, Diane was glad they'd bundled up in heavy snowmobile suits and boots. She had no idea how important those warm clothes would be later on in the day.

The Manistee's swift current pushed their boat downstream, and Joe dropped an anchor chain to slow their pace. He and Diane tossed their lines overboard and eased back to anticipate their first strike. They floated along for about two hours, sipping hot chocolate, enjoying the day. It was nice to be out and away from it all. The fact that they hadn't caught any fish really didn't matter at all.

But something else did matter. Several miles behind them at an upstream dam, several flood gates were being opened. Diane and Joe floated happily along, unaware of the danger.

They didn't notice, until it was too late, that the river was rising or that the current was moving faster. There was no time to prepare when, suddenly, their anchor chain caught on the river bottom, jerking the boat to a stop. The boat tipped downward, water rushed in and they capsized almost instantly.

When the boat flipped over, it dumped Joe and Diane into the icy-cold river. In water that cold, death can occur in less than 10 minutes.

Diane, who was wearing her life vest, was trapped underneath the boat. Her vest's buoyancy prevented her from diving deep enough to get out from under the boat. She struggled to find an air pocket that would allow her a breath of air, but each time she tried to breathe, her lungs filled with water. She pounded on the boat bottom in desperation.

Joe was thrown away from the boat – without a life vest. Swimming against the current, he managed to get back to the craft and cling to it, frantically searching for his wife. When he heard her screams and pounding, he located her and pulled her to the surface.

Once she was up and breathing fresh air again, a relieved Diane assumed that she and Joe were out of danger. It was a simple matter – they'd climb on top of the boat and float until they could find some help.

The truth of the matter was that their struggle for life had just begun. When they climbed up on the boat bottom, they forgot to disconnect the anchor chain. As they floated downstream, the chain caught again on the river bottom. When the boat lurched to a sudden stop, they were thrown again into the frigid water. Horrified, they watched as the chain again broke loose and the boat drifted farther downstream – too fast and too far for Diane and Joe to catch up.

Joe clung to Diane for life. Her vest was keeping them both afloat, but the cold water began taking its toll on the couple. They were weakening rapidly and they knew they were in trouble.

There was no other choice now –

"I was trying to reach the road and thought I could cut through the woods. I made it up two hills and then I couldn't walk anymore. So, I got down on my hands and knees – I crawled up the hills and rolled down," Joe said.

"I realized I was losing my sense of direction, so I turned back to the river. I knew if I walked along the river, I would eventually come to the bridge. I kept yelling for help. Finally a voice from across the river answered."

Joe and Diane were eventually rescued, bundled into an ambulance and driven about 30 miles to Manistee Hospital for treatment of hypothermia.

"We'll never figure out how Joe did it, because he was so tired and numb," Diane related. "He got himself to the top, just laid down on his stomach, reached down and lifted me up. We think God must have been on our side at that point."

Joe and Diane had survived an unbelievable 30 to 40 minutes in frigid water – now all they had to do was remain alive until they found help.

Joe had to leave Diane, who could not walk, lying alone on a log, while he began a long trudge through snow and mud to find help.

Hypothermia: the quiet killer

WHAT IS HYPOTHERMIA?

Joe and Diane had suffered classic symptoms of hypothermia, an affliction they had never heard of. Commonly known as "exposure" or "freezing to death," hypothermia can, and often does, prove fatal. Joe and Diane were in the advanced stages – they were dangerously close to death.

If they had known about hypothermia – if they had known what it was and how to fight it, they probably would have been better prepared to cope with the circumstancea of their accident.

"I always knew you'd be in trouble if you capsized in water that cold, but I never realized the extent of the trouble or how fast the physical and mental symptoms strike," Joe stated.

They learned a little about their affliction during treatment in the Manistee Hospital emergency room, but they still didn't have all the facts.

"We wanted to learn more about hypothermia, in case it should happen to our children, to ourselves again, or to other people," Diane explained. "We found out it threatens anyone unprepared for cold weather or cold water. Because we live up here where the weather is cold, we knew we should learn how to help others who might run into trouble."

They began their research at the local library but found almost no information on the symptoms or treatment of hypothermia. However, they did run across a newspaper article written by John McKinney, the Michigan State University northwest district Marine Advisory Service agent. The Marine Advisory Service is a field branch of the Michigan Sea Grant Program.

McKinney had recently trained emergency staff members at Manistee hospital in how to treat hypothermia and cold water drowning victims. He had conducted his training program just weeks before Diane's and Joe's accident.

With the marine agent's help, Joe and Diane learned that hypothermia is a gradual and dangerous lowering of body termperature which can develop rapidly in cold water – that is, water under 70 degrees F.

The unrelenting lowering of body temperature will eventually produce body fluid imbalances, dangerous chemical changes in the blood and blood pressure problems. If left unchecked, these conditions lead to an erratic heartbeat (ventricular arrhythmia), which is often the cause of a hypothermia victim's death.

"Hypothermia from immersion in water can occur in any lake or river that is 70 degrees or less," John McKinney explains. "Winter is not the only time hypothermia is a risk. Low temperatures are a year-round situation in the Great Lakes and many of the deeper inland lakes as well."

Hypothermia is caused by exposure to air or water temperatures low enough to cause the body to lose heat faster than it can produce it. Its dangers aren't restricted to cold water accidents. Hypothermia is a hazard in any outdoor activity, including hunting, fishing, boating, hiking and mountain climbing.

HOW TO HELP A HYPOTHERMIA VICTIM

If you're involved in the rescue of a hypothermia victim, the most important thing to remember is to get the victim to a physician or hospital as soon as possible.

"However, if no immediate medical help is available, proper first aid can be very important to prevent hypothermia from growing worse," McKinney says.

If a victim is in serious

Never give victims alcohol condition – unconscious, suffering muscle spasms, or showing signs of clouded consciousness, such as slurred speech – rewarming the victim is crucial. But be careful! Handle the victim as little as possible, and do not allow him-her to move around at all - jostling may cause cardiac arrest.

Carefully, get the victim to shelter and out of wet clothes. To help maintain bloodflow to the brain, slightly elevate the victim's feet, and try to keep his-her head slightly lower than the rest of the body.

Apply heat to the TRUNK of the victim's body (sides, chest and groin) and to the victim's HEAD. It's crucial that the body be warmed from the CORE first. Warming arms and legs first could threaten the victim's life.

Hot packs, such as towels warmed with hot water, heating pads or hot water bottles work well for rewarming. If none of these is available, the victim must be rewarmed with heat from the rescuer's body. Both the victim and the rescuer should be naked and wrapped together in blankets or a sleeping bag. If the victim's heart stops beating, rescuers should begin cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) immediately.

In less severe cases of hypothermia, victims are conscious, talking sensibly and shivering vigorously. These victims should be taken to shelter, dressed in warm, dry clothing, and fed hot, sweet drinks.

"But watch closely for any signs of progress into deeper hypothermia," McKinney warns. "And never give hypothermia victims alcoholic beverages -- alcohol could kill them."

Knowing how to treat hypothermia is knowing how to save lives," McKinney explains. "But prevention is always the best medicine."

When the Titanic sank, recue vessels arrived in less than two hours. Even so, nearly 1,500 people were already dead – still floating with their heads out of water. The death certificates read drowning, but the more likely cause of death was hypothermia.

Perhaps if victims of the Titanic tragedy had known what to do to retard the onset of hypothermia, some of them would have survived.

How can you protect yourself from it? The proper clothing helps. If it's cold, wear warm clothes, and always wear a flotation device. "Float coats," which look like ski jackets but have protective insulation and flotation materials in them, are highly recommended for persons who spend a lot of time around cold water. Compared to a conventional life vest, they can more than double survival time.

If you're a victim of a cold water accident, your first concern, in addition to staying afloat, should be to stay warm.

Try to keep as much of your body as possible our of water, because water carries heat away from your body much faster than air does. If your boat is still floating, climb on top of it.

If you must stay in the water, remain as still as possible to conserve body energy and heat. (That, of course, assumes you are wearing a flotation device.) Curl up into a fetal position – with knees up toward your chest, ankles crossed and arms hugging your sides. This protects high heat loss areas – the sides, chest and groin.

If there is more than one person in the water, huddle together, chest-to-chest, to block cold water flow. If there are children in the water, huddle with them between adults.

If you are not wearing a life vest, you'll have to tread water. It's best not to try swimming to shore in cold water unless shore is less than a mile away. Don't try swimming unless there is no other chance of rescue. Be sure you have flotation help, and be absolutely positive you can make it to shore. Distances over water are deceptive, and even strong swimmers are quickly overcome by hypothermia. No one is immune.

Another way to guard against hypothermia is to know the basics of boating and water safety. In any emergency, it also helps to know cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). For information on water safety and CPR training, contact your district Sea Grant-Marine Advisory Service agent through your county Cooperative Extension Service office, or call the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary or the state Department of Natural Resources.

If you're making the bridge walk,

"Half the fun is getting there" may be an apt slogan for some travelers, but it's not so for persons taking the bus from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace for the 24th annual Mackinac Bridge Walk scheduled for Labor Day morning, September 7, 1981.

Getting to the starting line at the Fare Plaza on the north side of the Bridge has been a pain in the neck and other parts of the anatomy for Bridge walkers during the past 15 or 20 years.

Nearly three-fourths of the 30,000 persons expected to walk the Bridge this year will come from the Lower Peninsula. A majority of these walkers will seek transportation from Mackinaw City to the starting line in one of 70 or so buses pressed into service by the Bridge Authority originally for individuals who did not have other means of conveyance.

Last year the buses carried 18,000 persons starting at 6:00 a.m. and winding down about 1:30 p.m. Most riders had to stand in line for hours, and still worse, many who did so were too late to walk because they did not get to the starting line by 10:00 a.m. the deadline for beginning the walk.

The moral of this tale is: walkers should provide their own transportation to the Fare Plaza on the north side of the Bridge where the walk will commence promptly at 7:30 a.m.

Governor Milliken is expected to be in the vanguard as he has been for the past 10 years.

The walk will be preceded by novice races at 7:15 a.m. sponsored by the International Walkers Association which conducted the first bridge walk 24 years ago and has continued uninterrupted ever since except for last year.

Registration for this event for boys and girls and men and women will be conducted adjacent to the Bridge Administration Building at the Fare Plaza (north side) from early Monday morning until 7:10 a.m. The entry fee is $1.00.

The 210th Military Police Batallion of the Michigan National Guard from Detroit will maintain traffic and crowd control on the bridge, at the Fare Plaza and in Mackinaw City. Personnel stationed on the bridge will enforce rules and regulations governing the Bridge Walk: no running, jogging or rollerskating; no climbing on bridge railings or walking in the driving lanes; bicycles pushed or ridden are prohibited.

Since this is the "Year of the Handicapped" it is expected that there will be a large number of persons in wheel chairs and they are most welcome.

The bus loading location in Mackinaw City is in an area just north of the Traverse Bay Woolen Company on Huron Street. The fare is 50 cents for adults and free for children under 12 accompanied by adults. However, bridge walkers are advised that they may have to wait in line for several hours and should try to make other arrangements to get to the starting line before 10:00 a.m.

North and southbound automobile traffic is maintained during the bridge walk on the two west lanes of the bridge. Walkers will use the two east lanes until 10:00 a.m. at which time they will be squeezed into one east lane so that the surge of southbound Labor Day traffic can be accommodated without undo delay.

Bands, drum and bugle corps, square dancers and a wide variety of fun-oriented groups are expected among the strollers from all over the country who perennially enjoy walking from Michigan's Upper to Lower Peninsulas over the historic Straits of Mackinac.

Walkers will receive nnmbered certificates attesting to the completion of the bridge walk. Should the number of the certificate coincide with a number posted in Mackinaw City store windows, the certificate owners will receive prizes worth up to $1500 donated by Mackinaw City merchants and the Chamber of Commerce.

The only dogs permitted to participate in the bridge walk are seeing-eye dogs. This rule is strictly enforced for the convenience and safety of the majority of the bridge walkers.

Also, participants should bear in mind that there are no relief stations on the Bridge. Porta-johns will be positioned at the north and south ends of the Bridge.

Char-Em to seek .8 mill in Tuesday's balloting

Voters served by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, which includes the Charlevoix schools among eleven other districts in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim Counties, will go to the polls next Tuesday, September 8, to pass judgement on a .8 mill increase for three years sought by Char-Em to offset losses of state funding that caused substantial cuts in staffing and program during the 1980-81 school year.

An increase of .8 mill would raise the previous ceiling of 1 mill to 1.8 mill, or, $1.80 of tax on each $1,000 of state equalizd valuation.

Tuesday's vote marks the second time this summer that the Intermediate District has placed a millage increase request before the voters.

In the June 8 school elections, Char-Em sought a "charter" millage increase of .8 mill which would have created a 1.8 mill tax limitation for the district indefinitely. The measure lost by a 3,547-3,092 margin at the time with Charlevoix voters turning it down 649-466.

This time the .8 millage is being requested for a three-year period only.

If it is passed, the millage increase will provide the Intermediate District with approximately $600,000 in tax revenues along with up to $90,000 in state funding. According to Char-Em administrators, the .8 mill is crucial to maintaining the district's special education programs at a level mandated by the state.

Without the additional operating funds generated by the millage increase, Char-Em officials have warned that special education costs will be passed along to individual school districts.

Drastic cutbacks in state funding last year caused Char-Em to resort to lay-offs, reduction of some positions from full to part time and voluntary pay cuts on the parts of many staff members to meet the budget crisis.

Voting in Charlevoix will take place at the Elementary School on Division. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. All voters registered with a township or city clerk within the Char-Em Intermediate District are eligible to vote.

Charlevoix Chamber will again sponsor color cruises

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will sponsor five Color Cruises along the shores of Lake Charlevoix this fall.

The first cruise is scheduled for September 26, followed by others on October 3,4,10, and 11. Each cruise, aboard the "Beaver Islander", departs at 1 p.m. at the Beaver Island Boat Dock next to the bridge in downtown Charlevoix.

Tickets are $7 for adults and $3 for children 11 and under. They are being sold in advance on a non-refundable basis. Tickets for a specific date will be honored only for that date and may not be used on another cruise date. The Chamber will hold "Paid in Full" reservations or will send out tickets upon request when receiving a check or money order in the full amount for tickets ordered.

In past years, there has been a sell-out days before the event and people have waited at the dock for possible cancellations. The Chamber, therefore, urges people to order their tickets well in advance.

The motorship has a protective cover and will sail rain or shine. Beverages may be purchased on board.

McDonald's site plan tabled by city planners

The site plan for a proposed McDonald's restaurant was tabled by the City of Charlevoix Planning Commission last week to allow the franchise holder to make several changes requested by the Commission.

In question was the placement of the trash container, lack of a greenbelt or brick wall between the restaurant and neighboring property, and the size of the sign requested by the franchise holder.

Also questioned was the number of parking spaces provided. An attorney's opinion will be sought by the Planning Commission as to whether McDonald's should be considered a sit-down or fast-food restaurant, since the zoning ordinance calls for different numbers of parking spaces for each classification.

The restaurant is to be operated by the same franchise holder who operates the Petoskey McDonald's. It is to be located on US-31 south on property now occupied by vacant cabins, and will employ 50 to 60 people.

Blackout!

Charlevoix residents were without electricity and water pressure for over three hours early Monday morning after a piece of heavy equipment at the Medusa Cement plant severed an electrical cable. The city was blacked out from approximately 5:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. when the power was restored.

Garden Island is isolated summer home for Indian medicine woman

by TOM DAMMANN

A weathered log cabin sits in an isolated part of Garden Island, immediately north of Beaver Island, some 40 miles west of the Mackinac Bridge and 35 miles northwest of Charlevoix.

It was built in 1847 by Jonas Naban Shawboose, great uncle of its present occupant, Keewaydinoquay, an Indian medicine woman, who teaches Ethnobotany at the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin.

According to Kee, as she is known, the guardian spirits of that place are millions of Kinebek – the swimming, slithering snakes which inhabit the waters and ground of Garden Island.

A gray slab of driftwood is nailed above the cabin door. On it a simple message has been hand printed:

"This is my heart's home," it reads. "If you are shipwrecked or marooned, you are welcome to share whatever I have. If you are just out for fun, please leave equipment and supplies as you find them. I need them to save my life. Megintch. Keewaydinoquay."

"Keewaydinoquay" is Ojibway meaning "Woman of the Northwest Wind."

Only registered voter on the island

The area is of special significance to Kee, not only because it is sacred to all Indians ("More than 3500 Indian graves were counted there by a white anthropologist in 1918," she says). Her great-grandfather, James Morey of Scotland, was shipwrecked on Whiskey Island Reef, late in the first half of the last century, and was rescued by Garden Island Indians. They were returning home with dried fish from Gull Island (then called Fishing Island) a few miles to the west. He married Cecilia Manidu whose native name was Kishawish.

Kee considers Garden Island home. She is registered to vote from there – the only known person to do so.

She lives her life with full Native American consciousness, spirituality and fervor.

For the past ten Mays, Kee has arrived at the Beaver Island Boat Company dock in Charlevoix like the southwest breezes, a hopeful sign that northwest Michigan's short summer will soon follow.

With the aid of the crew, she loads some 30 boxes, backpacks and assorted bags onto the motor vessel Beaver Islander and sets out for Beaver Island. At St. James, she makes final arrangements with the post office and McDonough's General Store so that visiting students may pick up mail and needed supplies. She hires a boatman to ferry her north to Garden Island.

Born on the lake

Late in August she reverses the process, only this time, instead of supplies she is burdened with the herbs and jars of herbal medicines and salves she has gathered and made during the summer. She uses them for healing, in spiritual ceremonies and for teaching aids at the University of Wisconsin.

She took a recent visitor with her as she gathered bunches of a variety of Impatiens, commonly known as Jewel Weed or Touch-Me-Not, from which she extracts the juices to make a salve for curing poison ivy.

She lay a small amount of tobacco – a mixture of herbs specially prepared for prayers and worship – on the east side of the plants, and then prayed.

She explained that "east is one of seven scared directions. The gift of the east is illuminatlon and understnading."

She translated her prayer, directed to the earth: "Mother, we acknowledge you as source and we give thanks for all your goodness. Listen to our petition for what we are taking. We promise that your good medicine will be used only for the benefit of people."

She said that Indians believe that what we think of as the chemical properties of a plant are their spirits which must be involved by prayer to cure the affliction.

"I was born on Lake Michigan," she told her inquisitive visitor recently. "Literally, I was born in a ship bound for Ludington where my mother was going to the hospital.

Home was Cat Head Point on the Leelanau Peninsula, south of Traverse City, she explained, and her life has centered pretty much around there. When whe was nine she was apprenticed to an herb mother, Nodjimakwe, of the Indian village of Onominee and taught the healing physical and spiritual properties of vegetation.

Kee taught science at the Leland Schools for many years. She holds a Masters Degree in botany from Central Michigan University and a Masters Degree in biology from Wayne State University. She is also an accomplished pianist, incidentally.

For some years whe worked on a doctorate at the University of Michigan because she felt that a Ph.D. at the end of her name might give credence to the writing she does, trying to clear up the "bunk" that has been written by others about Indians.

Kee has written just such a book she calls, "Puhdohee for the People," which means to fili up with power from an unseen source. It was published by the Harvard University Press. It is a narrative account of the purposes for which she has seen fungi used among her people.

"When you finish reading it you'll know the Indian didn't turn and look away every time they saw a mushroom, as your people seem to believe," she said.

English a foreign language?

But she gave up her doctoral studies at the U. of M. when she became ensnarled in the university's red tape. She crossed the lake to take up her position on the faculty of the Native American Studies Department at the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee. She expects to qualify for her Ph.D. there.

The story goes, that when she was told she had to fill certain foreign language requirements (her knowledge of Latin didn't count), Kee suggested Ojibway. When that was denied she suggested English, with typical Indian humor, which was reputedly not appreciated.

She came to her summer camp 10 summers ago on a two-fold mission: to locate the cabin used by her Great Uncle Shawboose, whom whe had visited once in her childhood; and probably to fulfill her spiritual longings.

"I came to burn tobacco and make thanksgiving for the life and spirit of Uncle Shawboose," she said. "I found the cabin in good shape."

"A very special spot"

This summer she has had many visitors, some who had been with her on other summers. They were for the most part, young women and men, eager to help and learn.

They have helped her build several round Wigwams – "there is something very wholesome about living in the round" she says – a sweat lodge and storage spaces.

"Some come to perform a vision fast, which helps you find your guardian spirit, helps you find your purpose in life," she said.

One young man, a non-Indian, has spent four years with her, learning to play the Indian drum. He has become very proficient.

"This is a very special spot," Kee says. "You can hear the sounds of Indian spirit drums at night."

ACE open house was successful

The A.C.E. Genealogical Society open house held at the Boyne City public library recently was well attended with seven northern Michigan communities represented, according to Mrs. Lloyd Arnold, chairman of the society. The communities were Traverse City, Cheboygan, Bellaire, Petoskey, East Jordan, Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Demonstrations of the use of the microfilm reader and the microfiche reader were given.

Prizes relating to genealogy were won by Omer L. Wheeler of Boyne City who received an Ancestral Record book; Sue Rainey of Boyne City, a genealogy tote bag, and Dorothy Nordquist of Petoskey, a listing of the 1978 Genealogical queries which appeared in the Tri-state Trader publication.

Twelve individual exhibits were shown along with free literature and reference books relating to the subject of genealogy. The exhibits included 14 family tree books, including a "Remembrance Book" with Latter Day Saints records; a family history book that spanned 77 years of the writer's life; ancestral charts in various forms; a combination picture and written chart; journals; a family Bible; maps and other memorabilia. Other interesting displays included a hand-woven coverlet for which the maker had carded and spun the wool and a Family Tree Christmas stocking with pictures of grandchildren.

Refreshments were served to the 30 people who attended the event.

These swans, photographed under the old, rustic bridge on the grounds of the Chicago Club many years ago were descendants of Pericles and Asphasia, English-born swans which were brought to the Chicago Club during World War I by mr. and Mrs. George Douglas who owned a cottage on the club grounds. The many flocks of swans which still inhabit the lake areas of Northern Michigan can be traced to that original pair. (Photo courtesy of John Gaskin.)

New school meal prices listed

With the opening of the Charlevoix public schools on Wednesday, Sept. 9, parents are advised that cafeterias in all the schools will be open on that day for the convenience of the students.

Attention is also called to the new meal prices which were approved at a recent meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education. At the time the prices were adopted, it was explained the increase in regular meals was necessary because of the decrease in state-federal reimbursement and because of inflation. It was also pointed out that Charlevoix schools qualify for a limited amount of commodities available to schools based on family incomes.

Regular meal tickets will be 85 cents in the elementary school; 95 cents in the middle school and $1.05 at the high school. Weekly tickets will be $4.00 at the K-5 school; $4.50 at the middle school and $5.00 at the high school where a la carte foods will also be available.

Because all reimbursement for milk has been lost, the price will now be 15 cents per half pint.

The cost of reduced rate meals for students who qualify will now be 40 cents per meal as mandated by the state.

Anyone with questions regarding the above may call the school where their child will be a student or the central office at 547-6573.

Miss Comfort's colorful past includes music, lake travels

Annabelle Comfort

by PEG OHLE

It's a long way from the lighthouse on Beaver Island to the musical circles of Paris, but Annabelle Comfort of Charlevoix has made that trip and many others as well.

Miss Comfort, whose father was a lighthouse keeper and builder for 44 years, remembers a happy summer of her childhood when she lived and played around the old Beaverhead Lighthouse, the only child on that part of the Island. She also remembers the lighthouse on Gray's Reef, which her father built, and St. Martin's Island, Ile Aux Galets (popularly called Skillagallee), and North and South Manitou. The lore of these beacons melds with her musical adventures in several cities of the world as she tells of her travels.

The granddaughter of early Charlevoix residents on her mother's side, Miss Comfort recalls those early days:

"My grandfather, Archie Irwin, was born in Belfast, Ireland. My grandmother was born in Hannaston, England. They met on a sailing vessel coming to Canada in 1880. They were married as soon as they reached Canada. They came to Charlevoix in 1890.

"Grandfather bought a lot from John Dixon, one of Charlevoix' first citizens, at 303 Dixon Avenue which now stands there, owned by Clem Wagner. Grandfather paid $5 every three months for the lot.

"My parents, Lou and Metta Comfort, bought property at 401 Dixon Avenue in 1906. We were living there when they bought me a piano, which I wanted very much because I was dreaming of being in the musical world. I began taking lessons from the wonderful Marguerite Swinton, mother of the late Don Swinton."

Miss Comfort took lessons for several years and remained in Charlevoix until she graduated from high school. After graduation, she left Charlevoix for what she calls "a long absence during which my dreams were to come true."

Miss Comfort tells of going to Chicago to study at the American Conservatory of Music and spending eight years in the area during which she was also Supervisor of Music in the Niles, Michigan Public Schools, and a teacher of theory and musical composition at the University of Kansas.

But the East called Annabelle Comfort and she left the Midwest for Philadelphia and the Curtis Institute, where she was awarded a scholarship. She stayed there four years, meeting many well-known musicians, including the late composer Samuel Barber and Gian Carlo Neenatte, whose "Three Wise Men" has been presented at Christmas time by the National Broadcasting System for the past 25 years.

From Philadelphia, it was on to Paris for the girl from Charlevoix. She was sent there by the Theodore Presser Foundation to study composing with the late Nadia Boulanger, whose list of students included many composers famous today, according to Miss Comfort.

Completing her studies in Paris, Miss Comfort returned to New York City, where she lived for 17 years. While there she studied with the German composer Arnold Schonberg, taught piano, arranged radio music for the National Broadcasting Company, interviewed celebrities for "The Etude" music magazine, and served as music critic for "America", the national Catholic weekly.

Miss Comfort happily recalls that many noted concert artists programmed her compositions in Carnegie and Town Halls and in their concerts throughout the United States and Canada. She is especially proud that the late Percy Faith orchestrated her song, "Seekin' Massa Jesus" and performed it on national radio several times.

Now it became time for the restless Miss Comfort to enter a new career. She became interested in the Hammond Organ, taught herself to play it, and left New York for several years of organ and piano concert playing throughout the United States.

Perhaps after giving concerts for all those years, Miss Comfort concluded she had done almost everything in music. Whatever the reason, she turned to photography. Four times during the 1960's, Miss Comfort travelled to Alaska — to photograph totem poles. She says she has 4,000 slides of totem poles of all types. To her they are art forms as well as a medium for telling stories. It was Miss Comfort's intention to embark upon a lecture tour talking about totem poles, but her mother's illness made it necessary for her to return to Charlevoix, where she has lived ever since.

Miss Comfort has returned to her study of music. This time it is the opera and symphonic music, which she listens to on the radio.

"I don't think most people realize what wonderful music we have right here in Charlevoix, at our fingertips," Miss Comfort explains.

"Every Saturday afternoon we can listen to the Metropolitan Opera, or the Chicago Lyric Opera, or the Houston or Los Angeles Operas — all the great ones. And at night we can listen to the symphonies. We don't have to go anywhere. They're here.

Miss Comfort has not lost her love of big cities. Every once in a while she gets on a bus (she won't fly) and makes the ten or 11 hour trip to Chicago. She always stays right in the Loop at the Bismarck Hotel and apparently savors every minute in the city.

Locally, Miss Comfort belongs to the Crooked Tree Arts Council and the Charlevoix Historical Society. At home, when she is not listening to her radio programs, she may be found playing her organ, which occupies a prominent spot in her living room.

"When I came back to Charlevoix the Beautiful, it was to live and relax, and to know that there is nothing you can't accomplish if you pursue your dreams," Miss Comfort philosophized.

This lady had big dreams and indeed she did pursue and accomplish what she set out to accomplish.

Hunger Walk set for Sept. 20

The hungry people of the world will be the focus of a Hunger Walk and Fellowship sponsored by Charlevoix County churches on Sunday, September 20, beginning at 2 p.m.

Walkers from Charlevoix will start at the Captain's Corners shopping center and walk to Ironton, where they will be joined by walkers from East Jordan, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, and Horton Bay.

East Jordan walkers will start at Elm Point and those from the other areas will start at Whiting Park, making the walking trip about five miles for everybody.

It is planned to have all walkers meet in the field adjoining the Char-Em school in Ironton for a period of fellowship, entertainment, and refreshments.

Buses will be available to return the walkers to the three starting points. Those who do not want to walk to the Ironton gathering may drive their own cars or ride with another person.

Walkers are asked to secure sponsors for each mile of the walk, perhaps at 50 cents, $1.00, $2.00 or more a mile to contribute to hunger relief funds. While the Church World Relief Fund is the largest hunger-fighting organization, any walker may designate another hunger fund as the recipient of his sponsor's contributions. However, it is requested that only organizations providing food for the hungry be considered.

Members of all County churches are being made aware of the walk by their pastors. A committee including Charles Duerr, Dave Phillips and several local ministers has formulated plans for the walk. The Reverend Clifford J. Molnar of Boyne City, head of the County Ministerial Association, has also been active in making plans, as has William Ashley of East Jordan.

Phillips, who is in charge of publicity, explained, "This will be a fall harvest gathering of people for something good. We hope everyone will try to attend one way or another and make a contribution to help the hungry people. We want to remind ourselves that some people walk more than five miles a day to get food and water just to survive."

Knight on the Town

Time for a break

by Dave Knight

Ran into that chipmunk the other day...you know the one.Lives up on Michigan Avenue in a two bedroom tree unit with a lake view.

The little feller was mad.

"One week before Labor Day and look at it," he grumped, nodding toward the steady stream of cars on Petoskey Avenue. "I haven't been able to cross the highway since June. Lotta nuts to collect over there. Lotta nuts!"

"Yeah," I said as a '72 Camaro with Illinois plates careened around the corner and almost created second floor parking in the Dunes. "Lotta nuts."

Tune was that things settled down by late August," he went on, "Used to be able to count on at least a few quiet days before the big" weekend. But now...busy, busy, busy. No let up. Puts a lot of stress on those of us in the vacation atmosphere business, you know."

"Vacation atmosphere business?" I asked, "Don't tell me. Your're a DNR operative taking dust samples on the sly."

"Wrong. Headline Breath," he sneered. "Not that kind of atmosphere. I'm talking entertainment. Amusement. Local color."

"No comprende," I said.

"Look," he said impatiently, "Why do you think city folk come up here? Because parking tickets are so cheap? No, they come here to commune with nature, to check in with the flora and fauna, to make peace with their primal roots."

What does that have to do with you?" I still wondered.

"We run around all summer and do cute things like munch popcorn the kids throw and get into garbage cans."

That's cute?"

People love it when it's somebody else's garbage."

"Sounds like an easy job."

"Ever try chewing through a double-weight Hefty bag?"

"Nope."

"Ain't so easy."

I remained skeptical. "There are plenty of chipmunks running around the cities. It's not as if you guys are some exotic species found only in isolated pockets of the uncivilized world."

"No," he admitted, "People see us everywhere. But they only enjoy us when they're on vacation. Same with, say, rabbits and blue jays. Back home they're actually varmints, getting into gardens and waking people up too early in the morning. But up here people want them around for atmosphere."

For a chipmunk, the little guy made good sense. He was getting more worked up, though, as he went along.

"It's just like you humans to take us for granted," he snapped waving his tiny arms, "Wait 'til we unionize!"

"Relax, relax," I said, "Labor Day is almost here. I know it's been a wild summer but pretty soon you won't have to worry about tending the vacation atmosphere any more until next spring."

He sighed. "Yeah...after three months of being cute, it'll be nice to be able to walk around without somebody throwing carmel corn at me."

Clockwise

Just another Monday

It is 5:30 on a Monday morning in Charlevoix. I am standing at the wash basin in the bathroom shaving when the overhead light suddenly dims and dies.

At the same time, the refrigerator motor in the kitchen purrs to a halt, so I know it isn't the light bulb.

I stumble out into the hallway and find the door to the living room. I have opened that door thousands of times, but for the moment I can't remember where the doorknob is supposed to be and I grope on the wrong side. Finally I try the other side and free myself from my hallway trap.

But the living room is just as dark as the hall. I bump into the stereo before I find the french doors to the dining room where I remember leaving a book of matches on a bookshelf.

I open the front door in hopes of letting in a ray of light from the morning sky, only it is as black outside as it is inside. I turn and find the staircase and follow the balustrade with my fingers to the buffet directly under the bookshelf. The matches are there, next to the silent radio. I strike one and flood the room with a dazzling brilliance.

I am only two paces from the dining room table where we keep an oil lamp. Within seconds the chimney is off and the wick is lighted. The room fills with sunshine and I spot another oil lamp on a sewing cabinet in the corner. I now have illumination for both the dining room and kitchen and decide to plot my next move over coffee.

Then I remember there is no pilot light on our new energy-saving gas range. House current is supposed to ignite the gas when you turn on a burner. So I try a match. It works, just like the old laundry boilers of yesteryear.

While I wait for the water to boil, the cat awakes and demands breakfast. The inside of the refrigerator is as black as a coal cellar, but I find an opened can of generic cat food so I don't need the electric can opener. The cat winds between my legs, purring like a dynamo, as I remove the plastic lid, empty the can into her plastic bowl and scrape the can with a plastic spoon.

Cats love plastic." I tell her as I set the bowl on the floor. She crouches next to the bowl and starts eating, oblivious to the power outage.

I walk out on the street to judge the extent of the electrical calamity. The only lights I see are a pair of fireflies approaching on the other side of the street. As they near I see they are affixed to two bicycles pedaled by fishermen. They are carrying a full complement of nets and fishing tackle -- apparently intent on meeting the dawn on the railroad bridge.

Then I notice an eerie glow rising from Round Lake. I cross the street and walk toward the Lodge. At the vacant lot I see that the lights downtown are emanating from the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, which carries its own power plant. The rest of the city is in utter darkness.

I turn around and walk home. The dining room with its oil lamp is glowing like a surgical atrium.

The phone rings. It is Fran Martin wondering if I am waiting for an electric alarm clock that won't ring. She already has been on the phone to the sheriff's department. Seems earth-moving equipment snapped a power line at the Medusa plant.

And another Monday is off and running.

And savor each day along the way -
So there'll be more before it!

Letters: Biking for charity

Bikers for hunger were sincere

Dear Editor,

Mr. Clock's article "Biking For Hunger" in the August 26 issue of the Charlevoix Courier was so offensive and cynical that I felt the need to reply.

He could not comprehend how bicycling through northern Michigan could help to alleviate world hunger.

I myself am not certain if the bicyclists raised the money through pledges or not, but to sit behind a typewriter and blast a young person's humane accomplishments right out of the water is ludicrous.

He wondered at the advisability of teaching our children to ask for handouts, regardless of the nobility of the cause. At this point I am inquisitive of the reception the volunteers from the American Cancer Society, Muscular Dystrophy, March of Dimes (and so on) receive at the Clock family household.

Certainly, any effort to rid the world of hunger that any of us may undertake may seem like a ripple on the surface. However, eventually there may be a lessening of this problem because there are people who, in the face of a seemingly impossible task, give of themselves and try to thwart a world problem.

In closing, I am prompted to ask Mr. Clock what incident could have provoked such a vicious attack on these young people? Did one of them ask you for a pledge?

I would like to thank the cyclists for their efforts, regardless of the fun they might have had raising the money--you are young only once! Helping others less fortunate than ourselves is a very "American" and Christian goal to strive for--very similiar to being proud to put your hand over your heart during the national anthem, Mr. Clock.

Leaving for Chicoga

Dear Friends,

Saying farewell to Charlevoix has been difficult and emotional. During the last several months of anticipating the exciting challenges of new adventures in the Chicago area, we are made aware of certain things about this community. Perhaps they are worth sharing.

Charlevoix has beautiful geographical and visual qualities as do other towns and cities across the country. The idyllic, festive summer and brilliant autumn are delightful. The oh-so-long winters are clean and lovely. As anywhere, there are fine people and worthwhile organizations and the opportunity for valuable relationships. It is a safe, clean place to live and raise a family. There are exceptional churches with dynamic, active spiritual communities.

However, more unique than these...is that reality which I truly feel characterizes Charlevoix as "the Beautiful". And that is the care and support and acceptance of its many handicapped residents. For a tiny town, Charlevoix has a large percentage of individuals with special needs. These folks have been smoothly absorbed and involved in every aspect of local life. The patience and sincere commitments of friendship extended to them have helped many to achieve high levels of confidence and independence.

This is a blessing...and the foundation for strong, happy memories of some incredibly wonderful years spent here for our family.

Sincerely,

Kathy & Patrick Hynes
Charlevoix House

There once was a young girl who said squeeze me
On a day that indeed was quite breezy.
Squeeze her they did, till she yelped out in pain
And she never said squeeze me again!!

Ate too much: tummy's in a bind
My prerogative: to change my mind
So: wearing glasses
Wards off passes
If you can't read between the lines, I find

There once was a lass from Monroe
Who just beamed from head to toe
When asked whats your favorite joy?
Her quick reply - "to live in Charlevoix!"

I'm just a little lass
But I've got plenty of class
These big "specks" is not a toy
I wear them to better enjoy
This Beautiful Charlevoix.

My name's Marge
I'm not very large
I'm just a little coy,
But I sure do like Charlevoix!

There once was a tot from Chalot
Who enjoyed everything that she got.
Cracker Jack, candy, ice cream too,
It sure tastes good - all that goo
But that tot - soon will hurt a lot!

It makes me laugh
It makes be grin
It tickles my toes over again
To feel that candy in my small bin!

I squeeze
You squeeze
We all squeeze
For that little tease.

A little girl named Carmen,
Can be lots of fun to squeeze
Just like a roll of Charmin.
She says "do it like this please!"

There once was a little girl
She was as pretty as a pearl
She had some glasses
And long eye lashes
The girl, the pearl of the world.

Peanuts, ice cream, soft drings 'N food
I overdid and I'v had it, but good!
A picnic or circus can be such a treat
But remember one thing
Just don't over eat!

There was a young lady from Mass.
Who happened our way to pass
She said I'm,no dummy
For pressing my Tummy
It's one way to get rid of the gas.

Once upon a squeeze
Somewhere between a gigle and a tickle
A little voice trickled,
"Sugar and spice and everything nice,
But let me catch my breath pleeze!"

Little Lucy Loretta Lurn,
She swallowed her silly old gum.
She pushed and she squeezed,
She coughed and she sneezed.
But the gum was all stuck in her tum.

There once was a girl named Carmen,
Who boys found exciting and charmin'
Though boys won't make passes-
At girls who wear glasses:
"There's no harm'n squeez'n the Charmin.

Don't take everything you read too literally - why do you tbin I'm wearing these glasses?

And the winner is...

There once wos o girl nomed Louise,
Whose manner was certain to please;
She thought she would flirt-
And wrote on her skirt:
"Don't tease; Squeeze please; Louise."

Charlevoix

I over-ate 'N my tummy's hurt
So, in case you read what's on my shirt
And think I as somewhat a flirt
Remember people don't make passes
At the gal who wears eye glasses.

My dear, if one more person squeezes me, I will throw up on her.

But Mama, I still don't like carrots.

I can see clearly now.

CC team to make debut

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country Team, coached by Pete Spieles, will be the first of the Rayders' teams to open their 1981 schedules when they travel to the prestigious White Cloud Cross Country Invitational meet on Saturday.

In preparation for the opening of the season, candidates for the team have been running all summer and are spending a week at the fourth annual Cross Country Camp. This is the second year the camp has been held at the Beaver Island Lighthouse property owned by the Charlevoix School District.

In speaking of the Rayder team and its prospects for the year Coach Spieles said that he expects to have a strong team. "The candidates have been running a good part of the year. They have participated in several races including the Venetian Foot Race here." He went on to say that he was expecting a good year. He commented, however, that Rogers City can be expected to field a strong team.

The Rayders are the defending champions in the Michigan-Huron Shores League as well as Class C regional champions. Last fall they finished fifth in the state among 24 regional champions.

Returning lettermen from last season who are expected to be the basis for the 1981 squad are Senior Jim Landon, team captain; Todd Russell and Jim Duke, also seniors; Juniors Bill Dohm and Matt Peterson, and Bill Taylor, a sophomore, Jon Spieles, a junior, rounds out the list of returning letter winners.

Other candidates for the team are seniors Tim Louiselle, Rich McLenon, and Van Sloan; juniors Scott Johnson, Pat Kerr, and Steve Young; sophomores Lee Allard, Jeff DeVries, Matt Landon, Mike Steele and John Tunison, and freshman Dave Miller.

Duke received all-conference and all-regional recognition in 1979; Russell received all-regional recognition and Jim Landon, all-conference recognition in 1980.

"We have six strong runners and a host of others who will be trying for a starting position. Such competition will add to the team's potential so I feel we will be strong contenders" Spieles said of his team.

The White Cloud event is one of six invitational meets the Rayders will partieipate in this fall.

The first league competition will be at Boyne City with the Ramblers and Gaylord on September 15.

Advancing to the state finals this weekend in Scottville will be Ferguson Surveying of Charlevoix which won the Class D District fastpitch title last week in Petoskey and went on to take the Regional crown as well at Ludington on Sunday. Team members included, front row, left to right, Rick Allen, Roger Crain, Bill Gengle, Bud Boss, Wayne Boss and batboy Jeremy Boss. In the back row are District tournament director John Malec, manager Larry Potter, sponsor John Ferguson, Jim Potter, Dan Boss, Mike Boss and Mike Shop. Absent were Ron Bindi and Bob De Young.

Youth soccer sign-up set

Sign-up time for youth soccer teams is Thursday, September 3, from 3 to 5 p.m. at Shanahan Field at Waller and Martin Roads.

All boys and girls from seven to 17 are eligible to partiepate in the program, according to Mike Davis, Youth Activities coordinator.

There will be no charge for playing on a team. All that is necessary is for each interested person to fill out an application.

Davis reports there is still need for coaches and sponsors. He may be contacted at 547-4411.

Flag football draft rescheduled for this week

A flag football draft has been re-scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at the Carpenter Ave. field according to Dwight Boss, director of the Charlevoix Recreation Department which sponsors the program.

The second draft was neccesary when only 24 candidates turned out Saturday because of inclement weather.

All prospective players including those who played last season must register for the draft Boss said.

To register, players may call the recreation department office at 547-4272 any morning from 9 a.m. until 12 noon or stop in at the office at the city hall during those hours. Candidates may also call 547-9098 to register.

County Easter Seal chapter to be reactivated following meeting

The re-organization and re-activation of the Charlevoix County Chapter of the Easter Seal Society was initiated recently at a luncheon meeting of persons who have been active in the service group for many years.

Mrs. Harvey C. Varnum of Boyne City accepted the chairmanship for the county and other volunteers present offered their assistance in order to continue the services available to crippled children and adults by the county chapter.

Maria dePuyat, director of the state organization, was present to advise the group in its efforts to continue the loan closet which has been one of the chapter's main services. She assured the group that she would be available to assist in the re-activation of the chapter.

Mrs. Arthur Thompson of East Jordan, who has retired as president, presented certificates of appreciation to persons who had worked with her, many for the 27 years in which she was active in the society. Among those receiving certificates was the Rev. Dale Turner of East Jordan through whose efforts the loan closet was kept in operation. In presenting his certificate to him, she praised him for his humanitarian efforts and asked him to continue to work with the society.

Other recipients were Mrs. Varnum and Mrs. Thelma Behling of Boyne City, Mrs. Phyills Malpass and Mr. Lawrence Schumacher of East Jordan and Mrs. William Lusk and Fran Martin of Charlevoix. Mrs. Olga Cook, who was not present, will also be presented with a certificate.

Mrs. Lusk was asked to make a special presentation to the family of Maurice J. Foster of Charlevoix for his many years of service to the society. Mrs. Thompson asked Mrs. Lusk to convey to his family the appreciation of all those who had worked with him for his dedicated service to the crippled children and adults of Charlevoix County.

Mr. Foster is a patient at Provincial House in Traverse City following a series of cerebral hemorrhages first suffered in 1977.

Mrs. Varnum said a public meeting will be held early this fall to which residents of the county will be invited to attend and work with the Easter Seal Society.

Pidek-VanLoo

Christine A. Pidek and Darrin VanLoo exchanged their marriage vows at a Nuptial Mass solemnized at St. Mary's Church Saturday afternoon.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Pidek and Mrs. Fay VanLoo and Roxy VanLoo. Both families are from Charlevoix.

The Rev. R. Dale Magoon officiated at the double ring service in the presence of 300 guests. Arrangements of carnations, snapdragons, zinnias and baby's breath graced the altar for the ceremony. Mrs. John Lignell, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and accompanied Mrs. Michael Bales who sang "Sunrise, Sunset". Mrs. Pidek, accompanied on the guitar by Mr. Pidek and Lisa Staley, sang "The Sabbath Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, selected a gown of lace and satin for her wedding. Fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and long fitted sleeves accented with lace appliques and satin and tulle inserts, the gown had a full skirt and chapel length train bordered with satin and lace appliques. Her veil of bridal illusion bordered with matching lace was held by a Juliet cap. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses, baby's breath and forget-me-nots.

Kathleen Pidek served as her sister's maid of honor and Charlotte McClain of Pontiac, Elain Souve of West Branch, Mary Heindenreich of Dewagize and Mary Faculak were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of light blue floral print chiffon over light blue taffeta. Their bouquets were of yellow and white daisies, salmon pink roses and baby's breath.

Mandy VanLoo of Grand Rapids, niece of the bridegroom, wearing a full length white gown trimmed with blue lace, was flower girl. Brian VanLoon, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Roxy VanLoo assisted his brother as best man. John Pidek, Jr. and Douglas Pidek, brothers of the bride, John Rader and Brian Myers of Dorr were groomsmen. Darrell VanLoo and Brian VanLoo, brothers of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrin VanLoo

A wedding dinner and evening reception, hosted by the couple's parents, followed at the American Legion post home. A wedding cake baked by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Hattie Doros of Wyandoote was served. Mrs. Gerald Chase was in charge of the guest book.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the couple will be at home in the Student Housing complex at Ferris State College in Big Rapids where both are enrolled as students.

Wedding guests were present from Texas, Arizona, Pennsylvania, New York and numerous southern Michigan cities.

A rehearsal dinner on Friday evening was hosted by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Fay VanLoo, at her Eaton Avenue home.

Weddings

Long-Busick

Friendship Hall in Norwood was the setting on Saturday afternoon, August 22, for the wedding of Lynda Sue Long and Randall Allen Busick.

The bride, who formerly lived in Charlevoix, is the daughter of Lynn Long and Mrs. Particia Long, both of Charlevoix. Her bridegroom makes his home in Utica and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Busick of Eagle Grove, Iowa.

Approximately 125 guests from Iowa, Florida, Illinois and several Michigan cities witnessed the double-ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Roberi Moore.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of lace and chiffon fashioned with a Queen Ann neckline, scalloped train, and finger-tip veil of lace and net, all handmade by the bride and her aunt and grandmother. She carried a bouquet of minature carnations and yellow sweetheart roses.

Kendra Mae Long assisted her sister as maid of honor and Sue Hodge served as bridesmaid. They wore mint green floor-length sundresses with capelets and carried two minature longstem yellow roses.

Richard Busick, the bridegroom's brother from DeWitt, Iowa served as best man and Richard Potter of Flint was the groomsman. Roger James of Madison Heights and Donald Dyker of Mt. Clemens seated the guests.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Mrs. Frances Boss at the organ and Kendra Mae Long, who offered a vocal solo.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception in Friendship Hall, assisted by Mrs. Frances Jolliff, who cut the cake; Mrs. Dorothy Maskaluk, who served the punch; and Mrs. Helen Buckler, who was in charge of the kitchen. The rehearsal dinner was a picnic on the Norwood beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Busick

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Long wore a light rose-colored dress, and Mrs. Busick wore a deep rose-colored dress. They were adorned with matching corsages.

Following a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula, the newly-weds are at home in Flint. The bridegroom is employed by Selfridge Air National Guard Base as a helicopter mechanic.

Local beaches are closed for season

Charlevoix's three swimming beaches were closed for the season on Saturday, Aug. 29, city recreation director Dwight Boss has announced.

Lifeguards will no longer be at the beaches. Docks and rafts will be removed from the water this week Boss said.

This applies to the Depot and Ferry Avenue beaches on Lake Charlevoix and the Lake Michigan beach at the foot of Grant St.

GEM WISE

JEWELRY FASHIONS, FACTS, FICTION

Colleen Titsworth Manager

GETTING YOUR DOLLAR'S WORTH

When it comes to fine jewelry, what you see is not necessarily what you get. That's why it's so important to go to an ethical, knowledgeable jeweler such as an American Gem Society Registered Jeweler or Certified Gemologist.

The treated sapphire situation serves as a case in point. Many sapphires currently coming out of Thailand are heat-treated or diffusion-treated.

Some pale sapphires contain the chemical components for a fine-colored stone, but nature somehow failed to provide the proper environment for them to attain this color. Subjecting the stones to very high controlled temperatures in effect "ripens" the stones, and the color is distributed throughout. This color enhancement is permanent, so the procedure has been fairly well accepted. The proof of this is that these stones are commanding the same price on the market as untreated sapphires.

Diffusion-treated sapphires, on the other hand, are a different story entirely. These are stones which do not possess the chemical components for good color. Therefore, they are placed in a bath of the coloring oxides which cause sapphire color and are heated to diffuse color into the stone. The color, therefore, is only skin deep.

At this year's American Gem Society Conclave, a five-day session of working labs and seminars, member jewelers learned how to detect these treatments. We keep up-to-date to protect you. I am a Registered Jeweler (Certified Gemologist) and am proud of the knowledge I've gained. It has made a lot of people more confident about making important jewelry purchases.

Hottle-Kulhawick

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Kulhawick

Kim L. Hottle of Charlevoix became the bride of Henry A. Kulhawick, Jr. on Saturday afternoon, August 22, at Christ Episcopal Church. She is the daughter of Captain Harold E. Hottle.

The bridegroom, who has been living in Ellsworth, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kulhawick of Alpena.

Approximately 100 guests witnessed the double-ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Roger Ames.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore and ensemble of white blazer, white skirt, and pink shirt and carried a bouquet of pink silk roses and baby's breath which had been arranged by Winnie Wier.

Summer flowers arranged by Lillian Swinton decorated the church. Music was provided by Gretsie Ames, who sang the "Prayer of St. Francis"; Jeannie Lignell, who played the organ; and Kathy Hines who played the piano.

Colleen Brown served the bride as maid of honor wearing a navy blue dress with a pink rose corsage. Tiffany Hottle, the flower girl, carried a basket of pink roses and baby's breath arranged by Sue Ellen Schuler.

Ronald Brown served the bridegroom as best man, and two brothers, Joseph and Frank Kulhawick, were ushers.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Weathervane Terrace Motel, hosted by Gretsie Ames and Debbie Kujawski and other members of Christ Episcopal Church.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, a gift from the employees of the Weathervane Terrace, the newlyweds are at home at 105 Wood Street, Charlevoix.

The bridegroom is self-employed as a hooftrimmer in the Charlevoix area.

Engagements

Sell-Paul

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Sell of Lakeland, Fla., and Charlevoix have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kimberly Ellen, to Ronald W. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Paul of Charlevoix are the parents of the prospective bridegroom.

An October 3 wedding at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey is being planned by the couple.

Weddings

Detenbeck-Hamilton

Christine Lee Detenbeck and Larry S. Hamilton were married in a civil ceremony on August 8 in Brookline, New Hampshire.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Detenbeck of Shelburne, Vermont, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hamilton of Charlevoix. He has been living in Brookline.

Approximately 40 relatives and close friends witnessed the ceremony, for which the bride wore a gown fashioned of Mexican lace and muslin. She carried a bouquet of wild flowers.

The couple's only attendants were Lori DeFel and Steven Koch.

Following a wedding trip through Michigan, Minnesota, and Canada, the newlyweds are at home in Brookline. They are both employed by Wang Laboratories in Lowell, Massachusetts.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Vermont, and the bridegroom holds a bachelor's degree from Northern Michigan University and a master's degree from Boston University. He also studied graphics at George Washington University.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

August 24, 1981
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time in a Special Council Session with Mayor Supernaw presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Absent: None.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the proposed Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) for the Northwest Marine project in the City. Dave Rommelmann of Granger Engineering stated that the Northwest Marine application meets the UDAG criteria in that it would include a lift station for sanitary sewer purposes and a 12-inch water main that could be utilized by other residents in the area at a later date; and, the project would create new jobs in the area. He further stated that the grant would be for $200,000 which the City would loan to Northwest Marine to be paid back with interest and the money could then be loaned to another development project in the City. It was pointed out that the grant does not cover the cost of other residents hooking into the improved water and sewer service.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff that the City accept the document entitled "Part V, Assurances" governing the requirements for filing for UDAG grants.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter that the City designate the City Manager or the Acting City Manager to sign all necessary UDAG documents.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the proposed Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) for the Weathervane Terrace for construction of a hotel-conference center complex. Dick Georgi, developer of the proposed project, stated that the grant, for approximately $225,000, would allow the developers to complete 2,600 sq. ft. of the 3,500 sq. ft. conference center. He further stated that, due to interest costs, the developers would prefer that the City own the conference center rather than lending the developers the money. He indicated that this arrangement would be at little risk to the City as the City would have title to the center and the developers would guarantee no loss to the City for a specific number of years. Mr. Georgi and his associates discussed the layout of the proposed center with Councilmembers and members of the General Public present, explaining that the center would be at garden level and could accommodate 175 to 200 people. Mayor Supernaw stated that the question before the Council was rather they would be in favor of the City owning the center. Council generally agreed that they would not object to the UDAG application being submitted on the basis that the City would own the conference center. Mr. Georgi stated that, should the application be rejected on this basis, they would still apply for the grant with the City lending the money to the developers but that, under those conditions, they would be unable to complete the conference center.

Moved by Councilman Porter and Supported by Councilman Muma that a Public Hearing be held on September 8, 1981 at 8:00 P.M. regarding the request submitted by John Haggard for a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate for his property at 200 Antrim St.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Wood that the City purchase a sewer jet truck for cleaning City sewer mains at a cost of $19,000 with payment to be deferred until the 1982-83 fiscal year.

Motion was adopted by the following yes and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Deanna Balch, City Clerk
Samuel C. Supernaw, Mayor

Hospital donations are still coming

Donations to the Charlevoix Area Hospital building fund continue even though the new wing and renovations are complete and dedicated.

John DiMartino Plant Manager for the Boyne City division of United Technologies (formerly Essex International) presented Thomas Carey, Hospital Board President during the building project and Kathy Boss, Manager of Patient Services, with a check for $1,500 last week.

One of the new two-bed rooms in the new wing will bear a plaque commemorating United Technologies' donation.

Carey commented that, "The continued generosity of area businesses and individuals means that the hospital can reduce its indebtedness at a faster rate."

The fund drive has now netted over $800,000 for the costs of the renovations and construction of the new wing. The balance of costs were met with an FHA low interest loan.

DiMartino said that United Technologies tries to budget donations to Charlevoix Area Hospital every year. "Our employees use this hospital and we feel a responsibility to support it."

John DiMartino, right, presents Hospital Board Chairman Thomas Carey and Manager of Patient Services Kathy Boss with a $1,500 check.

Names In The News

Three Ferris State College students from Charlevoix were included on the academic honors list for the recently-completed summer quarter.

They were PATRICK P. CAMILLERI, JANET M. TROPPMAN, and DARRIN R. VANLOO.

To be eligible for honors listing, a Ferris student must have compiled a 3.25 grade point average in at least 14 quarter hours of graded work.

The Barnard and Norwood United Methodist Churches which are located south of Charlevoix have a new pastor. The Reverend Betty J. Burton, right, of Traverse City recently assumed her pastoral duties, which include conducting two services on Sunday.

The Barnard Church is located at the corner of Barnard and Kloster Roads in Marion Township, and the Norwood Church is located in the village of Norwood. Sunday services in Barnard are held at 1 p.m., with Sunday School at 12 noon, and in Norwood at 11:45 a.m., with Sunday School at 10:45 a.m.

The Reverend Burton explains that services are held at these unusual hours because the organists also play at other church services and are not available at regular church hours.

Mrs. Burton is the daughter of a retired Reformed Church of America minister and was married to a minister for 23 years. Following his death, she married Eldon Burton, who recently retired after 22 years as a park ranger for several state parks. She raised two daughters and four sons.

A recent graduate of the Methodist Church's pastoral school at Illinois, Wesleyan University, Mrs. Burton had previously attended Hope College, where she majored in music and psychology. She also studied music in New York City and worked as a librarian, a social services worker, and a newspaper correspondent.

Her work in Barnard and Norwood is being sponsored by the Centenary United Methodist Church in Pentwater and the Asbury United Methodist Church in Traverse City. Mrs. Burtons is presently living in Traverse City because neither of the Charlevoix County churches has a parsonage.

The work of three area artists, jeweler LINDA BEERS AYDLOTT of East Jordan and painters RUSS and SUSAN BOLT of Charlevoix, will be exhibited at the annual Lafayette Park Art Fair in Detroit, to be held Saturday and Sunday, September 12 and 13, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Obituaries

RICHARD STERNAMAN

Funeral services for Richard Sternaman, 57, of Bay Shore, who died Tuesday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, were held Thursday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. James Plackner of Bethany Lutheran Church officiated. Interment was in Hicks cemetery at Battle Creek.

Born in Mishawaka, Ind., Dec. 19, 1923, Mr. Sternaman moved to Battle Creek as a small child. He was a veteran of service with the U.S. Coast Guard. On Aug. 29, 1969, he was married to the former Nancy Nicolai at Elkhart, Ind., They came to Charlevoix the same year to make their home. He had been employed as a marine patrol officer with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department 1970-71 and as a security officer at the Little Harbor Club and the Key Largo Anglers Club at North Key Largo, Fla.

Surviving are his wife; a step-son, Michael Trobatore of Oregon; two step-daughters, Mrs. Linda Graglyn of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Mrs. Becky Steele of Hicksville, Ohio; his step-mother, Mrs. Bertha Sternaman of Charlevoix; a sister, Mrs. Ethel Briggs of Chicago and two brothers, Rowley Sternaman of Charlotte and Kenneth Sternaman of Traverse City.

Local schools open this week; not many changes from last year

Charlevoix Public School students returning to the classrooms Wednesday will find few changes in teacher personnel as the 1981-82 school year gets underway.

Only new member of the faculty is Ted L. Miller who will be teaching Spanish in both the high school and middle school.

A native of Jackson and a 1976 graduate of Albion College with a B.S. degree and an M.A. degree from Michigan State University, he taught at Jonesville for one year and at Lumen Christi High School in Jackson for three years prior to coming to Charlevoix.

There is also one re-assignment within the system. James Glynn, who has served at both the high school and middle school, will become physical education instructor at the Elementary school. He succeeds Mrs. Geraldine Goss who resigned in June after many years in the school system.

Four other teachers in the system have opted to become part-time teachers. In the Elementary school, Mrs. Kay Smith will teach afternoons and Mrs. Rebecca Berg mornings in the Kindergarten and Mrs. Patricia Carland will teach one-half day in the fourth grade. Mrs. Carol Elliott, who has the program for the gifted, will share the fourth grade class with her.

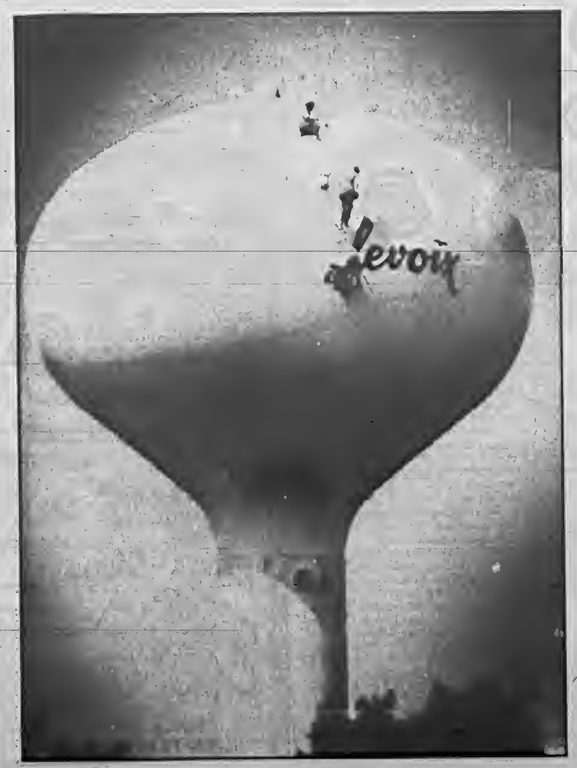
Mrs. Ann Shindorf has chosen to work only half-days in the middle school.

Mrs. Pamela Smith has always been a part-time instructor in the Learning Center at the high school.

The position of homemaking teacher at the high school will not be filled while Mrs. Susan Grobaski is on a year's maternity leave. Classes in home economics will not be offered this year. The class is an elective subject and those students wishing to do so may take it next year.

The only other major change is the starting time at the Charlevoix Middle School where students will begin classes at 8:05 a.m. instead of 9 a.m. This change has resulted in the high school students beginning their day at 7:50 a.m.

Dennis Van Guilder, assistant principal at Charlevoix High School, recently had some overnight guests in his garage. Van Guilder first met Momma Racoon when he tried to get what sounded like a dog out from under his car. Later, a couple of her young turned up and disappeared in the engine compartment of Van Guilder's car. He left the hood slightly open so they might leisurely leave during the night but was surprised the next morning to open the hood and find the whole litter of five nestled on the engine. They even agreed to pose for this family picture.



Finishing touches were put on Charlevoix's new water tower on the city's north side last week. Painters dangling from cables applied the familiar script logo of the City of Charlevoix to the tower which will be put into operation later this year.

New advisory council will apply team approach to spur growth

by PEG OHLE

The national cry of "Let's get government off our backs" seems to have filtered down to the people of Northwest Michigan.

Late last month, an organization called the "Northwest Michigan Advisory Council" held its first public meeting to explain its goal of "working toward aggressive growth tempered with good sense."

Conversation during the meeting left no question about the Council's feeling that the many local ordinances and state laws do not necessarily provide for that "growth with good sense".

The Council is made up of 21 men and one woman from the fields of realty, architecture, planning, landscaping, banking, law, accounting, sanitation, soil erosion, forestry, engineering, and marketing, with each Council member assigned to a specialized committee in the areas of land use, natural resource management, sanitation, and marketing.

The geographical area for which the Council is showing concern includes Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmett Counties, especially Charlevoix County and the northern part of Antrim County and the lower part of Emmett County.

The kind of problem with which the Council intends to concern itself is illustrated by its Sanitation Committee's report on the proposed Revised Sanitary Code for Emmett County.

The Sanitation Committee, chaired by John Ferguson of Charlevoix, apparently spent many hours going over the proposed code and making suggestions to its authors. The thought behind this scrutiny of the Emmett County Code was that it could well become the framework for new codes in Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, and the Council wants to be sure it fits within the "growth with good sense" concept.

It is well known that many land owners as well as developers and others consider the present Sanitary Codes in Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmett Counties are too strict. Most members of the Northwest Michigan Advisory Council seem to fall within that group, conservation at the meeting revealed.

Most of the members of the Northwest Michigan Advisory Council come from the Charlevoix area, but Boyne City, East Jordan, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs are also represented, the membership roster shows. They are:

Lee Eckstrom, forester, Boyne City; John Ferguson, land surveyor, Charlevoix; Ron Geer, soil erosion officer, Charlevoix; Richard Georgi, realtor, Charlevoix; John Hess, planner, Charlevoix; Tom Irwin, engineer, Charlevoix; Dennis Jason, engineer, East Jordan

Arlene Kuhn, realtor, Boyne City; Larry Levengood, sanitarian, Charlevoix; Tim Moore, radio station WVOY, Charlevoix; John Pearl, builder, Charlevoix; Thomas Pointner, attorney, Charlevoix; Alvin Ranger, engineer, Charlevoix; Thomas Schacher, forester, Charlevoix; Irvin Sturm, engineer, Charlevoix; Traver Wood, landscape architect, Charlevoix; and Arch Wright, banker, Boyne City.

Campbell was the guiding force in forming the Council and presided at its first public meeting.

Injunction halts bank opening

Michigan National Bank North, formerly Michigan Bank North, has received a federal charter allowing it to open its Charlevoix branch but an injunction filed in Circuit Court over the weekend has prevented it from opening the branch on Tuesday of this week as previously planned. The injunction was filed by the Charlevoix County State Bank however no further details were available at the Courier's press time.

The branch office on Highway 31 just north of Charlevoix has been idle since October of last year when the Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau (FIB) denied it a state banking charter just before its scheduled opening.

Michigan National Bank North President Larry Maddox explained last week that the Petoskey-based bank switched its charter in March from a state to a federal charter thus putting it under the jurisdiction of the federal Comptroller of Currency agency instead of the state FIB.

A federal charter for the Charlevoix branch was subsequently applied for in April. Notification of its approval was received by Maddox about two weeks ago. According to Maddox, the only requisite for switching to a federal charter was that the bank had to become a member of the Federal Reserve system.

In rejecting the branch's application for a state charter last year, FIB Commissioner Russell Kropschot cited high unemployment in the area, lack of potential business and population growth and the existence in Charlevoix of two banks already as reasons for the denial.

Maddox disagreed with the FIB's assessment saying, "We see all of Northwestern Michigan as an area of very strong growth in the coming years.

Michigan National Bank North is owned by the Michigan National Corporation, a multi-bank holding company comprised of 29 banks with more than $5.7 billion in total assets and 347 banking offices in 150 Michigan communities. Michigan National was recently ranked as the 36th largest bank holding firm in the United States.

Many children not immunized in county

Nearly 24 percent of school-age children in the counties of Antrim, Otsego, Charlevoix and Emmet risk disabling and crippling disease because they have not been fully immunized according to the District Health Department No. 3.

The diseases they face include diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough), and mumps--all of which present a threat to an individual's health.

During 1979 and 1980, school districts in Michigan participated in the Michigan Immunization Assessment and Catch-up Program. As a result, over a million children received some of the additional vaccines they needed.

Relatively few schools, however, reached the program's stated goal of having 90 percent of their students complete schedules of three doses each of diphtheria and tetanus toxoids, three doses of oral polio vaccine and one dose each of measles and rubella vaccine. (While the statewide average is 70 percent, the counties of Antrim, Otsego, Charlevix and Emmet have achieved an average of 76 percent.)

The Public Health Code states that children entering kindergarten must meet these requirements, or be participating in an immunization program. Children transferring from other schools must bring proof (or previous records) of immunization. Local school boards have been given the authority to bar a child from entering school if they do not fulfill immunization requirements, regardless of previous enrollment status.

Dr. Brian Youngs, Medical Director for the Northern Regional District Health Departments, states that communicable diseases play a detrimental role on learning for school age children. Outbreaks of vaccine-preventable diseasea in schools are expensive, disruptive and unnecessary.

Vaccines are also recommended for teenagers and adults. At 15 years, it is recommended that a teenager receive a tetanus dephtheria booster, and adults should receive a booster every ten years for the rest of their life.

Adults over the age of 65, or any individual with a serious health problem, should consult their personal physician concerning influenza and pneumonia immunizations.

The cost? Extremely minimal compared to hospital physical and emotional costs if these diseases are contracted. Many immunizations are provided by local health departments at low cost or free of charge.

In Charlevoix, monthly immunization clinics are held in the County Building Annex on the second Monday of the month from 1 to 3 p.m.

Genealogy classes to be held at library

Genealogy - that is, ancestor hunting - is probably the fastest growing hobby in the country today. Perhaps it is the challenge of the search, the arm-chair detective work, that appeals. Or perhaps it's a search for one's own identity that has led more and more people to dig into family history to find their own roots.

To help people get started on their own search, the Charlevoix Public Library, in cooperation with the A.C.E. Genealogical Society is offering a series of six classes in genealogy. Classes will be taught by Mrs. Lloyd Arnold with Mrs. Charles Duerr assisting. The series will cover public and private records and how to use them, and systems for recording information.

The course is offered free except for a small charge for materials used in class. The first class will be on Monday, September 21 at 7:30 p.m. and will continue on Monday nights through October 26. Anyone interested is welcome. Those interested may phone the library or leave their name at the desk to register for the course.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The Courier story of a few weeks ago reporting the 100th anniversary celebration of the Chicago Club evoked several stories about local people who were part of the Chicago Club scene for many years.

One of those people was James (Jim) Gaskin, who was superintendent of Chicago Club grounds and its golf course from 1906 until 1932. Gaskin was working on the old Wilson farm on Waller Road when he moved to the Chicago Club, of which Wilson was a member. Gaskin and his wife, Bessie, lived in a small house near the Clubhouse. He busied himself with the maintenance of the Club grounds and golf course (now the Charlevoix Municipal course), and she performed her own inside duties while raising two children.

The above picture of Mr. and Mrs. Gaskin, taken on the Chicago Club grounds many years ago, was furnished by their grandson, John Gaskin of Royal Oak.

Craig Mathews' home built kayak was an idea that floated

by FRAN MARTIN

A kayak? Why a kayak?

In response to the question, Craig Mathews, 13, has a ready answer: It looked like an interesting thing to make.

He went on to explain that he had been at the library and found a book on kayaks. After bringing it home and learning more about this mode of transportation that dates back to the Eskimos thousands of years ago, he suggested to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., that he'd like to make one.

His mother, at this point, explained that her husband had been working on a canoe and that this, perhaps, had created in Craig the interest to build something. "We discouraged him at first but when he sent for the plans and displayed a sincere interest in the project we finally gave our approval" she added.

A kayak is a light, narrow boat somewhat like a canoe but made with an enclosed deck and a cockpit. It can have as many as four cockpits but Craig's has only one.

The early kayaks made by the Eskimos consisted of a caribou or seal skin stretched over a frame. Craig's, however, was not to be that simple.

Craig explained that he started with a frame which necessitated cutting the wood by a pattern, soaking the wood and shaping it before glueing it together.

"My Dad was working with his canoe which also required such an operation so he helped me a lot" Craig added.

Here is where his kayak was to differ from the original ones for it was to be covered with strips of wood some 3-4 of an inch wide and 1-4 inch thick that were fitted in place, clipped together and glued. Redwood and pine were used and perfection was required if the pieces were to fit in place. How may strips did it require? "Many, many. We didn't keep track. But there were a lot and they came in all sizes. It was like putting a jugsaw puzzle together but I had to make the pieces to fit. They didn't come that way" he said of the time and patience that were required to do it right.

"My dad is great on doing things right so I tried to follow his directions. I guess it paid off" he said of the completed work.

"Piecing" the kayak together was hard enough but completing it took even more time for it required sanding until the entire boat was smooth. Then the dust had to be removed. The next process, the application of fibre glass, required temperature and humidity levels that were "just right". This, too, has to be sanded before a certain type of material was smoothed over the frame and coat upon coat of resin applied. When all this was completed, numerous coats of marine varnish were applied, sanded and more added until the water proofing was completed....all time-consuming and patience-trying work.

Kayaks can be as much as 17 feet in length and weigh up to 65 pounds. Craig's is just under 12 feet in length and weighs 22 pounds.

"You can make the paddle but I bought mine. It opens up to seven feet and can be collapsed to 3 1-2 feet for storing" he said.

After taking it out on Lake Charlevoix on its "maiden voyage", he decided to give it a real test so he took it down the Jordan River. "It was great. I maneuvered it through the current and around the obstacles in the river and it handled very well. If I can handle it under those conditions I know I won't have any trouble on the lake. That is, if I don't go out in real rough weather" he said of his "creation".

His mother quickly added that that wouldn't happen if she was consulted!

Mrs. Mathews said that Craig has always been interested in learning to do things with his hands. "When we were building our house he even wanted to learn to do some wiring so his dad showed him how and he did most of the wiring in the basement. Of course, his dad checked it out. He found that Craig had followed instructions to the letter and everything was fine."

"We thought that building a kayak was a pretty big project for someone so young but he certainly proved that he was capable of following directions and doing all that was necessary with no short-cuts" she said with pride.

Though he didn't have much to say about his accomplishment, it was evident that he, too, was satisfied with what he had done.

Craig Mathews in his self-made kayak.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital recently received a $6,000 donation for its general fund from the Belvedere Club. The donation was presented by the Belvedere Club's Hospital and Benevolence Committee Chairman Philip Chamberlain, above left, to hospital adminstrator Richard Krueger. Chamberlain explained that because of the "excellent participation by most club members" the club was able to make such a significant donation to the hospital. Each year the Belvedere Club donates to the hospital through the Hospital and Benevolence Committee in addition to direct donations by individuals.

Knight on the Town

Charlevoix is different

by Dave Knight

Other towns have names. Charlevoix has a name and an adjective; Charlevoix the Beautiful.

Other towns have downtowns and harbors. Charlevoix has a harbor that is downtown.

Other towns have nice rows of frame houses. Charlevoix has homes built of huge boulders and summer mansions with Victorian pillars and rocket-like turrets.

Other towns have clusters of fast food franchises. Charlevoix has a diverse combination of thematic restaurants, diners and delis.

City planners and council members are now being asked to approve construction in Charlevoix of a McDonald's franchise. They should make every effort to see that this new business recognizes the uniqueness of Charlevoix.

Petoskey. Traverse City. Almost every city of any size now have cluttered stretches of wonderfully convenient but woefully homogenous fast food businesses. Indeed one key to their success has been a staunch brand loyalty developed in customers by their sameness. A McDonald's cheeseburger fried in Bar Harbor, Maine is a virtual clone of one in Sun City, Arizona.

McDonald's is a welcome addition to Charlevoix because of the 50 to 60 jobs it will provide (managers and employees receive some of the best and most extensive training available in the hotel-restaurant field), the six-figure tax base it will create and the travelers it will encourage to stop in Charlevoix. McDonald's franchises in other cities are known to become willing supporters of civic functions and responsible members of the business community.

While the Planning Commission and City Council should eventually approve the local franchise, they should, however, approve it on the condition that the building and sign are attractively designed with the Charlevoix environment in mind.

This can be done. Petoskey's Burger King acquiesced to the wishes of that city's officials by mounting a carved wooden sign instead of the traditional neon variety.

In many communities, McDonald's have incorporated local motifs into their designs. To their credit, they've done away with thirty-foot neon arches with running tallies of hamburgers sold. Their signs are now more subdued. Some McDonald's building designs have even won architectural awards for creatively blending into their surroundings.

Charlevoix deserves nothing less.

And another thing. Now that we will have two national franchises across the street from each other, McDonald's and Pizza Hut, let's be very careful about where the rest of them will go. Note that in other cities, when one franchise is successfully established in a certain location, the competition tends to spring up around it like mushrooms around a dead tree. The results are dense forests of fast food that are just plain ugly.

New businesses, including fast food, should not be turned away. But they should be made to realize that if Charlevoix loses its distinct local color, it loses a precious commodity that cannot be replaced.

Clockwise

Ayatollah revisited

by Bob Clock

Don't write off the Ayatollah Khomeini as a senile charlatan, a religious fanatic or a fool.

After the events of the past week, Khomeini realizes his oppressive regime is tottering and he is as busy as a one-armed brick-layer trying to shore up the crumbling ramparts of Tehran.

Unfortunately it took the assassination of President Mohammed Ali Rajai and Prime Minister Mohammed Javad Bahonar to bring him to his senses.

It is equally unfortunate that he did such a superb job during the past two years of whipping his militant supporters into a wild-eyed frenzy.

Khomeini seems to sense that the turmoil that has served him so well in the pastis beginning to take its toll. He now recommends leniency and compassion in dealing with opponents of Islamic tyranny — a line diametrically opposedto the stand he has taken since assuming command in Iran.

He knows that if political assassinations continue, he is very likely to be among the victims.

However, his followers are still howling for blood — and a very serious split appears to be developing at the very pinnacle of power in Iran.

Unless Khomeini is very careful, he could find himself at odds not only with his enemies but also with his friends.

At this point, it is unclear who still has the upper hand. Despite Khomeini's new moderation, executions of political opponents are continuing apace and the ayatollah's time already may have run out.

The situation is changing so rapidly, that a new ayatollah could well be on the thorne in the holy city of Qom by the time this column sees the light of day.

SPEAKING OF IRAN, I have had a feeling of late that I am living in an alien time warp.

Is is possible that fewer than nine months have elapsed since the American hostages were released from the American Embassy in Tehran?

The flight from Iran — with all of its heart-touching drama — took place only last January, but it seems eons ago.

One theory hax it that when great events — either public or private — take place in rapid succession, the brain tends to xtretch the time span they cover.

Right or wrong, the world has witnessed so many calamities since the hostages were released — assassination attempts on both President Reagan ahd Pope John Paul to name two — the theory may contain more than a germ of truth.

THERE HAS BEEN a great deal of talk up and down Bridge Street the past few days at how quickly and unexpectedly the tourist season has drawn to a close in Charlevoix.

I think there is little doubt that the city has had one of the best seasons ever. But why did everyone abandon us the last week in August.

Recreation Director, Dwight Boss even closed the bathing beaches more than a week ago. Not only did the lifeguards have to return to their respective colleges and universilles, but the beaches were virtually deserted, even though the weather remained fine for swimming.

Of course, earlier school openings in Michigan and elsewhere in the Midwest are part of the answer.

But the sudden shock of being able to cross Bridge Street without dodging campers and tour buses has caught a few of us off balance.

I, for one, would prefer a more gradual winding down.

Letters: Hunger Walk, Reagan

Hunger Walk

for awareness

To the Editor:

Bob Clock has raised some questions about bike-a-thons and similar eveots to raise money for world hunger. The Charlevoix Ministerial Association with other churches of the county are sponsoring a Hunger Walk on September 20.

Those who participate in the walk, those sponsors who pledge to pay a certain amount of money per mile and those who hear about the event or see the walkers will be more sware that world hunger is a very serious problem. Some estimates state that about 450 million people do not have enough to eat. One of five persons in the world lives in absolute poverty Each day more than 34,000 children die from starvalion and diseases caused by malnutrition.

Emergency food aid must be given but many hunger agencies also have long range self-help programs such as training people in pond construction and well drilling in the Dominican Republic. There are many more types of programs.

We hope that all those involved in the Hunger Walk will become interested in the root causes of hunger. Agricultural exports have formed the base of Central America's economic, social and political structure since the days of Spanish colonialism.

A different kind of colonialism still goes on. Roughly half the cultivated land is devoted to food producllon for export. The recent expansion of beef exporting has meant a decline in the production of basic foods such as corn and beans. Peasants were pushed from their land as ranchers expanded their acreage.

We as U.S. citizens can play a role in combating the growth of bunger due to the expansion of export cropping. Serious consideration should be given to this quesllon: Should food imports (coming into the U.S.) from countries which experience chronic hunger and malnutrition be limited unless it can be shown that such imports benefit the hungry?

Please understand that it is not the production of agricultural exports in itself that increasex malnutrition but the way the benefits are distributed. Those who generally reap the profits are the huge multinallonal corporations and a small percentage of very rich people of the ruling class of the country. There is a small middle class and a buge number of very poor people.

When we bear of a U.S. military budget of 1.5 trillions of dollars for the next five years where are we putting our trust? We condemn Soviet atheism but aren't we practicing a kind of atheism by supporting this insane nuclear arms race?

Friend Bob, didn't you write the article about the biking for hunger from the standpoint of a devil's advocate - to stimulate our thinking?

Successful season

Dear Courier Staff:

On behalf of my counselors allow me to express our heartiest thanks for your kindness in bringing the Day Camp McSauba story before your readers.

Beginning in 1978 with a mere 60 campers enrolled in our program, this number has swelled to 268 this recently-completed season.

We are extremely proud of this accomplishment, and want you folks to share in our success.

Vague policies

To the Editor:

President Reagan seems to think that his election was an overwhelming mandate by the people to implement any program that be, and his advisors, advocate. The choice of candidates presented to the voters during the last election campaign were so uninspiring that the voters stayed away from the polls in record numbers. If there was any mandate it was for the major parties to present a better selection of candidates to the voters. The policies of candidate Reagan were as vague as were the policies of candidate Carter prior to his election. Both advocated federal government reform in general. Carter had his chance and was found wanting. Now Reagan has his chance and is now presenting his specific proposals. He favors reduced spending on civilians and increased military spending. He favors high interest rates. He also favors more tax savings for the wealthy on the theory that their savings will finance rebuilding the American industrial base, making it both more productive and provide more jobs. It is a seriously flawed program. Assured high interest rates on government securities are more likely to attract investment by the wealthy than speculative investment in rebuilding the industrial base of the nallon. A more productive industry means less jobs, not more jobs, for people. Agriculture used to provide 90 percent of the employment in this nation. Since agriculture has been mechanised, and made very productive, it now provides 5 percent of the employment in this nation.

The Japanese automobile industry is more modern and productive than the older American factories, and were partially financed by American capital. Modern automated American automobile factories will employ fewer, not more, workers.

When Walter Reuther was shown an automated automobile factory and the factory manager challenged, "Try to organize these machines", Reuther replied, "Try to sell them automobiles".

What is the best way to distribute wealth that is produced by modern technology? No society, or nation, has solved that economic problem with complete success.

The negative income tax, first proposed during the Nixon administration, was one of the better suggestions. It had a safety net for the poor, it provided an incentive to rise above the safety, net, it was relatively simple, it required a minimum amount of regulation and beaurocracy, and it was supported by many economists including conservative economists, but it was amended to death. That was a better tax plan than either the administrallon tax plan that passed, or the alternallve plan that was defeated.

Letters: Traffic problems

Dear Editor,

While visiting your city recently I wanted to comment on what a beautiful city you have. It has beautiful beaches, harbor park, and surrounding area.

What f didn't like was the traffic congestion and what does your traffic patrolman do to help?

1. Going down a street I believe was called Dixon - I passed 4 cars going the wrong way. Why not just make it a 2 way street. It's used that way all the time anyway.

2. As you go over the Bridge going into town - don't you think a divider line should be painted on the hiway for traffic going to make a right hand turn and arrows for straight ahead thus eliminating conjestion at that corner Bridge and Park.

3. Traffic piles up at the corner of Bridge at the traffic light. During my weeks stay I noticed many cars making illegal left hand turns - bolding up traffic. No police in sight to correct this and then tourists crossing the street against the light. (Clinton Street light holds so little time it's hard to get off Clinton.)

4. A city police car (with a policeman with glasses on) sat watching a car double park on Bridge holding up traffic and didn't even bother to make him move. Do you allow double parking in the busy traffic hours?

5. Where people are coming and going near the Bridge when the Bay Queen is unloading and loading, it's almost impossible to get thru there.

Why not make improvements on the traffic situation snd help keep Charlevoix beautiful!

Merriner was in on Iran rescue attempt

Training for the Iran mission in Japan.

Meet Charlevoix

by PEG OHLE

Rick Merriner of Charlevoix was a member of the military group which failed in its attempt to rescue the American hostages in Iran back in February, 1980. This week he tells the Courier how he happened to be there and what it was like.

COURIER: What branch of the service were you in?
MERRINER: I was a corporal in the Marine Corps, a legal clerk in the administrative branch.
COURIER: That doesn't sound as if you were trained for desert rescue work.
MERRINER: I wasn't. I volunteered. All I knew at the beginning was that a "Boat was going out" ("boat going to another country"). I was in Hawaii at the time. After a while I found out what the mission was and joined up with about 100 Marines from all over for training. We trained for over eight months in several different places – Camp LeJeune, the Mojave Desert, in Japan, among them. We had to pass one training stage before we could enter the next one. I think in all about 52 Marines out of the 100 make it all the way.
COURIER: It sounds like it was tough training.
MERRINER: It was for me because as I said before, I had been working in the office. We did a lot of combat training and when we were in the Mojave Desert and Japan we built mockups of the City of Tehran so we could practice entering the city. When we were on the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk we practiced taking off and landing.
COURIER: Troops from other services were also in on the mission, weren't they?
MERRINER: Sure – Army Special Forces, Air Force, Navy. When we finally started the mission, I was on one of seven helicopters in the Security Group.
COURIER: What happened to make the mission fail?
MERRINER: Well, the helicopters were supposed to come in at the same level but one of them came in too low and was hit by another one. That caused an explosion and the fire that followed. Of course, there was a lot of damage.
COURIER: But your helicopter was not involved?
MERRINER: No, we thought we heard the explosion but we didn't know what it was. We were just told to pull out and return to the ship.
COURIER: Were any of your buddies injured or killed in the accident?
MERRINER: One buddy was killed.
COURIER: What did you do after the mission was called off?
MERRINER: We spent a month and a half on the ship being debriefed.
COURIER: Did your parents or anyone else know what you were doing all this time?.
MERRINER: No, I couldn't write them or anything. Also, we couldn't do much so I saved a lot of money. The most expensive thing I bought was a coke.
COURIER: What was your next job in the Marines?
MERRINER: I went back to being a legal clerk.
COURIER: How long were you in the Marines altogether?
MERRINER: Three and a half years. I did a lot of travelling – Hawaii, the Phillipines, Australia, Japan, Africa, Singapore, Denmark – I saw a lot of places.
COURIER: Would you recommend joining a military service to someone graduating from high school?
MERRINER: Yes, I grew up while I was in the Marine Corps. I joined the Marines instead of one of the other services because people said it was the hardest.
COURIER: What was your hardest adjustment?
MERRINER: I'm really having my hardest adjustment now that I'm out. It's the lost time. One of my friends is working on his master's degree and I'm just really starting college. Then I think about my experiences and travels and I guess that makes up for it.
COURIER: What did you miss most while you were in the service?
MERRINER: Having a pet, and now I'm going to college and I can't take my cat with me.

Rick Merriner

COURIER: How long have you been out of the service?
MERRINER: Since May 29th. I'm getting ready now to enter Eastern Michigan University. I'm going to study social work.
COURIER: How do you feel about the military draft?
MERRINER: I have mixed feelings. If people are forced to work, they won't work very hard. On the other hand, we need some kind of a standby system and the draft could provide that.
COURIER: You're a local boy, aren't you?
MERRINER: Yes, my parents are Mr and Mrs. Hobert Bergmann. I graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1978.

Many library services available locally through exchange systems

The many services offered by the Charlevoix Public Library through its affiliation with the Northern Library Cooperative in Alpena and the Michigan State Library, as well as by itself, have been outlined by librarian Marybeth Wallick.

"We have inter-library loan," she says. When we cannot find the material a person needs at our library, we can send to Alpena and if they don't have it, they, in turn, send to the State Library.

"Another service is the State Library Film collection. A person can come to the library and pick a film from the catalog and we will order it for him.

Still another service is our audio-visual equipment. We now have three 16 mm. projectors, one super 8 mm. projector, one 8 mm. sound projector, one 35 mm. slide projector, one 35 mm. filmstrip projector, one tripod movable screen, one overhead projector, and one cassette record player. A patron or group may borrow any of the above simply by leaving a $5 deposit.

"We have a starter collection of 8 mm. sound films which can be used for children's parties. They are seven or eight-minute excerpts from Walt Disney's larger films.

"We have a Micro-Design microfilm reader-printer. We have all the Couriers through December, 1980 on microfilm. You simply insert the film into the reader-printer to read what you want, and then if you want a copy to take with you, you can use the printer button and have a standard size readable copy to take with you. The purpose of the microfilm printer-reader is to save shelf space and wear and tear on the original item. We will soon be given the older Charlevoix County Commissioners' Journals and some of the old Morman files on microfilm.

"We offer materials from the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. They are channeled through the Northern Library Cooperative, the State Library, and the Library of Congress. A person must have a doctor or optometrist sign a Certificate of Eligibility, which will entitle him to a record player or a cassette player free. He can then select the 'talking books' he wishes to read.

"The copying machine in the library is coin-operated. It's for public use and makes very good copies.

"We are offering weekly story hours in the basement. Mrs. Phyllis Hess teaches on Tuesday mornings from 10:30 to 11:30 for three to five-year olds."

Senior Highs and their parents will meet at 5:30 p.m. for a pot-luck supper, followed by an introductory session of confirmation training and fellowship.

Krueger-Nolan

The altar of St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix was decorated with pink gladiolus and a unity candle for the wedding of Linda Sue Krueger and David P. Nolan on Saturday afternoon, August 29.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs Walter Krueger of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nolan of Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

Father Dale Magoon performed the double-ring ceremony before approximately 175 guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a traditional lacy chiffon gown with a scalloped neckline edged in Venise lace, sequins, and seed pearls; Bishop sleeves with lacy fitted cuffs; and a full skirt with a sweeping chapel-length train. The finger-tip veil was edged with silk Venise lace and was attached to an open Camelot cap with sequins and seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white silk miniature carnations and pink sweetheart roses with baby's breath.

Traditional wedding music, including "Let There Be Peace on Earth" and "On This Day", was provided by Jeanne Lignell at the organ and a quartet consisting of Kathy Meggison, Julie Supernaw, Arlene Blissett, and Leigh Anne Lovell.

The bride's sister, Debbie Boss, served as matron of honor. Other attendants were Elaine Bunting of Madison, Indiana and Connie Martin of Grosse Pointe. They wore gowns of misty mauve polyester knit with sleeves and front and back yokes of sheer polyester lace. Their hair was adorned with pink sweetheart roses with baby's breath and they carried small bouquets of pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Amy Parrish, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a pink and misty mauve floral print dress and pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath in her hair. She carried a basket of pink rose petals.

Jason Parrish, a nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

The bridegroom's attendants were Kent Daiber of New York, who served as best man; and Lee Hooper of Cleveland Heights and Steve Zupko of Reston, Virginia, who served both as groomsmen and ushers.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride and bridegroom joined in hosting a reception at the Grey Gables Inn. The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at Duffy's of Charlevoix, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Both mothers were dressed in blue for the ceremony – Mrs. Krueger in a slate blue suit and Mrs. Nolan in a light blue suit.

Out-of-town guests included friends and relatives from Euclid, Sandusky, and Castalia, Ohio, as well as many Michigan cities.

Upon completion of a wedding trip to St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, the bride and bridegroom will be at home at 8542 Tanglewood Trail, Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

The bridegroom is a project engineer with the Medusa Cement Company of Cleveland, and the bride will be working as a dental assistant.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. David P. Nolan

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Patrick

LeCureux - Patrick

The Community Church of God was the scene of the August wedding of JoAnne LeCureux and Michael Patrick.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Powell and Mr. and Mrs. Paddy Patrick, all of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Carl Gunn officiated at the double ring ceremony written by the bride and groom, in the presence of 300 guests. Unity candles, lighted candelabra and baskets of gladioli arranged by the groom's aunt, Jenny Leist, decorated the altar.

Organist, Marilyn Cummings, accompanied the soloist, Teri Vandermate, cousin of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, chose an ivory chiffon gown with a boat neck, split cape bodice and handkerchief hem. She wore an ivory hat with Venise lace and pearls and carried long stemmed red roses and baby's breath.

Nancy Powell was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a matching dress of a blue floral design, a blue garden hat and carried long stemmed red roses and baby's breath.

Stacy and Tracey LeCureux, daughter of the bride, and Diana Patrick, daughter of the groom, were flower girls. They wore floor length floral gowns in pastel colors and carried baskets of silk daisies and baby's breath with ribbon streamers of match their gowns.

Danny Patrick of Boyne City was his brother's best man. Michael Patrick II was the ringbearer.

Ushers were John W. Powell, brother of the bride, Michael Smith, brother-in-law of the groom and Steven LeCureux, brother-in-law of the bride.

A reception followed at the VFW Hall in Petoskey. Assisting were Jackie Habel, Jackie Russell and Sandy Murray. Cathy Liotta attended the guest book and Diane Wojan, Carroll Pines and Janice Spurgeon, cousing of the bride, opened the gifts.

The wedding cake was made by the bride's sister, Nancy Powell. She and Della Smith, sister of the groom, served the cake. Special candies were made by James Bricker, cousin of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the couple will make their home in Charlevoix.

Hospital Guild to hold membership tea

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital will host its annual membership tea at the conference room of the Charlevoix Area Hospital from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday, September 15.

Members are invited to attend and renew their memberships and persons interested in service to the hospital are issued a cordial invitation to join the Guild. The Guild has many areas of interest...the Showcase, a gift shop operated by the Guild; the sewing committee which makes layettes for indigent families; tray favor committee and various other groups whose interest is to serve the patients at the hospital.

Interested persons are urged to attend the tea and learn more about this service organization.

The conference room is reached through the main entry of the hospital and the elevator to the lower floor of the new wing.

Sports

Runners place second at White Cloud

The Charlevoix Rayder cross country team, with 117 points, came in second behind St. Louis in the annual White Cloud Invitational meet held Saturday Coach Pete Spieles said.

The team was among 22 B and C teams, all from Central and Southern Michigan, entered in the event which St. Louis won with 66 points.

The Charlevoix Junior Varsity team, one of seven entered, also placed second with 34 points. Muskegon Oakridge won the JV division with 27 points.

Coach Spieles said he was satisfied with his team's performance. "St. Louis has a great team and is a candidate for the state title in Class C. I though our boys did well in their first meet," he continued.

Bil Taylor posted the team's best time coming in seventh in 16:24.8 The winning time was 15:43.8 set by Pete Rittenger of Alma.

Jim Duke finished 13th in 18:43.6; Matt Peterson 25th in 17:18.8; Jim Landon 37th in 17:20.8; Todd Russell 40th in 17:43.9; Bill Dohm 59th in 17:66.8 and Rich McLenon 138th in 21:44.0.

In the JV division, John Tunison came in second with a time of 18:31.9. The winning time was 18:17.7 Lee Allard finished fourth in 18:37.7; Tim Louiselle 5th in 18:47.5; Matt Landon 7th in 19:00.7; Ron Way 16th in 20:07.7 and Van Sloan 23rd in 20:59.1.

On Saturday the Charlevoix JV team will participate in the Rogers City JV Invitational meet. The varsity squad will travel to Boyne City to participate in a triangular meet with the Ramblers and Gaylord.

Charlevoix junior Jeff Drenth, above, will be a mainstay of the Central Michigan University men's cross country team this season which began its season Saturday against Northern Illinois. Drenth has already established his strong position on the team by winning the annual Breakfast Run to (Coach Don) Sazima's Farm for the second year in a row with a time of 54:13.

Sports Boosters plan first meeting

The Charlevoix Sports Boosters will hold their first meeting of the 1981-82 school year at the high school study hall at 8 p.m. Monday Dr. Donald Trimper, president of the organization, has announced.

Plans for the year will be discussed and a tentative budget adopted at this meeting Dr. Trimper said.

Memberships are now available at $5.00 per membership. Persons wishing to support the Rayders by joining the Boosters are asked to mail their dues to the Sports Boosters at P.O. Box 83, Charlevoix, 49720. The names of all members will appear in the program as a sports booster Dr. Trimper said.

Dr. Trimper added that plans were being made to upgrade the camera equipment used to record play action in Rayder games with the purchase of a new lens for the camera and a special 16 mm projector.

All sports boosters are urged to attend the meeting on Monday.

Rayders travel to Marshall

Charlevoix High School's varsity football season gets underway this Friday with a long road trip downstate. The Rayders will face Marshall to opeo their 1981 campaign.

The team will leave Thursday after school for the long trip and will be staying with Marshall players Thursday and Friday nights.

Soccer league starts fall series

The fall series of the Northern Lites adult soccer league begins Sunday, September 13 with games scheduled for all the Northern Michigan cities with teams. Charlevoix's team is currently seeking more players to boost its roster for the fall series.

Any men or women interested in playing soccer with the Charlevoix team are asked to come to practice sessions on Tuesday or Thursday nights at 7 p.m. at Shamahan Field or call Mike Bonar at 547-4684 or Dave Knight at 547-4965. No prior experience is neccessary.

Flag football draft complete

The draft for the four-team flag football league sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department was completed recently and the teams organized for the 1981 season.

The teams are the Sea Hawks coached by Jiggs Whitley, the Saints coached by Mike Reinhart and Randy Holecheck, the Steelers coached by Dick Greenway and the Cowboys coached by Don Potter and Dick Putman.

The schedule will open Wednesday, Sept. 16 and continue through October 13 according to Dwight Boss, city recreation director. The games will be played at the city recreation park at 6 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. throughout the six-game season.

The first game will pit the Saints against the Cowboys at 6 p.m. on September 16 with the Sea Hawks meeting the Steelers at 7:15 p.m.

Anyone with questions relating to the program may call 547-4272 or 547-9098.

Girls basketball team to open next week against Central Lake

The Charlevoix girls basketball team, coached by Henry Wagner, will officially open its season on the Rayder floor on Tuesday, Sept. 15, against Ceotral Lake. Two days later the girls will host Elk Rapids in the second of three non-conference games prior to the opening of the 1961 Michigan-Huron Shores Conference schedule.

With more than 20 candidates out for the Varsity and JV squads, the teams have had two practice sessions daily since August 17 and, with the opening of school, will have one daily in preparation for the season's opener on Tuesday.

Among the candidates for the Varsity team are three veterans, Holly Taber, 6-0 senior center, Lisa Pischner, 5-10 wing and Margo Smith who will play wing or point. This trio is composed of the only regulars from last season.

Juniors who are vieing for starting positions are Laura Kemp, 6-0, a candidate for high point who was brought up from the JV's late in the season, Connie Borths, Bridget Noirot who did not play the entire season, and Kim Novotny.

Two sophomores op from the JV ranks, Mary Lenhart, 5-10, and Rhonda Buchanan are strong contenders for starting assignments Wagner said.

There are also three freshmen who show promise as ball handler and shooters, Angela McClanaghan, Missy Sandahl and Ann Wagner who are competing against upperclassmen for an opportunity to stay with the Varsity team.

The team will open its 17 game schedule Tuesday and play two games per week with the final game scheduled for Friday, Nov. 13. The district Class C tournament will start the following week.

Van Green will coach the JV team.

Mens flag football league

Tentative plans are being made to organize a men's flag football league in Charlevoix Township if there is enough interest.

Plans at present call for a minimum of four teams in the league. However, the size of the league may be expanded if there is need. Each team will have a minimum of eight players though more are desirable.

Anyone interested in being part of such a league is asked to call Mike Reinhart at 547-2780 or Beano Archey at 547-6830.

Golf tourney winners named

Winners have been named in the recent Charlevoix City Golf Tournament.

In the Men's Championship Flight, Joe Etienne won with Gerry Sandahl placing second. Randy DeYoung won the Men's Second Flight with Dennis LaCroix the runner-up.

Men's Second Flight winner was Billy Joy and the runner up was Mike Reinhart. Women's champion was Pauline Young with Joan Graves placing second.

GEM WISE
JEWELRY FASHIONS, FACTS, FICTION
THE MYSTICAL SAPPHIRE
The sapphire is a very popular gem stone, with special meaning as a birthstone for the person born in September. A rich, deep blue is the best known sapphire color, but the gemstone occurs usually occurs in many different colors. As a matter of fact, every color of the mineral corundum except red is called sapphire. Red corundum is known as ruby.
Among the blue sapphires, the most sought after variety is the Kashmir sapphire. This gets its name from the Kashmir area of India, whose mystical heights have inspired poetry and song. In this remote region many velvety rich stones have been found. The unique appearance is due to fine needle like inclusions called silk. When this silk is very heavy and the needles are properly oriented, a star sapphire may be cut from the stone.
Blue is the color sapphire most often takes, but pink and violet stones are also quite abundant. Occasionally a fine yellow or green sapphire pops up. A very rare and highly prized color variety is the padmish orange padparadscha sapphire. In Singhalese padparadscha means lotus flower, and the gem was so named because it brings to mind the color of this lovely flower.
If you're shopping for a gift for a September birthday, a sapphire jewelry piece is an excellent choice. We keep a wide selection in stock to cater to all tastes from the simple to the extravagant. We're also members of the American Gem Society, which means we've passed their requirements for a high level knowledge, ethics and professionalism.

EVERY CPA SHOULD HAVE A CBM.

If you're an accountant, Corpmodore can give you a tax break. The Commodore CBM computer. It makes tax preparation a lot less taxing. All you do is enter the figures and the computer does all the work. No more tables. No more room for error. The CBM can do practically anything. Income averaging. Automatic exemption computation. It even prints directly on all IRS forms. The result is the time you spend on every return is cut by more than half.

And the CBM doesn't stop working April 15th. Our computer can do accounts receivable, billing, general ledger and more.

And if that's not enough, the biggest break Commodore gives you is the low, low price. You don't have to be good with numbers to see that. The Commodore CBM. It saves you time. And it saves you money. Now what accountant can resist that commodore

Now is a good time to start a new lawn

Now is the ideal time to establish a new lawn in Michigan

According to Tom Smith, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service turfgrass specialist, the preferred time to seed is between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15 in southern Michigan and between Aug. 1 and Sept. 1 in northern Michigan. These periods also provide ideal conditions for sod rooting.

Adequate planning and proper site preparation are important steps in establishing a dense, healthy lawn. Smith says the first thing to do is to have a soil test run to determine the nutrient content of the soil.

Take 15 to 20 scoops of soil with a trowel from as many locations in the lawn, Smith explains. Put the soil in a plastic pail and mix thoroughly. Place about one pint of this mixture into a jar or sealed box and take the sample to your local MSU Cooperative Extension Service office. From there it will be sent to MSU for analysis. The cost is about $4. The soil test report will tell how much fertilizer you'll need to apply.

While you're waiting for your soil test results, kill perennial grassy and broadleafed weeds with a nonselective herbicide. Glyphosate (Roundup), available at farm elevators, is the best to use, Smith says. Homeowners can also get the same results with Kleanup. Tilling the area is usually not effective.

Remove all debris on and below the surface, and stockpile the topsoil beforehand if you must do extensive grading. The slope away from buildings should be greater than 1 percent but should not exceed 25 percent. Areas immediately surrounding established trees should be left at the original grade. Install any necessary subsurface drainage now.

If the topsoil is of a desirable texture – clay loam, loam or sandy loam – spread it back onto the site to a depth of 8 inches or more. Less desirable soil textures can be modified. Sandy soils can be improved by working 2 to 3 inches of loamy topsoil or fibrous peat into the soil. Improve fine-textured clay soils with 2 to 3 inches of sandy topsoil or 2 inches each of coarse sand and fibrous peat.

Next, till a portion of the topsoil into the upper 2 to 3 inches of subsoil to prevent layering. Allow the area to settle. Underground irrigation or lighting systems can be installed at this time.

Follow soil test recommendations for lime, phosphate and potash applications. Apply 1 ½ to 2 pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet for seeded areas, and ½ pound of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet for sodded areas.

To finish preparing the site, establish the final grade 1 ½ to 2 inches below adjacent sidewalks and driveways. The soil should be firm and level with ½ inch of loose granular soil on the surface.

Now the site is ready for seeding or sodding and you must select the method you're going to use. Both have specific advantages and disadvantages. Seeding gives you a wider choice of grass varieties and costs less, the risk of poor establishment is greater. Sodding provides faster establishment but costs more and its use is limited to higher maintenance areas.

If you choose to seed, uniform distribution of seed is the key to success. Seed half of the total amount to be applied in one direction and the remaining half at a right angle. Rake lightly to mix the seed into the top 1-4 to 1-3 inch of soil. Then roll the seedbed to ensure good seed-to-soil contact. Finally, apply a straw mulch, one bale per 500 square feet, to stabilize the seed and maintain consistent moisture. Keep the area moist until the grass is well established.

When the grass is 1 ½ to 2 inches tall, remove half the straw. Mow as needed. A high nitrogen fertilizer applied at one-half the recommended bag rate approximately one month after germination will enhance establishment.

For areas to be sodded, select high quality sod of blends of Improved Kentucky bluegrass varieties and lay the sod within 24 hours of its harvest. The soil should be moist, but not saturated, to a depth of 6 inches. The ends of the sod pieces should be staggered to prevent the formation of lines across the turf caused by slow establishment at the edges. The edges should be in good contact but not overlapping.

Avoid stretching the sod so gaps don't develop as the sod dries and shrinks. Roll the sod to insure good contact with the soil and then water the area thoroughly. Uniform deep watering may be necessary every day until the sod is well rooted.

For more information on lawn establishment ask for the following Extension bulletins which can be obtained from your county Cooperative Extension Service Office: E-1491, "Site Preparation for Lawn Establishment"; E-498, "Sampling Soils"; E-1489, "Grasses for Lawns in Michigan"; E-1430, "Sodding a Lawn"; and E-1491, "Seeding a Lawn."

CLARA M. DROST

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara M. Drost, 90, former resident who died Sept. 3 at a Traverse City nursing home, were held Monday at the Winchester Funeral Home. Rev. Walter Hastings of the Community Church of God officiated. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born at Kingsley, April 21, 1891, the former Clara Marie Dahmer was married to Irving Drost at Traverse City in 1906. They resided in the Traverse City area since that time. Mr. Drost preceded here in death in 1946.

She is survived by a son, Irving, of Lake Panasaske, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Lottie) Sarasin of Houghton Lake and Mrs. Rober (Beatrice) Sprow of Indian River; eight grandchildren and 21 great grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

MILO W. SMITH

Funeral services for Mrs. Milo W. Smith, 78, who died Sept. 1 at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City, were held Friday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. James Plackner of the Bethany Lutheran Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

The former Clarice E. McClure was born in Detroit Feb. 16, 1903 and on Sept. 21, 1935, was married to Mr. Smith in Detroit where they lived until moving to their present home on Cherry St. in Charlevoix in 1968. She was a member of Bethany Lutheran Church and its Ladies Guild.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Fred (Lillian E.) Reetz of Bloomington, Minn., and Janice Smith of Farmington Hills; three grandchildren and a sister, Gerolda McClure of Detroit.

The family suggests memorials to Bethany Lutheran Church or the American Cancer Society.

When power fails, frozen foods in danger

What could be more devasting than a power failure when the freezer is full? As we move into the final stages of the food preservation season those of us with full freezers might be concerned. Actually if you know what to do in case of power failure the results do not merit a great deal of panic. Most of the food can be salvaged if handled properly.

A freezer that is fully stocked with food that is completely frozen, will keep temperatures at a satisfactory level for two days, if you do not open the appliance. The first step is to cover your freezer with a blanket or newspaper and !!!do not open!!!

If you know your freezer will be without power for an extended period of time consider adding dry ice. Twenty five pounds of dry ice will hold the temperature below freezing in a half full 10 cubic foot freezer for two to three days. Place the dry ice on a layer of cardboard and put between the food. Do not place the ice directly on the food containers.

If your food has partially thawed it can usually be refrozen. An exception is fish. Fish tends to spoil very quickly and should not be refrozen. If other foods have ice crystals they can be safely refrozen.

Completely thawed vegetables could be used in soups, stews, or casseroles. If fruits thaw consider making them into jams or jellies. It is a good idea not to refreeze red meats unless you cook them first. Remember if meats are warm to the touch after thawing it may be to late to save them.

Use refrozen items as soon as possible. They will probably lose some of their taste and will not keep as long as foods which have not been refrozen.

Food stored in a refrigerator freezer or in the refrigerator are more difficult to save. Remember not to eat and foods that look or smell spoiled.

A common problem for many of us today is operating within a budget. A vital part of that budget is allocated toward the purchase of food and we sure don't want to lose any of it because of a power failure.

MARK A. REISING, son of Paul J. Reising of 686 Cuembley Court, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Marilyn J. Reising of Route 2, Charlevoix, Mich., received practical work in military leadership at the Army ROTC Advanced Camp, Fort Lewis, Wash.

The six-week training includes instruction in first aid, communications, marksmanship, weapons systems, defensive and offensive tactics, reconnaissance techniques and other areas.

Most cadets fulfill their advanced camp requirement during the summer between their junior and senior years in college. The successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from their respective college or university will result in the student's being commissioned a second lieutenant in the active Army or the U.S. Army Reserve or National Guard.

Reising is a student at Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Attorney Jeff Van Treese has begun the practice of law in Charlevoix in partnership with Robert Hoffman. The former Hoffman and Hoffman law firm will now be called Hoffman, Hoffman and Van Treese.

Van Treese comes to Charlevoix from Petoskey, where he has been associated with Stephen B. Graham.

A native of Boyne Falls, Van Treese is a graduate of Boyne Falls High School. He later attended North Central Michigan College and Western Michigan University, receiving a bachelor's degree in business administration magna cum laude. While at WMU, Van Treese was president of the Financial Management Association.

Van Treese is also a graduate of the law school at Wayne State University and has been practicing since last December. His local services include corporation, tax, real estate, estate planning, bankruptcy, general civil, and criminal litigation.

The attorney says his favorite activities are skiing and racquetball, although he enjoys all types of athletics. He is married to the former Deborah Dusek, of Petoskey. They plan to move to the Charlevoix area in the near future.

Included on the list of students who completed degree requirements at Ferris State College during the spring quarter are, from Charlevoix, LAURIE DUSDAL, who received an A.A.S. degree as an executive secretary; DANIEL ENGSTROM, who received a B.S. degree in pharmacy; ERIC ERBER, who received an A.S. degree in pre-pharmacy; CHRISTINE PIDEK, who received an A.A.A. degree in social service - technical, correctional; ARTHUR RANGER III, who received a B.S. degree in surveying and GORDON RUSSELL, who received an A.A.S. degree in marketing. DIANE BLACKMAN, of East Jordan, received an A.A.S. degree in dental hygiene.

THOUGH ONLY A PORTENT of things to come, some of the season's first heavy weather whipped Lake Michigan into a froth last Tuesday with mountainous seas crashing over the north pier. Winds gusting up to 30 miles an hour sent small craft scurrying for shelter in Round Lake, several of which drew many local onlookers as they valiantly made their way from the big lake into the Pine River channel.

Council's choice for city manager accepts offer

by DAVE KNIGHT

Pending receipt of a formal letter of acceptance, Charlevoix's new city manager will be a 28-year old Michigan native who is currently the assistant to the city manager of Steamboat Springs, Colorado.

Robert A. Hunt indicated by telephone Monday night that he will accept an offer tendered to him by the Charlevoix City Council to assume the position of city manager which has been vacant since the resignation in August of Jame Brinker.

Brinker has since joined Thomas Real Estate in Charlevoix.

The council met in special session Monday night to confirm their choice of Hunt over 62 other applicants. Hunt was offered a salary of $28,000 a year plus fringe benefits due all city employees, an unspecified contribution to the International City Managers Association on his behalf in six months, two weeks vacation a year and limited moving expenses.

He asked for and will receive a one-year contract similar to that under which Brinker was hired.

Hunt is originally from the Thumb-area community of Mayville and earned both a Bachelor's degree in Political Science and a Masters degree in Local Government from the University of Michigan. He maintained a 3.98 grade point average as an undergraduate, was named Phi Beta Kappa as a graduate student and accumulated several scholastic awards during his college career.

For the past three years, Hunt has been the assissant city manager at Steamboat Springs, a ski-oriented resort community of 5,000 permanent residents that swells to 20,000 with tourists. He was previously a science and technology adviser to the City of Portland, Oregon and also worked, while in Ann Arbor, as a research fellow for the Michigan Municipal League.

In Steamboat Springs, Hunt was instrumental in developing project grants totaling $2.9 million over three years for such areas as police, parks, housing, water, sewer, planning and recreation. He also has particular expertise in transit planning and was president of Colorado Association of Public Transit in 1979-80.

Hunt is single and lists as his interests music performance and composition, skiing, racquetball, reading, cycling and camping. He is expected to assume the Charlevoix city managership on October 19.

Hunt's selection came after a narrowed field of 11 eleven candidates were interviewed by council memebrs last week. The council's vote Monday night to offer the position to Hunt was unanimous.

Char-Em millage passes

Though the turnout was light, the majority was solid as the voters in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District approved 2,798 to 1,617 an additional .8 of a mill for special education last Tuesday. The millage request was for three years only and comes off the defeat in June of a charter millage (no time limitation) request for the same amount.

Every voting district in Char-Em's territory passed the millage request whereas in the June 8 balloting, all but two turned it down.

In the City of Charlevoix, the margin of victory was narrower than in most other districts with the millage passing this time 460-400. Homeanding approval was given by the voters, however, in Petoskey which voted 645-306 in favor of the millage.

Other individual precinct vote totals were as follows: Beaver Island 79-6; Boyne City 302-179; Boyne Falls 75-44; Central Lake 263-163; East Jordan 295-178; Ellsworth 169-72; Cross Village 18-4; Harbor Springs 216-103; Littlefield 88-84; Pellston Precinct One 103-53; Pellston Precinct Two 70-16.

With the $758,000 to be generated by the increased millage, including state reimbursement, the Char-Em ISD will be able to retain such staff members as two diagnostic learning disability consultants, a development coordinator, a media center librarian, seven full time speech therapists and two secretaries. Program cuts that were anticipated had the millage request failed will now also be avoided according to Char-Em administrators.

Legal jousting continues to delay bank branch opening

Michigan National Bank North's Charlevoix branch office remains closed this week following the rescheduling of a hearing before federal Circuit Court on a restaining order that prevented the office from opening last week.

Originally set for last Friday, September 11, the hearing before Judge Richard A. Enslen has been rescheduled for Monday, September 28 in Kalamazoo.

Before the court will be a motion filed by the Charlevoix County State Bank for a preliminary injunction against Michigan National Bank North. The County State Bank obtained a restraining order Saturday, September 5 that prevented the Michigan National Bank North branch from opening its doors as planned on Tuesday, September 8.

The branch office was originally to have opened in the fall of 1980 but its application for a charter was turned down twice by the state Financial Institutions Bureau. The Petoskey-based bank, which is wholly owned by the Michgan National Corp., subsequently applied for and received a charter from the federal Comptroller of the Currency.

In its motion, the Charlevoix County State Bank maintains that the federal agency erred in granting the charter after the state FIB ruled against the application twice.

Said CCSB Attorney Thomas Pointner, "With the benefit of a hearing, the Financial Institutions Bureau twice decided that statutory standards for the establishment of a branch bank were not satisfied. The Comptroller of the Currency has approved the branch and it is the position of the Charlevoix County State Bank that the statutory standards have still not been satisfied and that, therefore, the Comptroller's decision is arbitrary, or capricious, or an abuse of discretion, or otherwise contrary to law."

Why the dramatic drop in school enrollment?

by FRAN MARTIN

The official school population in the Charlevoix Public Schools will not be known until Sept. 25 but first day enrollment figures indicate that local schools will experience the largest decrease in enrollment since the decline started several years ago.

The earollment on the first day of school, Sept. 9, compared to the official fourth Friday count in 1980 shows a loss of 80 students or a drop from 1524 in September 1980 to 1444 last week.

Further investigation, however, reveals that the loss did not come over the summer but was evident in June when the census at the high school alone showed a loss of 32 students during the school year. Vane H. Smith, high school principal, said that among the 32 were 12 seniors, six juniors, nine sophomores and five freshmen. He went on to say that among those were drop-outs for various reasons such as students who were failing and decided to quit because they would not have enough credits to graduate, others who reached their sixteenth birthday and left or who had lost credits because of absenteeism.

There were also those whose families moved from the community or court-placed students who were transferred for some reason or other.

He also pointed out that the school graduated a class of 152 students in June. A class of only 135 students came in as freshmen this month accounting for another 17 students.

The greatest decrease was at the high school level where the enrollment dropped from 588 on "count day" in 1980 to 539 on Sept. 9.

At the Middle School, the enrollment dropped from 391 in 1980 to 361 on the first day of school this year. As mentioned above, 135 students left the eighth grade and entered high school as freshmen. This class was replaced by a sixth grade class that has only 102 enrolled which accounts for the difference.

The enrollment in the Elementary school where children in the kindergarten through the fifth grade are enrolled, was up by five on opening day. A total of 539 were counted on the fourth Friday last year as compared to 544 on Sept. 9. The classes in this school range in size from 83 to 106 with the exception of the third grade which has only 67 enrolled. This class started school the first year the starting age was set back in the Charlevoix schools from Dec. 1 to Oct. 1. It is now Sept. 1.

What are the reasons for the decline in enrollments? Principals in the Charlevoix schools list a number of reasons including the fact that families are having fewer children or couples are choosing not to have children; that people moving into the community are retirees; the military, where tours of duty are as short as two years; a transient population and divorces.

There has been a definite decline in the size of families. As Smith said, you rarely see a family of five or six children anymore; two seems to be the norm. The population of the community is growing but many of these people are young and, for the time being, are delaying having a family until they are established or are people who have opted to retire in Charlevoix.

The military has its effect on the student population. The normal tour of duty in the U.S. Coast Guard is two years which means that a serviceman is replaced by another who may not Be a winner with hairy legs!

WANTED – MEN'S LEGS, not just ordinary legs, but beautiful legs, hairy legs, and original legs.

They are needed for the Men's Legs Contest which is to be part of the Charlevoix Apple Festival on Friday, October 9 and Saturday, October 10.

The Apple Festival Committee is encouraging men to sign up in groups to join in the fun of competition. They suggest entries from service clubs, church groups, the fire department, the police department, teachers' organizations, City employees, County employees, high school students and-or athletic teams.

The leg judging will take place on Saturday afternoon. A sheet will cover each contestant's body except for his legs – from knees to ankles – so he will remain anonymous to the judges. There will be three different categories in the contest with prizes in each category – most beautiful, hairiest, and most original.

Interested competitors are asked to call Nanci Burnside at 547-6751 so she will how how many contestants to expect.

V.F.W. Pow-Wow planned for Boyne Mountain

Plans to attend the annual V.F.W. Department Pow Wow at Boyne Mountain Oct. 2-4 were discussed at a recent meeting of the V.F.W. Auxiliary held at the post home.

Members were advised that district officers will be attending this interesting meeting and that the booth selling bazaar items for the benefit of the organization's cancer fund would be open. Anyone wishing transportation is asked to contact the president, Mrs. Joseph Seidel.

It was also announced that the pig roast luau planned for this month has been cancelled because of conflicting dates. It has been re-scheduled for the summer of 1982.

The forthcoming membership campaign was also discussed. An invitation has been extended to eligible members to join the organization and for present members to renew their memberships as soon as possible. Membership is open to anyone whose husband, son or brother experienced foreign service with the military.

The local auxiliary has been invited to participate in a drive to elect a monument to Viet Nam veterans in Washington, D.C.

Members were also urged to vote in all elections. "It is a privilege to vote and everyone should take advantage of it" Mrs. Seidel emphasized.

Mrs. Seidel named Mrs. Donald White, Mrs. Leland Warner and Mrs. Clarence Goldstick to the House and Building committee to work with their counterpart from the post in renovation of the post home.

A social meeting will be held at the post home on Sept. 17.

Davis rep tells office hours

Congressman Bob Davis' District Representative Mr. Charles P. Goddeyne will be in Charlevoix County on Tuesday, September 15 and Wednesday, September 16.

On Tuesday, he will be at Beaver Island: St. James at the Township Hall for office hours from 11:00 am to 1:00 pm; followed by coffee with the Senior Nutrition Program from 2:30 to 3:30 pm. On Wednesday, he will have office hours in BOYNE CITY at City Hall from 10:00 am to 12:00 noon, followed by lunch with the Senior Nutrition Program in City Hall auditorium from 12:30 pm to 1:30 pm; office hours in BOYNE FALLS Village Hall from 2:00 to 4:00 pm.

Any constituent wishing to discuss a matter involving federal, state or local government or their agencies can visit with Mr. Goddeyne at this time. No appointment is necessary.

INSTEAD OF FITTING YOUR BUSINESS TO A COMPUTER, TRY A COMPUTER THAT FITS YOUR BUSINESS.

If other computer companies have told you that you have to change your business methods to fit their computer they're probably trying to sell you the wrong computer.
Odds are the right computer for you is Commodore.
Unlike the big computers that are as confusing as they are cumbersome the Commodore CBM is small and easy to operate. If you can type, you can work our computer.
In addition the Commodore CBM can be "customized" to meet all your business needs. Our software runs the gamut from financial management to word processing.
And unlike big computers, our small computer is available at a very small price.
At Commodore, we believe the computer should adjust to your way of business. Not the other way around.

First week of school

By the end of last week, things were back to normal in Charlevoix classrooms following the long summer break. Scenes from the first week of school included, clockwise from above, Elementary School custodian John Peterson hanging a new swing on the playground; flag corps and marching band practice at the high school; kitchen personnel, from left, Sandra Themin, Babs Sharrow, Bev Bass and Verna Swanson preparing for Pizza Day at the Elementary School and St. Mary's first grader Jerrie Lovell trying out the chalkboard. Assessment tests to be given

State Assessment tests will be given to the fourth, seventh and tenth grade students in the Charlevoix Public Schools between Sept. 22 and Oct. 2 it was announced this week.

The tests are given to measure student knowledge and understanding of selected basic reading and math skills.

Students are given as much time as they need to complete the tests so they have an opportunity to show what they know. The purpose of administering the tests is to provide teachers with information, to help students to acquire the skills they are lacking and to provide educators with information to use when studying programs.

Testing is expected to be completed by Sept. 30.

School officials expect tests to be scored and the results returned to the district by Oct. 16. After the results are received and reviewed here, they will be sent home with the students to be shared with the parents/guardians. A copy of each student's results will be available in the principal's or counselor's office.

If there are any questions or concerns regarding your student's results, you are asked to call the elementary school where your fourth grader is in class, the middle school where seventh graders are enrolled or the high school for tenth graders.

Fourth grade students at St Mary's school will write their "assessment" tests during the same period.

Substance abuse programs plead cases before county board

The size of the substance abuse problem in Charlevoix County, as well as all of northern Michigan, was highlighted last week when representatives of two service agencies dealing with the problem appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

John Vick, executive director of the Half-Way Home in Petoskey, a residential treatment home for alcoholics and drug addicts, told of his 90-day program which is supported by federal, state, and local funds as well as fees collected from those who can afford to pay.

Vick requested that Charlevoix County include $6,000 in its 1982 budget for the Half-Way House to partially pay for the care of Charlevoix County residents who will receive treatment during the year. The County is billed at the rate of $4.50 per day per patient. Total patient cost is $28.80 per day, and the difference between that figure and the County's $4.50 payment is made up by grants from the Department of Social Services, the state Office of Substance Abuse, the United Way, private funds, and food stamps, among other sources.

For $6,000, 14 or 15 County residents could receive the full 90-day treatment at the Half-Way House if they needed it, or more could be treated for shorter periods of time.

Oren Schroeder, service director of CHIP Counseling Center In Charlevoix, explained the services rendered by CHIP, the out-patient counseling services and the educational programs provided.

Schroeder requested that Charlevoix County support CHIP's substance abuse program to the extent of $5,000 during 1982, the same amount the County contributed last year. During the past 11 months, CHIP has counseled 218 Charlevoix County residents who had alcohol and/or drug problems.

Schroeder also asked the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners for $5,000 for general counseling services (not substance abuse related) furnished to Charlevoix County residents. During the last fiscal year, CHIP counseled 240 County residents, many of whom were referred by County agencies. Schroeder noted that CHIP had also provided counseling services to inmates of the Charlevoix County jail at no charge and had assisted the County Department of Social Services with child abuse problems.

In addition to the substance abuse patients served by the Half-Way Home and CHIP, another agency, the Life Center in Gaylord, provides short term detoxification services for an additional number of Charlevoix County residents.

Costs go up for inmates, plats

The costs of two County services are going up as the result of action taken last week by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Copies of plats provided by the Register of Deeds will now cost $2 a page instead of $1, which has been the price for several years.

The cost to other counties of holding their prisoners in the Charlevoix County jail will now be $35 a day, up from the $14 a day charged by the jail for some time.

Opinion

Knight on the Town

Smell of roses is sweet

by Dave Knight

Ah, to be a University of Wisconsin alumnus on Saturday was to be Irish on St. Patrick's Day, Polish on St. Pulaski Day or Republican just about any day since last November.

Not since Moses' massive, but temporary, water diversion project at the Red Sea have God's wonderous ways been more evident. But there was certainly no parting of the "Red Sea", by the Michigan Wolverines Saturday.

When I tuned in Saturday, the radio announcer was mentioning something about Michigan 176, Wisconsin 0. I figured it was the halftime score.

This, of course, was not the case; the 176-0 tally is the cumulative record of scoring Michigan has racked up over the Badgers over the past four seasons. Last year's 24-0 cliffhanger must have been embarrassing enough for the Maize and Blue which had been accustomed to posting forty or fifty points a game against Wisconsin.

But talk about embarassment! The only way it could been worse for U of M fans was if Saturday's 21-14 Wisconsin victory had been televised nationally. Then everyone could have seen the college team ranked number one in the civilized world steamroll to a staggering total of eight first downs in the entire game.

Teams scheduled into Camp Randall Stodium in Madison need never worry about being on television, though. It'll never happen.

Sure, the Badgers consistently draw 65,000 to 70,000 fans a game and are ranked within the top five schools nationally in attendance each year. Sure, the fans are as loud and excitable as any. The problem facing a TV producer at Camp Randall, however, is that the noise in the stands rarely corresponds with the action on the field. You think 70,000 Wisconsites come out to see their team get beat 42, 54, 56 to nothing year in and year out? No way. For the past ten years, Wisconsin teams have been about as novel as "Hogan's Heroes" reruns.

The real action at Camp Randall is in the stands; the game itself is but a distraction. For Badger fans, it is a stirring moment to see a hapless co-ed passed bodily, hand-over-hand up to the very top row of the stadium. Another big kick is when the fraternity boys build human pyramids four and five tiers high only to have them collapse, coincidentally of course, on top of their favorite sorority.

A few years ago, a steamfitter sporting a red Afro and a bright red skirt that was about as tight as he was stumbled out of the stands and danced alongside the cheerleaders. The crowd roared so loud that he was actually made a honorary member of the cheering squad and did his thing on the sidelines for the next three years.

See the TV problem? How does an announcer explain 70,000 people suddenly screaming their heads off at some shenanigan in the stands while their team is in the huddle or something? Viewers would never figure it out.

Now that Wisconsin is Rose Bowl-bound, of course, things may change at Camp Randall.

At least until the Ohio State game.

Clockwise

On the defense

by Bob Clock

"Does it ever bother you when people write nasty things about you in the paper?" a friend asked the other day.

I had to think a minute.

"Not really," I responded. "After 31 years in newswork, you learn to take a lot of gaff."

A possible exception might be the libel by Sherry Martin of Charlevoix, submitted to and printed in the Charlevoix Courier Sept. 2.

Ms. Martin's letter had to do with a column I wrote the week before relative to hunger "bike-a-thon's" and "walk-a-thon's" and how much better it would be if fund-raising activities had something to do with the cause being benefitted.

I suggested that persons truly interested in feeding the world's hungry should plant gardens, sell the produce and ship the money overseas where it could be used to alleviate hunger.

I cannot see the connection between walking until you get blisters on your feet, or pedalling until your calves ache, and world hunger.

I also am concerned that the young people who take part in such fund-raising activities might somehow get the idea that by walking or pedaling they are actually doing something constructive to feed the world's hungry.

Ms. Martin missed the point of the column completely and even brought into the question the generosity of the Clock household — which is where the libel comes in.

"At this point," wrote Ms. Martin, "I am inquisitive of the reception the volunteers from the American Cancer Society, Muscular Dystrophy, March of Dimes (and so on) receive at the Clock family household."

Unfortunately, Ms. Martin didn't check with any of the charities involved and I am confident the Clock family could win a handsome judgment in court if we should decide to prosecute on grounds of her malicious insinuations.

It is a matter of record via check stubs that the Clocks donate regularly to the American Cancer Society, the Community Chest, the March of Dimes and other charities. We also buy poppies, white canes, red feathers and contribute foodstuffs whenever we are asked.

It is also a matter of record that I have served on the boards of both the Cancer Society and Community Chest.

In closing, Ms. Martin wrote, "I am prompted to ask Mr. Clock what incident could have provoked such a vicious attack on these young people? Did one of them ask you for a pledge?"

No, Ms. Martin, no one asked me for a pledge during the recent spate of fund-raising activities — but I have been asked and I have never refused to give in the past (sometimes several times for the same event.)

I have no idea what sparked Ms. Martin's vicious attack. At least one sponsor of a "walk-a-thon" tells me my ideas have a great deal of merit and efforts will be made to incorporate them in next year's fund-raising projects.

I think the Clock family deserves a public apology from Ms. Martin. Don't you agree?

SPEAKING OF hunger, there should be very few empty stomachs in Charlevoix this winter, at least among tillers and toilers in the city gardens.

The tomato crop is generally excellent, after last year's siege of "blossom-end blight."

Many potato plants are still alive and well, onions refuse to stop growing, sweet corn is succulent, winter squash has never tasted better and the cucumber harvest is unending.

All of which is remarkable, considering the July drought, followed by the gully-washers of August.

Letters: uniqueness of Charlevoix

Agreed with column

To the Editor:

Thank you Mr. Knight for the excellent article you wrote, 'Charlevoix is Different', which appeared in the Courier, Sept 9th. I agree with you one hundred per cent.

Twenty years ago, we had dreamed of moving here, but due to circumstances beyond our control, we ended up elsewhere. We kept dreaming and praying and finally this summer, our dream came true. It's that one word you used in your article that brought us here to live "UNIQUENESS!" One doesn't find that too often in a world full of turmoil, computers and people running helter skelter. The people of Charlevoix have a lot to be thankful for. Many people living in large metropolitan areas would like to trade places with us.

As a Christian woman, I find a serenity here that can't be found in other towns. Even your local radio station is serene - one can listen to it without receiving a headache. It's very true when they announce, "you have found the beautiful island".

Now, concerning McDonald's franchise wanting to locate here. I feel the same as you do - let them build here, IF they design it with Charlevoix in mind. I think the McDonald people are intelligent enough, to realize, if they want in here, they will have to do their utmost to look like the rest of the community.

Charlevoix has always been a favorite dropping off place for us while vacationing - we have been coming here since the middle 1940's. It's a joy knowing we have returned to establish roots. Charlevoix the beautiful is a real gem. Keep it unique and it will never lose its charm.

Sincerely,
S.J. Mitchell
Charlevoix

Sad ending to weekend visit

An open letter to ANIMAL LOVERS,

BEWARE. your pet could be killed if you live in the vicinity of Charlevoix near U.S. 31 South and Old U.S. 31 South.

Our family arrived in Charlevoix Thursday night for the Labor Day weekend. However, our weekend was cut short due to the senseless killing of our dog, Caesar.

We had been working all afternoon in the yard on Friday with Caesar romping nearby. Just before nightfall, we stopped and called it a day, resting on the picnic table. Caesar headed toward our woods. Within five minutes we heard dogs barking across the street, a gun shot, and a hurt dog. We looked up in the direction the sounds came from only to see our Caesar running home from Old U.S. 31 across U.S. 31. She collapsed halfway down the driveway. The only vet open at that time was in Petoskey, and Caesar was dead on arrival. Death was due to air in her lung which was pierced by a portion of the shotgun blast.

Caesar was a gentle, loving dog who only knew love in her lifetime. She loved the freedom of our fields in Charlevoix, she wasn't supposed to cross the street. If she made a mistake, we should have been told; it was not an excuse to kill her.

We did not see the assailant and cannot prove who fired the shot but we would appreciate anyone who may have seen the shooting to contact us through this newspaper.

School enrollment decrease

have any children. In the U.S. Air Force, Col. Robert Rajewski said the average tour is four years but a serviceman may ask to be transferred after two years if he is married.

He went on to say that tentative plans call for the base at Bay Shore to be phased out by fiscal year 1983. The first of these people were transferred during the summer and though the Charlevoix School District was not affected, others in the area were. As the facility is phased out, servicemen with families will be transferred, with numerous districts being affected.

The closing of the Penn-Dixie plant has also resulted in the out-migrations of families. The lack of jobs in other area industries has also resulted in families leaving the area for jobs elsewhere, some of them in the Sunbelt.

Divorces also have a marked effect on the school enrollment. "Until you are close to the situation, you do not realize the impact this has on the enrollment" one counselor said. There are more and more one-parent homes and, often times, a student, expecially as he or she grows older, will decide to go and live with the other parent, it was explained. When there is a divorce, a mother may be given custody of the children. She finds that the job market here is limited so she will go elsewhere, perhaps to an area where she is assured of a job, and takes the children with her. Divorces also result in broken homes with children being placed under the jurisdiction of the court and removed from the home to another area. Charlevoix schools receive few of these children because of the shortage of foster homes. Many of the children, under these circumstances, are transferred to other areas where foster homes are available.

The decline in the school enrollment became noticable in the mid-1970 and, in Charlevoix, tapered off slowly until this year. School officials predict it will continue until about 1985 when, hopefully, it will stabilize.

Mrs. MacArthur feels strongly about sign pollution in Charlevoix

Meet Charlevoix

by PEG OHLE

Barbara MacArthur of Charlevoix believes that there is a definite relationship between a community's aesthetic standards and its economic well-being. She also believes that it is important for an individual's well-being to be able to look out on green grass, trees, and other growing things. These are just two reasons why she and her husband, Bruce, attend meetings of the Charlevoix Planning Commission and the Charlevoix City Council. This week the Courier talks with Mrs. MacArthur about her concerns for Charlevoix the Beautiful.

COURIER: When did you become interested in the environment?

MAC ARTHUR: About 30 years ago we went to the New Hampshire mountains. Outside the State Park there were hundreds of signs, and inside there were none. The contrast was so noticeable it was startling.

COURIER: How does that relate to signs in a business community?

MAC ARTHUR: Signs indicate the aesthetic standards of a community. They can be controlled by ordinances or they can be permitted to go unfettered, making a community look tacky.

Barbara MacArthur

COURIER: What is the sign situation in Charlevoix at the present time?

MAC ARTHUR: Charlevoix is in the process of revising its present sign ordinance because people are recognizing the threat of too many ugly signs to Charlevoix the Beautiful. For instance, the entrance to town from the south has become more and more cluttered. If the signs in that area were set back from the road it would appear less of a sign jungle.

COURIER: Why do businesses have signs?

MAC ARTHUR: They started out to identify businesses. Now they also advertise, they flash and they turn, and they cause visual pollution. Moving and lighted signs also waste energy.

COURIER: What can a sign ordinance do about this?

MAC ARTHUR: It can state how large a sign can be for a given place, it can regulate placement, and through site plan review, it can determine compatability of a sign with a store front or surrounding area. For instance, we wouldn't want a plastic psychedelic sign next to a pink brick colonial building.

COURIER: What about chain restaurants or stores that have a standard sign as a trademark?

MAC ARTHUR: Fast food franchises have had to respond to community outrage by re-designing not only their signs but often their buildings. Most of them are now also landscaping their grounds. It really doesn't say much for our values when a business is willing to spend thousands for signs and little for landscaping which would do more for the community. A community's image can be destroyed by bad signing. I'm happy that the Charlevoix Planning Commission is encouraging the use of wooden signs instead of plastic signs. The wooden ones are more attractive and do not break as easily.

COURIER: A speaker at the last meeting of the Garden Club also had something to say about signs. Who was that?

MAC ARTHUR: Clan Crawford, Jr., an Ann Arbor attorney who is a recognized expert on land use and zoning. He has been active in billboard control and reported that due to a recent United States Supreme Court decision, local communities will have more control over commercial messages on off-premise billboards. He suggested one sign with the logo of all the businesses in a town – for instance, McDonald's, Great Lakes Fish and Chips, Grey Gables, Kentucky Fried Chicken – at each entrance to a town instead of separate billboards.

COURIER: Are there other areas around Charlevoix you are concerned about, in addition to US-31 South?

MAC ARTHUR: Well, the whole drive between Charlevoix and Petoskey, which is really very beautiful, is becoming

FASCINATING FACTS ABOUT GOLD

We all know that gold has had a unique place in the history of mankind. Many of us know that gold and silver was the first form of money. But did you know that it is this history that has greatly influenced and shaped the whole history of money from the earliest times up to the very present?

From the time of the Greeks and Romans until well into the Renaissance if you wanted to pay for something with money, you had to present the actual gold or silver, usually in coins. Kings and princes of the Middle Ages realising this and always being out of money were constantly forcing their subjects to turn in old coins for new ones with less gold or silver in them. This caused rampant inflation (just like the problem that has often affected modern societies when the money supply increased faster than the increase in goods and services.

In fact, it was partly as a result of this rampant devaluation of gold and silver coins that the Italian trading cities came to view money as a medium of exchange as opposed to being gold and silver itself. Realizing this was further pushed by the necessity of trade making the Italians come up with a brilliant idea. What they did was invent paper money. It was risky and quite burdensom to carry large quantities of gold to a foreign city to pay for a boat load of goods. How much easier to just have your gold left at home in a safe bank and pay for your boat load of spices with a letter that gave the recipient the right to claim the gold. From here it was a small step to the full fledged system of transferring money from one account to another simply by ledger entries and then finally to the idea of issuing bank notes paper money.

One would think that the real base of money as a means of exchange would soon overshadow and disintegrate its roots as actual gold and silver, but from the time of the Renaissance up through the nineteenth century and down to the very present gold is still with us. It was only in 1971 that the United States stopped exchanging gold for dollars turned in by foreign governments. And at the very moment the majority of all the gold in the world is owned by the central banks of the governments of the world. In fact, just last year Indonesia a central bank invested in huge quantities of the yellow metal. And the Krugerand is still legal tender in South Africa and some of the largest banks, like Credit Suisse, hold, mint and distribute huge quantities of the metal from small readily available 1 ounce ingots to huge 400 ounce bars.

Anniversaries

Bellingers cite 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bellinger will observe their golden wedding anniversary at an open house at the Masonic Temple on Saturday, Sept. 19.

Friends throughout the area are invited to greet the couple from 2 until 4 p.m.

Joining them in welcoming their friends will be their son and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bellinger of Elk Rapids and Mrs. Joseph Bellinger of Traverse City.

Mr. Bellinger and the fromer Alice McNeal were married at Boyne City Sept. 20, 1931, and have always made their home here. Mr. Bellinger owned and operated Bellinger's Jewelry Store, a family business which was established in the 1880, for 45 years until he retired in 1970.

They are members of the First Congregational Church where Mrs. Bellinger served as organist for 30 years. Mr. Bellinger is a past master and life member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 228, F. & A.M. Mrs. Bellinger is a past matron and life member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star, a past grand officer and an honorary life member of the Grand Chapter of Michigan. She is also a member of the Charlevoix - Women's Club, having served as its first president, and a member of the former Shakespeare Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bellinger

Since Mr. Bellinger's retirement, they have spent the winter months in the South.

The couple also has six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. A son, Joseph, passed away in 1976.

Wedding

Dainoviec-Drost

Over 300 friends and relatives witnessed the wedding of Diane Dainoviec and Robert Drost, both of Petoskey. Rev. Nicholas Meyer united the couple in the double ring ceremony at St. Francis Xavier Church. The church was decorated with pink and white gladiolus.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dainoviec of Petoskey. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Drost of Charlevoix.

She chose a bridal gown of polyester sheer with a Queen Anne neckline and full bishop sleeves of chantilly lace and long cuffs edged with crystal pleating. The lace frost bodice was re-embroidered with lace and seed pearls. The gown featured a key-hole back semi-cathedral train with an upswept hemline defined by re-embroidered lace framing a pleated full circle skirt. A waltz-length mantilla of bridal illusion was edged with matching re-embroidered lace and attached to a small juliet cap of the same lace.

Diane carried a cascade bouquet of silk flowers arranged with pink and white roses, white azaleas and baby's breath. The flowers were made by the bride, her mother and Kay Piehl.

The maid of honor was Melody Corwin. The bridesmaids were Patty Deinoviec, Michele Deinoviec and junior bridesmaid was Karin Deinoviec, sisters of the bride. They all wore identical pink gowns of soft polyester interlock knit with a deep cape collar of scalloped lace. A full pleated skirt flowered from an elasticized bridle waist trimmed with satin bow. All their bouquets were arranged with old English roses, white azaleas and baby's breath. Flower girl was Shelly Silvinski, cousin of the bride and carried a basket of rose petals.

The best man was Greg Loper. The groomsmen were Gene Drost, Chris Drost and junior groomsman was Deeno Drost, brothers of the groom. Ushers were Michael Dainoviec Jr., brother of the bride and Mark Seelye. Ringbearer was Jeffery Brechisen, cousin oi the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Drost

Music was played by August Huybrechts on the organ and accompanied by soloist Mrs. Gak Smith. Selections sung were "II", "The Wedding Song", and "We've Only Just Begun".

A reception given by the couple's parents was held at the V.F.W. Hall. Cake was cut by Betty Brechinen and the guest book was assisted by Sandy Smith.

After a wedding trip to Tennessee and the Smokey Mountains, the couple will make their home in Petoskey.

A rehersal dinner was held Sept. 4 at the Holiday Inn of Petoskey, hosted by the groom's patents.

Norwood School reunion held Saturday

A Norwood School reunion was held Saturday, September 5 at the old school house (now Friendship Hall) in Norwood with 94 persons present. The reunion featured a potluck dinner and an evening of reminiscing among former students, teachers and board members.

The school, located nine miles south of Charlevoix, was organized in 1867. After two log buildings burned the present two-room schoolhouse was built for two teachers and their classes. In 1957 the school was discontinued for lack of students and funds. The building was then purchased by the Methodist Church and is used as a community center.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harwood came from Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Darrow from Florida and Cadillac and Mr. and Mrs. Newton Pierce from Sturgis. The oldest former student present was Glen Holecheck from Grand Rapids and the youngest was Michael Lord of Norwood.

Irwin rep sets hours

Greg T. Long, district representative for State Senator Mitch Irwin, will hold office hours today (September 16) from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix County Building.

Anyone heving a problem with an agency of state government or who would just like to make his views known, is invited to stop by to talk with Long.

Rayders edged in season opener

In a season opener far from home, the Charlevoix High School varsity grid team just about pulled out an upset victory against Marshall Friday night losing 20-19 in the last 40 seconds of the game.

Wearied by stifling downstate heat, the Rayders could not stop the Marshall fullback from crashing through to the goal line in two two-yeard plunges in the fourth quarter that provided the margin of victory.

Both Marshall touchdowns came after long gainers, the first a 40-yard pass and the second a 40-yard run.

Charlevoix struck first, after a scoreless intitial period, when quarterback Scott Kelly hit end Ross Carey for an eight yard second quarter touchdown pass. Mark Morgan kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Later in the period, Kelly tossed a 50-yard scoring pass to his other end, Craig Klooster after which the extra point was missed leaving Charlevoix ahead 13-0.

Just before the half ended, Marshall scored on an eight-yard pass and converted for two points making the halftime score 13-8.

The Rayders padded their lead in the third quarter with another Kelly-to-Carey TD pass of three yards but again the extra point try failed.

Marshall's two fourth quarter touchdowns just barely propelled the Class B team past the Rayders.

For Charlevoix, Kelly was four for seven in the passing department for 75 yards; Carey caught two for 61 yards and Klooster 2 for 64 yards. Mark Beaudoin led the Rayder ground attack with 76 yards in 15 carries.

Defensively Mike Loper had ten tackles for the Rayders, Dave Buday seven and Mark Morgan six.

Charlevoix amassed 206 yards of total offense, 75 passing and 137 rushing, to Marshall's total of 294 yards, 126 passing and 153 rushing.

Charlevoix will host Benzie Central in this Friday's non-conference home opener at Kipke Field. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Charlevoix gymnasts pose with Kurt Thomas who is in the rear center with local gymnastics coach Jim Mitchell to his right.

Thomas wows local gymnasts

by ANNE KELLY

"It's really a mind game—it's a total dedication," Kurt Thomas explained to aspiring young gymnasts last Saturday. The Kurt Thomas Exhibition held at Glacier Dome Arena in Traverse City, sponsored by Charlevoix's Gym B.A.G. (Boosters Association for Gymnastics), has got to rank as one of the most exciting major sporting events to have been offered in northern Michigan.

The "total decidation" to the sport of gymnastics itself and to the people to whom gymnastics is important is more than evident in observing this young man as he worked with and spoke to the gymnasts and later performed for the public.

Charlevoix's Gym Club, along with other participating clubs around the state, were given the unique opportunity of participating in a 3 hour morning clinic with Olympic champion Thomas prior to his 3:00 performance. It was at the conclusion of the clinic that he held an informal question-answer session with the youngsters.

Gymnastics training became an obsession for Kurt in his drive to become the best male gymnast in the world, he confessed.

"I think I sort of overdid my training," Thomas admitted. "I even neglected my studies for a while... I'd get into the quantity versus quality training."

Interestingly enough, Thomas knew very little about gymnastics until he was 14. "When I first saw people doing gymnastics, I thought they were part of a circus or something."

In the last 10 years, this sketchy knowledge of the sport has been "somewhat" increased. Kurt Thomas, due to his ineredible expertise in gymnastics, is recognized as the most talented male gymnast in the world.

When questioned about his training schedule, Kurt says that he runs as a method of controlling his weight, works a little with weights, but spends most of his energies perfecting his skills in the gym. He never has any need for a special diet. The most important emphasis during his comments was put on preparation of the 'mind in training. The discipline lies in turning what you know and have seen and in making it part of your attitude. He implied that performing gymnastics in competition, and winning for that matter, had much to do with the state of mind of the gymnast.

As for pre-competition jitters: "You have to get over that," he advised. Referring to his first major competition in the Pan American Games in 1975, Thomas said, "I really prepared myself for that, if you put enough routines behind you, you're going to become confident."

Continuing in the same vein, his manager explained a little further, "We talk about P.M.A.—positive mental attitude—the right attitude in any given situation."

Watching Kurt Thomas in action, one can only conclude that he has mastered the art of P.M.A. Working with the gym clubs, relatedly addressing the kids on an individual person to person basis, warming up, intent on the proper execution of his own techniques and finally brilliantly performing as the star of an exhibition which featured Michigan state gymnastic champions in various categories – Thomas never lost composure or enthusiasm. Posing for pictures, signing autographs, it all seemed to be part of the mastery of that attitude which runs on the adage that "Sucess is achieved by those who try and keep trying."

Thomas fields questions in a rap session.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Hayes Township Planning Commission will hold its regular meeting for the month of September on Tuesday, September 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the township hall

Blanche Smith
Secretary

Fall meeting schedule for Historical Society will feature interesting programs

Plans for the fall meetings of the Charlevoix Historical Society were revealed at the recent meeting of the society held at Harsha House, home of the society.

Mrs. Carl F. Kohler, program chairman, said that Mrs. Julius Gilbert will speak on "Gambling in Charlevoix", the history of the once prestigious Colonial Club at the October meeting; Mrs. Helen Deming and Mrs. Marcia Breakey, R.N., employees at the Grandview Medical Care Facility at East Jordan will relate the history of the facility at the November meeting and Mrs. Robert Gill will present the history of the Church of God in Charlevoix at the December meeting.

Mrs. LaRue Gill presented the story of Capt. Dan Swartz, commercial fisherman and lumberman who had been employed by John Wilson of the Chicago Club for 54 years as caretaker of the Wilson's Hayes township property at a recent meeting. A bust of Mr. Swartz, a copy of the original by Janet G. Wallace, was presented to the historical society by William Dickinson, also of the Chicago Club, partner of the late Mr. Wilson in a Chicago law firm. Dan G. Geneit, a grandson of Mr. Swarts, had written the history of his grandfather that was presented by Mrs. Gill.

Mrs. Dale Boss, president, reported that the Labor Day cruise aboard the Bay Queen was most successful. Some 290 interested persons joined the luncheon cruise which included a narration of interesting historical sites along the route. Bob Miles had written the script and organized the cruise. William Price, as Father Pierre Charlevoix for whom the community is named, narrated the story. The ship first cruised to Fisherman's Island on Lake Michigan where Mrs. Franklin Curtis, the former Ruth Ann Bedford, related the story of the burning of the ship, the Champlain, as told by her grandmother.

The ship then returned to Lake Charlevoix and to Oyster Bay where Robert Burns, who had always lived on the bay, related the history of the area. As the ship cruised down the South Arm of the lake past Ironton, Edward Buettner gave the history of this once busy site and Holy Island. Others participating in the presentation were Mrs. Kobler, Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, Dale Boss, Mrs. Boss, William Ohle, Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon, Wayne Woods, Eugene Dziedzic and Ralph Hamilton.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Supernaw presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Wood, Mums and Block. Absent: Councilwoman Roloff.

Mayor Supernaw apologized to the General Public present for the delay in starting the meeting and stated that Councilmembers had been meeting in committees to interview applicants for the position of City Manager which had continued longer then anticipated.

The Minutes of the August 17, 1981 regular meeting and the August 24, 1981 special meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Enter Councilwoman Roloff.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the request submitted by John Haggard for the City to set a Commercial Redevelopment District for his property at 200 Antrim St. The Acting City Manager stated that other communities in the area had had problems with setting such districts and recommended that the request be denied at the time to allow further study of the possible repercussions. Members of the Council and the General Public present voiced their opinions regarding the establishment of the District. Councilwoman Roloff stated that she felt the Council should accept the recommendation submitted by the City Assessor and the previous City Manager to deny setting the District on the basis that the property in question does not meet the criteria necessary to qualify for a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate which would offer tax relief to Mr. Haggard for a period up to twelve years. Those Councilmembers in favor of establishing the District generally agreed that the exemption should not be for the full twelve year period and suggested a six year exemption. Mr. Haggard stated he would prefer eight years but would be receptive to six.

The following Resolution was offered by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms.

RESOLUTION NO. 81-9-1

WHEREAS, At the Monday, August 24, 1981 Special Meeting of the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix at 8:00 P.M., authorization was granted to the City Administration to schedule a Public Hearing for consideration of the establishment of a Commercial Redevelopment District in Charlevoix on Tuesday, September 8, 1981, at 8:00 P.M. in the Council Chambers;

WHEREAS, The City Council has met in public hearing as heretofore resolved and noticed for the purpose of reviewing a certain described area known as The East 60 Feet of Lot 1 of Upright and Hurlbut's Addition to the City of Charlevoix be established as a Commercial Redevelopment District of the City of Charlevoix;

WHEREAS, During said public hearing the City Council has heard all persons desiring to be heard either orally or in writing with respect to the designation of the subject area as a Commercial Redevelopment District, pursuant to 1978 PA 256, Sec. 5 et seq;

WHEREAS, Such designation meets all of the prerequisites of the cited Act (Sec. 5, (1));

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the following described property (identified by its corresponding tax roll number) be designated Charlevoix Commercial Redevelopment District No. 1:

15-52-270-001-00

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Wood, and Mums. Nays: Councilmembers Roloff and Block. Absent: None.

A Public Hearing was held regarding a request for a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate as requested by John Haggard for the renovation of his property at 200 Antrim St.

Moved by Councilwoman Roloff and supported by Councilman Block to deny the request for a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate as submitted by John Haggard.

Motion was denied by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmembers Roloff and Block. Nays: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Wood, and Mums. Absent: None.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Mums and supported by Councilman Timms.

RESOLUTION NO. 81-9-2

WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on Tuesday, Sept. 8, 1981, in a Public Hearing as heretofore resolved and noticed for the purpose of establishing a certain described area known as The East 60 Feet of Lot 1 of Upright and Hurlbut's Addition to the City of Charlevoix as Charlevoix Commercial Redevelopment District No. 1; and

WHEREAS, during said Public Hearing the City Council heard all persons desiring to be heard either orally or in writing with respect to the designation of the subject area as Commercial Redevelopment District No. 1, pursuant to 1978 PA 256, Section 5, et seq; and

WHEREAS, such designation met all of the prerequisites of the cited act; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to 1978 PA 256, Section 5, et seq.; the City commission established Charlevoix Commercial Redevelopment District No. 1; and

WHEREAS, John Haggard, owner of 200 Antrim St., a parcel of realty within said District No. 1, has applied for a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate under the provisions of 1978 PA 256, Section 8, et seq.; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to 1978 PA 256, Section 6 (2), the City Clerk has caused to be posted a notice of a Public Hearing concerning granting of said Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate; and

WHEREAS, the City Clerk has further notified in writing the legislative body of each affected taxing unit of said hearing; and

WHEREAS, representatives of said taxing units and interested citizens have had an opportunity to be heard with regard to said application; and

WHEREAS, the Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate for John Haggard, 200 Antrim St., is legally described as:

The East 80 Feet of Lot 1 of Upright and Hurlbut's Addition to the City of Charlevoix. Known on the tax roll as 15-52-270-001-00 and as such is located within the Charlevoix Commercial Redevelopment District No. 1; and

WHEREAS, the application of John Haggard, 200 Antrim St., for a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate as to six (6) years permitted under Section 9 (2) of PA 256 of 1978;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, the City Council of Charlevoix in consideration of the facts identified above hereby approve the Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate No. 1 for John Haggard, 200 Antrim St., for six (6) years permissable under the act based on his property's assessed valuation as of December 31, 1981.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Wood and Mums. Nays: Councilmembers Roloff and Block. Absent: None.

Council adjourned to the Board of Appeals.

Following the Board of Appeals meeting, roll call of the Council was again taken with all members being present.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Porter to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated 8-24-81.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Acting City Manager stated that he had been advised that the City had been offered an opportunity to purchase hydropower from the Beaverton Dam at a cost of six six and one-half cents per Kilowatt on a long term contract basis. It was generally agreed that this would not be economically feasible to the City unless the power could be purchased at that price only during peak power periods.

Jeffrey Wilson, an Attorney representing the firm of Site Planning Design, stated that he plans to initiate a law suit against the City for their failure to complete the sale of a parcel of City-owned property to his client.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Wood.

RESOLUTION 81-9-3
RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING BALLOT PROPOSAL

There shall be submitted to the voters of the City of Charlevoix, at the general election which shall be held November 3, 1981, the following ballot proposal:

Shall the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, levy an additional one mill (.001), annually for a period not to exceed five (5) years, on the ad valorem tax rolls, the revenue of which shall be used exclusively for improvement of the City's sewer system.

The said ballot proposal as described above shall be submitted to the voters of the City of Charlevoix at the general election to be held on the 3rd day of November, 1981.

Notice of said ballot proposal as described above shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the City of Charlevoix, said publication to be not less than ten (10) days prior to the date of said election, and that said notice shall be substantially in the following form:

NOTICE OF BALLOT PROPOSAL

Public Notice is hereby given that on the 3rd day of November, 1981, at the general election, there will be submitted to the voters of the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, the following ballot proposal:

Shall the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, levy an additional one mill (.001), annually for a period not to exceed five (5) years, on the ad valorem tax rolls, the revenue of which shall be used exclusively for improvement of the City's sewer system.

The approximate amount of anticipated revenue to be raised by levy of an additional one mill (.001) on the City's ad valorem tax rolls for an annual term is forty-eight thousand, five hundred ($48,500) Dollars, such amount being computed upon the last known full fair cash value thereof.

The polling places and precincts for such election shall be as follows:

Shall the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, levy an additional one mill (.001), annually for a period not to exceed five (5) years, on the ad valorem tax rolls, the revenue of which shall be used exclusively for improvement of the City's sewer system.

BOARD OF APPEALS

The Board of Appeals convened with Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block present. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to approve a variance as requested by Donald and Joyce Brown to increase the allowable lot coverage at their property at 501 Newman St. from 30% to 40% to allow construction of a garage.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to deny a variance as requested by W. Howard Erickson to reduce the required side yard setback at his property at 407 Michigan Ave. from 15 ft. to 3 ft. to allow construction of a garage.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Nays: Councilman Porter. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to table a request for a variance as submitted by Rose Mary Warner at 1111 Grant St., until the next Board of Appeals meeting to allow Council time to determine what the distance would be between Mrs. Warner's proposed garage and the adjacent home should the variance be granted.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Donald Berlage, a member of the General Public present, voiced an objection to the City's processing of variances. He stated the current procedure of submitting all variances to the City Planning Commission for their recommendation is unfair to applicants for a variance as it takes too long to process their requests. He further stated that the Board of Appeals has the power to grant relief to all citizens requiring a variance under the City Zoning Ordinance. Mr. Berlage also stated that he is requesting a variance to allow construction of a carport and asked that notices be sent to the necessary property owners immediately. The City Attorney recommended that the Council adopt a set of rules setting down the procedure for a variance as applicable to the Board of Appeals.

The Board of Appeals adjourned

more and more covered with signs.

COURIER: What can the average person do to help keep Charlevoix "Charlevuix the Beautiful"?

MAC ARTHUR: They should praise local business firms for their flowers, landscaping and good signs, or complain if these are lacking. They should support the Planning Commission on the sign ordinance. Also, it isn't enough just to set a theme for a community – like the Bavarian theme in Gaylord, you have to following through on it. Over there, the franchise holders were permitted to put up their regular signs, and they blew the whole thing.

COURIER: As new year-around residents of Charlevoix, you and your husband have certainly taken a positive interest in the community.

MAC ARTHUR: My husband has been coming here all of his life because his grandparents lived here. They were Dave and Malinda Eckinger. He owned a fishing business and served as harbormaster. We moved here from Grand Blanc last year when Bruce retired from the Buick Motor Division of General Motors in Flint.

COURIER: Do you have a family?

MAC ARTHUR: We have four daughters – Laurie, Karen, Marjorie and Nancy. Marjorie just graduated from Michigan State with a degree in communications, Nancy is at Hope College, Laurie is with the United Way in Flint, and Karen is with the Information Industry Association in Washington.

COURIER: You've done a lot of traveling, haven't you?

MAC ARTHUR: Yes. My mother was English and I still have relatives in England whom we go to visit. My father was an American newspaper man who was working in Berlin, where I was born. He covered the Paris Peace Conference with President Wilson. We have traveled through much of Europe, and have found it interesting to see what other countries have done about keeping their towns beautiful. We have lived in Washington and New York and Cincinnati, too, so we've had a chance to compare.

COURIER: Quote again those two phrases about the environment.

MAC ARTHUR: "Ugliness leads to blight and blight leads to decay." Also, "Beauty is good for business."

Busy month for building

August was the second busiest month of the year for the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection.

During the month, the Department issued 71 permits, compared with 72 in June. Nineteen of the permits were for new residences, including 12 permits issued for residences on the Hemingway Pointe Club grounds in Eveline Township.

Since the first of the year, the Department has issued a total of 331 permits. The largest number, 38, was for new or remodeling projects in Eveline Township. The next largest number, 35, was for work in Boyne City, followed by the City of Charlevoix, 32; Hayes Township, 25; South Arm Township, 25; Melrose Township, 23; Charlevoix Township,19; Bay Township, 16; Marion Township, 16.

Also, Wilson Township, 16; East Jordan, 15; Boyne Valley Township, 14; St. James Township, 14; Norwood Township, 11; Evangeline Township, 10; Pealne Township, eight; Hudson Township, seven; Chandler Township, four, and Boyne Falls, three.

The cost of these building projects is estimated at $5,881,762, not including electrical, plumbing, or mechanical features.

Many Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District personnel were on hand last Tuesday night to await the millage election results (see page one). To make the waiting a little easier, a raffle was conducted with special education students, above from left to right, Karen Klooster, Karen Hufford and Michael Klooster, choosing the winning numbers. Seventy-four items donated by local businesses and private individuals were raffled off as a fund raiser to pay for the election campaign. Over $3,200 was raised by the effort.

St. Mary's starts classes

St. Mary's school opened Sept 9 with 87 students enrolled on opening day, five less than on the fourth Friday in 1980.

The figures may change before the official count day on Sept. 25 but at the present time the difference shows up in the number of students who came into the first grade from kindergarten, five.

Five students left the school to enter the seventh grade at the public school. The loss can be found in the number of students coming into the first grade, a trend that can be found in many schools.

Jeanne Dubey has returned as first grade teacher; Karen Kirchner as second grade teacher; Jack Gebott as third and fourth grade teacher and John Gagnon as fifth and sixth grade teacher.

Sr. Agnes Mary, school principal, will work with all grades in a supervisory capacity.

Music will be taught by Paygi Wilson. Instructors from the Char-Em Intermediate School District staff will teach speech and Title I reading. They are Lori Menker and Linda Moore.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE MONEY PLACE

NOW 20% Annual Interest

Until tax-free All Savers Certificates become available on October 1, deposit $500 or more in our Family Federal Growth Fund. The Family Federal Growth Fund is basically a "Repurchase Agreement" where you purchase a portion of a pool of U. S. Government Agency securities from us. We agree to buy back your portion on October 1, 1981, at face value plus 20% annual interest. Your investment is backed by U. S. Government Agency Securities. It is not a savings account and is not insured by the F.S.L.I.C.

THEN Starting October 1 $2,000 Tax-Free Interest

Then on October 1, 1981, upon your instructions, we will transfer your funds plus interest to the new Family Federal All Savers Certificate. These one-year certificates will allow you to exempt the interest from your federal income tax—up to $2,000 on a joint return and $1,000 on an individual return. This account is insured to $100,000.00 by F.S.L.I.C. The interest rate in effect through October 5 will be 12.61%. Compare the figures below to determine what your non-taxable yields would have to be to equal the yield from your All Savers Certificate.

Important Note: You can also transfer the funds from a Family Federal 26-Week Money Market Certificate into the All Savers Certificate without penalty.

Federal regulations require a substantial penalty and loss of the interest exclusion in the event of early withdrawal.

The rate of the ALL-SAVERS TAX-FREE CERTIFICATE October 1, 1981, will be 12.61%.

This is what it means to you! To receive the same after tax return, you would have to receive a Taxable Interest Rate of at least 17.51%, if you report a Joint Taxable Income of $20,200...or 20.02% at $29,900, 22.12% at $35,200, 24.73% at $45,800, 27.41% at $60,000. This is based upon 1980 Federal Income Tax Rates

It's what's left after taxes that counts.

Obituaries

HOWARD R. GRIFFIN

The ashes of the late Lieut. Howard R. Griffin were buried "at sea" Saturday.

The Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, under the command of Lieut. Commander David H. Blomberg, took the ashes to a suitable area, where full military honors were performed.

Lieut. Griffin died in Charlevoix last February 7 and religious funeral services were held on February 11. The burial was postponed until the deceased's daughter, Mrs. Paul (Kathleen) Burlew of Garden Grove, Calif., could return to Charlevoix.

The retired Navy officer was born in Quick, a logging community in the Gaylord-Grayling area. He enlisted in the Navy in 1923 and retired in 1953 to make his home in Charlevoix, where he was employed by local marinas and captained several luxury yachts and cruisers.

According to Mrs. Burlew, it was Lieut. Griffin's request that his ashes be scattered on the waters "where he had been happiest in his life".

MRS. ERNEST E. PAUL

Funeral services for Mrs. Ernest E. (Blanche) Paul, 76, retired teacher who died Sept. 9 at her home at Pine Point, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. Toe Rev. Raymond Giffin of the First Congregational Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born at Hemlock Nov. 12, 1903, the former Blanche Voorheis attended Central Michigan College where she received her Life Certificate in 1923. She received her B.S. degree from Central Michigan University in 1954. On June 12, 1923 she was married to Mr. Paul at Saginaw. She taught at schools in Wexford, Gratiot, Clinton and Charlevoix counties for 21 years before joining the faculty of the Charlevoix Public Schools as a fourth grade teacher in 1953. She retired in June 1966 after 13 years in the Charlevoix School system. She was a life member of the National Education Association, Michigan Education Association, National Retired Teachers Association and the Great Pines chapter of the Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Jack of Concord and Jerry of Charlevoix; five daughters, Mrs. Thomas (Lois) Weir of Lansing, Mrs. Merrill (Joyce) Brown of Cheney, Wash., Mrs. Arnold (Carol) McPherson of Traverse City, Mrs. Jerry (Connie) Dawson of Eastport and Mrs. William (Cora) Falls of Winnsboro, Tex.; 33 grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; a brother, John Voorheis and one sister, Mrs. Ida McCumber, both of Saginaw.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society.

Names In The News

Rev. George M. Galloway, right, of Traverse City has been appointed Interim Pastor of the Church of The Nazarene, U.S. 31 North and Waller Road in Charlevix, and will preach in both services next Sunday at 11:00 A.M. and 6:00 P.M.

Rev. Galloway has spent more than 31 years in pastoral ministry and 13 years in Evangelistic work throughout the U.S. and Canada. His last pastorate was in Oak Lawn, Illinois where he spent 7 years. The past 8 years he and Mrs. Galloway have spent a great deal of time traveling in 30 countries on 5 continents, spending 4 months evangelising in Argentina and the most recent trip was to the British Isles where he preached in a weeks revival opening the school year at British Isle Nazarene College in Manchester, England, and also preaching in Belfast, Ireland; Glascow, Scotland; and London, England and from there for a few days visit in Rome, Italy.

Patterson to speak here

L. Brooks Patterson, left, will appear Thursday, September 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix High School study hall where he will speak on the subjects of capital punishment and prison reform for the State of Michigan.

Patterson, currently Prosecutor of Oakland County, is also a recently declared Republican candidate for governor. He comes to Charlevoix at the invitation of the Charlevoix Republican Party but the high school presentation will be open to all interested people.

Says Patterson in a promotional brochure, "After 10 years in the Oakland County Prosecutor's office, I have come to the conclusion that the criminal justice system in this state fails to protect the public. The system does not deter, it does not punish, it does not rehabilitate and, worst of all, it utterly fails to protect."

Seniors dominate Rayder grid squad

While a perfect growing season has left the turf on Kipke Field a beautiful emerald green, this year's edition of the Charlevoix Rayder varsity football team will have only a tinge of green on its starting roster.

Offensively, experienced seniors will man eight positions and on defense, seven.

Coach Don Carey, starting his 26th season as head coach of the Rayders, thinks the abundance of game experience on his senior-dominated squad will give Charlevoix a distinct advantage over some of the younger teams in the conference this season.

Injuries, however, had already taken their toll on the Rayders even before the first kickoff against Marshall this past weekend. The offense was particularly affected.

Mark Beaudoin, a 6'3" 205-pound hard running senior tailback strained his knee in a scrimmage a week before the Marshall game and was expected to see very limited action, if any in that game. Beaudoin was named to the Michigan-Huron Shores Most Valuable Player team last year and was also named Most Outstanding Athlete at the Michigan State University football camp this past summer. Carey is optimistic that Beaudoin will be ready to go by Charlevoix's first conference matchup with Boyne City on September 25.

Also out of action is first string senior center Kurt Puffpaff, 5'10", 175 pounds, who sustained an injury to his kidney in practice. Puffpaff is expected to be sidelined for about six weeks. Added to the hospital list is junior Jeff Trimper, back-up quarterback whose recent knee injury will also cut his playing time for the early part of the season and Tim Bergmann who sustained a bruised arm in practice.

The offensive backfield lineup going into the Marshall game includes senior Scott Kelly, 5'8", 160 pounds, in his second season at the helm as starting quarterback; senior Dave Buday, 5'10", 160 pounds, who received honorable mention on the conference MVP team last year, at wingback; senior Jeff Morgridge, 5'9", 170 pounds in the up back position and senior Ken Speigl, 6'2", 165 pounds at tailback.

On the line will be seniors Ross Carey, 6'5" 206 pounds at right end; Mike Loper,

The Rayder defensive charge will be led by senior linebacker Mike Loper, a sure and vicious tackler who was also a first string choice for the conference MVP team last year.

Joining Loper as a linebacker will be Jeff Morgridge. The defensive backfield will consist of senior Tim Krueger, 5'10", 165 pounds; Ken Speigl, Dave Buday and Craig Klooster.

According to Carey, there will be no pushovers in the Michigan-Huron Shores race this year. "Every game is going to be real tough this year," said Carey. "I don't think I can predict at this point, though, which teams we are going to be fighting for the championship."

This year, cross county rival Boyne City will come to Charlevoix for the conference opener on September 25. The home field advantage is always a factor in the annual Boyne-Charlevoix game.

Perrenial power Cheboygan will host Charlevoix on their field on October 16 as will another arch-rival, Petoskey, on October 2. Gaylord comes to Charlevoix October 9 for homecoming.

"We have had very good practices sessions so far," said Carey, "All the boys have worked real hard and I think it will pay off for them."

New coach, new look for girls' BB

A whole new look. That's the best way to describe this year's girls' basketball team at Charlevoix High School.

From a new head coach to a crop of new faces on the court, there is little resemblance on the 1981 squad to last year'a team which advanced to the Regional finals before being eliminated in overtime.

Coach Henry Wagner, a junior varsity coach for four years, takes over the varsity reins this season from Toni Felter. Van Greene will be JV coach and Wagner's assistant.

Says Wagner, "This is basically a whole new program this year but I think we'll do better than a lot of people think."

Graduation took its toll on the team as All-Stater Melinda Klooster will be missed under the basket as will sharp ball handlers and shooters Mel Kerridge and Teresa Noirot.

The starting five going into the team's first game this week against Central Lake will be forwards Holly Taber, a 6'0" senior, and Laura Kemp, a 6'0" junior; wings Lisa Pischner, 5'9", and Margo Smith, 5'7", seniors and co-captains of the team and point guard Rhonda Buchanan, 5'7", a sophomore.

Wagner will also be shuffling in two more players regularly, Ann Wagner, 5'7", a freshman, and Mary Lenhart, 5'10", a sophomore.

Charlevoix's primary offense will be the fast break off jump balls and rebounds. Wagner says he has been pleasantly surprised with the speed shown by the girls in practices so far. "We are a lot farther along at this point than I though we would be."

Against a man-to-man defense, the girls will run out of a 1-2-2 setup while against a zone, they will go into a 1-3-1 offense.

In a scrimmage against a strong Ellsworth squad last week, the Rayder girls held their own according to Wagner losing only in the final minutes.

Defensively Wagner plans to utilize a "sagging" man-to-man coverage that will concentrate heavily on the ball.

Looking ahead to the girls' schedule, Wagner expects to see some speedy teams to contend with, particularly Petoskey, Cheboygan and St. Ignace who, says Wagner, "just love to run."

"Sure we are expected to be weak this year," says Wagner of the revamped Rayder squad, "But I think we will beat a lot of teams that we're not supposed to before the season's over."

Taylor takes over golf team reins as new coach

Charlevoix's golf squad undergoes a change of command this season as Glen Taylor takes over as head coach from Barry Anderson who is now a junior varsity football coach.

With the team candidates meeting for the first time last Thursday, Taylor has had little time to evaluate his prospects but expects some strong leadership from last year's returnees.

Leading the squad will be senior Gary Drury, captain of the 1981 team. Joining him will be other experienced players including Jeff Greene, Steve Keller and Doug Drenth.

"I think we have about five or six people who we'll be counting on to shoot in the 40s and 50s consistently," said Taylor.

With no prior experience in league play, Coach Taylor does not really know what to expect from other teams on the schedule. "I am pretty sure we will be average or above compared to our competition," he said.

The team opened its schedule Monday, Sept. 14 against Petoskey and plays next against Cheboygan here on Monday, September 21. Other teams on the schedule include Harbor Springs twice, Elk Rapids twice, Boyne City, St. Ignace and Gaylord.

To our readers: If this week's Courier seems narrower than usual, you're not mistaken. We have switched to a narrower paper width to accomodate a new, standardized advertising measurement system. By adapting the SAU (Standard Advertising Unit) dimensions, the Courier joins a majority of newspapers across the country which have gone to the system. Advertisers will find it much easier to work with while readers will notice a cleaner, more attractive layout. The new width has not required any major format or content changes in the Courier so we hope to provide you with basically the same product but in a slightly different package.

Hunt to seek stability, not stardom, as new city manager

by DAVE KNIGHT

Robert A. Hunt, city manager-designate for the City of Charlevoix, said this week that one of his prime objectives for the job will be to foster stability in city government rather than attempt to be a "star" city manager.

Hunt, 28, will assume the position of city manager October 19 following his selection by City Council members last week.

"One of the problems with city managers who tend to be 'stars' and want to do everything is that the system becomes too dependent on them; they become irreplaceable," said Hunt in a telephone conversation from Steamboat Springs where he is assistant city manager, "I want to downplay any great expectations for me personally as city manager and concentrate on building the stability that is neccessary for good city government."

Hunt succeeds former city manager James Brinker who held the post for two years before resigning in August. The city manager-to-be indicated that he plans a long tenure in Charlevoix saying, "I don't take any job without planning to spend a minimum of three or four years at it."

Robert A. Hunt

A Michigan native originally from Mayville in the Thumb area, Hunt said he turned down several other job offers including one for director of administration for the City of Marquette and others in Colorado to come to Charlevoix. He is familiar with the community having vacationed here while living in the state and immediately applied for the job when he saw it in a professional publication.

Comparing the ski resort area of Steamboat Springs to Charlevoix, Hunt pointed out that the dependance on tourism was similar but that the busiest seasons were just the opposite; Steamboat in the winter, Charlevoix in the summer.

Said Hunt, "In many respects, Charlevoix is going through a stage of growth right now that Steamboat went through about ten to twelve years ago. The conflict between those pushing for more development and growth and those wanting to keep things the same is very similar."

"I know the council in Charlevoix is looking for more economic development; that is true of probably every city in Michigan and most cities across the country right now," he said, "But there can often be a lot of wasted effort. We must approach the task very carefully."

Variance for carport denied

by DAVE KNIGHT

Following a lengthy discussion on the application of municipal zoning restrictions to properties not in conformance when the zoning ordinance was passed, the Charlevoix City Council, acting as the Board of Appeals, turned down a request by Donald Berlage for a side yard setback variance that would allow him to build a carport aside his home.

It was the only one of three variance requests involving side yard setbacks for garages to be acted upon at the meeting.

Berlage, 423 Michigan Ave., argued that his 75-foot by 234-foot lot on Lake Michigan was nonconforming to the zoning ordinance by virtue of its being less than 100 feet wide. At present, no lots less than 100 feet wide may be zoned R-1, single family residential. Berlage's property, however, was platted long before zoning laws were established in Charlevoix about seven years ago. Berlage, a Charlevoix attorney, maintained that the ordinance provided for such nonconforming lots and required the city to grant variances in those cases.

City Attorney Michael Gibbons refuted Berlage's claim by citing another provision of the zoning ordinance based on square footage. Because the total area of the Berlage property exceeded 12,000 square feet, said Gibbons, the variance based on the width did not apply.

Berlage and his legal counsel William McTaggart told the council that all immediate neighbors had approved of the project upon being contacted and that, aside from the technical legality of the request, its merits alone provided basis for approval. Berlage's intention is to build a plexiglass, 16-foot wide carport that would extend right to

United Way set to go

A new president and a new goal mark the Charlevoix 1981-82 United Way campaign which officially gets underway this week.

In elections held over the summer, Pat Donnelly was named president of the local United Way board. Donnelly takes over the presidency from Ed McNamara who retired from the United Way board. Donnelly was previously vice president of the board.

In setting a new goal of $20,000 for this year's campaign, Donnelly said, "Since we have been able to easily reach a goal of $18,000 the past couple years, I think we should be able to make the $20,000 mark this time."

Donnelly praised former board president McNamara for his years of service to the United Way and also paid a debt of gratitude to other retiring board members Ann Hufford and Gary Miller.

Joining the United Way board as a new member this year is Beverly Plum who will be chairman of the door-to-door campaign. Other board members include Vice President Dick Kenney, Secretary Jim Hayden, Treasurer Helen Emmons, Executive Secretary Edna DeMitchell, Ed Crook and Dave Knight.

Beginning this week, the industrial, business, school and professional drives will be initiated under their respective chairmen. Heading the industrial drive this year will be Dan Alder of the Medusa Cement Company. Kenney and Hayden will handle the business category and Crook the school personnel.

The annual door-to-door residential campaign has been tentatively set for the evening of October 29 pending further arrangements.

Included among the agencies served by the Charlevoix United Way, with the amounts they each received last year, are the Charlevoix City Recreation Program, $500; Bergmann Center, $2,400; Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council, $1,200; DAC Counseling Center, $800; Scenic Trails Boy Scout Council, $1,200; Salvation Army, $600; Charlevoix County Red Cross, $1,450; Camp Daggett, $1,000; Charlevoix County Big Brothers-Big Sisters, $1,600; Michigan United Way, $2,500; Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood, $1,500; Area Mental Health Clinic, $500; Chip Counseling, $800 and Women's Resource Center, $600.

GOP hears Patterson's Law

by PEG OHLE

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson came to Charlevoix last week to talk about "Capital Punishment and Prison Reform for the State of Michigan". He talked about that, then turned to a discussion on his candidacy for Governor.

The Law and Order Man admitted he had made the same capital punishment and prison reform speech about 600 times, detailing the rampant crime he has seen as an urban prosecutor. He told of murders committed by prisoners who had walked away from a prison farm, of "thrill" murders committed by psychopaths, and of cold-blooded shooting murders of police officers.

Admittedly, it is not a pretty story, and Patterson firmly believes that only the return to capital punishment can stop such crimes. To that end, he is spearheading a petition drive to re-instate capital punishment for first degree-felony murder. He passed out dozens of petition forms which his listeners picked up, presumably with the intention of filling them with signatures.

Patterson spoke under the auspices of the Charlevoix County Republican organization, and approximately 100 people turned out to hear him. Patterson was not an announced candidate for Governor when he accepted the invitation to speak in Charlevoix. He announced his candidacy on August 12 and seems to be feeling his way along on a platform – other than capital punishment and prison reform.

However, he sees the 450,000 unemployed people in the State of Michigan as the number one economic problem and believes the way to solve it is by improving the economic climate of the State – changes in workers' compensation, unemployment compensation, the single business tax, and even union control.

Patterson said it wouldn't make any difference to him if the legislature refused to go along with such needed changes. He would simply tell them, "You have 90 days to pass these laws and if you don't, we'll launch a petition drive." He obviously believes in petitions and doesn't seem to be concerned that a petition drive can take almost two years from beginning to end.

About the 50 percent unemployment reate of urban black youths, Patterson said that trade schools and on-the-job training were the answer.

Board begrudgingly pays firm

by FRAN MARTIN

In executive session Monday night, the Charlevoix Board of Education decided to pay $36,445 to a Lansing-based architectural firm, Manson Jackson and Kane, after the company took the issue before the Arbitration Board in Lansing recently.

The board's decision to pay the sum was based on the results of the arbitration hearing after which the arbitration board ruled in favor of Manson Jackson and Kane. The firm sought arbitration after the company had been paid for its work on the recent addition to Charlevoix High School. Manson Jackson and Kane drew the plans for the addition which was completed in September, 1980.

The original sum set by the arbitration board exceeded $42,000. However, the school district's attorney, David W. Fershee, succeeded in having the amount reduced to $36,455.

Following completion of the $700,000 construction project, the company billed the school district for funds it felt due it for plans and work done in seven unsuccessful attempts to promote a bond issue for the project dating back to 1972.

The original contract signed in 1972 required that any difficultics be settled by arbitration though the present school board was under the assumption that the district did not owe the debt if the bond issues were not successful.

On the advice of its counsel and other school attorneys, the board voted Monday to pay the amount of the judgment with payment made under protest.

Dedication date set for Pine River Place

Dedication ceremonies for the new senior citizen housing facility, Pine River Place, located at 210 W. Garfield Ave., have been scheduled for Sunday, October 11 according to Ralph McRae, chairman of the Charlevoix Housing Commission. Details of the dedication will be announced later. Occupancy of the facility is contingent on approval by HUD officials, McRae said. That approval is anticipated this week and as soon as it is received, he added, tenants who have been accepted may occupy their apartments.

Bloodmobile visits here next week

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be making its last visit to Charlevoix in 1981 on Tuesday, Sept. 29.

Headquarters for the Bloodmobile will again be the American Legion hall at 106 E. Garfield St. The hours will be from f p.m. to 7 p.m.

The quota for the visit will be 125 pints.

A committee of callers will be contacting previous donors urging them to make appointments. Appointments help to assure a continuous flow of donors throughout the afternoon. Appointments can be made by calling 347-9314.

Anyone 17 to 65 years of age is eligible to donate blood. However, 17 year olds must have parental consent. Parental permission slips are available at the high school principal's office.

As always, all types of blood are needed. However, those people who have either O-negative or O-positive types are always in demand. Under certain conditions, O blood types can be transfused into almost any patient. Consequently, the demand is always great.

As they do for all Bloodmobiles, the Xi Epsilon Gamma and Beta Sigma Phi chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will be staffing the canteen at the Bloodmobile. Women's organizations in various churches in the community are being asked to provide cookies and the Oleson Food Stores, as they always have, will be providing the juice.

The Charlevoix JayCees will again unload the equipment and set it up at the Legion Hall and, after the event, will dismantle and re-load it.

It takes the assistance of many to have a successful blood drive. Mrs. John Bradley is recruiting local nurses to assist. Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., is soliciting the other workers needed for the day.

The last Bloodmobile was only one pint short of goal. This was due to the great response from the crew of the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite. The Mesquite will be at the shipyard during the upcoming visit of the Bloodmobile so the cooperation of everyone will be needed in order to meet the goal of 125 pints.

County Board will act on 18 appointments at next meeting

Eighteen appointments to County Boards and Commissions will be considered by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners at its next daytime meeting, October 13.

The appointments will be made to fill vacancies created by the upcoming expiration of appointed terms. Present members may be re-appointed or others appointed in their places.

Those whose appointments will soon expire are:

Act 258 (Mental Health) Board: Thora Kotowich, East Jordan.

Board of (Election) Canvassers: Eleanor Sutliff, Boyne City, and Irene Mackie, Walloon Lake.

Commission on Aging: Marvin Loding, Boyne City; George Newson, Boyne Falls; Jay Oliver, Charlevoix; and Martin Paul, Boyne City.

Construction Code Board of Appeals: Ray Wood, Charlevoix; Walter Sayles, Boyne Falls; and Elmer Hammontree, Boyne City.

County Building Authority: William G. Boswell, East Jordan.

Parks & Recreation Commission: Thomas Garlock, Boyne City, and Wayne Saunders, East Jordan.

Planning Commission: Larry Levengood; Charlevois; Walter Thorsen, East Jordan; and Ray Towne, Boyne City.

Veterans' Affairs Committee (Vietnam Conflict): Robert Muma, Charlevoix.

Welfare Board; Eileen Rouse, Boyne City.

Patterson speech...

taxes should be lowered, especially for senior citizens, and not relied upon as the major source of school funds. However, he does think control of the schools should remain local.

One way to attack welfare fraud, according to Patterson, would be to provide welfare recipients with photo identification cards. Cutting welfare payments in Michigan to the average payments of other Great Lakes States could save $2 million, Patterson says. Also, "work fare" – working for at least a part of welfare paymenta – is a good idea, he believes.

Patterson does not believe in gun control.

He does not think lawbreakers such as shoplifters, income tax evaders, and NSF check passers belong in jail except in rare cases. His answer to the overcrowding of prisons is the use of empty institutional buildings which could be easily converted for prison use. He cited Kincheloe Air Force Base as a successful example but noted that it could readily be doubled in size.

About the "softness" of the judicial system, Patterson said that "when people are unwilling to mete out punishment to fit the crime, they bring on anarchy and vigilante justice".

Crime prevention has an important part in Patterson's scheme of things, but he said it takes a lot of education.

"How many of you have stamped your name or your social security number on your possessions?" he asked. "That would prevent a lot of thievery. Also, what about that kid that took a bike just to go for a ride? Are you following up on him?"

"Yes, agriculture could add a lot to the economy of Michigan", Patterson answered a question. "We should develop more agricultural plants. It's our second largest industry."

"And our lake ports, too. They have all kinds of possibilities."

Patterson says he is in the Governor's race to stay as the result of a $21,000 survey made by a New York City public opinion polister.

"They compared my chances with those of Milliken, Brickley, Headlee, and the others, and I showed up well," he said. "Also, we have raised over $50,000 so we now qualify for matching funds."

Parent Mini-Sessions set at high school

Parents of Charlevoix High School students are invited to attend Parent-Teacher Mini-Sessions Tuesday, September 29 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The purpose of the this annual open house is to introduce parents to both the daily schedule of their children and to their teachers.

The schedule is as follows: Coffee hour in the cafeteria, 6:30 to 6:55; First period, 7:00 to 7:15; Second period, 7:20 to 7:35; Third period, 7:40 to 7:55; Fourth period, 8:00 to 8:15; Fifth period, 8:20 to 8:35; Sixth period, 8:40 to 8:55.

Individual conferences will be held from 9 to 9:30 to allow parents to see teachers of their choice.

Additional Parent-Teacher Conferences for the high school will be held Tuesday, November 10 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. More details on these conferences will be available later.

HOW TO TELL THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A SMALL BUSINESS COMPUTER AND A SMALL TIME COMPUTER.

There are a lot of small time computers trying to pass themselves off as small business computers. Beware! Owning one of these small impostors can be a big mistake.

Small time computers are basically toys. To them business is just a part time job. An authentic small business computer like the Commodore CBM is built specifically for business. It works all the time. And it has the software to prove it.

The small timers have small screens. The CBM has one of the largest screens in the business. And unlike these small impostors who have small memories, the CBM can store over a million pieces of information. So if you're looking for a business computer, make sure you get a business computer. After all, you wouldn't want to trust your business to a computer that specializes in TIC TAC TOE.

New school milk system is 'in the bag'

by ANNE KELLY

"The milk that your kids are drinking today at school may very well have been processed this morning," explains Richard (Rick) Davidson of Kewadin.

A family operation for years, Davidson's dairy farm has added a new feature to the age-old process of providing the public with Vitamin D. He jokingly dubs the process "From bag to bag" (sorry Elsie!)

The Davidsons handle the total milk service from milking to pasteurizing to homogenizing and, now, to bagging. They call themselves "producer handlers" to distinguish their operation from those which only either produce the milk or package the distribute it. There are only six operations like it in the state of Michigan. Davidson figures that his savings on shipping costs alone are substantial, and that now he can reinvest those savings in a process which he feels provides a fresh and quality product to the consumer.

Charlevix schools are among eight other districts experimenting with the new idea. Davidson estimates that about 8,000 kids are drinking this quality, locally produced and distributed milk.

How is the "bagged" concept going over in the cafeteria?

Administrators and cafeteria personnel agree that after the initial shock of change from the old cardboard milk container wore off, that the kids and the bags are doing quite well. From a practical standpoint, the bagged milk is easier to handle, takes up less storage space, is less expensive and easier to dispose of than the cartons. Bags are drained and incinerated after the lunch hours with no pollution dangers. The bags release only carbon dioxide and water vapor when burned. Children are supposedly drinking more milk since they can now see exactly how much is left in the containers. The temptation to "stuff" unwanted portions of a lunch in an empty milk carton has been eliminated.

Since there is no longer any secret niche wherein to hide the peas, is all the fun gone from lunchtime? I checked with several studenta dining in the cafeteria on "Pizza Day" this week.

"You can squeeze them and milk will shoot out the straw" pointed out one young lady.

"They're wierd," commented another.

"I think they're fun, "enthused still another as she demonstrated the "stabbing" of the straw into the plastic bag.

After the first week of school, the novelty for the most part had already worn off, and the cafeteria was down to the usual business of "please pass the coleslaw." Everyone was quite nonchalantly sipping their milk unconcerned with the container or the company which distributes it known as – are you ready? "Mill-Ke-Way!"

Planning commission okays McDonalds; now up to Council

McDonald's moved a step closer toward establishing a restaurant in Charlevoix last week when the Charlevoix City Planning Commission approved the restaurant's site plan and parking variance.

The restaurant franchise holder has not yet applied for a sign permit, but it is understood he will follow the recommendations of the Planning Commission as to type and size of sign – a custom-made wooden sign no more than 36 square feet in area and with a maximum height of eight feet.

The City Council will consider McDonald's plans at a special meeting on September 28 at 8 p.m.

Sewer jet will ease blockage

Some of Charlevoix's sewer blockage problems may be eased by a new piece of equipment recently purchased by the city. Mounted on a 1971 Ford chassis, the "sewer jet" is comprised of a 550 foot hose that shoots water out at about 1,200 pounds of pressure. As the hose propels itself through the sewer lines, sand and other debris is pushed to a collecting point at which it is vacuumed up. The unit's water tank, shown above by Street Dept. Supervisor Leonard Dubey, is 1,200 gallons. The actual jet, right, is mounted on the back. The unit cost $19,000; for every hour of its use, it is expected to save about eight hours of manual sewer clearing.

Grandvue depends on volunteers

by PEG OHLE

If one were to ask what County facility the residents of Charlevoix County are most proud of, the answer would probably be the Grandvue Medical and Residential Care Facility.

A few years back, when building the Residential Care Unit was under consideration, the County Board of Commissioners did not hesitate to ask County residents to vote on a one mill tax levy for three years to pay for the unit. Somehow they knew the millage would pass, and it did.

That is only one example of the community's caring for and support of Grandvue.

However, there is one organization that devotes all its efforts to help the patients at Grandvue. It is the Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary, now in its 13th year of operation. Composed of women from all over the County, the Auxiliary provides not only "extra things", but personal attention to the patients.

Now the Auxiliary is asking for help. It needs more members – many more members, both women and men – to assist with its services to Grandvue patients.

Most particularly, the Auxiliary would like to sign up relatives and friends of persons who are patients at Grandvue.

Members of the Grandvue Auxiliary meet only once a month, but in between meetings, many of them volunteer their time "helping out" at Grandvue. It may be only an hour or two a week one day a month, or any regular or irregular schedule, but whatever it is, it's worthwhile help.

These volunteers may spend their time in the Diversional Therapy Department playing games with the patients; they may take a patient to an appointment with a doctor or dentist, or even just for a ride; they may help him write a letter; they may participate in the monthly decoration of the bulletin board; they may assist with religious services; they may shampoo and set a head of thin gray hair; or they may just sit and chat to help pass a lonely hour.

Whatever they do, these Auxiliary volunteers are helping to make the life of a senior citizen more pleasant.

It doesn't cost much to belong to the Grandvue Auxiliary. Active memberships are $2 a year (these are the persons who spend time helping at the Facility), and associate memberships are $3 a year. There are also life members at $50.

It can be noted that the Grandvue Auxiliary does not take in much money in membership fees. That is one reason why each year it has a Tag Day and, from time to time, other fund-raising events.

With these funds, the Auxiliary has bought many extra items for the patients, including whirlpool bathtubs, beauty shop equipment, patio furniture, rocking

Choice was good but shauld not have been made in secret

Charlevoix has a new city manager and the choice made by the City Council appears to be a good one. Appointee Robert A. Hunt has not only has extensive experience in municipal government but also specific experience in a very attractive and successful resort community. His background is almost tailor-made for what Charlevoix needs in a city manager.

We are bothered, however, by secrecy with which the selection was made.

Nobody in city government has more contact with the general public than the city manager. At least that's the idea under the city charter. The city manager is the one to whom people are to come with a problem and upon whom the responsibility of running the city rests. In short, he is the most important city employee we have.

It seems to us that the process to find a new manager should have included, at some point, a chance for the public to participate. It was not until an offer was tendered to Hunt and accepted that his name was even made public thus preventing anyone from being able to examine his qualifications and find out why the council made their choice.

In a strict legal sense, there were no violations of the Michigan Open Meeting Law. In many other states, however, the filing of administrative positions or council vacancies are required to be openly discussed. The Lawrence (Massachusetts) Eagle Tribune and the Massachusetts Newspaper Publishers Association recently sued a town council for selecting a new city manager in secret. On August 11, the judge in the case ordered the council to reveal the names of the candidates. In Bar Harbor, Maine a weekly newspaper sued the city council for filling a council seat on a secret ballot. The council reversed itself.

We are not asking that the interviews become free-for-alls. What would have been appropriate in this case would have been for the council to announce their choice at least a week before voting to make a formal offer. As it was, a special meeting was hurriedly called and the name of the candidate not even released until during that meeting. There was no chance for anyone to question the council's decision.

This time, we think the council made an excellent decision. Had it been otherwise, however, nobody would have known until it was too late. Such is the danger of secret government.

Congrats to Mac's

It was on these pages two weeks ago that we expresed hope that the proposed McDonald's restuarant would recognize the unique Charlevoix environment in its design. It was thus gratifying to learn that a custom carved wooden sign, in full compliance with the city's ordinance, will replace the familiar neon variety at the restaurant-to-be; there will not even be a lit sign across the building as on other McDonalds franchises. This cooperative gesture should be congratulated; the new McDonalds should fit into Charlevoix very well indeed.

Knight on the Town

A job well done

by Dave Knight

With his resignation in August, former City Manager Jim Brinker ended the longest tenure of any city manager in Charlevoix's history; two years. His predecessor, the first city manager under the new charter established three years ago, held the post for nine months.

To the statistician, that makes the average stay for city managers in Charlevoix about 16½ months.

But don't give much weight to that figure; there is a lot more stability at City Hall than it would indicate. Much of the credit for establishing that stability goes to Brinker who is now into real estate (see page 12.)

When he became city manager on an acting basis in the spring of 1979, the city had just been through a rather trying experience with its first manager. Serious communication gaps had developed between the council and the manager's office thus rendering the newly structured charter form of government somewhat ineffective. Those who had opposed the charter, and the hiring of a manager, had predicted as much.

Brinker had only been employed by the city as comptroller for two months when he was tapped for the manager's job. It is to his credit that, in a little over two years, he demonstrated that not only can city government run smoothly under the charter but that much can be accomplished with a full-time manager riding herd on special projects and providing citizens with a visible problem-solver.

"I think helping people with their problems was probably the most satisfying part of the job," said Brinker, "Sometimes they may seem small at first but you have to remember that when someone comes in with a problem, it is the most important thing in the world to them."

Among his accomplishments, Brinker says that establishing an open-door policy for the city manager's position was one of the most important. "The city manager must have the complete confidence of the people and the only way to gain their confidence is to have as much direct contact with the people as possible," he says, "That is why my door was always open."

While confidence of the people is important, confidence of the council members in the city manager is crucial if the charter is to work. It was that confidence that was strained last winter during a messy personnel problem on the police force. The council's hesitation to fully support Brinker's action of terminating Officer Pat Martin was extremely frustrating to Brinker and almost prompted him to quit.

Since then he has received numerous votes of confidence from council members and several expressed sincere disappointment when he announced his resignation. Said Ray Wood at the council meeting when the resignation came up, "Do we have to accept it?"

Said Brinker last week, "I want to make it clear that I am leaving the job on a very good note and on very good terms with the council."

And well he should be.

His accomplishments include some very significant steps forward for Charlevoix. Among other things, Brinker:

-Coordinated a successful bond election to finance a new 300,000-gallon water tank which more than triples the city's storage capacity.

-Oversaw completion, one year ahead of schedule, of the municipal dock renovation which has made Charlevoix one of the nicest boating facilities in the Midwest.

-Brought Charlevoix into the Michigan Public Power Association which purchased the Consumers Power Campbell No. 3 plant and has resulted in lower electric rates for city customers than either Consumers' retail rate or that of Top O' Michigan rural electric co-op.

-Improved greatly the city's financial condition which was dismal enough in 1979 to neccessitate the obtaining of tax anticipation notes to pay the bills; no such notes have been needed since.

-Saw to the completion of an erosion control project at the city's Lake Michigan park and initiated similar action at Mt. McSauba.

-Consolidated the budget process to make it simpler and involved more city department heads in its development to make it more workable.

New roads now lie ahead for both Jim Brinker and the City of Charlevoix. Thanks to Brinker, at least the road faced by the city will be much smoother.

Clockwise

Into the Agawa Canyon

by Bob Clock

Did you know the "Rocky Mountains" begin a scant 100 miles from Charlevoix?

I had heard of the Algoma Range northeast of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, likened to the Rockies before. And I have driven through the fringe area between the Soo and Wawa.

But it wasn't until the Blue Ribbon Lottery Club from the Petoskey News-Review took the Agawa Canyon Train Tour recently that I realized what a stupendous scenic wonder lies at our doorstep.

I have traveled through the real Rockies by train, and I can vouch for the fact that, from the standpoint of scenery, there's hardly a dime's worth of difference between the two.

The Algoma Central Railroad tracks snake through some of the most rugged terrain west of the Mississippi, hugging mountainsides, skirting awesome precipices, inching over trestles more than 100 feet in the air, playing tag with racing mountain streams and breaking the solitude of picturesque wilderness lakes fringed with firs and hardwoods.

The tour stops at Agawa Canyon, a narrow river valley between precipitous rock ridges more than 1,000 feet high. The railroad has developed a picnic ground along the Agawa River for the 90-minute layover. Travelers are invited to visit either of two nearby waterfalls — Bridal Veil or Black Beaver — or follow a trail punctuated with staircases to a viewing platform high above the canyon floor.

From the platform, the train, the canyon, the river, the park all appear to be a miniature papier mache setting for an electric train tableau in somebody's basement.

Another train takes visitors to the Otters' Playground where a family of otters may be observed from time to time frolicking in their pool or sliding down the rocky banks, according to the Agawa Canyon brochure. During our visit, we saw only one otter peeping out from his lair. A bad case of stage fright, I'd say.

Now for some specifics, if you're interested.

The day-long trip costs $21 (Canadian) for adults and $10 for school-age children. Kids under 5 travel free. Of course, the discount on American money is running between 15 and 18 percent, so your trip will cost considerably less.

The trains leave the Algoma Central Railroad station at the Soo at 8 a.m. daily from May 30 to Oct. 12. The early departure means that it is wise to travel to the Soo the day before and stay overnight at one of the nearby motels.

I understand the train also runs weekends after Oct. 12 and winter tours start in January. There is no stopover at the canyon from January through March because of the extremely cold temperatures and generally inclement weather.

A dining car is available. The breakfast special costs only $3.50 (Canadian) and the day we went included Canadian bacon, link sausage, scrambled eggs, pancakes and coffee by the pot. The dining car — like the coaches — was clean and bright.

Box lunches also are served for your stopover in the canyon — or you can pack your own picnic lunch.

The Blue Ribbon Lottery Club considers the trip well worth taking. If you'd like more information, you can write to the Algoma Central Railway, Sault Ste. Marie 25, Ontario, P6A 5P6, or telephone (705) 254-4331.

I was profoundly surprised at your agitated response in the 9-16-81 Courier to my letter in the 9-2-81 Courier in reference to biking for hunger.

Had I known that you cannot tolerate open criticism of your editorial beliefs without taking personal affront when obviously none was intended, I certainly would never have written the letter.

Antagonistic editorial opinions quite often invite reader response; chairs, fencing, and shrubbery.

With the dual purpose of volunteering their services and raising funds for Grandvue, members of the Auxiliary meet on the second Thursday of each month at the Fecility on Peninsula Road in East Jordan. They listen to speakers on a variety of subjects, some serious, some entertaining, but their buisness meeting is always associated with helping the patients.

September is membership month for the Grandvue Auxiliary.

This year, Mary Margaret Gelken of Charlevoix is membership chairman. She is issuing that apecial call for membersbips from friends and relatives of Grandvue patients and hoping that many others will also sign up.

The Auxiliary is a real county-wide organization, as witnessed by its officers: preaident, Lucille Dolwick of Boyne City; president-elect, Joanna Gunn of Charlevoix; secretary, Jean Korthase of Boyne City; and treasurer, Phyllis Malpass of East Jordan.

Membership dues and contributions may be sent to Mrs. Malpass at Box 412, East Jordan, 49727. If you're proud of Grandvue, you may show it by joining the Auxiliary.

Girl Scout sign up day

Next Friday, September 25, is the day for all Charlevoix girls to sign up for Girl Scout troops.

Scout leaders will be at both the Elementary School and St. Mary's School during the lunch hour to give out information and take the names and phone numbers of interested girls.

Middle School girls who did not register last year may do so between now and September 25 by calling Jill Washburn at 547-4202. All previously registered girls will be contacted by their leaders.

Girl Scouting is for all girls from the first through twelfth grades. If enough interest is shown, a senior troop of high school age girls will be formed this year.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Washburn.

Need leaders

Charlevoix Girl Scouts need help. They need leaders for first and third grade Brownie troops and the fifth grade Junior troop.

Training will be provided for any persons who would like to spend some time helping Charlevoix girls with worthwhile projects, according to Scout executive Jill Washburn.

Interested persons should contact Mrs. Washburn at 547-4202.

GEM WISE

SAPPHIRES, AMERICAN STYLE

Colleen Titsworth
Manager

Did you know that the largest proven sapphire deposit in the world is located in our own state of Montana? The mine in Yogo Gulch extends for five miles and is becoming a major producer.

The Yogo Gulch deposit was first discovered by accident in the 1890's. A group of miners happened upon it in their search for gold, at first mistaking the gem crystals for broken bits of glass.

The mine was successfully worked for 30 years and then shut down. It was not until 1977 that serious mining was resumed. About 70,000 tons of rock have been processed since then.

The Yogo deposit is the only one which is still in its place of formation. All other sapphire deposits are alluvial, that is, the gem material broke loose from its host rock through weathering, was washed away into rivers and streams, and was buried beneath sand and debris.

The American Gem Society recently presented to the Smithsonian Institution a collection of jewelry set with American gemstones. The collection was designed by Aldo Cipullo, a famous New York designer, and manufactured by top American Gem Society jewelry manufacturers plus a few friends of AGS. Of the 31 pieces in the collection, seven of them contain Montana sapphires.

The AGS American Gemstone Jewelry Collection will be touring the country for two years. Hopefully, it will hit our city so you can see these fine pieces. In the meantime, be sure to come into our store and see the lovely collection of sapphire jewelry we keep in stock.

Rayders breeze to home opener win

Ross Carey hauls in a second quarter touchdown pass.

It was the home opener for the Charlevoix Rayders Friday night at Kipke Field and they gave their fans plenty to cheer about. In the last non-conference match-up of the schedule, Charlevoix shut out Benzie Central by an impressive 31-0 score.

Charlevoix dominated the game racking up 384 yards of total offense. Running back Mark Beaudoin had a particularly successful evening scoring three times for the Rayders.

The first points on the board came at the 4:27 mark of the first quarter when Ross Carey sacked the Benzie quarterback in his own endzone for a safety and a 2-0 Charlvoix lead.

The Rayders then took possession following the Benzie kick and marched down to the Benzie two-yard line from which Beaudoin crashed over for the TD. Mark Morgan kicked the extra point to make it 9-0 Charlevoix.

With about 2:44 left in the second quarter, Rayder quarterback Scott Kelly lofted a perfect toss to Carey in the endzone from 23 yards out. Beaudoin then ran for two extra points allowing Charlevoix to take a 17-0 lead into the locker room.

In the third quarter, Charlevoix kept the pressure on with another Beaudoin touchdown run, this one from the eight yard line. Kelly ran for two more points for a 25-0 cushion.

Beaudoin struck once more in the final quarter when he ripped a nine-yard scoring run off. The extra point try was no good, however, leaving the final score at 31-0.

Mike Loper again anchored the defense logging 15 individual tackles. Beaudoin had ten. Defensive back Dave Buday halted two Benzie drives with interceptions, defensive end Chris Putman recovered one fumble as did Loper.

Statistically, the Rayders recorded 12 first downs to Benzie's eight. Kelly connected on five of 17 passes for 107 yards while Benzie completed seven of 19 for 69 yards. Rushing yardage really told the story as the Rayders led in this category 277 yards to 62 for Benzie.

Michigan-Huron Shoreа conference action comes to Kipke Field next Friday when cross-county rival Boyne City visits Charlevoix. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Junior Varsity

The Charlevoix Junior Varsity football team got off to a roaring start last Thursday swamping their Mancelona counterparts 55-0.

The Rayders racked up eight unanswered touchdowns in the game, four in the first quarter, one in the second, one in the third and two in the fourth.

Shawn Hartnett set the tone of the game on the first play from scrimmage when he ripped off a 56-yard scoring run. Hartnett scored again in the third quarter on a 13-yard run.

Two touchdown runs were made by Thad Morgan, who had one of 37 yards and one of one yard; Morgan also converted seven of eight extra point attempts. Pat Mitchell scored on runs of nine yards and 23 yards, both in the first quarter.

John Marsh scored on a four-yard run in the second quarter and Tim LaBlance ran it in from 30 yards out in the fourth.

Charlevoix accumulated 409 yards on offense, 377 passing and 32 passing. Their next game is Thursday, Sept. 24 at Boyne City. Kickoff is 6:30 p.m.

Flag Football

The Charlevoix Flag Football season opened recently with two fine games marking the event.

The Steelers edged the Seahawks 13-12 in the opener and the Cowboys defeated the Saints 15-6 in the nightcap.

The Seahawks got off to a fast start with Deano Drost scoring on a five yard run in the opening period before the Steelers' Jim Morgridge came back to knot the score on a 30 yard kick-off return.

Larry Drost snapped the tie when he added six points on a 40 yard kick-off return to open the second half. Later in the period, Morgridge scored again, this time on a 20 yard run and then added the conversion point which gave the Steelers' the one point victory.

In the second game, the Cowboys did all their scoring in the first period to oust the Saints 15-6 as Jody Putman scored a safety to give the victors two points. He then scored on a five yard run and passed to Brian Wilmot for the extra point and a nine point lead. Putman gave the Cowboys 15 points on a 27 yard pass to Wilmot to wrap up the game. The Saints single TD came late in the game on an 11 yard pass play from Carl Rothenberger to Dan Drury that prevented a shut-out.

Girls off to 2-0 start

The Charlevoix girls basketball team, coached by Henry Wagner, opened its 1981 schedule with two wins over non-league rivals Central Lake and Elk Rapids. The team will meet Johannesburg-Lewiston on the home floor Tuesday before going into its league schedule against Boyne City here on Thursday.

In the season opener, Charlevoix jumped to a 16-10 first period win, held visiting Central Lake to two point in the second period to go ahead 29-12 at halftime before having a bad third period that allowed the visitors to cut the margin to 39-26 before the locals coasted to an easy victory.

Laura Kemp paced Charlevoix with 12 points followed by 10 each by Holly Taber and Rhonda Buchanan. Tracy Johnson had 15 points for the visitors.

In the game with Elk Rapids, Charlevoix overcame a one-point deficit at the three-quarter mark, outschoring Elk Rapids 17-4 in the final period to chalk up a 42-30 victory. The team had trailed 26-25 at the end of the third quarter.

Charlevoix had taken a 12-6 first period advantage and was ahead 22-16 at halftime before being held to three points in the third period.

Kemp again led the scoring, this time with 17 points plus 10 rebound to her credit. Taber accounted with 14 rebounds. Barb Glowicki had 10 points for the visitors.

Sue Regina, a transfer student, scored 10 points as the Charlevix JV's posted a 53-23 win.

Adult rec league meetings planned

Looking forward to recreation for the adults in the community, Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has called organizational meetings for both men's and women's as well as mixed volleyball leagues and for men's basketball leagues.

The meetings are scheduled for Thursday, October 8, with both men and women interested in volleyball meeting in the communly room at the city hall at 7 p.m. and those interested in basketball at 8 p.in.

Golfers third of three

The Charlevoix Rayder golf team, in its first outing of the 1981 season, came in third in a triangular meet at Petoskey last week Coach Glen Taylor reports.

Petoskey won the meet with an overall score of 164 points to 181 for Alpena and 182 for Charlevoix.

Dan Turcott of Petoskey was medalist for the meet with a score of 38 for nine holes.

For Charlevoix Jeff Greene had a score of 44, Steve Keller and Bill Joy, 45 each and Doug Drenth 48.

Besides Turcott's 38, Brian Grow and John Johnson had scores of 41 each and Steve Linck 44 for Petoskey.

Scoring for Alpena were Ballor with 41, Bushey 45, Gruden 47 and Nowak 48.

Charlevoix Rayders have a busy week on the links ahead of them. After hosting Cheboygan here Monday, they will be at Harbor Springs on Wednesday and at home with Elk Rapids on Friday and Boyne City on Monday.

CC team beats two

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers topped Gaylord and Boyne City in a triangular meet held Tuesday at Boyne City.

Charlevoix had 21 points; Gaylord, 56, and Boyne City, 74.

Charlevoix took seven of the top 11 places in the meet.

Charlevoix's Bill Taylor set the pace for the meet in a time of 16:34.

Jim Duke finished second with a time of 16:43. He was followed by Bowllen of Gaylord who covered the course in 16:43; Matt Peterson, 17:04; Todd Russell, 17:15; Hulett, Boyne City, 17:17; Brabs, Boyne City, 17:25; Embrel, Gaylord, 17:28; Jim Landon, 17:38; John Tunison, 17:45; Lee Allard, 17:46.

Charlevoix runners will participate in the Ludington Invitational meet Saturday.

Runners 2nd at Ludington

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country Team placed second among 13 class B-C-D teams entered in the Ludington Invitational meet Saturday Coach Pete Spieles reports.

The Rayders had a total of 62 points. Benzie Central won the meet with 50 points. Muskegon Dakridge placed third with 79 points.

Bill Taylor had Charlevoix's best time, 17:23, to place fifth among the 91 participants in the event. The winning time was 16:57 over a hilly 5 K. (3.1 miles) course.

Matt Peterson with a time of 17:57; Jim Duke, 13th, 18:06; Todd Russell, 16th, 18:12; Jim Landon, 18th, 18:16; Bill Dohrn, 21st, 18:32; and John Tunison, 33rd, 19:12.

Coach Spieles said his young runners are doing a good job and were cutting down on the time between runners.

The JV division of the meet was an open race with 60 participants.

Charlevoix runners and how they scored follows: Matt Landon, 9th, 19:44; Tim Louiselle, 11th, 19:56; Ron Way, 12th, 19:57; Van Sloan, 16th, 20:39; Steve Young, 17th, 20:51; Lee Allard, 20th, 22:21; Dave Miller, 38th 24:47; and Jeff DeVries, 43rd, 25:10.

Charlevoix will host Boyne City and St. Ignace at the course at the Belvedere Golf course.

City of Charlevoix Council Minutes September 14, 1981 8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time in a Special Council Meeting called for the purpose of setting salary and fringe benefits for the prospective City Manager. Mayor Supernaw presided.

Present: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block and Porter. Absent: None.

Mayor Supernaw stated that the Council had generally agreed to offer a salary of $28,000 plus all regular fringe benefits received by City employees to the prospective Manager. Robert Muma, Acting Manager, stated that, in addition to the regular fringe benefits, the prospective Manager had also requested two weeks paid vacation rather than one, that the City contribute to the ICMA deferred compensation plan on his behalf, and a one year contract. Mayor Supernaw then announced to the General Public present that Robert A. Hunt of Steamboat Springs, Colorado had been offered the position of City Manager. The Mayor also gave a brief summary of Mr. Hunt's background and outlined the offer that Council had made to him. Following further discussion it was generally agreed to accept Mr. Hunt's request for two weeks vacation and a one year contract. It was also agreed not to contribute to the ICMA on Mr. Hunt's behalf at this time but to review his request in six months. Council also approved paying moving expenses for Mr. Hunt which would be held to a minimum due to his plans to rent a truck and move himself.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Wood to offer the position of City Manager to Robert A. Hunt at an annual salary of $28,000 with all fringe benefits received by other City employees and ten days paid vacation with the Council to review Mr. Hunt's request for a City contribution to the ICMA deferred compensation plan after he has completed six months employment with the City.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Deanne Balch,
City Clerk

Samuel C. Supernaw,
Mayor

School board accepts K-5 heating plan

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education voted to accept a recommendation from Haggard Plumbing regarding the heating system at the Charlevoix Elementary School, set the tuition for the current school year, named coaches for the Middle School girls basketball teams and named a committee to review the policy and make recommendations relating to the immunization program.

John Haggard of Haggard Plumbing advised the board of his findings regarding the heating system at the Elementary School and made several recommendations for improving its operation. He advised revamping the system by installing insulation over the radiant heating panels, installing temperature controls, revising the fan system and reaired adjustments which he said should better control the heating system and cut fuel costs by an estimated 20 percent.

The board accepted the company's bid of $13,400 for the work which Haggard said could begin in about two weeks.

Tuition rates for the 1981-82 school year were set at $2,471 for the Elementary School and $2,558 for the High School as compared to $2,159 and $2,235 respectively for the 1980-81 school year. The rates are set by a state formula and the schools have no tuition students at this time.

Barry Pierce and Staley Martin were approved as coaches for the seventh and eighth grade girls basketball teams respectively. The teams will have a total of six games with schools in the immediate area and a junior high tournament at Cheboygan.

Mrs. Ardeth Wieland, Mrs. Geraldine Brady, school nurse, and Supt. Gordon VanWieren were named to review and make recommendations regarding the School Immunization Exclusion Policy.

City council turns down variance request the public walkway to Lake Michigan that adjoins his property.

Zoning laws require a 15-foot sideyard setback.

Citing the need to protect his car from the severe weather off the lake and to provide a place to store personal property, Berlage termed the variance a "reasonable request."

Council member Shirley Roloff disagreed, however, on the claim that the lot is nonconforming and said that there was "a lack of unnecessary hardship" to warrant approval of the request. On her motion, the council voted 5-1 to deny the request with Earl Muma voting in the minority.

Other requests for sideyard setbacks came from Don and Joyce Brown, 501 Newman St., and Rose Mary Warner, 1111 Grant St. Construction on a garage on the Brown property was recently halted by Acting City Manager Robert Muma when he discovered that lot measurements submitted to the city for a building permit were inaccurate. The council voted to table the matter until more information can be received.

They also tabled the Warner request because the complete plans for the project had not been finished.

In other action, the council:

-Set October 19 public hearings for amendments to ordinances dealing with off-street parking requirements, weed control, minimum lot width for R-1 zoning and the addition of the word "vacant" to the nonconforming lot ordinance.

-Agreed to repair a blown engine in the Charlevoix Fire Department's newly refurbished 34,000 gallon tank truck; estimates were at $2,000 for a new engine.

Back pain to be subject of hospital program

Back pain -- excruciating, sudden, inexplicable -- will be the topic at Charlevoix Area Hospital's free Community Education meeting Monday, September 28 at 7:30 pm.

Bob Gorkiewicz, hospital Physical Therapist, will discuss the bows, the what to do's and the how to prevents of back pain.

Using slides, he will explain how the human back is designed and what happens when either you try to lift an abnormally heavy load or when weakened tissues react to what was once a normal load.

Once in the throes of back pain, there can be relief. Gorkiewicz will discuss appropriate pain relieving remedies, including back supports, ice, heat and gentle stretching exercises. A staff physician will be on hand to discuss medications.

The program, free to the public, will be conducted in the new classrooms at the lower level of Charlevoix Area Hospital's new wing. Gorkiewicz cautions, this presentation is about "mechanical back pain, not arthritic or structural problems."

The program is another in a series of Community Education and Preventive Medicine Programs that the hospital offers as a service to the area.

LAWRENCE N. DITLEFSEN

Funeral services for CDR. Lawrence N. (Buck) Ditlefsen, 83, who died Saturday at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility where he had been a patient since May, will be held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 11 a.m. Wednesday. Rev. R. Dale Magoon of St. Mary's Church will officiate. Graveside services at St. Mary's Cemetery will be conducted by Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M.

Born in Manistee on June 5, 1898, Lawrence Nordrum Ditlefsen lived in Petoskey briefly before coming to Charlevoix as a child. He attended Charlevoix High School. In May, 1917 he joined the Lighthouse Service until January, 1918, when he enlisted in the U.S. Army. During World War I, he served 20 months in France and with the Army of Occupation in Germany. Following his discharge he was employed briefly by the Pittsburgh Steamship Company. In 1921, he returned to the Lighthouse Service and when the Coast Guard took over the service in 1937 he was master of Lighthouse Buoy Tenders. In May, 1940, he joined the U.S. Coast Guard and was commanding officer of a buoy tender and later was stationed at Coast Guard Base Detroit until February 1943 when he was assigned to the South Pacific. During the next two years he was commanding officer of various small ships until the end of World War II. He was then assigned to the Ninth Coast Guard District office in Cleveland. At the time of his retirement in October, 1953, he was chief of Aids to Navigation Section of the district office. He retired as a full commander after 39 years of service. At that time, he and his wife, the former Myrtle Douglas Bradley whom he had married at Charlevoix, Aug. 8, 1932, returned to Charlevoix to make their home. He then sailed with the Hutchinson Steam Ship Company and the International Harvester Line until 1958.

He was a member of the Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M. and the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. John (Grace) Sexton of Cocoa Beach, Fla.; a step-son, John C. Bradley of Charlevoix, captain of the Medusa Challenger; nine step-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. John (Marguerite) Whitiock of Charlevoix.

Friends may meet the family from 2 until 4 p.m. and 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday at the Winchester Funeral Home.

JUDY A. SUOMELA

Services for Judy A. Suomela, 42, 1801 Chelsea Circle, Flint, were held Saturday, September 12 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Flint with Pastor Edward W. Trost officiating. Mrs. Suomela died Wednesday, September 9 at McClaren General Hospital. Burial was in Flint at Sunset Hills, Cemetery.

Mrs. Suomela was born March 12, 1939 in Charlevoix, the youngest daughter of Hap and Norma Cunningham. She married Dale Suomela in June, 1962 and had lived in Flint for the past 19 years. She was a member of St. Paul Lutheran Church, past board member of the Flint Swim and Racquet Club, active in community school organizations at Summerfield School, was a Brownie troop leader and a volunteer for the YMCA swim team. Mrs. Suomela was employed as a surgical L.P.N.

Survivors include her husband Dale; three children, Lisa Ann, Kirt Dale and Erick Albert, all at home; her parents, Hap and Norma Cunningham of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. Bill (B.J.) Steffens of Petoskey and Mrs. Dean (Joyce) Davenport of Big Rapids; and several nieces and nephews.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE
MT. McSAUBA RECREATION AREA
MICHIGAN

AGENCY: Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture

ACTION: Notice of Finding of No Significant Impact

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Homer R. Hilner, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, 1405 South Harrison Road, East Lansing, Michigan 48823, telephone 517-337-6702

NOTICE: Pursuant to Section 102(2)(C) of the National Environment Policy Act of 1969, the Council on Environmental Quality Guidelines, 140 CFR Part 1500), and the Soil Conservation service Guidelines (7 CFR Part 650), the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, gives you notice that an environmental impact statement is not being prepared for the Mt. McSauba Recreation Area, RC&D Measure, Charlevoix County, Michigan.

The environmental assessment of this federally assisted action indicates that the project will not cause significant local, regional, or national impacts on the environment. As a result of these findings, Mr. Homer R. Hilner, State Conservationist, has determined that the preparation and review of an environmental impact statement are not needed for this project.

This measure concerns a plan for the installation of practices for critical area treatment. The planned works of improvement include the following items: 7 acres of beachgrass planting, 600 linear feet of wind breaks, 2 access gates, 3,100 linear feet of recreation trail, 5.5 acres of sod, fertilizer and mulch and 970 linear feet of vehicle barriers. Total construction cost is estimated to be $35,300, $26,500 RC&D funds and $8,800 local funds.

The Notice of a Finding of No Significant Impact (FNSI) has been forwarded to the Environmental Protection Agency. The basic data developed during the environmental assessment are on file and may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Homer R. Hilner. The FNSI has been sent to various federal, state, and local agencies and interested parties. A limited number of copies of the FNSI are available to fill single copy requests at the above address.

Implementation of the proposal will not be initiated until 30 days after the date of this publication in the Federal Register.

Homer R. Hilner,
State Conservationist

NOTICE SPECIAL ELECTION

PEAINE TOWNSHIP CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN OCTOBER 5, 1981

RECALL PROPOSITION
REASON FOR DEMANDING RECALL OF EDWARD PALMER, SUPERVISOR

1. That he, Edward Palmer, recommended to the Township Board that it spend an initial sum of Twenty Thousand ($20,000) Dollars in contribution to acquiring a fire station jointly with St. James Township without first recommending that the Township Board obtain a cost study to insure equitable benefits for Peaine Township in relationship to its portion, space, and use of the fire station, and,

2. That he, Edward Palmer, attempted to let a road maintenance materials contract out for over Six Thousand ($6,000) Dollars for the purchase of chloride to a family member without first obtaining Township Board approval or submitting the contract for competitive bids.

EDWARD PALMER'S JUSTIFICATION OF HIS CONDUCT IN OFFICE

1. The $20,000.00 that was approved for building a fire station and substation was put into a construction fund for the Beaver Island Fire Department. This money is controlled and spent only after a recommendation of the Construction Committee with the approval of the Township Boards, individually.

Peaine Township will pay only for its share (50%) for the main fire station building that is used for the fire department and its share (50%) of the substation. Any intelligent board can ascertain that part of the building that is used by the fire department without paying for an expensive cost study. This act was approved by the Board and not just the Supervisor. It was a Board action.

My objective is to provide adequate fire protection for Peaine Township and all of Beaver Island.

2. The agreement that was originally made was with the same person who has furnished chloride to the Township for several years. The Township Board simply requested the Supervisor to obtain the chloride, as usual. The Supervisor is not required to get bids unless requested to do so by the Township Board. Originally the Board did not direct the Supervisor to take bids.

Joseph B. Martin
Peaine Twp. Clerk

Official Notice

EVELINE TOWNSHIP

The regular meeting of the Eveline Township Board was called to order by Supervisor, David Wilson on September 8, 1981 at 8:00 p.m. All board members were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved as read.

Motion by John Smith to drop the Sequanota Road project until we have legal right-of ways, and if necessary contact an attorney to check the right-of ways. We should also contact the road commission to do major maintenance work on the road until that time. Linda Hilderbrant gave the support for that motion, motion carried.

Eric Barshlag made a motion to adopt the following resolution.

WHEREAS, Hemingway Pointe Associates, the Developer of Hemingway Pointe Club, requested Eveline Township to accept the operation and maintenance of the water system being installed and constructed for Hemingway Pointe Club, and

WHEREAS, it is the policy of Eveline Township not to accept operation and maintenance of private, or semi public water systems

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Eveline Township Board hereby denies the request to accept and operate a water system for Hemingway Pointe Club.

Resolution supported by Wayne Saunders, motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Linda Hilderbrant to adopt the following resolution.

WHEREAS, HEMINGWAY POINTE ASSOCIATES has proposed to construct an approved wastewater collection and treatment system located at Hemingway Pointe property in the South part of Government Lot 2, Section 9, and the North ½ of Section 16, T33N, R7W, and

WHEREAS, primary responsibility for the effective and continuing operation and maintenance of said system will be assumed by Hemingway Pointe Association; and

WHEREAS, the Township of Eveline recognizes the need for effective and continued operation and maintenance of said system to protect the public health and prevent unlawful pollution of the surface and groundwaters of the State and to prevent the development of nuisance conditions; and,

WHEREAS, the Township of Eveline recognizes and accepts the responsibilities established by State Law and regulations adopted thereunder for provision of effective wastewater treatment systems for service to its residents;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Township of Eveline shall assume responsibility for the effective and continued operation and maintenance of the proposed sewage system if the owner in any way fails to perform in this capacity. The basis upon which this agreement will be established, is approval of the system by the Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Health, No. 3, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Motion supported by John Smith; motion carried unanimously.

Commissioner, Marty Bieganowski, gave a report on commission business.

A treasurer's report was received, John Smith made a motion to pay the bills on hand with check #594 #611, totaling $15,470.93; supported by Wayne Saunders, motion carried unanimously. Motion by Wayne Saunders to transfer money from the Federal Revenue Sharing Fund to the General Fund for salaries, amounting to $4,175.00; supported by Eric Beshlag, motion carried.

John Smith made a motion to adjourn, supported by Linda Hilderbrant, motion carried. Adjournment at 10:30 p.m.

Clerk

Glynn switches to K-5 phys. ed.

Teacher Feature

by ANNE KELLY

If you thought you saw Jim Glynn in a warm up suit at the Elementary school but remember him as a sixth grade science teacher at Middle school, you're correct on both counts. Last year's enthusiastic science instructor who actually succeeded in getting 11 year olds to spell microbiology is now into his favorite area - physical education - succeeding in getting the K-5 building excited about fitness and fun through sports.

Jim Glynn

A list of qualifications for the job include a three year stint at an American base school in Hellbronn, Germany where Jim taught 8th grade language arts and completely developed a health and physical education program which included gymnastics. There had been no program as such there for twenty years. Other teaching experience in the area of physical education includes four years at Romulus as an elementary Phys. Ed. instructor, and a time teaching Phys. Ed at Charlevoix High School, helping out during a leave of absence of another instructor during the 79-80 school year.

His objectives for building a physical education program can be summarized by saying that Jim wants his students "to be healthy, active, aware of their bodies, with all the skills and coordination that implies. Most of all, he is concerned with developing a proper attitude regarding sports in his students.

"You may think it's strange when I tell the kids that winning is really not important," explains Glynn. "But when you realize that most true athletes have fun when involved in their sport, then the emphasis on winning somehow ruins the idea of sports."

Glynn believes strongly in the benefits of participation in sports for young people, not just in those sports which tend to produce the "super jock" sports hero, but in those sports which are life time carry overs. He would like to see more sports added to the physical education curriculum, those which students may learn and take with them through life as a form of participation and enjoyment.

A brief outline of the program for the elementary looks something like this:

Grades 1-2: total body perceptual skills; stressing body-mind coordination. Grade 3: movement education and the beginnings of basic sports skills. Grade 4: basic skills leading to fine skills. Grade 5: finer skills and a stres of his philosophy of sport: that it's great to be involved but that everything has its proper perspective.

Mac's gets final council okay

by DAVE KNIGHT

City council, meeting in special session Monday, paved the way for a new McDonald's restaurant in Charlevoix by granting a variance in the number of parking spaces required and later approving the proposed site plan for the fast food franchise.

According to McDonald's Corporation representitives at the meeting, construction could begin yet this year with a possible opening date set for next spring.

Under the city's zoning ordinance, McDonald's would normally be required to provide 269 parking spaces on the premises. Their site plan, however, features 82 spaces not counting 11 more in the drive-through lane.

Said McDonald's Corporation real estate manager Bob Chapell, "We are seeking this variance because there is no other business in Charlevoix that requires that many parking spaces." Chapell pointed out that a large portion of the 1.5 acre site on the southeast corner of Carpenter and U.S. 31 is proposed to be left undeveloped and that most of the trees on the property, including all that front the highway, will be left intact.

Even if all the area was paved, said Chapell, the 269 spaces could not be provided.

At the request of Planning Commission Chairman David Strawbridge, previously agreed stipulations on signage were included in the council's approval of the site plan. These stipulations included installation of a wooden sign, no larger than 36 square feet, and no roof sign.

Approval of the parking variance and the site plan came on unanimous votes.

Apple Festival '81 is ready to roll

With hopes for good weather and lots of visitors, organizers of the 1981 Charlevoix Apple Festival have finalized a schedule of events for the October 10-11 weekend. This year will mark only the second edition of the Apple Festival which was established as an annual autumn event last year.

This year's festival features an expanded list of happenings with something provided for each member of the family.

Saturday's activities get under way at 9 a.m. when a Christmas craft bazaar opens in the Market Mall. the bazaar features many different gift items ideally suited for under the Christmas tree. The bazaar lasts until 5 p.m. and affords local shoppers a good chance to get their Christmas shopping done early.

Also running from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. will be a farmers' market along East Park in downtown Charlevoix. In addition to several varieties of apples and apple products such as cider, area produce growers will also have for sale honey, jams, pumpkins and other autumn treats.

Joining them along the sidewalk will be many church groups, service clubs and school groups manning booths. Games will be offered as will tasty treats such as apple pie; but no two booths will have the same item so a wide variety of surprises is assured.

At noon will be a drawing for a moped cycle for which tickets were sold through the summer months and which has been on display in several local businesses.

Special entertainment will be provided all afternoon including square dance demonstrations from 12:15 to 1 p.m. For the youngsters, hay rides will be given from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. free of charge.

Also slated for the afternoon is a Mens Legs Contest with prizes for such distinctions as the hairiest and most original legs. Contest organizers espressed concern last week that entries are coming in slowly and hoped that more would be forthcoming before the festival.

Saturday evening's main event will be a free concert in the Charlevois High School gymnsium by the Saladin Shrine "Million Dollar Band" at 8 p.m.

Area restaurants will get into the act with special menus for the Apple Festival and many stores are planning to run special sales as well.

Big Rock leaks prompt alert

Miniscule leakage from two fuel pool isolation valves at the Big Rock nuclear plant prompted required calls to emergency services offices in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties Saturday, September 19 but no radioactive materials were released from the containment building and the leaks were sealed by early the next morning.

Notified were Earl Muma and John Theisen, emergency services directors for Charlevoix and Emmet Counties respectively, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the State Police.

The problem, however, was classified by Big Rock spokesman Phil Loomis as "very minor". Loomis said that a small stream of water from the spent fuel pool was detected escaping from the valves during a routine test which is conducted annually.

NRC guidelines dictate that when an "unusual" occurence happens such as the leakage, the emergency services offices must be alerted but not neccessarily activated. In this case, no further procedures were considered neccessary and the emergency centers in the two counties were not set up.

The faulty valves were back in service by about 2 a.m. Sunday, September 20 with no leakage reported after retesting.

Courier is twice a winner in ad competition

Competing against daily and weekly newspapers from all over Michigan, the Charlevoix Courier came away with two prestigious advertising awards over the weekend. Courier Ad Manager Mary Lee Huber, attending the Michigan Press Association Ad Managers Conference in Traverse City, accepted both first place and second place honors in "Best Ad Idea" for daily and weekly papers with circulations under 25,000. First place went to an ad entitled "Are you puzzled about the upcoming election?" which ran last October and second place to an subscription ad featuring a photo of Middle School students entitled "Chicago or Bust!"

Lexalite bounces back from devastating fire

by TOM DAMMANN

A visitor to the main plant and offices of LexaLite International Corporation would find it hard to believe that eight weeks ago virtually the entire manufacturing facility was destroyed by fire.

LexaLite is a leader in the production of plastic optical components for such large companies as IT&T, Westinghouse, N.A. Philips (NORELCO), Hubbel, Sylvania, and General Electric.

It uses some 300 different molds to make everything from traffic signal lenses to dusk-to-dawn security beacons (''open bottom refractors'').

Everyone of these molds suffered fire damage to some degree, according to Josh Barns, LexaLite President.

"They were all out of service for a short period," Barnes told a reporter this week. "The majority were put back in service at an average cost of about $1,000 each. Only 10 or 20 had extensive damage. One hundred and ninety are in service now, with quite a bunch almost ready to go into operation next week. Thirty of the total were obsolete and won't be repaired."

Thus the hustle and business-like bustle the visitor finds when he enters the business quarters – which the fire didn't touch – covers up the catastrophe.

Outside a large structure is rapidly taking shape as the new 13,440 square building is being enclosed.

To the visitor, this could just be a new addition, rather than the carefully designed modern replacement for the burned out building.

The August 2 blaze started sometime prior to 10:30 a.m. when smoke rising from the roof was noted by a passing motorist who telephoned the Charlevoix Fire Department.

The fire trucks of both the Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township Fire Departments experienced a five minute delay while the U.S. 31 Highway Bridge was open to permit the passage of a large fleet of North American 40 sailboats out the channel for a national championship race on Lake Michigan.

Other equipment was sent from East Jordan, 20 miles away, and Petoskey, 15 miles to the east.

Barnes himself didn't hear about the disaster for several hours because his home telephone, which is also connected with the plant, had been severed. Another company officer Bill Kenifeck who was sailing on Lake Michigan learned of the fire when a friend in a power boat heard about the fire on his radio. The friend knew that Kenifeck was crew of Craig Tallberg's sailboat in the Little Traverse Invitational races. He motored over to the yacht, took Kenifeck off, and aped him to shore in Harbor Springs where Kenifeck had left his car.

Employees came from all over and joined in rescuing important files and equipment, and standing guard.

The fire was brought under control late in the afternoon.

That evening Barnes held a meeting to discuss the future.

He admits being tempted for a moment not to rebuild but rather to go to one of the Sun Belt states where the tax structure is more favorable to business.

"Our operating costs run about 18 per cent above a similar plant in Texas, because of workmen's compensation, taxes and the like," he said. "For manufacturing high volume low cost items we'll have to go down south someday, unless the economic atmosphere in Michigan improves."

"But that night, after the fire, there never was a decision necessary," he continued, with a grin. "The best way to get back into operation is to do it."

LexaLite's 130 employees reported for work Monday. They were divided into three shifts to clean up and guard the place. The engineering department began designing the new building.

Area industries offered their facilities to work over and repair burned machinery, molds, presses and the like.

The first machine began running August 11 in a part of the burned area that had been cleaned.

A crew of supervisors and workers moved to Alma to turn out products at the Alma Plastics Co., factory whose owners are old friends of Barnes.

The Charlevoix County Economic Development Corp. put in motion a $3 million low-interest bond issue to help LexaLite's return to production.

"Our goal is to be in full production by December 15," Barnes said. "We are already two days ahead of schedule. About 80 percent of our employees are already back on the job."

And, he thinks that in the long run the company may ve a little better off, with a new somewhat larger building and some new molds replacing obsolete ones.

"But we couldn't have done it without the understanding help of our customers," he emphasized.

Despite a 10 week lead time, orders are coming in steadily, he revealed. The order entry for the week of September 14 was $177,261 and for Monday and Tuesday of the succeeding week, totaled $89,512.

Today two month's after the disaster, it's not just business as usual. There la a sense of excitement, quiet determination and a feeling of accomplishment.

'Million Dollar' Shrine Band to appear here

The Northwest Shrine Club will sponsor the annual concert by the Saladin Shrine "Million Dollar" Shrine Band at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 10, Raymond V. Wood, president of the club, has announced.

The concert will be presented without charge to acquaint the public with the work of the band in supporting the 25 Shriner's Hospitals and three Shriner's Burn Centers in the United States that are dedicated to helping crippled and burned children. Though the concert will be presented without charge, free will offerings will be accepted, Mr. Wood said, with all proceeds going to the support of the Shriner's Hospitals.

The band takes its "Million Dollar" name from the amount of money it has raised toward the support of the Shriner's Hospitals.

The musicians in the band donate their time and talents and underwrite their travel costs to raise funds for this purpose.

The appearance of the band will be a part of the forthcoming Apple Festival sponsored by the Retail Merchants Division of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Will attend Eastern Star meeting

The 115th session of the Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of Michigan, will be meeting at the Wings Stadium in Kalamazoo Oct. 13, 14 and 15.

Charlevoix Yesterday

Harvey Lee Iddings, above, was the first mayor of Charlevoix after its incorporation as a city. He served from June, 1905 until his retirement in 1907. He had also previously served two terms before the city's incorporation. On April 3, 1907, the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix presented to Iddings an engrossed copy of a resolution citing the city's appreciation for his years of service.

Iddings operated a hardware store on Bridge Street for many years, first in partnership with M. J. Stockman and later, until the 1930s, by himself as the Charlevoix Hardware Company. The above mentioned resolution as well as the picture of Iddin s were loaned to the Courier by his grandson, John Gaskin, whose mother, Constance Iddings Gaskin, was a daughter of Harvey Iddings.

Film recreates Last Supper

The film "In Remembrance" will be shown at the Community Church of God, 202 W. Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix, on Sunday evening, October 4th at 7:00 p.m., according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor.

"In Remembrance" is a study and re-creation of the men and events which surrounded the Last Supper.

The public is invited to attend at no cost.

Middle School students now have one teacher most of the day

by ANNE KELLY

Parents of 6th graders may have been puzzled to learn that their new middle schooler has the same teacher most of the day this year. Middle School has been utilizing the "departmental" concept of classroom learning wherein the student changes classes from subject to subject, learning from many differcnt teachers in their specific area of expertise. The reversion to the "self contained" idea, a classroom situation in which students are instructed by one teacher for the majority of subjects and for most of the day, is an experiment evolving from the 6th grade teachers themselves. They believe that the change may ease the confusioo for the students during their period of adjustment from elementary to middle school.

For the students, sixth grade is a transition which involves a change of buildings and familiar surroundings, new freedoms, and some new responsibilities. The stability offered by a self-contained classroom assures the student a more personal relationship with his teacher than can ever be achieved departmentally.

For the teachers, the change provides a challange, to branch out from their comfortable area of expertise into all those areas for which they have been trained. A middle school teacher holds a degree in Elementary Education which prepares him-her to teach all subjects in grades K-8. It becomes exciting, educationally speaking, to have to relearn and refresh your memory in certain areas which have lain dormant for a while. The teachers feel that this revitalizing in themselves can only bring positive results in the children they teach.

Mrs. Kathy Gowell is one of the sixth grade teachers enthusiastic about the opportunity to expand professionally. "Teaching the same subject, perhaps five times in the same day, takes its toll...there are a lot of pluses in getting to know the students personally in the beginning of the year." Although teachers don't get to know the total 6th grade population, they do get to know their own group very well. This makes it easier to spot potential problems as well as the student who needs praise and encouragement in order to achieve. It's a quality versus quantity thing.

The major sixth grade subjects are math, science, English and social studies. These are the areas taught by the four self-contained sixth grade teachers, Mrs. Gowell, Mr. Chew, Mrs. Wujcik, and Mrs. Bump. Mr. Evans, is also a sixth grade teacher who handles the reading program for all classes.

Evelyn Wujcik, who also teaches band, mentioned regulating homework and tests for students as a real plus for self-containment: When you have a student for all his major subjects, you can gage the amount of homework he can handle in an evening. The same holds true for tests: a teacher can space the tests so the students are not overwhelmed by the amount of material for which be must study.

"Pareot-teacher conferences, especially for the first grading period, will be much more meaningful", observed Barb Bump. "It will be easier to make positive comments about the studeots because we'll really have gotten to know them by then."

All the teachers agreed that the change was beneficial from a time element standpoint, as not every class can be neatly wrapped up in 45 minutes.

"The idea isn't new, it's just a change," commented Vince Chew. He reminded us of "The Hawthorne Effect", an experiment of productivity originating in Ohio. Workers were studied over a period of years in terms of the ratio between output and productivity and the various external factors that were added one by one to their physical environment (eg. soft music playing, periods allowed for exercise etc.). It was noticed that as the factors were added, production increased. After 4 or 5 years implementers wondered what would happen if they began to subract those same invironmental factors. Surprisingly production increased once again. It seemed that it was the element of change per se which provided the dynamic force behind increased productivity.

The sixth grade feachers are hoping that the change from departmental to self-contained classrooms will be good for everyone, students and teachers alike.

TOASTING THEIR NEW SON last Monday evening were Shari and Jeff Argetsinger of East Jordan who were served a special steak dinner in the OB ward of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The hospital has begun inviting new parents to celebrate new arrivals with a special dinner as part of the hospital's effort to maintain a more comfortable, home-like environment for its patients and families.

4-H Notes by Leah Green

Equestrians finish busy summer

Charlevoix County 4-H Horse and Pony members have now completed a busy summer of horse shows and events. In addition to several 4-H sanctioned horse shows held in the county during the summer, the young people have most recently sent delegates to compete in the State 4-H Horse Show August 25, participated in the 4-H Horse Show at the Emmet County Fair August 29, and fielded both teams and individual competitors in the North Region 4-H Horse Expo held in Gaylord on September 12 and 13.

The 3 4-H riders completing the summer with the most points from 1981 shows, thus qualifying for the trip to the campus at MSU for the State Event were Cinda Crozier, 18, Boyne City; Sheila Harris, 16, Charlevoix and Laurie Sherman, 15, East Jordan. More than sixty Michgian counties were represented by about 1100 contestants in Junior and Senior age divisions. Cinda Crozier riding in the Senior Division received a Gold Medal for Showmanship and a Silver Medal in Western Pleasure. Sheila Harris, also a Senior Rider won a Silver Medal in Reining and 6th place in Western Equitation. Laurie Sherman, a Junior Rider, took a Gold Medal in Western Equitation, a Silver Medal in Western Pleasure, a 4th place in English Pleasure and a 6th place in Showmanship. The Olympic system of medals is used at this Horse Show and recognition given through 6th place. In addition these 4-H members will receive lettered horse blankets as recognition at the Charlevoix County Fall 4-H Banquet, October 27.

Sixteen Charlevoix County 4-H riders entered the Emmet County Fair Horse Show. Of that number, nearly half of whom were entering their first horse show, five came away with all blue ribbons or trophies from the classes they entered. There were Cinda and Keisha Crozier of Boyne City, Vicki Falting and Sheila Harris of Charlevoix and Lauric Sherman of East Jordan. Two others, Teri Howard, Boyne City and Jenny Sherman, East Jordan each took all but one blue ribbon in their classes. All together the Charlevoix 4-H members won 8 trophies, 35 blue ribbons and 26 red ribbons.

The local 4-H horse season was closed with the 22 county North Region Horse Expo, an annual event. Many fun classes such as speed and action, flag race and pole bending are included as well as those which are more traditional. Eight 4-H'er attended. A four person team from Charlevoix County consisting of Teri Howard, Lauri Sherman, Keisha Crozier and Sheila Harris took first place among more than twenty such competing. Laurie Sherman turned in the high point performance as an individual in the junior age division, those 13-15 years old. First places were won by Teri Howard in English Equitation, Sheila Harris Stock Seat Equitation and Western Pleasure, and Dove Fraley in Trail. The Charlevoix County delegation also took 5 second places, 3 thirds, 6 fourths, 4 fifths and 5 sixths.

Any young person under 19 who has an interest in learning about horse care and training or would like to be involved in showing as a 4-H member in 1982 is invited to call the Cooperative Extension Service in Charlevoix County at 582-6232.

SEVERAL AREA PEOPLE participated in a Walk for Hunger Sunday, 20 in which walkers from all over the county converged on Ironton for a corn roast and entertainment. Shown above are some local participants gathering at the Captain's Corner shopping center. Organizer Dave Phillips said that he has received many favorable comments from people who participated and who saw the walkers on their route. Phillips emphasized that donations are still being accepted through all local churches and the Grey Gables restaurant. He espressed gratitude to the Kiwanis and Lions clubs for their contributions, to the Rosenthal Orchard and Dhaseleers for the food and to the Kingsmen of Charlevoix, Sweet Adelines of East Jordan and Sweet Spirit Singers of Boyne City for the entertainment.

Expensive fee not the answer to parking problems

On October 19, a public hearing is to be held on two amendments to the zoning ordinance affecting off street parking requirements for businesses in Charlevoix's central business district. One would delete the present ordinance language and the other would require any property owner who intensifies the use of an existing business or who establishes a new business and cannot provide sufficient parking on the premises to pay to the city not less than $2,000 per parking space needed. The number of parking spaces needed is determined by the square footage of the business and the specific usage.

The funds generated by this requiremenl would then, it is understood, be used to create more parking within the CBD.

There is no doubt that a lack of parking in downtown Charlevoix is a major problem. The problem was especially visible this past summer with the new influx of visitors attracted by the Bay Queen dinner cruises. We do not feel, however, that the answer to the problem is to establish a fee system that, in some cases, could make starting or enlarging a downtown business so expensive to be prohibitive.

ff, for example, someone wanted to put a small restaurant or gift shop into an empty store front (of which there have been plenty in recent years) and it was deemed to require ten parking spaces, the investor would have to come up with $20,000 just for that purpose. The state and federal governments already provide enough discouragement to the small businessman without the city getting into the act.

It also does not seem fair to ask only new businesses to pay the cost of improved parking that will benefit everyone downtown. Besides, what guarantee does the investor have that the money he pays for parking will actually be converted into parking spaces within a reasonable amount of time? He may be out of business by the time it happens.

There may be some merit to a fee system in the case of, say, residential units utilizing municipal parking. But a flat fee of $2,000 per parking space to any new or enlarged business downtown will only result in more empty store fronts on Bridge St. and more commercial sprawl in the city's fringe areas.

Clockwise
Nowhere to hide

by Bob Clock

Two feet of snow?
Break out the snow shovel.
Ninety degrees in the shade?
Open another window.
Rain?
Hoist an umbrella.
Ten below zero?
Put on another sweater.
Wind?
So sorry. There is nothing you can do and no place you can hide.

The wind has had many of us climbing walls all weekend. And as Monday dawns, the nor'wester is still howling under the eaves and creating general havoc throughout town.

Of all the bizarre weather phenomena visited upon Northern Michigan, the "Three Day Blow" — as it was called by Ernest Hemingway — has to be the worst.

Of course, such a wind stirs up a magnificent surf on Lake Michigan, which is fun to watch for about three seconds. But that's the nicest thing I can say about such a storm.

The rest of the time I spend skulking about the house, wondering which of the towering old maples in the immediate vicinity is going to topple over next. I even hesitate to let the kids play outdoors, for fear of falling limbs.

The high-point of this weekend's storm came about 10 a.m. Sunday when the remnants of an ancient maple in the backyard of the Al Nickaman home next door decided to give up the ghost. Half of the tree went several years ago during a high wind and the entire neighborhood has been waiting anxiously for the other shoe to fall.

Fortunately, the old fellow couldn't have picked a better place to land. It snapped off about 20 feet from the ground, missing two young apple trees in the Clock yard and doing only minor damage to the eaves of the Nickaman garage.

The only real victim was a red squirrel who had been storing his winter groceries in a hollow in the old tree. When I raced into the backyard to inspect the damage, the squirrel was scampering up the trunk of the tree to do the same. When he reached the cavity where his cache had been stored, a worried expression creased his brow. He apparently couldn't believe so much much hard work had come to naught.

I hope we have enough warm weather ahead so he can find a new home and replenish his larder before winter sets in. So far as I know, the Reagan administration has made no provision for dependent squirrels.

I SOMETIMES wonder if the editors of the Detroit Free Press realize how strange some of their stories appear a scant 300 miles from their editorial offices.

Sunday's paper carried a front page tale-of-woe about a family that was reduced to living on an income of $242 a week, thanks to dreadful economic conditions in the Motor City. The breadwinner, it seems, is on extended layoff and his wife draws a paltry $199 a week from her job with a public utility. Public coffers supply the rest of their weekly income.

A few years ago, the head of the house was making something like $19,000 a year in the auto plants.

You'll have to admit, it's quite a come-down for this particular family. But I wonder how many Northern Michigan families would be tickled silly to have $242 a week at their disposal?

Many, I am sure, have worked all their lives without even approaching that exalted figure.

Knight on the Town
Interesting developments

by Dave Knight

Monday night's council meeting resulted in only one official action, the go-ahead for McDonald's, (see page 1), but meeting as a committee of the whole, a few more things came up that f thought you should know about.

PAT MARTIN is mentally and neurologically fit for police work according to a report submitted last week by a Burns Clinic psychologist. Having received the report, the council has no choice but to offer him his job back. Martin was suspended and subsequently terminated from his position on the city police force last November by then-city manager James Brinker for reasons that have never been made public. The council backed off from firing him outright and said, in effect, that if he could prove he was fit for duty, he could be reinstated. The proof they asked for specifically was a psychological examination. According to City Attorney Michael Gibbons, the exam results sufficiently meet the conditions for reinstatement set by the council. Legally, Martin has his job if he wants it and one of two police officers hired earlier this year may have to be laid off to make room on the squad. Now the question is, since the exam shows Martin was not "sick", is he due the sick leave pay he has been receiving since leaving the force?

DONALD BERLAGE, at last week's council meeting, sought a sideyard setback variance to accomodate a carport aside his Michigan Ave. home. The variance was denied. Over the weekend, Berlage built the carport. City Attorney Gibbons told the council Monday night that a formal complaint has been filed against Berlage for a zoning ordinance violation. Berlage, who was city attorney when the zoning ordinance was drafted about seven years ago, maintains that a 15-foot sideyard setback requirement is invalid on grounds that it was not meant to apply to the narrow lots platted decades ago during Charlevoix's formative years. The final word on this question will inevitably be that of a judge. Stay tuned.

JOHN NORTHRUP, a local developer, has an ambitious solution to Charlevoix's downtown parking problem. Monday night he sought, and received, at least a flicker of interest from the council. Northrup proposes to seek a federal grant to construct a parking facility on the property formerly occupied by the Fochtman car dealership. The property was purchased earlier this year by Midwest International of Charlevoix but was never developed by the firm and is now back on the trading block. Northrup told the council he would secure a HUD "Block" Grant, administered through the state Department of Commerce, to purchase the property and build a parking structure for 125 to 150 cars with the potential for a second level to be added if needed. He cited plans for the expansion of the Bay Queen dinner cruises as good reason to convert the property to parking. Northrup estimated that 50,000 meals were served on the Bay Queen this season and said that with a second boat rumored to be added next year, the firm's business is expected to increase by up to 300 percent. What will it cost the city? Perhaps $10,000 initially for engineering and environmental impact studies. But even that will be recouped eventually from the grant money, claims Northrup, who all but guaranteed he could obtain the grant. With the council's blessing, Northrup will investigate further and report back.

Letters: More on CROP walk

To the Editor:

It might have been expected that anyone engaged in the planning and promotion of the recent CROP Hunger Walk would have been troubled by Bob Clock's comments on walk-a-thons and bike-a-thons. But I wasn't. And f hastened to tell him so.

Bob had asserted that it would make more sense, in attempting to alleviate would hunger, to raise garden vegetables for local consumption and to turn the proceeds over to organizations for use toward that end. He contended that walk-a-thons and bike-a-thons, in themselves, create no new resources; they merely serve as staging for the transfer of already existing wealth - the collection of donated money. And he emphasized that, generally, walkers and bikers aren't really aware of the true nature of the problems they are asked to help solve - problems which aren't about to yield to mere walking or pedaling. His whole thesis was that better use could be made of their time, talents and efforts. And I agree.

Yet, regarding the CROP Hunger Walk, as I said to Bob, the need was too immediate and the time too short

King Strang legacy, Beaver Island tales live on in Mrs. Curtis

Meet Charlevoix

Ruth Ann (Bedford) Curtis of Charlevoix was named for another Ruth Ann Bedford – her great grandmother, the wife of Thomas Bedford who fired one of the shots that killed the Mormon King, James Jesse Strang of Beaver Island, in 1856. Mrs. Curtis remembers her grandmother telling about the incident. She also remembers her grandmother's stories about being on the "Champlain" when it caught fire off Fisherman's Island on June 16, 1887. This week, Mrs. Curtis reminisces a bit with the Courier.

COURIER: How does it happen that it was your grandmother rather than your grandfather, who was Thomas Bedford's son, who told about the goings-on on Beaver Island?

CURTIS: Grandfather was a quiet man but grandmother liked to talk. She even wrote quite a story about events in her life, but somehow it was lost.

COURIER: What were some of the things your grandmother told you about the first Huth Ann Bedford?

CURTIS: She was apparently quite a woman. She was one of the few women on the island who refused to obey King Strang's order to wear bloomers instead of long dresses. This, coupled with her husband's defiance of King Strang on many matters, caused the rift between my great grandfather and King Strang to go from bad to worse.

After he had been badly horsewhipped by some of King Strang's men, he decided he would kill King Strang when he got a chance.

COURIER: How did that chance come?

CURTIS: My great grandfather and another man, Alexander Wentworth, waylaid King Strang on his way to visit a United States Revenue Cutter that was in the harbor. My great grandfather shot him with a horse pistol and Wentworth used a revolver. They shot him in full view of the officers and crew of the cutter and nobody seemed to make a move to stop them. I have the mold that formed the bullet used by Thomas Bedford.

COURIER: What happened to your great grandfather then?

CURTIS: He and Wentworth were taken aboard the Revenue Cutter along with their families and some other anti-Strang people. They were taken to Mackinac City, that was then the County seat, and turned over to the Sheriff. Apparently they were greeted as heroes, provided with all comforts, and kept in unlocked quarters.

COURIER: And that was the end of the Mormons on Beaver Island?

CURTIS: Practically. King Strang was taken to Voree, Wisconsin to die, which he did in a few days. Beaver Island was overrun by mobs of people who had been after Strang for years, and most of the Mormons scattered.

COURIER: What happened to your great grandfather, Thomas Bedford?

CURTIS: He walked away from custody in Mackinac City and disappeared. The family story is that he later turned up in Texas and his wife went down there to see him but there was never a reconciliation. Supposedly he later remarried.

COURIER: And what happened to your great grandmother and her three children?

CURTIS: They came to Charlevoix to live. One of the sons, Harrison – he was my grandfather – married Minnie Cooper and they ran the Fountain City House for many years. It was located where the Weathervane Terrace is now located. It was the hub of social life in Charlevoix.

COURIER: Your grandmother had kind of an interesting history, too, didn't she?

CURTIS: Yes, she was on the steamer "Champlain" when it caught fire. She and her sister, Ella Cooper Smith, had been on a trip to Chicago to buy linens and other things for the Fountain City House. On the way home, the boat had stopped at Norwood and just pulled out when someone called "fire". Everyone put on life jackets and went to the bow of the boat. Grandmother and her sister had put their on backward but a crewman helped grandmother change hers before she jumped overboard. Her sister's life jacket didn't get changed, and when she jumped overboard, she was drowned. Grandmother was picked up by another boat and lived to tell the story.

COURIER: The Fountain City House was quite a place, wasn't it?

CURTIS: Yes, and do you know, I remember my grandmother telling me about doing the laundry for the place right down in the channel in the summertime.

COURIER: Do you mean beating the sheets against the rocks like they did in primitive days?

CURTIS: Yes.

COURIER: Were you born in Charlevoix?

CURTIS: Yes, but we moved to Grand Rapids when I was five – I went to school there. We came back in 1940. Father owned a lot of property here and ran a shoe store. He also bought the Eagle Hotel in Grand Rapids and ran that in the winter and the Fountain City House in the summer. I was born on Park Avenue right across from the Congregational Church.

COURIEH: What have you been doing through the years?

CURTIS: My husband, Franklin, and I managed the Chicago Club for 25 years – I was in charge of the clubhouse and he the grounds.

COUHIER: Have you ever thought about writing your family history?

CURTIS: Yes, but I've never done anything about it. I've written some poetry just for myself and my friends and I want to write some children's stories. I've told a lot of them.

COURIER: Do you have a family?

CURTIS: A son and a daughter. Franklyn lives in town and Cynthia lives in Slain. We also have three grandchildren.

Mrs. Huth Ann Curtis

New shop features felt

For those who have walked past the old Erber Auto Company building on Clinton Street and wondered what the activity inside was all about, here is the answer.

A new business, called "Accents by Adelaide", has come to town. It is run by Kathleen and Paul Burlew, who moved the business from Huntington Beach, Calif. to the Charlevoix location. Kathleen is the daughter of the late Lieut. Howard H. Griffin. She fell in love with Charlevoix while visiting him on many different occasions, so instead of selling her father's house in Charlevoix after his death, Kathleen and Paul decided to move to Charlevoix and occupy it, bringing their business with them.

The business is the manufacture of felt boutique items, including doorknob covers, johnny seat covers, coasters, jewelry pouches, magnetized refrigerator decorations, and "tooth fairy" pillows with an inside pocket.

All of the items are handmade by Kathleen and Paul with the assistance of some Rube Goldberg-like equipment devised by Paul. They are sold by mail order to hundreds of small shops and boutiques throughout the United States. The Christmas season is especially busy for the Burlews because their merchandise is available in Christmas colors and themes – Santa Clauses, reindeer, angels, candy canes, holly, and Christmas trees.

While "Accents by Adelaide" is strictly a wholesale business at the present time, Kathleen and Paul hope to open a retail outlet in Charlevoix next year.

Womens Club plans annual dinner

The Charlevoix Women's Club will present its annual dinner and fashion show at the Weathervane Inn Tuesday, Oct. 20, Mrs. Raymond V. Wood, president of the club, has announced.

The dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. The fashion show featuring fall and winter styles by area shops will follow. A cocktail hour is scheduled for 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. W.R. Wood will be the commentator. Co-chairpersons of the popular autumn event that launches the club's activities for the year are Mrs. Bruce Bartlett and Mrs. Raymond V. Wood.

The recent meeting at which the plans for the dinner and fashion show were completed was held at the Virginia McCune Art Center in Petoskey where Dr. Susan Storm of Petoskey presented the history of the recently-established art center and its goals.

Mrs. Joseph Morris, Mrs. George Duke and Mrs. Gordon Boydston hosted the meeting. Mrs. Boydston conducted a tour of the facility.

At the brief business session, the club completed plans for the October 20 dinner and fashion show and voted to contribute $150 to the Charlevoix Public Library.

Covenant Players to perform here

The Covenant Players will present a program of contemporary sacred drama this Sunday, October 4, at the Community Church of God, 202 West Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix, according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor. They will appear in both the Sunday School hour at 9:45 a.m. and the 11:00 a.m. worship service. The public is invited at no charge.

Members of the group include Dan Hicks from Mt. Kisco, New York; Lynda Scott from F. Myers Beach, Florida; Mike Mills from Santa Cruz, California; and Jill Pengelley from Adelaide, Australia. Covenant Players was born in September 1963, when the first production of 'the Christian Dynamics' series was presented. Prior to this time the director, Charles M. Tanner, had sought to develop the idea of drama in the church for years. The opportunity came with the commission to write and produce three one-act plays dealing with three themes relating man to God. The plays were received with enthusiasm and other churches wanted similar presentations. To fulfill these requests Covenant Players was established.

Some 64 presentations were made that first year, jumping to 364 the next. The year following Covenant Players went on their first road trip to Seattle, Washington, where the reception was so good that their first permanent touring group was formed. They have grown to over 40 full-time touring units and have given more than 250,000 performances in all 50 states, all the free countries in Europe, Canada, Australia and New Zealand and 10 countries in Asia.

The founder and director of Covenant Players, Charles M. Tanner, was born in Salamanca, New York and completed his formal education at Columbia and Syracuse Universities. He is a full member of the Screen Producers Guild of Hollywood and a signatory participant to the Title Registry Bureau of the Motion Picture Association of America.

He has completed over 600 properties, for both screen and stage, in addition to numerous short stories and novels.

GALO C. CHEW

Funeral services for a former resident, Galo C. Chew, 77, who died suddenly at his home in Alma Friday, were held Monday at the Dewey Funeral Home in Alma. The Rev. Charles Grauer of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Chapen Gardens at Elwell, Michigan.

Mr. Chew was born in Hayes Township of Feb. 2, 1904, and was graduated from the Charlevoix High School in 1921. He was graduated from the Charlevoix County Normal School the following year and taught at rural schools in Charlevoix county until he was graduated from Western Michigan University. He then taught at Alma until his retirement in 1970. During World War II he served one year in the armed forces and was stationed in Colorado.

In June 1936, he was married to the former Ellen Cook at Charlevoix. She preceded him in death in January 1978.

In recent years he had spent the winter months at Zephyrhills Fla.

He was a member of the United Methodist Church in Alma, 4-ions Club, I.O.O.F. and the Michigan Association of Retired Teachers.

He is survived by a son, Richard, of Lansing; a brother, Milo, of Burton and two sisters, Alice Chew of Spring Arbor and Mrs. John E. (Iola) Boss of Charlevoix.

Funeral services for Lawrence L. Brodin, 47, who died Sept. 25 at the Munson Medical Center where he had been a patient for five days, were held Monday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Walter Hastings of the Community Church of God officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix Aug. 17, 1934, Mr. Brodin had always resided here. He had been employed many years as a truck driver at Tri-City Asphalt Co. He was a member of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

He is survived by his father, William Brodin of Charlevoix with whom he made his home; his mother, Mrs. Gordon (Daphnia) Dennis of Ellsworth; a sister, Mrs. Richard (Nancy) Higbee of Ellsworth and two brothers, Gary and William of Charlevoix.

ROY L. STAUDENMEYER

Funeral services for a former Ellsworth resident, Roy L. Staudenmeyer, 60, who died Sept 26 at the Michigan Veterans Facility in Grand Rapids, were held at the East Jordan Evangelical Church Tuesday. The Rev. James Larsen of Petoskey officiated. Burial was in the Ellsworth cemetery.

Funeral services were also held at the Michigan Veterans Facility in Grand Rapids Monday.

Born in Chicago March 18, 1921, Mr. Staudenmeyer was married to the former Ruth Keppler in Chicago June 17, 1944. In 1948 they moved to the East Jordan area and later to the Ellsworth area where they owned and operated a farm. In the early 1950's he was blinded as the result of a farm accident. He and his wife then operated concessions in state-operated facilities in Ionia, Traverse City and most recently at the Michigan Veterans Facility in Grand Rapids. He was a veteran of service in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He was a member of the East Jordan Evangelical Church and had served as Sunday School Superintendent. He also was a member of the Elks Lodge in Ionia, Jensen Richardson Post, American Legion in Ellsworth; president of the Kent County Council for the Blind and vice president of the Randolph-Shepard Vendors of America.

H. RAY WILLIAMS

Funeral services for H. Ray Williams, 82, who died Sunday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Hareold Kruse of the Ironton Congregational Church will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Marion township April 25, 1899, Mr. Williams went to Detroit in the early 1920's and was employed at the General Motors Co. On Aug. 15, 1926, he was married to the former Alice Riekert in Detroit where they lived until coming to Ironton in 1946. They built and operated Al-Ray cottages at Ironton until retiring in the 1960's. He was a member of Mark Chapter No. 273, Order of the Eastern Star in East Jordan.

He is survived by his wife and three sisters, Mrs. Gus (Edna) Molitzen and Mrs. Rena McKenzie of New Port Richey, Fla., and Mrs. Gordon (Yvonne) Scheuers of New Port Arkansas, Fla.

LESTER F. SMITH

Funeral services for Lester F. Smith, 75, who died Saturday at the Little Traverse Division of Northern Michigan Hospitals, were held Monday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Re. Raymond Giffin of the First Congregational Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Smith was born in Ellsworth July 22, 1906, and during World War II served in the U.S. Navy. He returned to northern Michigan and on May 29, 1946, was married to the former Genevieve Supernaw at Central Lake. They always made their home here. He was employed at Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. until he retired. He was a member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post. No. 226, American Legion.

His only survivor is his wife, Genevieve.

The family suggests memorials to the First Congregational Church or the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Randell Johnstone

Hahn-Johnstone

Natalie Ann Hahn became the bride of Randell Scott Johnstone in a double-ring civil ceremony in Charlevoix on September 4.

The bride is the daughter of Christa-Marie of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Janet Geary of Harbor Springs and Robert Johnstone of Laingsburg.

For her wedding, the bride wore a white gown embroidered with multi-colored flowers and carried a bouquet of daisies and carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt at their home on Antrim Street.

The newlyweds are at home at 8177 Laingsburg Road, Laingsburg after a trip to Mackinac and the Sault.

(Photography by John Schmidt).

Blackman-Denginer

The marriage of Cynthia S. Blackman of Golden, Colo., and Stephen C. Denginer of Lakewood, Colo., on Saturday, Sept. 5, has been announced by the bride's mother, Mrs. Mark S. Blackman of East Jordan. The bride is also the the daughter of the late Mr. Blackman.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Denginer of Lakewood, Colo., are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, David Blackman at the ceremony solemnized at the United Methodist Church of Golden, Colo.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the couple will reside in Lakewood, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mossner

Sladek-Mossner

Barbara Lynn Sladek and Paul Douglas Mossner were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon, September 5, at Blessed Trinity Catholic Church in Frankenmuth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sladek of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mossner of Reese.

The Reverend Father Joseph Favara of Blessed Trinity and the Reverend James Plackner of the Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix performed the single-ring rites.

Kathy Sladek assisted her sister as maid of honor, and Pat Mossner, sister of the bridegroom, and Sally Vining were bridesmaids.

Greg Baskin served as best man, and Tim Mossner, brother of the bridegroom, and Jim Sladek, brother of the bride, served as groomsmen. Two other brothers of the bride, Jerry and Joe Sladek, seated the guests.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white gown with high Victorian neckline and a double A-line skirt which swept into a chapel train. Her headpiece was a hat trimmed in the same Shiffilin lace that trimmed her gown, and she carried a bouquet of cymbinium orchids and stephanotis.

The bride's attendants wore dusty rose lustre glo gowns with capelets edged in lace, and pleated skirts. They carried bouquets of earnations centered with cymbinium orchids, and Queen Ann's lace.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sladek chose a burgundy-colored gown with a pleated skirt and matching lace jacket. Mrs. Mossner wore a mint green crepe gown. Their corsages were cymbinium orchids accented with stephanotis.

Following the ceremony, a dinner and reception were held at the Frankenmuth American Legion Home.

The newlyweds are now at home in Reese after a camping trip through Wyoming and Colorado.

Rayders prevail in OT thriller against Boyne

Somebody up there likes the Charlevoix Rayders; or at least did Friday night when a deflected ball in the endzone found its way into the arms of Charlevoix end Ross Carey for a thrilling 26-20 overtime win over the Boyne City Ramblers.

Though it all came down to that freak play, there were plenty of other heroes and just plain good football, that led up to the exciting finish.

Charlevoix's offense played as well as it has in the young season so far accumulating 346 total yards of offense to Boyne City's 205. The Rayder defense was instrumental in shutting off the Boyne City running attack which was held to 85 yards.

The Ramblers took an early lead in the game when quarterback John Tompkins tossed a 16-yard scoring pass to Ed Boyer. The extra point try was unsuccessful and the score stood at 6-0. With 4:21 left in the period, Charlevoix answered with a nifty pass play of its own, Scott Kelly to Dave Buday, of 48 yards and a touchdown. Mark Beaudoin, who had an excellent night rushing, put the Rayders ahead 8-6 by running for the two extra points.

Boyne City didn't stay down for long; the next time it got the ball, Tompkins threw a pass to Brad Musser who then tossed a lateral to Bob Christy who went into score. The play covered 25 yards and another Tompkins-to-Christy pass for two extra points gave the Ramblers a 14-8 edge going into the intermission.

Beaudoin put Charlevoix back into the game when he scampered for a 15-yard touchdown run late in the third quarter to cap a 60-yard drive but the extra point try was unsuccessful leaving the score tied at 14-14. Boyne City's Todd Rickard brought the Rambler fans to their feet on the ensuing kickoff streaking 90 yards for a touchdown and a 20-14 lead.

With about nine minutes to play in the game and the ball on the Rambler three, Kelly rolled right and dove into the endzone to tie the score at 20-20 which is what it stood at when the gun sounded. Boyne City was at the Charlevoix teo at the end of regulation time.

In the overtime, Charlevoix won the toss and took the ball for a series of four downs from the 1en. On the first play, Kelly's pass went deep into the corner of the endzone where it bounced off Buday into the hands of Carey behind him.

Boyne City's series never got going as it started with a 13-yard sack of Tompkins by Jeff Lemerand and was ended with an interception.

Statistically Charlevoix led in first downs 11-4 and completed 6 of 12 passes to Boyne's 6 of 14. Total passing yardage was 129 for Charlevoix and 137 for Boyne City.

Buday led the defense with 12 tackles while Mike Loper had 11, Tim Krueger 9, Beaudoin 7, Darrin Podskalny 6 and Ken Speigl 6.

The Rayders will be in Petoskey this Friday night.

Cross country team wins triangular meet

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers topped opponents, St. Ignace and Boyne City, in a triangular cross country meet at the Belvedere golf course property Tuesday.

St. Ignace finished the meet with a score of 60 points and Boyne City and Charlevoix were tied with 61 points each.

Coach Pete Spieles said he was pleased with the performance of his team and said that every member turned in a good time for the meet course.

Matt Porter also registered the best time for the three mile course over hilly terrain to head the Rayders who captured the top seven places in the meet.

He was followed by Jim Duke whose time was 16:22, Todd Russell, 16:39; Jim Landon, 16:50; John Tunison, 16:53; Bill Dohm, 16:59; and Lee Allard, 17:02, all of Charlevoix; Kiomigo, St. Ignace, 17:50; Brabs, Boyne City, 17:28; and Lever, St. Ignace, 17:32.

The Charlevoix JV squad with 18 points won over St. Ignace, the only other team with a JV team. The Saints had 38 points.

The Rayders took the first four places in this event with Ron Way posting a time of 17:34. He was followed by Tim Louiselle who covered the distance in 17:43; Matt Landin, 17:44; and Steve Young, 17:45. Others among the top eight were McKinna, St. Ignace, 17:53; Sposito, St. Ignace, 18:17; Sobleskey, St. Ignace, 18:21, and Van Sloan, Charlevoix, 19:13.

Charlevoix will be at St. Ignace Tuesday with Rogers City and two schools from the Canadian Soo, St. Mary's and Soo Collegiate.

Junior varsity thunders to big win

Charlevoix's junior varsity football squad is fast becoming an impressive offensive machine having rolled up a total of 98 points in its first two outings of the season.

The JV team's latest conquest was over Boyne City last week by a lop-sided 43-6 score.

Pat Mitchell had an outstanding day offensively racking up four touchdowns and a total of 194 yards rushing in the game.

Mitchell put the Rayders on the scoreboard in the first quarter with a 14 yard run and later scored again from the six yard line. Extra points after both TDs were no good. Boyne scored on a 43-yard run to make the first quarter score 12-6.

In the second period, Tim LaBlance made it 18-6 on a 28-yard scamper.

Mitchell struck again in the third quarter with a 34-yard run and Thad Morgan converted the extra point for a 25-6 lead. Morgan took off in the fourth period on a 53-yard breakaway to make it 31-6 and Mitchell broke his longest touchdown run of the game, a 78-yard run from scrimmage.

Alec Sheets put the icing on the cake with a 17-yard run for the final score of 43-6.

Defensively, Morgan and Scott Mervyn had especially good games and Dane Tollas and John Marsh each picked up an interception.

Next week the Rayders host Petoskey on Thursday with the kickoff slated for 6:30 p.m.

Flag football scores of last week

The Steelers and the Saints played to a 12-12 tie and the Cowboys edged the Seahawks 12-7 Wednesday night in action in the flag football league sponsored by the City Recreation Department.

This week will find the undefeated Cowboys meeting the Steelers who have one win and a tie to their credit in what should be an exciting game and the Saints and the Seahawks meeting in the nightcap. The games are at 6:00 and 7:15 p.m.

The Steelers and the Saints played a scoreless game for three periods before either team managed to get on the boards.

Jim Morgridge, on a 38 yard punt return, put the Steelers ahead only to have the Saints tie the game on an 18 year pass play from Joe Hayes to Sean Ferguson.

Hayes scored again, this time on a one-yard plunge to put the Saints ahead but as time ran out Packy LaBlance broke away for the tieing run on a five yard plunge.

A 32 yard pass play from Jody Putman to Kevin Pearsall in the first period gave the Cowboys a 6-0 lead at halftime before the Seahawks came back early in the second half to score on one yard run by John Loder who then put his team ahead 7-6 as he scored the conversion.

As the Seahawks punted to get themselves out of a bad spot, Pearsall took the punt and romped 91 yards to give the Cowboys the victory.

Frosh take opener

The Rayder freshman football squad got their season under way on a good note last Wednesday with a 16-6 victory over Petoskey.

The Northmen scored first on a 34-yard touchdown run in the initial period. The extra point try was no good and the score stood at 6-0.

Charlevoix's Mark Hodgson tied it in the second quarter with a 21-yard scoring run. The extra point try failed and the halftime score was tied at 6-6.

Nobody scored in the third quarter but in the fourth, Charlevoix recovered a fumble on the Petoskey 7 and a few plays later, Kyle Smith burst into the endzone from the 2; Smith also ran for the two extra points to hand the Rayders a 14-6 lead.

Jeff Smith iced the win when he tackled the Petoskey quarterback in his own endzone for a two-point safety and a 16-6 final score.

Girl cagers won one, lost one last week

The Charlevoix girls split their basketball games last week with non-conference rivals, defeating Johannesburg-Lewiston 58-51 and losing to neighboring Ellsworth 48-39.

This week the team will open its league schedule, hosting Boyne City, Tuesday, playing at Petoskey Thursday and entertaining Gaylord Oct. 6.

In their game with Ellsworth, the girls played the Lancers to an 8-8 tie at the quarter, trailed their opponents 19-15 at halftime and knotted the score 31-all going into the final period when they were outscored 17-8.

Ellsworth out-scored Charlevoix 20 to 18 in the field goal department. The team connected on only 25 per cent of their foul shots, three of 12 and registering 15 personal fouls. Ellsworth hit eight of 20 charity shots and had 14 personal fouls.

Cindy Pott paced the victors with 19 points. Laura Kemp had 13 for Charlevoix.

The Charelvoix JV's won 29-13.

In their meeting with a strong Joberg team, Charelvoix went to the free throw line to win, hitting on 16 of 25 free throws while being outscored 22 to 21 from the floor. The losers had seven of 14 charity shots and 18 personal fouls. Charlevoix had 10.

Charlevoix trailed most of the game 16-11 at the quarter and 27-23 at halftime before tieing the score briefly 32-all. Joberg, however, still held the lead 38-36 going into the final period when Charlevoix outscored the visitors 22-13 for the win.

Laura Kemp and Holly Taber and 18 points each and Rbonda Buchanan 12 including eight of eight from the free throw line which gave the team the winning margin. Kemp had 17 rebounds.

Ann Janick had 22 points and Jeanne Welsh 13 for the visitors.

The Joberg JV's won 34-32.

Action underway in adult football league

Charlevoix Township has organized an adult flag football league that boasts four teams which saw their first action Thursday. The games in the four team league will be palyed at Shanahan Field at 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. every Thursday night.

The first games in the newly-organized league saw Wojan's winning over the Coast Guard Station 14-0 and The Landings defeating Consumers Power 24-6.

Next Thursday The Landings and Wojans will meet at 5:30 p.m. and Consumers Power and the Coast Guard Station at 6:30 p.m.

In the opener, Wojan's shutout the Coast Guard Station 14-0 following a TD on a 10 yard run by Scott Kerridge and an 11-yard pass from Kerridge to Bill Herriman in the third period after the two teams had played a scoreless first half. Don Wells topped the win off with a safety in the final period.

The second game was also scoreless until the second half when The Landings took to the air to score on a 40 yard pass from Randy Holecheck to Beano Archey and a second, a 10 yard pass, from Archey to Holecheck in the third period, a 15 yard aerial from Holecheck to Tom Morrison and a five yard romp by Holecheck in the final period. Consumers' lone TD was on a 40 year pass from Larry Skippergosh to Ron Siwarga in the final minutes of the game.

NOTICE SPECIAL ELECTION

PEAINE TOWNSHIP CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN OCTOBER 5, 1981

RECALL PROPOSITION
REASON FOR DEMANDING RECALL OF EDWARD PALMER, SUPERVISOR

1. That he, Edward Palmer, recommended to the Township Board that it spend an initial sum of Twenty Thousand ($20,000) Dollars in contribution to acquiring a fire station jointly with St. James Township without first recommending that the Township Board obtain a cost study to insure equitable benefits for Peaine Township in relationship to its portion, space, and use of the fire station, and,

2. That he, Edward Palmer, attempted to let a road maintenance materials contract out for over Six Thousand ($6,000) Dollars for the purchase of chloride to a family member without first obtaining Township Board approval or submitting the contract for competitive bids.

EDWARD PALMER'S JUSTIFICATION OF HIS CONDUCT IN OFFICE

1. The $20,000.00 that was approved for building a fire station and substation was put into a construction fund for the Beaver Island Fire Department. This money is controlled and spent only after a recommendation of the Construction Committee with the approval of the Township Boards, individually.

Peaine Township will pay only for its share (50%) for the main fire station building that is used for the fire department and its share (50%) of the substation. Any intelligent board can ascertain that part of the building that is used by the fire department without paying for an expensive cost study. This act was approved by the Board and not just the Supervisor. It was a Board action.

My objective is to provide adequate fire protection for Peaine Township and all of Beaver Island.

2. The agreement that was originally made was with the same person who has furnished chloride to the Township for several years. The Township Board simply requested the Supervisor to obtain the chloride, as usual. The Supervisor is not required to get bids unless requested to do so by the Township Board. Originally the Board did not direct the Supervisor to take bids.

Joseph B. Martin

to work out another kind of fund-raising effort. For now, we'd just have to go along with the hunger walk technique. Maybe the garden idea could be used next year.

Apart from raising funds, the CROP Hunger Walk, with walkers from Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix meeting at Ironton, had another and deeper purpose. It was hoped that the participation of the three communities and their churches in this initial common effort would mark the beginning of a new era of joint ventures in support of common interests and concerns. It was this hope that persuaded me to accept a position of responsibility in the CROP Hunger Walk - despite my feelings about the suitability of this kind of money-raising technique.

Any representation that Bob's article cast an unfavorable reflection on the motives or sincerity of walkers or bikers is entirely without foundation. And any representation that it may be deduced from his article that he and his family are unresponsive to the appeals of charitable organizations is, whether actionable as libel or not, also completely without support.

Likewise, any representation that Bob has exhibited undue sensitivity to criticism of his editorial beliefs is not justified by the facts. There has been no rebuttal of his editorial opinion that better use of volunteers could be made than their engagement in walk-a-thons and bike-a-thons. That still stands unchallenged.

PUBLIC NOTICE
The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix will hold Public Hearings on October 19, 1981 at 8:00 P.M. in Council Chambers at 210 State St., Charlevoix, Michigan regarding the following proposed Amendments to City Ordinances.

1. An Amendment to the City Zoning Ordinance regarding the repeal of the section which exempts off street parking requirements in a portion of the Central Business District.
2. An Amendment to the City Zoning Ordinance which will authorize the City Planning Commission to waive certain off street parking and loading space requirements or to allow property owners who are unable to provide parking to pay into the Charlevoix Parking Fund a sum of not less than 12,000 for each parking space otherwise required.
3. An Amendment to the City Zoning Ordinance to clarify the section of this Ordinance dealing with non conforming lots of record so that same shall not be construed to mandate approval of a variance request by an owner of a non-conforming lot.
4. An Amendment to the City Weed Control Ordinance to authorize the City to charge the actual costs incurred in cutting and removal or destruction of vegetation.
